He points out that the fact of a water main passing the door of a house, whether that house is connected with the main or not, increases the value of the property, since the water is there to be had, should the present or a future occupant of the house desire it. Another point of importance is the fact that a house is more valuable if it is within reach of a water hydrant in case of fire.

The position taken by the correspondent is that the surplus which accrues from the operation of the system, and which at present amounts to several thousands of dollars each year should form a contingent fund for the specific purpose of providing for improvements to the system, and for its maintenance, as well as to pay for breakages and accidents.

The fact that in the near future it will, in all probability, be necessary for the Commissioners to apply to the Council for a sum of money, to construct a new dam, and it will only be a matter of a short time when a new dam will be a necessity has emphasized the desirability of providing a fund from which sums to pay for the improvements and repairs may be drawn.

By the present system, which compels the Commissioners to pay over to the town all surpluses which may be received from the operation of the plant, the town receives from the water users several thousands of dollars each year, which sum goes to reduce the taxes of the non-users of water to an equal degree to that of the consumer, though in many cases the mains pass the former's doors. This is thought by the correspondent to be an injustice, and the only way that the users of water may be dealt with in a way which will give them full justice, is by a reduction of the rates until there will be no surplus, when all the revenue will be required for the operation of the plant. The statute, it is understood, provides that all surpluses from a municipal water works plant shall be handed over to the town council.

The water works at present are well managed, the rates have recently been reduced, and the plant is in good condition, but there is this one point, which, of course is beyond the control of the Commissioners to remedy, in which it is felt that the consumers are entitled to some consideration.

It is thought to be hardly fair that the present consumers should be obliged to pay for the system which will serve future generations, and which even at present is serving to enhance the value of all the property in the town.

WHAT IS ANTI-PILL?

A Somewhat Peculiar Name Explained —How Dr. Leonhardt Came to Call His Famous Prescription "Anti-Pill."

Dr. Leonhardt found in his practice that chronic constipation and its kindred complaints were the result of a dried-up condition of the mucous membrane lining of the stomach and bowels. He investigated further and found that this condition was invariably brought about by the use of cathartics, which all contain a certain amount of resinous matter.

After the first action of such medicines a resinous residue remains behind and this has a drying effect on the lining of the stomach and bowels.

He made up his mind to produce a medicine for all stomach and bowel derangements which would be entirely free from all resinous matter.

After much experiment he succeeded, and to emphasize the difference between this treatment and the old-fashioned treatments, he gave it the name "Anti-Pill."

Anti-Pill will cure dyspepsia, biliousness, or constipation perfectly and for ever—cure to stay cured—with no pill habit left to be overcome later.

THE WHITE PLAGUE.

While everybody may not know the dreadful scourge the above name represents, all are too sadly familiar with the terrible ravages of consumption. It is on this account that special importance attaches to the announcement in another column that Rev. P. Clifton Parker will deliver addresses upon this subject of such sad import to many and of interest to all, for aside from considerations of humanity, every citizen is concerned, since even present exemption and sound health cannot insure immunity with the contact that necessarily comes from social intercourse. Rev. Mr. Parker has given great attention to the subject, and can give a very instructive exposition of the elements and details of interest inherent in the subject. It is hoped that many will avail themselves of the privilege, or, rather, duty of hearing Rev. Mr. Parker.

VALUABLE DOGS WERE POISONED.

A Habit Getting Altogether too Common in the South End.

A gentleman living in the south end of the town writes to the Examiner complaining that lately there have been a number of valuable dogs despatched by the poison route. Last night a hound valued at $25, owned by the writer of the letter, was poisoned, and he thinks it is now pretty nearly time that this practice was put a stop to. For his part he is determined that if the offender is found an example shall be made of him.

It is a mean act to poison an animal which is inoffensive and it is to be hoped that the guilty parties will be discovered.

NORTH SEA TRAWLERS.

The fishing boats which suffered in the lamentable attack on Friday, Oct. 21, are small steam trawlers, built of iron or steel. They are excellent sea boats, very handy and quick and at their best steaming can make ten knots an hour. They are built on what is known as "trawler's lines," with high bows and a run which droops aft into a low counter. The freeboard abaft the forecastle is very low, so that the fish may be readily boarded. The boats have generally two masts, which carry staysails and trysails, which are set so as to lessen the rolling. Sometimes they keep the sea for a couple of months at a time, sending their take ashore in quick steamers known as "dukeys," which supply the London markets and then return to the fleet.

Life on board such a trawler is hard, but less hard, on the whole, says a writer in The Manchester Guardian, than the life on board a sailing ship making "bluewater passages." The food, for instance, is better, for the boats are more frequently in the home port, while every meal is made savory with fish fresh from the sea. The smacksmen have to be smart both in hauling the nets and putting the take aboard the "dukey." A lazy smacksman, it is said, "gets a haddock slapped across his face," and generally dies in youth.

A fleet of trawlers sails under the command of some experienced skipper, who is known as the "admiral." He decides when and where the trawls shall be "shot," firing a rocket or running up a three-flag signal when he wishes the fishing to begin. When the trawls are overboard the steamers forge very slowly ahead, with one or two hands on deck, the others below in their bunks. As soon as the trawls are "hauled" and the slippery take is poured on deck, the hands draw their knives and set to work. By the light of flares they gut the fish, rub them roughly with salt, and pack them with ice in boxes. If the take is sufficient, the boxes are sent on board the dukey, and this putting of the take on board is often a very nice piece of practical seamanship. It may be blowing hard, with a nasty short green sea running, yet a couple of young men in oilskins will put forth cheerily in a dinghy with a few boxes of fish, risking their lives, running the chance of "a cold death, a wet death," without a thought that they are doing anything remarkable or out of the way.

It is "a wet life and a cold life" in the North Sea fishery, but the life is not without its pleasures. Sometimes a sea concert will be held, smack against smack, the crews singing the old sea songs to an accompaniment of clinking pannikins. On Sundays they are sometimes able to get on board the cruising Mission ship to what is called a "Bethel," or Sunday service. The Mission ships have done much to better the condition of the fishers, but the service remains a hard one, and one that can scarcely be made pleasant till the North Sea becomes calm.

BABY'S WELFARE.

Every mother is naturally anxious that her little ones shall be bright, good natured and healthy. Every mother can keep her children in this condition if she will give them an occasional dose of Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets cure indigestion and stomach troubles, prevent diarrhoea, cure constipation, allay simple fevers, break up colds, destroy worms and make teething easy. And the Tablets are guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Mrs. R. E. Long, Peachland, B. C., says: "I have found Baby's Own Tablets unsurpassed for teething troubles, breaking up colds and reducing fever, and they make a child sleep naturally. They have done my little one so much good I would not like to be without them." Druggists everywhere sell these tablets, or you can get them by mail by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

A Mild Rebuke.

Figaro tells a story of Eugene Spuller, who was minister of public instruction under the presidency of Casimir-Perier, which brings out his kindness of heart. When the doorkeeper brought him his letters one morning Spuller said to him:

"Were you not supposed to be on duty at 11:30 last night?"

"Yes, sir."

"And you were not there?"

"That is correct," replied the doorkeeper, fairly trembling as he saw his dismissal at hand. "But I have a sick mother, your excellency. I wished to visit her."

"That is quite proper," rejoined M. Spuller, "and I hope that your mother will soon recover. But if she should continue to be ill, which heaven forfend, I would like to ask you one favor"— Here the doorkeeper stared with wide open mouth. "If you go to visit your mother once more," added the minister calmly and quietly, "please have the kindness not to lock me in my office again. I had to spend the night at this desk because I could not get out."

About Certain Words.

There is often a hint of something approaching to an ancient kind of slang in various dignified words in the English language. So respectable a term as "perspicuity," for instance, means that a thing can be "seen through" easily. The word "apocalypse" means "lifting off the cover," or, in other words, the revelation of whatever good or bad things may be concealed in a chest of secrets like Pandora's box-possibly, or maybe only in the trench basket of some old Greek workingman.

"Impediment," coming from a Latin word meaning to catch or hold the feet, vividly expresses the nature of anything that entangles or hinders one in the performance of any action. Still, to speak of an impediment in one's speech is in a certain way to get one's feet in one's mouth.

"Conspiracy" comes from a Latin word meaning to breathe together. The picture it gives of a group of plotters with their heads thrust up in a compact bunch is vivid enough to render enjoyable the sarcasm of the old Roman who invented the term.—Chicago News.

TOLD BY COLOR.

Dr. Hooker's Experiments to Show Disposition by the "N"-Rays.

The London Lancet publishes a letter from Dr. Hooker on the results of three years' experiment on the Blondlots N-rays emitted by the human body. Dr. Hooker claims to have established the fact that these rays differ in color according to the character and temperament of a person, and also that the rays are not merely heat vibrations, as he proved by passing rays from his own hand to the forearm of a corpse to a prepared screen which immediately showed increased luminosity. In reference to the differing colors of the rays, Dr. Hooker says: "Rays emanating from a very passionate man have a deep red hue. One whose keynote in life is to be good and to do good throws off pink rays, an ambitious man emits orange rays; a deep thinker throws off deep blue; a lover of art and refined surroundings, yellow; an anxious, depressed person, gray; one who leads a debased life, muddy, brown rays; a devotional, good-minded, light green, and physically or mentally ill person, dark green rays."

Dr. Hooker admits that his statement may be received at first with a smile of incredulity, but he is confident that it will sooner or later be accepted as a fact. He further claims to have proved that N-rays are not only given by the human body but by objects which have been in contact therewith. He obtained this impression from a letter 30 years ago, which proved that the rays were radio-active and retain their power on the paper on which writing is made.

GENERAL FEELING OF USELESSNESS

It Comes From Stomach and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets Will Cure it.

It's not the pains and aches that are the worst feature of indigestion and Dyspepsia. It is the general feeling of discomfort and uselessness. When the Stomach is wrong the whole body is wrong, because its source of supply is not working right and the body lacks nourishment and lacks strength.

Put the Stomach right with Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets if you would do a good day's work and enjoy it. They never fail. Mr. Joseph Leake, 104 McCaul street, Toronto, says:-

"I was troubled for three years with Biliousness and Dyspepsia. I tried many medicines, but none could cure me till I began to use Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. They cured me. My daughter too was troubled with Headache and Dyspepsia, and Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured her."

Your stomach is overworked and needs rest. It will find the rest it needs in Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Lord Lansdowne's House.

Lady Lansdowne's arrival from Derreen at Lansdowne House and her departure therefrom for Bowood, all duly noted by the watchful timekeeper, made more suggestive reading than that official thought for, perhaps, remarks the Pall Mall Gazette. Derreen, away in Kerry, is suggestive of Fitzmaurice. Bowood takes one back to Charles II. and the Bridgeman who was then Sir Orlando, and who is now Bradford. And Lansdowne House was Shelburne House, and would have been Bute House if the Bute who started building it had seen his way to finish it.

Bowood had, somehow, come to the Crown. The second Charles gave it—he was a shrewd giver, and the gift, no doubt, had its consideration—to Sir Orlando. Sir Orlando would have gone through the Court in these days. As it was, his creditors sold Bowood to an Earl of Shelburne, of the first, or Petty, creation. That title became extinct in 1751, to be revived three years later in favor of Henry Petty's nephew. He married a Fitzmaurice, and was by and by first Marquis of Lansdowne.

It was he who acquired the then unfinished "palace," as Mr. Walpole presently called it, that filled a whole side of Berkeley square. And he got it at a bargain, one would say now. He paid £22,000 for it as it stood, which was said to be £8,000 less than it had already cost. Exteriorally, he finished it as you see it to-day. The maker of Bowood was Tom Moore's great patron. It was at Bowood that Mr. Moore's cottage at Sloperton was secured for him, and it was in the Bowood library that he spent so many morning hours, "fluttering a chartered libertine, from shelf to shelf."

An Archbishop's Joke.

The Right Rev. Dr. Randall Thomas Davidson, Archbishop of Canterbury, more than held his own as a raconteur during his visit to Farnleigh Over, the country seat of Bishop Potter. This is one of his stories: "When I was a young man I once made an impassioned appeal on behalf of a foreign missionary to an audience composed of my rural parishioners. The following week I was surprised on entering a provision shop in the village to be greeted with marked coolness by the worthy dame who kept it. On asking the reason of this strange treatment the good woman produced a half-crown from a drawer, and, throwing it down before my astonished eyes, snapped: "I marked that half-crown and put it in the plate last Sunday, and here it is back again in my shop. I knowed well them niggers would never get the money!"

Easy Enough.

This was among the questions submitted by the civil service examiner: "What is a mirage?"

And this was the answer given by the applicant for a position:

"A mirage is the act of getting steak in the road."

Small Farm Holdings.

In England the best remedy for farm depopulation is held to be small farm holdings. It is stated that whenever a large farm is divided into small holdings the demand for the land usually far exceeds the supply.

STOPPING A HORSE.

"Whoa" Seems to Be the Word For It All Over the World.

"When I started on my trip around the world I intended," said a horseman, "to find out what was the word for 'whoa' in every language. I had a little book, and in it I intended to make a long list of the various words for 'whoa.'

"Do you know what I discovered? I discovered that 'whoa' is the same in all the languages. The Russian stops his horse with 'whoa,' the Persian stops his with 'whoa,' the Chinaman his with 'whoa' and the Dutchman his with 'whoa.'

"And 'whoa,' I discovered, has been from the dawn of time the word to stop horses with. The Greeks and Romans used it in a slightly different form, 'oke.' The old English 'whoa' was 'ho.'

"A philologist told me the other day that many of our 'animal words'—the words we order our animals about with—are as old as or older than 'whoa.' Take, for instance, 'co-boss,' the soothing call to the cow. 'Co-boss' comes from the Sanskrit root 'gu,' meaning to low. Another cow word, 'soh, soh,' which might be translated 'Please keep still,' comes from the Sanskrit 'sough,' meaning to stay motionless. And you know our chicken word, 'chick, chick, chick,' the word spoken in a high key wherewith we summon our chickens to their meals? Well, that comes directly down to us from the Sanscrit, 'kuk,' a domestic fowl."

Greek Mechanics.

An Unequal Encounter.

There is an unrepealed law in England, passed in the time of Edward III., prohibiting any one from being served at dinner with more than two courses, except on holidays.

Cold Congests the Kidneys

TO PREVENT INFLAMMATION SET THE KIDNEYS RIGHT BY USING

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

Sitting in a draught, exposure to cold and dampness, sudden changes of temperature, are the frequent causes of congestion of the kidneys.

Pains in the back over the kidneys may be your first warning.

Other symptoms are a constant and pressing desire to urinate. The urine is scanty and highly coloured and sometimes passes with much pain and smarting.

Then there are headache, loss of appetite and flesh, deposits in the urine, sleeplessness, pains and cramps in legs, constipation and diarrhoea alternating and general feelings of discomfort and distress.

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills bring relief and cure more promptly than any other treatment because of the direct and combined action on kidneys, liver and bowels.

All the excretory organs work in sympathy, and can greatly assist one another in carrying off the waste matter.

Hence it follows that when the kidneys, liver and bowels are at once invigorated by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills relief is prompt and certain.

Mr. R. Beach, 320 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., states:—"About two years ago I became subject to cramps which were caused I was told by acute indigestion. I was so bad that I would be laid up for weeks at a time. These attacks came on periodically and distressed me greatly.

"I then began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and have found them a wonderful medicine. They have entirely prevented a recurrence of my trouble, corrected the derangement of my digestive organs, and made me feel like a different person."

KNEE BREECHES.

Their Points of Superiority Over the Long Trousers.

The long trouser has every fault which it is possible to combine in a single garment. It rubs at the ankle, which is not true of the knickerbocker. If you turn up the trouser, then you create a horizontal crease, which is just as bad as the rubbing of the edge. A band of leather does not really save the trouser from attrition against the boot.

Then consider the knees. No amount of pressing or stretching will really save a pair of trousers from becoming baggy at this singularly inopportune joint. The man who is true to his trousers must never sit and must never run. Only by standing still or at most walking slowly can he preserve the contour of his costume.

Here again knickerbockers solve the problem. The chief beauty of knickerbockers is that they are baggy at the knees. Their virtue is the trousers' vice. And there are other advantages.

On a muddy day a man with long trousers finds that they are covered with dust. He cannot send them to the valet and has to trust entirely to the clothes brush or vacuum cleaner. But in the case of stockings, all he has to do is to put on a new pair next morning.

It is therefore no wonder that two pairs of trousers are necessary to last out one "coat and vest," whereas two "coats and vests" are necessary to last out one pair of knee breeches.—London News.

History of the "Five Minutes" Bell.

There is a history attached to the tolling of a single bell after a peal which is not generally known. Popularly it is described as the "five minutes" bell, and it is thought to be a final warning to the people that if they do not really hurry up at the end they will be late. As a matter of fact, it has a far older history. In earlier days it was not customary to have sermons so frequently as is now the case. On special occasions an instruction was given or a sermon was preached, and on these special occasions the little bell was tolled after the peal in order that the faithful might understand that it was one of the special occasions on which the clergy would address their flocks.—London Globe.

Words Without Rhyme.

Bulb has no rhyme. Culm, cusp, recumb, gulf, month, doth, amongst, are other rhymeless words having the sound of u as in but. Few patrician words in the language have this vowel sound, so commonplace and without dignity; hence poets turn to it only for blood, flood and a few similar turbulent monosyllables. They use it often, however, in forcing the accent from the antepenultimate syllable to the final, where its unpleasant sound is concealed by the softened stress. There has many rhymes, such as felicitous, mysterious, inglorious, etc.—London Chronicle.

A Pleasant Prospect.

He—Here is good news for women. A high medical authority says that the little toe will gradually disappear. She—Why is that good for women? He—Why, if the little toe disappears, why not the others? And if they all disappear women will be able to wear smaller shoes.

London's Crosses.

Shooting Suicide.

An Austrian student of the phenomena attending suicide says that of those persons who try to take their life by shooting themselves only one-third succeed in effecting their end at once. Another third die after a long period of suffering from the wound inflicted, while the remaining third survive.

AFRICA'S VOLCANOES.

A few facts have at last reached the outer world concerning the great volcanic eruption that began on May 13 last in the lake region of Central Africa.

The eruption was very severe for three days. The wide, lava covered plain in which the active volcanoes are found seemed to be covered with flames that poured forth from many fissures in the rock. What seemed to be a column of fire was maintained to a height of several hundred feet for several hours.

Near these volcanoes on the south is Lake Kivu, in one of whose northern bays occurred a terrific unaqueous eruption. The water for a mile around was turned yellow by the outpouring vapor heavily charged with sulphur. Many thousands of fish were killed and their bodies floated on the surface.

This region north of Lake Kivu and Tanganyika is the greatest centre of volcanic activity in Africa, and one of the largest in the world; and it was never heard of till ten years ago. The discovery of these volcanoes by Count von Gotzen, did considerable damage to the theory that volcanoes are developed only in proximity to the sea.

These volcanoes are about 700 miles from the Indian Ocean, almost in the heart of the continent. The other great centre of present volcanic phenomena in Africa is also hundreds of miles inland, near Lake Rudolf.

Students of volcanoes now think it is better to say that they are found both on the margins of the sea and in the neighborhood of great depressions in the land surface caused by violent movements of the rocks, which have produced lines of weakness, through which volcanic energy is able to find vent.

There are eight volcanoes within sight of one another just a little north of Lake Kivu. They are in three groups. The two western groups are composed each of three extinct volcanoes, while the eastern group contains two towering mountains that are at times exceedingly active.

In addition to the lively ebullitions from these craters, the region is richer than most other volcanic districts in mineral and hot springs and other manifestations of vulcanism.

The two active cones are among the very largest in the old world and are almost unique in their great distance from the sea. The larger of the two, Kirungu-cha-gungo, is a single huge cone, rising to a circular and unbroken rim, 11,350 feet in height.

This rim encloses a vast crater over a mile in diameter that has always been full of steam and smoke when the visitors have peered over the edge so that they have been unable to learn the nature of the crater floor or of its interior walls.

It is inferred that the crater is of enormous depth, for stones rolled over the edge of the chasm have merely bounded from rock to rock, their concussions becoming fainter and fainter with nothing to indicate that they finally found a resting place.

Kirungu-ndogo, the other active cone, is at least 11,000 feet in height. It is likely at any time to be active; and recent lava streams around its summit have been giving out dazzling white jets of steam.

It is a wonderful region. Besides the great volcanoes, active or extinct, are large numbers of isolated lifeless craters, still perfect in form; and those that are furthest from the smoke mountains are terraced to their tops and covered with fields of beans and other native crops.

Twenty years ago no one knew that there was a single active volcano in Africa. Since then a number of very lively volcanoes have been discovered in addition to a number of the largest mountains on the continent now lifeless, but which were built by mighty outpourings of lava.

[Anglesey Is Philosophic.

The Dinard correspondent of The London Daily Mail says: Though weak of health, the Marquis of Anglesey is, it may be surprising to hear, strong of spirit, and regards his temporary eclipse with a philosophy worthy of Socrates. The Marquis lives a retired life amid perfumes, hair tonics and cheap jewelry. A local tradesman has already sold him £100 worth of jewelry, while the hairdresser who attends him has been kept busy supplying hair washes, face creams, rouge and perfumes. The Marquis' greatest excitement is the anticipation of the arrival of a new stick or jewel from Paris. When I met him the other afternoon he apologized somewhat profusely for his appearance. He was attired in what I believe tailors call a lounge suit of tweed, and was sitting in a rather uncomfortable chair bound with red velvet by a fire that the weather scarcely warranted. "What are your present plans?" I asked. "I shall stay here for the time being. I like the place and the climate. Afterwards I may move on to Paris and London. But nothing is settled. I'm really very happy, though I suppose no one would believe it. I drive and do poker-work, and I'm writing a book—on myself."

Pat and the Peas.

In an Irish court of justice the judge recently found himself in a quandary. The dispute was about a coat, and the evidence was direct and positive for both claimants. After much wrangling, Patrick Power, one of the parties, proposed that he and his opponent should see whose name was on the coat. This was agreed to, and after the other claimant had searched in vain for any mark Pat took the coat, and opening a corner of the lining with his penknife, took out two small peas. "There, now, d'ye see that?" "Yes, but what of that?" "A dale it has to do wid it; it's me name—pea for Patrick and pea for Power."

Majority Jury Verdicts.

Several states have laws permitting majority verdicts to be returned by juries in civil and criminal cases, the concurrence of from two-thirds to five-sixths of the jurors being necessary. The trouble with the present system is that when jurors refuse to sacrifice their convictions there is a costly and unnecessary disagreement. In cases of justice would be served by a two-thirds vote in civil cases and a five-sixths vote in criminal cases. Another advantage to be gained by the change would be that the corruption of juries that would be a most lucrative, costly and dangerous process.—New York Press.

BREAKFAST IN ENGLAND.

According to the Oxford Dictionary, 1463 is the date of the earliest mention of breakfast, but until a century ago it consisted only of a draft of ale or tea or chocolate. There were only two meals a day—dinner, ranging from 9 o'clock in the morning in the fifteenth century to noon in the seventeenth, and supper, which similarly advanced from 5 in the afternoon to 7 o'clock. Pepys, for instance, went down to the admiralty at 4 and 5 in the morning on no other breakfast than half a pint of wine or a dram of cordial. But in the eighteenth century dinner was gradually postponed until 5 or 6 o'clock in the afternoon. When it passed midday breakfast became a necessity and a meal. Before this hunger had demanded the addition of bread and some such relish as radishes to the morning draft.

But when, a hundred years ago, cold meats and fish began to be served at breakfast the utmost surprise was expressed. Its novelty made it fashionable and led to the giving of breakfast parties. Eleven or 12 o'clock was the hour, and it was declared to be par excellence the meal for poets. Tom Moore was an inveterate breakfaster and after the trencher work sung for the company's entertainment.

Breakfast finally became an institution, as a necessary oasis in the long stretch between supper overnight and dinner the next afternoon. This acceptance of breakfast a century ago thus made England for the first time a three meals a day nation.

FOOD FOR THE CAT.

From Should Get Green Stuff Both in Winter and Summer.

It is a common thing to hear women say that they cannot keep growing plants of any kind in their rooms on account of the cat, who persists in nibbling and biting the leaves and new buds as they make their appearance, sometimes destroying in the course of a few weeks some favorite or rare fern or flower.

The reason for this seeming vandalism is perfectly plain or ought to be. The cat requires green food if it is to be kept healthy and happy and takes the shortest road to getting it.

In summer, following this need of its system, a cat will eat grass freely. In winter or in the city, when this supply of green fodder is cut off, common sense suggests that the cat be artificially provided with it.

For its own sake as well as for the safety of the Boston fern and the rubber plant, why not plant a cigar box of soil with some quick growing thing like oats on sorrel and let the cat help itself?

It will soon realize the glad fact that the plants are meant for it, as proved by the fact that indulgence brings no aftermath of slaps or scoldings.

As one crop fails sow another and keep it up till Mother Earth provides a more liberal supply of her own, and your cat will bless you.

The Throne of England.

Some authorities hold that the coronation chair in Westminster abbey is entitled to be called the throne, as being the one occupied by the sovereign at his or her coronation. Others maintain that the throne in the house of lords is really the official throne, as it is occupied by the sovereign for state purposes at the opening of parliament. Others again say that there is no real throne in the strictest acceptation of the word and that all the thrones or chairs of state in the various palaces throughout the kingdom are equally entitled to be called "the throne," inasmuch as they are used as such when the sovereign happens to be in residence at that particular palace and holds any levee or other strictly official reception. The most general opinion, however, seems to be that the throne in the house of lords is really entitled to be called "the throne of England."

Fatal Good Fortune.

There is a story told of a miner to whom sudden good fortune brought as sudden death. He was a man who touched ill luck at the start and could not get away from it. Not a grain of gold could he find in his own claim; his capital was exhausted; he could not even obtain a livelihood as a laborer for others. In the depths of despair he went to the owners of a mine long worked out and begged permission to go down the shaft. It was granted. He went down, and 200 feet from the surface he drove in his pick and dislodged something. He came up with it and asked that his find might be examined and weighed. That was done. "Is it all mine?" he asked. It was, they told him. "It's not the government's?" No, it was not the government's. "Nor anybody else's?" No, nor anybody else's. "It all belongs entirely and solely to me?" It did. The nameless wanderer had found one of the biggest nuggets unearthed. It weighed 196 pounds of pure gold. They turned to congratulate him, to find that joy had killed him. The story is said to be true.

Brass Button Acts.

Acts were passed in the reigns of William III., Anne and George I. which made it illegal for any tailor to make or any man to wear clothes with any buttons other than those made of brass appended thereto. The law further enacted that not only should any tailor who committed a breach of it be fined 40 shillings, but also that he should not be able to recover from his customer, in a court of law the price of the suit which he had ordered with the offending buttons. The whole object of the act was to protect the Birmingham metal button makers. A case which came before the courts in the year 1754 or 1755, in which a man, on being sued by his tailor, raised a successful defense relying on the acts in question, that the buttons on the clothes which he had ordered were bone and not brass, called attention to the existence of the anachronism, and the restrictions were soon after abolished.—London King.

Ans.—Your colt has navicular disease, for which there is no cure. The way probably took from a stallion or mare running from the disease. All you can do to relieve it is to put for a good blister and turn out to grass in a week's time.

MARTIN CONNORS' NEW PURCHASE

Local Racing Man has Bought a Fast Syracuse Horse.

Lady Gothard Will be Seen Here in This Winter's Ice Races—A Good Record.

The Post-Standard of Syracuse, N. Y., says:—

B. W. Roscoe yesterday sold the bay pacing mare, Lady Gothard by Happy Gothard, to Martin Connors, the proprietor of the City Hotel at Peterborough, Ont., and she was shipped to her new owner yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock. The consideration was $700.

Mr. Connors told Mr. Roscoe that he would use Lady Gothard on the ice this winter and after sufficient preparation she would be started in the $1,500 stake at the Quebec, Ont., meeting during the winter.

Lady Gothard was purchased by Mr. Roscoe about a year ago and was raced on the ice at Kirk Park last winter. She is the holder of the half-mile pacing record there, having gone the distance one afternoon during the ice season in 1.07 1-2 with B. W. Roscoe, jr., driving. She at that time lowered the mark of 1.09 1-4 made four years previously by Tar Tartar and later equaled by Garnet.

Lady Gothard was one of the regulars at the matinees of the Driving Club during the summer and took a record to wagon of 2.16 1-4. Although erratic, she was recognized as a fast mare. She started at the State Fair and was timed separately in 2.11 1-4. She has no turf record.

The Post-Standard publishes a good half-tone cut of the new horse, which looks like a winner.

WILL THERE BE A GUILD HOCKEY LEAGUE?

Prospects are Good—Suitable Ice Accomodation can be Secured.

The question of a Guild Hockey League is one which is being considerably discussed by several of the young men's societies in town and is quite probable that a league will be formed. The difficulty which seemed to face those desiring the formation of such an organization has been that of securing suitable ice accommodation. This difficulty, however, can be averted in connection with a Guild League. All Saint's Guild are having built an open air rink in the south end of the town. The rink will be 180 feet by 115, and will be well lighted for hockey purposes. The Guild has expressed a willingness to make arrangements to have the other Guilds practice and play their matches on their ice should the league be formed. As far as can be learned four Guilds, All Saints, George Street, Charlotte Street and St. Paul's have signified their intention of putting a team in the league and no doubt others will enter if the plan is successfully carried out. The baseball league proved a great success and there is no doubt but that a hockey league would also meet with the same result.

CAMPBELLFORD CLUB IN LINE

Hockeyists Will Enter a Team in Trent Valley League.

At the St. Lawrence Hall on Friday evening there was a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting for the organization of the Campbellford Hockey Club for the coming season, and all interested in this popular sport will be glad to know that the club was formed under most favourable auspices, and that a successful season is assured if the citizens will only do their part to encourage the club.

The following officers were elected:—

Patron—Dr. Macoun.
Patroness—Mrs. Macoun.
Hon. President—F. W. Wood.
Hon. Vice-President—J. A. Stewart.
President—T. S. Tait.
First Vice-President—A. A. Mulholland.
Second Vice-President—A. B. Colville.
Secretary-treasurer—H. F. Skey.
Manager—W. S. Harrison.
Committee of management—Manager Harrison, F. J. Sarginson, J. D. Reesor, H. F. Smith.

Delegates to represent the club at Peterborough—F. W. Wood and Ed. Huff.

It is proposed to extend the rink by about twenty feet if the finances of the club will admit of it.

RUGBY EXECUTIVE MET LAST NIGHT

The Club Will Purchase Sweaters, Get Pictures Taken and Have a Dinner.

A meeting of the executive of the Peterborough rugby club was held in the Oriental Hotel last evening. There were present Messrs. H. S. Clarry, President; W. Crowley, Captain; C. G. Graham, Secretary-Treasurer; R. Hartubise, F. Bradburn, A. Noble.

It was decided to purchase sweaters of good quality to be presented to those representing Peterborough on the field during the past season. It was also decided to have the club's picture taken as in former years. The president and Mr. F. Bradburn were appointed a committee to arrange for the annual dinner to be held during the next two weeks.

The secretary-treasurer presented a financial statement showing the club to be in a flourishing condition.

HOCKEY.

Belleville is wondering what Peterborough is going to do after losing four or five of last year's team. Well, we're going to stay in the game and will be heard of later on. That's more than they can say down in Cemetery-ville.

Manager Seeley says there is not much prospect of a senior team, but Barrie will have a home-brew intermediate team that will make the best of them hustle. Thomas, Williams, Grasett, Caldwell, Vair, Somerville, Riddell, Brownlee and several others are available.

T.A.S. HALL WAS OVER-CROWDED

Very Enjoyable Programme to Large Audience Last Night

Concert Under Auspices of Ladies' Literary Section of the Society.

A very successful entertainment was that held in the T.A.S. Hall last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Literary Section of the Society. The ladies have a reputation for providing a programme of merit and there was no exception last evening when a varied and interesting programme was presented. The hall was not sufficiently large to accommodate the large number present and scores had to stand during the evening.

The programme opened with an instrumental selection by Messrs. Argue and Rumney and was followed by a piano duet by Misses A. Roy and L. Hurley, both numbers being popularly received. A patriotic chorus, "The Land of the Maple," was sung with stirring effect by the Separate School boys. Miss A. DeVlin sang in sweet voice "A Georgia Lullaby," and for an encore gave "Blue Bell." A male quartette, Messrs. Weir, Dolaire, Pope and McGregor, sang "Genevieve" in a manner electing hearty applause. The Separate School boys sang "Greeting to the King," and were heartily applauded. Miss Kathleen O'Brien sang very pleasingly "This Letter is for My Papa" and gave a recitation as an encore. This little Gilmour street artist showed conspicuous merit. She was what her elders might well copy, delightfully natural, and her performance deserved the double encore it received. Mr. J. Browne, the popular tenor, sang "The Maid of Malabar," with his accustomed acceptableness, and as an encore gave "Indeed." A humourous recitation, "How Rabenstein Played," by Mr. H. Dunsiow, caused much mirth and an encore was demanded. Mr. Homer Herd sang "Sailing" in splendid voice. The programme was brought to a close by a mixed quartette "Oft in the Stilly Night," by Misses Delaire and Carveth, Messrs. Pope and McGregor, which proved a most enjoyable number and with "God Save the King," a fitting conclusion to an excellent programme.

Welland, Ont., Nov. 25. — (Special.) —There is no better known or more highly respected man in Welland than Mr. J. J. Yokom. Born and brought up in the neighbouring township of Crowland, by his own industry and sterling honesty he has grown to be one of Welland's leading merchants. Consequently when Mr. Yokom comes out with a statement that he was cured of a serious illness by Dodd's Kidney Pills, everybody knows it must be true.

"For a year or more I had Kidney Trouble in all its worst features," says Mr. Yokom. "My head was bad and I had no appetite, and I lost weight fast. At times I was entirely incapacitated. I doctored with a physician of vast experience but got no good results.

"I became despondent of ever being well again, when by good chance I chanced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills from the first they seemed to suit my case. Five boxes cured me entirely."

Too Near the Track.

Ottawa, Nov. 25.—Mr. Duval, inspector of railway accidents for the Railway Commission, has returned to the city after investigating the electric railway accident in Toronto. Mr. Duval has not yet made his report, but it is said he is of the opinion that the "Scotch dogs" were too near the steam railway tracks.

Public Ownership in Calgary.

Calgary, Nov. 26.—This city last night decided to invest $60,000 in a domestic and steel lighting electric plant, in opposition to the private ownership company. The council's decision came as the climax of a hot fight in which Calgary Electric Light Company endeavored to secure a ten-year contract.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavour similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I know of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect. For sale by all druggists.

BABY QUIRK'S QUICK CURE

Of Torturing Eczema by Cuticura

When All Else Had Utterly Failed.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST RETURN SINCE CURE.

"My baby, Owen Herbert Quirk, was afflicted from the age of six weeks with a loathsome running eczema, almost covering his face. I took him to Drs. —— and —— of Victoria Road, Aldershot, and he was treated by them for three months, but got much worse, and was a sickening sight to look at. I saw an advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies, and got the Soap, Ointment and Resolvent.

"We noticed an improvement at once, and within a fortnight the running had ceased and the scales were nearly all dried off, and in a month his face was perfectly clear, not a spot left. I have enclosed photograph of him when he was thirteen months old. He is now two years and four months, and has never had the slightest return of it. I am very grateful for the benefits derived from your remedies, and shall feel it a pleasure to make their value known. For corroboration of this statement you may refer any one to Mrs. Williams, 45 Michaels Road, Aldershot, or Mr. Gunstane, 40 Victoria Road, Aldershot, to whom we recommended the remedies for a skin humour, which they also cured. You are at liberty to do what you like with this statement, as I should like all to know of the value of Cuticura."

PRESERVE TIMBER LAND.

Dominion Superintendent E. Stewart Talks on Forests of Canada.

"The Forests of Canada" was the subject of the first lecture delivered before the Political Science Club of Toronto this season. E. Stewart, Dominion Superintendant of Forests, was the speaker.

The lecturer drew attention to the fact that the preservation of a fair percentage of forest in the country was very necessary to prevent absorption of the rivers. Canada was fortunate in this respect, as the Crown owned most of the land at the waterheads, and timber reserves were being set aside. A certain proportion varying from 10 to 20 per cent. of country should always be retained in forest, and it would be wise to insert the stipulation in all future patents from the Crown.

The result of an ever increasing demand for wood and wood products was an increase in our exports to over $40,000,000 in 1903, $5,500,000 more than the previous year. Canada was rapidly becoming the only country in the northern hemisphere which could afford to export lumber. The Russian forests were inaccessible and Norway and Sweden could scarcely supply Germany. The total area of wooded land in Canada might be taken as 266,000,000 acres, and taking 2,000 feet board measure to the acre, it was found that the total quantity of timber fit for lumber and pulpwood now growing on this land was 532,000,000,000 feet. The stumpage might be put at $1 per thousand, which represented its value to the Government in royalties. This sum by no means, however, equalled the value of the standing timber in the country to the people.

The duty which the country owed to itself and posterity was the preservation of its timber lands. Within the past three years a system of tree planting has been inaugurated in Manitoba and the Northwest, which was being developed in a very encouraging way.

Pluck and Success.

That he was quite the most important of Great Britain's artists is now everywhere admitted, yet his merit was not generally recognized until after he had passed his sixtieth birthday. Before he died he said, with a smile, that he had never been discouraged once in spite of all the unjust criticism and, more maddening still, the utter indifference with which his pictures were received until after he had begun to descend the hill toward the valley of old age.

A Presentation.

A presentation of a beautiful cut glass vase was made last Thursday evening to Mrs. Geo. Russell, 17 Queen street, as an appreciative token of the kindness she had shown Mrs. Arnold, Misses Wilson and Sterling, who for the past eight weeks have been canvassing for "Stoddard's Lectures". These ladies have boarded with Mrs. Russell during their stay in town and previous to their departure for London made the presentation as above stated.

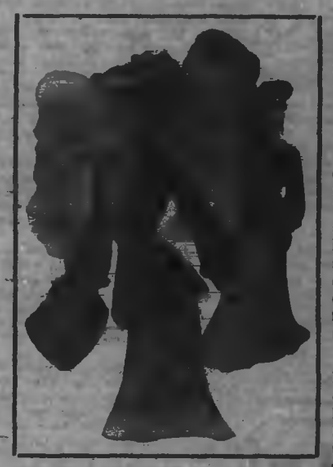
BEAUTIFUL FURS FOR CHRISTMAS.



BEAUTY of design and rich effect in Fur Jackets, Furlined Garments, Stoles, Scarfs, Collarettes and Muffs. To obtain anything like a correct idea of their winsomeness, their appealing charm, or the tasteful conduciveness to comfort, one should, by all means, see the goods

The extensive variety and completeness of our display is acknowledged by all who have had a look through. The principle reason our Furs are as good as we want them is that we do all our own manufacturing. The world's best markets supply the best Furs and we see that they are properly and honorably put together.

We are proud of our Fur Showing, and it is worthy the patronage of every lady and gentleman in Peterborough, especially now for Christmas Giving and Wearing.

There is nothing charms like a beautiful Fur Gift.—See that you have it selected now and we will hold it until Xmas for you.

See our extra choice Persian Lamb Skin and Seal Skins for special Christmas Orders. They are unsurpassed selections and their equal will be difficult to find.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

LARGELY ATTENDED LIBERAL CONVENTION.

West Peterborough Liberals on Saturday Met in Convention and Selected Mr. R. F. McWilliams as Their Candidate—Nomination was Again Offered to Hon. J. R. Stratton, Whose Name was Received with Great Enthusiasm—In an Address He Declines the Nomination and Gives His Reason for Reaching This Decision—A Well Attended Meeting—Other Names Mentioned Were Mayor Roger, J. J. Hartley, D. O'Connell, E. B. Edwards, A. H. Stratton, Wm. Yelland, F. D. Kerr—A Unanimous Choice.

The Liberal Convention to nominate a candidate to represent the party in the Provincial elections, which doubtless will be held before the snow leaves the ground, was held on Saturday afternoon in the Liberal committee rooms, Simcoe street, and was attended by seven or eight hundred people, and great enthusiasm was displayed.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, who for nearly twenty years has represented this riding in the Legislative Assembly, was again offered the nomination in a resolution which was moved by Mr. V. Eastwood, and seconded by Mr. R. F. McWilliams, but he declined the nomination, and in doing so gave his reasons in a half hour's address, in which he recalled the first election in which he was a candidate, and in which he was successful in redeeming the riding, and secured a majority of 33, which, however, had been increased to nearly [illegible] at the last election.

The resolution offering him the nomination again was adopted amidst the greatest enthusiasm, and as he arose to reply he was again greeted with a tremendous reception, the heartiness of which left no doubt as to the attitude of the Liberals towards him.

The nomination eventually went to Mr. R. F. McWilliams, after one of the most enthusiastic conventions ever held in the riding. No vote was taken, all the other candidates, except Mr. E. B. Edwards, withdrawing, and as Mr. Edwards had left the hall, the nomination, on motion of Mr. William Yelland, was made unanimous.

Liberals Confident.

In the absence of Mr. Peter Hamilton, the president of the Association, Mr. Andrew McFarlane was made temporary chairman, on the motion of Mr. John O'Brien, seconded by Mr. G. K. Martin.

Mr. McFarlane, in opening the meeting, spoke briefly, explaining the objects for which it had been called. He said that the recent great convention of Liberals in Toronto had shown that the party in the province was united, and had inspired the rank and file with a new confidence in its future, and a stronger determination to work for the success which the party deserved at the coming election.

Ontario's Grand Premier.

Mr. F. D. Kerr then moved the adoption of the following resolution, which was enthusiastically adopted by the meeting, after having been seconded by Mr. G. K. Martin.

That this convention desires to express in no uncertain way its confidence in the able and distinguished leader of the Liberal party of Ontario, the Honourable George W. Ross, and its faith in the Government of which he is the distinguished head.

The Convention is proud of the wise and statesmanlike legislation that has been enacted under the guidance of the Government, and feels satisfied that the best interests of the Province have been promoted and protected by the laws placed upon our Statute Books.

This convention would place on record its strong approval of the course taken in calling together the supporters of the Government to the great Liberal convention recently held in the City of Toronto, and would at the same time congratulate the Government and the Liberal party of the Province on the magnificent results achieved by the gathering, and of the wisdom and progressiveness of the platform of the party as set out and embodied in the resolutions which were passed upon that occasion.

And that in the opinion of this Convention, the best interest of the Province demand that the affairs of the Province should still continue under the protection and guidance of the present Government, which is so brilliantly led by its distinguished leader, the Honourable Mr. Ross.

In moving the adoption of the resolution, Mr. Kerr said, in referring to the Toronto Convention, which he had had the pleasure of attending, that everyone who was there must have been impressed with the fact that the thousands who were present had the best interests of the party, the province, and the country at heart.

Confidence in Laurier.

A second resolution, moved by Mr. A. E. Kennedy of Selwyn, and seconded by Col. E. B. Edwards, congratulating Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and expressing confidence in him, was enthusiastically adopted by the convention.

That this convention of West Peterborough Liberals hereby extends its most hearty congratulations to Sir Wilfrid Laurier upon the magnificent character of the mandate he has received from the electorate of the Dominion to apply for another five years the splendid and successful administration of the affairs of the country, which in the past has resulted in such great prosperity and material advancement. This convention believes that his policy of building up and developing the country as represented by the construction of a new transcontinental railway, upon which he based his appeal to the country, will be of inestimable benefit to all the interests of the Dominion, and be a mighty factor in realizing the hopes of the future greatness that must attend the fuller development of our immense resources.

This convention would also express its pleasure that West Peterborough has, by sending a supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier to Parliament, qualified itself to share in the work of Liberal administration which is so eminently calculated to promote national progress and prosperity.

Colonel Edwards, in seconding the resolution, thought that such a resolution should not pass without an expression of the zeal and earnestness of the party's support of such a noble leader as Sir Wilfrid Laurier being given. In all its history Canada has not produced such a leader as the present premier. He has not only benefitted Canada, and placed her in the front rank of the dependencies of the Empire, but he has also placed the Empire itself upon a higher standing among the nations of the world than ever before. The speaker felt that the premier in his efforts to build up the west, and in doing so to build the great trans-continental railway, he has done signal service to Canada and the Empire. His whole history had been one of binding together, and he felt that West Peterborough should congratulate itself that it had elected a supporter of Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Hall Demanded.

There were loud cries of "Hall! Hall!" and in response Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P., who was in the audience, mounted the platform amid the wild cheering of the gathering, and gave a short address. He was glad to say that the esteem for Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which the people of West Peterborough had evidenced, was pretty general throughout Canada, and it was a magnificent endorsement of the Government that Sir Wilfrid Laurier had given the people during the last eight years.

Canada is going ahead by leaps and bounds, and no other country in the world has experienced a growth equal to it, the only growth comparable to that at present being experienced in Canada was that of the United States after the Civil War. Under the able administration of Sir Wilfrid Laurier history is repeating itself, and if we put our ear to the ground we may hear the tramp of the incoming millions.

A Splendid Administration.

Although it might be a little away from the subject of the resolution the speaker wanted to refer briefly to Provincial affairs. We have had in this province, he said, for the last thirty two years, a Liberal Government, and during the last five years Hon. G. W. Ross has been the Premier, a Premier of whom we might well be proud.

Although the Government had been villified and slandered, it was a fact of which the party might well feel proud, that during a period of more than a quarter of a century, the opponents of the Government had not been able to lay their finger upon one dollar of the people's money that had been wrongly spent or misappropriated, and in failing to find any fault with the administration, they had resorted to slandering the men at the head of the Government.

At the present time there were four Liberals representing the county of Peterborough for the first time in its history, and he hoped the convention would select a man and stand by him loyally, and again return a supporter of the Liberal Government.

Mr. Robert Kerr presented the report of the Committee in charge of the arrangements of the convention, which provided that the selection of the candidate should be by delegates representing each polling subdivision in the riding, and chosen from those present.

This report caused considerable discussion, Mr. McWilliams objecting strongly to it, and declaring that all those present should have the opportunity of voting on the candidate to be selected.

Mr. J. B. McWilliams supported

R. F. McWILLIAMS, B.A, LL.B.,
The Liberal Candidate in West Peterborough.

his son's contentions in this respect, and arose in his place in the audience to speak on the question, and in response to cries of "Platform, platform," he took his place beside the chairman, and in a vigorous speech declared his opinion that the whole meeting should vote on the selection of a candidate, and finally seconded the following motion:

Moved by J. McCann, seconded by J. B. McWilliams, that the candidates be named first.

This motion was carried.

Offered the Nomination.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. V. Eastwood, seconded by Mr. R. F. McWilliams:

And resolved, that the Liberals of West Peterborough in convention assembled desire to express their very great regret that the Hon. J. R. Stratton, who has for the past eighteen years given this riding such painstaking public-spirited and effective representation, and has for five years done such splendid work as an administrator in his Cabinet capacity, has announced his decision to retire from the Government and from the representation of this riding; and that our high appreciation of his services as a representative is full warrant for expressing an earnest desire and hope that he will reconsider his decision, and again consent to become a candidate, and necessarily our representative; and that therefore this Convention unanimously offers him the nomination as a candidate to contest West Peterborough in the coming election.

Mr. McWilliams in seconding the resolution, said that he thought the Liberals of West Peterborough would be doing less than justice if they did not offer the unanimous nomination of the party to Hon. Mr. Stratton, who, during his representations of West Peterborough had done more than any other man for the riding. He well remembered the first contest in which the late Provincial Secretary engaged, when as a young man he succeeded in winning the riding from one of the strongest opponents the Conservatives could put in the field. He had made the Liberal party stronger in the riding, and at the end of his first term his majority of 33 had grown into one more than six hundred. During the years in which he had represented West Peterborough he had given splendid service, not only to the riding but also to the whole province, and if he could be induced to accept the nomination once more he would be doing a further service to the party.

An Inspiring Scene.

The resolution as moved was adopted, amid the greatest enthusiasm the whole gathering rising as one man and cheering again and again.

The cheering was renewed with even greater vigour when Mr. Stratton mounted the platform to reply.

A GRAVE CASE OF ELECTORAL INJUSTICE.

(Ottawa Free Press.)

Mr. E. D. Smith can hardly have much satisfaction in holding the seat for Wentworth, which he owes to the error of deputy returning officer, and it may be hoped that the majority candidate, he may realize that his duty to the country demands that he shall refuse to sit.

The facts of the case are verypimple. In a recount in Wentworth Judge Snider of Hamilton threw out all the ballots of one poll, which gave a majority of twenty-five for Mr. Sealey, the Liberal candidate, because the deputy returning officer had stupidly numbered them on the back.

This placed Mr. Sealey in a minority over the whole riding, as his majority was only fifteen, and gave the seat to Mr. Smith by a majority of ten.

The question has aroused a deep and serious interest, because although there is no fraud or corruption in the case, the judge's decision is an injustice to Mr. Sealey as well as to majority of the electors of Wentworth, whose choice has been rendered ineffectual by the error of an official.

If a judge had seated a Liberal candidate under such circumstances one may picture the fury with which he would have been attacked by the Tory press!

It is quite clear that certain rules must be observed in the conduct of elections, and it is desirable that these rules should not be disregarded even to prevent bardship and miscarriage of justice; but the statute that lays down the rules demands that it shall be interpreted in a liberal spirit and not so as to defeat the very purpose of the law, which is to secure a fair election.

The spirit of the law is shown in the provision which enacts that "No election shall be declared void by reason of any want of qualification in the persons signing a nomination paper received by the returning officer under the provisions of the Act, or of any mistake in the use of the forms contained in schedule one of this Act, if it appears to the tribunal having recognition of the question that the election was conducted in accordance with the principles laid down in this Act, and that such noncompliance or mistake did not affect the result of the election."

This provision, although it may not apply directly to the case in point, clearly shows the spirit of the Act, which is that technical and unimportant errors shall not be allowed to defeat the will of the electors.

It seems preposterous that under such circumstances as are revealed here the minority candidate should be allowed to hold his seat.

While it may be right that a candidate should suffer the consequences of his own errors or those of his agents, it can hardly be seriously maintained that a deputy returning officer should have the power, either by accident or design, to send to Parliament a man whom the electors have rejected.

KIND WORDS FOR RETIRING MINISTER

Press Opinions and Tributes of Esteem for Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Warm Appreciation of His Administrative and Representative Record.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's retirement from the portfolio of Provincial Secretary has brought forth a liberal display of kindly feeling and generous appreciation by the press of the province, and it is not mere vanity that suggests their reproduction but an aim to shew that faithful public service is appreciated:

(Millbrook Reporter.)

We notice by the Examiner that Hon. J. R. Stratton has resigned his portfolio as Provincial Secretary, and says that he will not again contest West Peterborough, but retire from public life. Peterborough will miss Mr. Stratton, for he has been a good friend to it, and is deservedly very popular, apparently as much now as at any time. The way the riding swung into the Liberal column at the Dominion elections shows that Mr. Stratton is still, if he chooses to exercise his influence, a force in politics.

To make friends one must be friendly, and Mr. Stratton has that gift in a large degree. He has the reputation, and we have known instances of his being as ready to do a good turn for a Tory as a Grit. He is not hide-bound, and seems to believe that everybody, irrespective of politics, is entitled to his services. We believe that he has carried the same principle into his work as a Minister, for he has the reputation, and we believe he deserves it, of being one of the most capable members of the Government, who has done his work well, and spent the public money wisely, and for good value. Mr. Stratton has his enemies and his faults, but with all his faults it seems that he possesses a large balance of good qualities as a Minister and a representative, which far outweigh anything which his enemies can truthfully say against him.

In Millbrook, the place of his nativity, we have watched with pride his rise in politics, and also in a business way, and regret that he has now decided to retire from the public stage, but it can only be for a short time, as Mr. Stratton's administrative ability and sound common sense, ensure him an early call to again take up the affairs of his county in the halls of Parliament.

(Norwood Register.)

The Globe of last Saturday contained the announcement of the retirement of Hon. J. R. Stratton from the position of Provincial Secretary in the Ross Government, and also the information that Mr. Stratton would not be again a candidate in West Peterborough. This will be a loss to the Ross Government, no matter who his successor may be. It is generally admitted that Mr. Stratton was one of the most capable members of the Government. He has been considerably criticized and rather severely attacked. But it is to be noticed that none of these attacks refer to his administration of his department. He has made a very capable Minister. He has managed the public institutions well, spending in their maintenance and operation during his term, millions of dollars, and we have yet to hear of a charge of any crookedness or waste or extravagance in connection with this expenditure. If there had been anything of the kind, so keen has been the hunt after Mr. Stratton, we should have heard of it. This is a striking proof of Mr. Stratton's capable administration. Mr. Stratton leaves the cabinet with a splendid record as an administrator, and he still enjoys a high degree of popularity at home. He has stood by his riding well, and has obtained for it many solid advantages which a less energetic and less active and less public spirited member would have failed to get. West Peterborough will miss Mr. Stratton. No matter who his successor may be, there will be found no one who will be more able or more willing to serve the best interests of the riding he represented for so many years. Mr. Stratton has also taken a neighbourly interest in the East Riding and has used his interest in its favour to good advantage.

HARPING ON LOYALTY

Boomerang Effect of Such a Propaganda.

Mr. F. Wayland Glen was a member of the Canadian parliament about twenty years ago, and the Montreal Gazette of the 23rd, commenting on his arrest for non-payment of a type-writer bill incurred in connection with material advocating the union of Canada with the United States, speaks of him as "an ex-Liberal member of parliament." When does a man cease to be an ex-member? The efforts to associate the Liberal party of Canada with a disloyal movement is persistent, yet we have the fact that the only political leader in Canada who was an "ex-annexationist was the leader of the Conservative party, and the rebel upon whose head was set a price became a Conservative cabinet minister. The fact is that the Liberal party in Canada is the loyal party and any effort to raise a prejudice against them on this score reacts to the disadvantage of the party making that kind of a campaign. The result of the recent elections prove this, if nothing more. The Conservative party put Lord Dundonald at the head of their forces as sybaanag the Union Jack and British connection, with the result that Lord Dundonald was turned down good and hard. But the Union Jack was hoisted over the parliament buildings just the same a few days later upon the occasion of the King's birthday.

FIGHT IN BLIZZARD

Jap Attack Almost Amounted to Bayonet Engagement.

FIGHTING AT PORT ARTHUR

Japanese Making Desperate and Steady Bombardments of the Doomed Fortress—Blew Up Another Fort and Successes Lots Several Hundred Soldiers—Strength of the Jap Besiegers and the Garrison.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—General Kuropatkin telegraphs a description of a Japanese attack on Nov. 24, against a Russian detachment near Eanikhertchen (Yenisientien?), on the front of the left flank.

"The fighting," Gen. Kuropatkin says, "was fierce, almost amounting to a bayonet engagement; but the enemy were everywhere repulsed and suffered severely. The attack was renewed the following morning, the Japanese having been reinforced, but again was repulsed, and at four o'clock in the afternoon a blizzard and fog greatly hindered artillery fire. The Japanese continued to advance, under cover of the fog, but our forces held their positions and the firing subsequently slackened. The Russian losses were nine killed and 57 wounded.

"I have received no later reports."

Gen. Kuropatkin also describes the bayonetting of 20 Japanese belonging to a patrol during the reconnaissance the night of Nov. 25.

Russians Repulsed.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—Manchurian headquarters, reporting yesterday, says: "From the night of Nov. 25 until the morning of Nov. 26, a body of the enemy's infantry attacked our troops in the vicinity of Sintungtun and Shaotaou, but the attack was completely repulsed by us.

"The enemy's artillery, posted to the east of the To Mountain, vigorously shelled the vicinities of Manevhuantza and Kuchiatzu, from two o'clock in the afternoon of Nov. 25, but we suffered no damage.

"On the right flank of the Hun River, a body of the enemy's cavalry attacked Mamchies, on Nov. 25, but was driven back by our force.

"On Nov. 24 the enemy set fire to Shantzaimen and most of the village was burned."

ANOTHER FORT BLOWN UP.

Incessant Bombardment of Port Arthur Still Continues.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—Imperial headquarters issued last night the following announcement:

"The works for our attack having been nearly completed against Sungshu Mountain, Port Arthur, and the forts lying eastward therefrom, a general assault was made on the afternoon of Nov. 26, but owing to the enemy's stubborn resistance our object has not yet been accomplished.

"The fighting still continues."

St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—A despatch received from General Kuropatkin, dated Nov. 26, says: "I have to-day received the following despatch from Gen. Stoessal: 'The Japanese on Nov. 21 made a new attack on Port Arthur, but were repulsed.'"

Another Fort Blown Up.

London, Nov. 28.—A news agency despatch from Tokio says that the sapping operations against the powerful fort crowning Eriung Mountain, two miles north of Port Arthur, have culminated in the blowing up of the whole north side of the fort.

The explosion was tremendous. The garrison was practically wiped out, several hundred Russian soldiers being killed. The twenty big guns in the fort were demolished.

Bombarded By 300 Guns.

Following the explosion according to the same news agency despatch, the Japanese concentrated the fire of 300 big guns on Eriung Mountain, the bombardment beginning early yesterday morning.

The Japanese undoubtedly are concentrating their energies for a final assault on the Russian stronghold. They have 450 siege guns in place, and these are reinforced by 132 powerful field guns. There are a large number of six and eight inch naval guns, capable of throwing an enormous weight of steel against the fortresses surrounding Port Arthur.

Nogi's Fighting Strength.

General Nogi, according to the latest figures obtainable, has three divisions of infantry, two brigades of reserves, and a large number of sappers and engineers. The total Japanese force, according to these figures, is approximately 80,000 men.

Recent scraps of information gathered from Russian prisoners, indicate that Stoessel's actual fighting force, originally 40,000 men, has dwindled to less than 8,000 effective men. This being the case, Stoessel will soon be reduced to the point where he will not have men enough to hold his forts.

To Meet Baltic Fleet.

London, Nov. 28.—The progress of the Russian second Pacific Squadron excites daily growing interest. A Japanese correspondent of The Morning Post, discussing possible preparations to meet the squadron, suggests that Japan relies upon the older warships to maintain the blockade of Port Arthur (in fact, the correspondent asserts they already are so employed), and thus enable Togo to release his more modern vessels for overhauling at Sasebo, preparatory to meeting Admiral Rojestvensky.

Speyers Bros. to G.T.P.

London, Nov. 26.—As an outcome of the Grand Trunk Pacific meeting, it is rumored that Speyers Bros., will associate themselves with the project.

BURNED AT BRANDON

WOMAN KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Mrs. Andrew Liscombe of Wilberforce, Haliburton County, Struck By Bolt—Husband Unconscious For Some Time—Baby Between Them Escaped Unhurt—Men Badly Scalded in Boiler Blow Up.

Winnipeg, Nov. 28.—The house of James Bowen, painter, was destroyed by fire at Brandon Saturday, and his two little children, aged four and two years, respectively, were burned to death.

Bowen had left the children playing downstairs when he went to work about 10 o'clock. Mrs. Bowen went over to a neighbor's a short distance away, and during her absence the fire broke out. Before it was noticed the house was a mass of flames. The fire brigade were soon on the scene, and an attempt was made to rescue the children, but it was too late. The bodies were found side by side wrapped in the bedclothes in a corner of a room on the ground floor, the bed, in which they were apparently lying, having dropped through the upper floor. The loss on the house is $1,500, with no insurance.

Killed By Lightning.

Peterboro, Nov. 28.—Relatives here have received word of the death of Mrs. Andrew Liscombe of Wilberforce, Haliburton County, who was instantly killed by lightning. Mr. Liscombe was aroused by the storm, and on going to the window to look out was met by a blinding flash of lightning and rendered unconscious for a time. When he recovered he called to his wife in the same room, but found she had been instantly killed by the bolt. A child sleeping between the father and mother escaped unharmed.

Freight Engine Boiler Blows Up.

Barrie, Nov. 28.—An accident which may be fatal for two Grand Trunk employes occurred on the Toronto branch of that railway a couple of miles south of Allandale Saturday morning. The boiler of a freight engine bound for the city blew up while the train was in motion. Engineer Ford of Allandale was badly scalded, while Fireman Holmwood is very seriously injured. Both men suffered from the escaping steam and hot water. Their faces are badly disfigured, and Holmwood's condition is considered to be quite serious. Ford, though badly scalded, is not injured as badly. Both men have been brought to the Barrie Hospital. Ford is a married man, about 40 years of age.

Skull Was Laid Bare.

Stratford, Nov. 28.—John Conray, while working at Stewart Campbell's sawing wood by means of a steam saw, caught his arm and head between the wheel belt and the wheel. The machine was stopped and Conray was released. Conray's injuries are of a very serious nature. His head received a terrible wound, almost the whole of the skull being laid bare. The bone of his left arm was laid bare for several inches below the elbow.

Italian Jumped to Death.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Saturday Reinti Reimonte, an Italian section-man, jumped off a trolley car while it was in motion and was pitched violently on his head. He has not regained consciousness and the doctors say he can hardly recover.

Hurt in a Capsize.

Kingston, Nov. 28.—In a capsize of a hook and ladder wagon in going to a fire yesterday afternoon, Callman Turner was badly injured by striking his head on the ground when thrown off. Chief Elmer had his side strained.

50 People Hurt in Wreck.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 28.—A special to The Commercial-Appeal from Columbus, Miss., says a passenger train on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad was derailed late yesterday near that town, 20 people being injured.

Death in Trolley Car.

New York, Nov. 28.—One person was killed and about forty others injured in a trolley accident at Roselle, N.J., Saturday night. Several of the injured, it is feared, will die. The body of the car toppled over, leaving the truck on the track. There were 40 passengers on the car, and all were more or less injured.

Queen Natalie Injured.

Biarritz, France, Nov. 28.—Former Queen Natalie of Servia was the victim of a serious carriage accident while driving near this place Saturday. The pair of horses attached to her victoria bolted and the vehicle collided with a tree and was completely wrecked. Queen Natalie's face was severely cut.

How Roosevelt Saw the Fair.

St. Louis, Nov. 26.—All records in attendance at the World's Fair were broken Saturday by reason of the visit of President Roosevelt. As early as 9 o'clock the Fair grounds were crowded and there was a continuous stream through every entrance until late in the afternoon. The weather conditions were ideal. President Roosevelt made an astonishingly quick tour of many of the most attractive exhibits. Mrs. Roosevelt kept close beside the President throughout the tour, and she seemed as tireless as her husband.

NEW LINK IN CHAIN

Police Magistrate at Bancroft is Now Implicated.

STORY OF EDITOR BREMNER

What Phillip Lott Learned At Watertown —First Witness Again On the Stand— Bogus Boxes Have Been Manufactured For Years—Watertown Witness Tells of Working On the Boxes.

Belleville, Nov. 28.—Another link was forged in the chain of evidence in the bogus ballot box cases Saturday morning, incriminating a person whose name has not heretofore been mentioned in connection with the case. John Bremner, editor of The Bancroft Reporter, to whom a case of the bogus ballot boxes was shipped, testified that the boxes were consigned to him for Mr. Samuel Harryett, Police Magistrate at Bancroft, and to whom they were handed over and who afterwards, when the exposure came, requested him to assist in concealing the evidence which the boxes afforded. A warrant has been issued for Harryett's arrest.

Completed On Friday Next.

The case will probably be completed on Friday next. In the meantime Reilly has been committed to jail for lack of bail, and Ruttan, whose bondsman is his father, a former Warden of Frontenac, has been admitted to bail. Mr. B. O. Lott's bail bond requires him to appear on Tuesday next, when there will be another formal remand until Friday, on which day Reilly, Whalen and Ruttan will appear. Another warrant has, it is understood, been issued for Mr. Lott's arrest. Bench warrants have been issued for a couple of recalcitrant witnesses.

Editor Bremner's Evidence.

T. S. Cole swore to receiving a copy of The Daily Ontario, containing the alleged libel.

John R. Bremner, editor of The North Hastings Reporter of Bancroft, swore he supported Byron Lott on four occasions on which he has been a candidate. Bremner said he received a case on Oct. 28 or 29, but did not know what it contained. He received the case from D. H. Ross, carter. The box was put in the store room of Samuel Harryett, the Police Magistrate, because Harryett told him a week before that a box was coming. The Police Magistrate was present when the box arrived at Bremner's.

Bremner said he noticed the case there the day after the election, when he had read of the bogus boxes in the paper. The fact that the box was shipped to the Police Magistrate through Bremner then aroused his suspicions. On Saturday previous to nomination Byron Lott asked if the box had come for him. Lott stayed over Sunday. Bremner thought the Police Magistrate and Bryon Lott were trying to conceal the matter from him. Lott said he would give Bremner some of the printing, but no mention was made of ballots.

Getting Rid of the Boxes.

On Nov. 4 the Police Magistrate went to Bremner and wanted to know what he would do about the matter, how he would get rid of the bogus ballot boxes, or conceal them.

"He had violated your friendship by unloading the boxes on you?"

"That's about right."

"And he wanted you to get mixed up further in the matter?"

"Yes."

Bremner and Harryett talked half an hour. The Magistrate suggested that Bremner conceal the boxes in his house. Then he suggested Patrick Moore as a good person. He could trust him. Moore was deputy returning officer at No. 3 Faraday.

Byron Lott had not told him that he had gone up to Toronto, and that he had been promised protection. He did not say he had telephoned to Jim Vance.

Asked to Commit Perjury.

Byron Lott asked Bremner to conceal the facts. This was after the cat was out. On Sunday last Byron came down from the north. He contended that some person had put up a trick on him. On Thursday last Bremner met Sam Harryett and Byron Lott in Toronto at the Liberal Convention. Lott again asked him to conceal what he knew. The three met at the Somerset House for dinner. After dinner they had a talk in a private room, which was interrupted once or twice by the entrance of the bartender. George Weese, hotelkeeper at Bancroft, was also present. Either Lott or Weese instructed him to kiss his thumb and only tell what he had to.

"They told me to say I didn't know anything. They wanted me to perjure myself for friendship. Lott said he had an appointment with E. F. B. Johnston, who was going to defend him. Harryett and Weese did not expect to be in it. Lott seemed to think he could clear himself."

Bremner's excuse for not finding out where the boxes went was that he was too busy, but if he went to look he would go to Police Magistrate Harryett of Patrick Moore. He kept what he knew until the present time, because he knew the matter would come out. He had written articles in his papers suggesting that the whole thing was a Tory plot.

Byron Lott in Toronto.

Byron O. Lott, Sam Harryett, George Weese and Bremner were all in Toronto for the Liberal convention. Bremner knew Kelly, having seen him several times in the Crown Lands Department. Kelly was present during the interview in the Somerset House. They were all there when Bremner arrived about 7 or 8 o'clock. At the interview they pressed Bremner hot to disclose what he knew. He did not remember what part Kelly took in the conversation. Kelly did not advise. He is in the sales and free grants office.

Bremner told them he could not conceal anything. On the following day Bremner saw Kelly in the Crown Lands Department. He did not refer to the matter.

One of the clerks said something about Kelly coming in late, and Bremner said something about his being out the night before. Kelly asked Bremner not to say anything about it, as the clerks might tell Mr. White about his being out drinking. Bremner thought Kelly knew what the subjects of the interview of the night before were.

Arch Forsyth, telegraph operator at Harrowsmith, produced a number of telegrams bearing on the enquiry. He was asked to look up any telegrams to Vance at Toronto.

Mail Carrier Testifies.

Carl Taylor, mail carrier, testified that on Tuesday before election he went to Ardea on election work, for Mr. Shibley. He spent two days at the work, and was under pay as mail carrier when he was on election work.

Mr. DuVernet conducted the witness by many ramifications to Clarendon on the night of the election, where in a hotel Taylor met Mr. Sproule and Joseph Hawkeye, the Chicago wrestler. They went into a private room. Sproule had a bottle and they had a drink. Hawkeye had the ballot box used at Clarendon and Miller. After emptying the bottle Sproule and Taylor went down to the bar and had a couple of drinks. They arrived at the hotel at 11 o'clock and left at one in the morning to get the train.

Alf. Clark, operator at Anson Station, put in a number of telegrams chiefly by Byron Lott.

Shibley's Agent Talks.

William Sproule, merchant of Harrowsmith, swore he was Shibley's agent at Ardoch on election day. This was 60 miles from Harrowsmith. Sproule went out two days before election. On the train he saw Carl Taylor. He went out on the same train with Hawkeye, who took out the ballot box. They were there the night before election and the night after. Hawkeye also had a valise. He had never met Hawkeye until the time they stayed together at the hotel. On the morning of election Hawkeye sent witness out to get a constable.

"I said we had had some surprising good results."

"Then he winked?"

"Yes."

Mr. Hawkeye, Mr. Taylor and witness went upstairs to have a drink. They took the ballot box up. The room was engaged by Sproule "to change his collar." He was not sure whether the hotelkeeper charged him for the room.

Alone With the Boxes.

The witness and Taylor left Hawkeye in the room with the valises. He did not know whether Hawkeye changed his collar, but he remained there alone for some time. Taylor and Sproule went out for a walk to talk about the hunting. They did not go hunting, because Mr. Brickwood, the game inspector, was at the hotel, and he might suspect they were after deer.

Sproule said he saw Hawkeye was in the vicinity two days ago. Reverting to the subject of the hunt, Sproule said he had never been hunting before and did not possess a gun. He had acted as agent at an election at Harrowsmith, but had never gone so far from home as Ardoch. When he reported the state of the poll to Shibley on his return to Harrowsmith he did not remember that Shibley said anything.

Was Not Approached.

John Williams, returning officer for West Hastings, asserted that Arthur Reid, the election clerk, was recommended by Byron O. Lott. Lott also recommended the deputy-returning officers in Rawdon and Huntingdon. George Weese and William Gloster were recommended by Police Magistrate Harryett. The returning officer had no special reason to lock up the ballots except for the instructions he received in the regular way. No improper suggestion was made to him by anybody. He swore in all 10 deputies except two. A few days before the election he was away nearly all the time. No one suggested that he leave the extra ballots behind. There were 330 of these ballots, and he took them with him in case he should need them. Mr. Williams said notwithstanding Byron O. Lott recommended Reid, he took precautions to enquire into his standing.

"You've been badly misled?"

"I don't know that I have."

"You heard him say in the witness box that two days before the election he (Reid) heard of a dishonest thing in connection with the election."

"I don't remember that."

L. Guess, a Kingston Everyman, testified that on the afternoon of Oct. 26 Shibley and Mr. Ruttan called on him and engaged to have a rig call at the Albion Hotel in the evening for some literature. Ruttan was to accompany Guess out to Harrowsmith. Mr. Guess drove to the hotel about 7 o'clock, and Ruttan helped to carry the boxes out to the rig. When they arrived at Harrowsmith about 9.30 they met Shibley and Ruttan, and assisted in carrying the boxes into Shibley's house.

Frank Fitzpatrick, clerk of Hotel Quinte, produced the hotel register to show that Shibley and Lott were together there on the 18th, the date the telegram was sent by Shibley to Lott arranging for the meeting.

Phil Lott Again.

Phil Lott was recalled and detailed what he learned on a visit to Watertown, N.Y., last week in search of evidence. This has already been given, so far as the manufacture of the boxes is concerned. He found that Francis J. Reilly was registered at the Woodruff Hotel on Sept. 17, and at the Hardiman, Oct. 1, 4 and 8, and also in September. Phil Lott again gave the names of the deputies who were to use the boxes.

Lott referred to some of the details of his interview with Reilly. Reilly said the ballot box was a winner, and that God Almighty could not beat the Ontario Government with these boxes. This remark has been denied by Reilly.

For the first time during the day W. J. McCamon took a hand in the investigation. Phil denied that he brought a sample box to Belleville before election day. He was sworn in, and in the face of his oath he was determined to go on and catch the men who intended to commit wrongful acts.

"And I could consider if they were mean enough to do this they ought to be ketched."

Phil asked to be permitted to put in a word of commendation for T. B. Whalen, the Prescott inland revenue officer.

Reilly had told Phil that he had a friend in Prescott who would ship the boxes, but he would not dare tell him the scheme or he would have nothing to do with it.

Boxes Made in Watertown.

Witness said he had secured signed statements when he was in Watertown, N.Y. He read them, as follows:

Watertown, N.Y., Nov. 26, 1904.

To A. F. Wood, P.M.

Dear Sir,—The box brought over here has been used in Frontenac. It was brought over here with No. 14 on it. Bogus boxes has been made in Ogdensburg for some years and drowned every time after being used. They were ordered made by the High Muck-a-Muck in Toronto, and have been used a long time, the kind with a spring. So I was told by one of the men who made the deal with me for the boxes.

(Signed) C. L. Roof.

Witnessed by Leon C. Roof.

Another letter reads:

Watertown, N.Y., Nov. 26, 1904.

To Mr. A. F. Wood, P.M.:

Dear Sir,—I am willing to make oath and say that B. O. Lott had nothing to do with ordering or paying for those ballot boxes to me, that it was two other men whose names I will not mention as yet.

(Signed) Claud L. Roof.

Certified to by Leon C. Roof.

Watertown, N.Y., Nov. 26.

I hereby certify that the box delivered by me to P. A. Lott was taken from the court house at Kingston and delivered to me as a pattern by P. J. Reilly.

(Signed) C. L. Roof.

Phil Lott said Roof was willing to come over here and testify in the case if given protection. Lott took Roof before a notary, and he was ready to make an affidavit, but the lawyer advised him not to, as it might incriminate him, being connected with the conspiracy.

Trick Box Maker's Evidence.

A witness from Watertown, N.Y., was introduced just at 6 o'clock. He was Patrick Carter, employed by E. B. Irwin, hardware merchant. Two months ago, he said, he was working for C. L. Roof & Co., and Mr. Roof put him to making bogus ballot boxes. He saw Reilly over there a week or so after he commenced to make the boxes. He did not hear what was going on, as the boss sent him out of the shop when he and Reilly talked over the matter. He was told afterwards that the boxes were to be used to cheat the people out of their votes over here. One was to be used to Brockville, he thought, and one was to be left in Prescott. They finished 20, and five were not finished. The boxes were packed in dry goods boxes and sent to Ogdensburg. Claude and Leon Roof also worked on the job. They had a model box like the one produced.

WOMAN'S GREATEST ENEMY.

Constipation the Cause of Most Women's Troubles—An Easy Way to Permanently Cure This Painful Condition.

There are few women indeed who do not suffer with chronic constipation. Nearly all are slaves to some kind of medicine to correct this trouble, and yet they get nothing but temporary relief. One period of constipation is followed by another, and it's physic, physic, physic, year in and year out, till life becomes a burden.

There is now a sure cure for this condition and a cure that does not have to be repeated. It is Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill.

Dr. Leonhardt, of Lincoln, Neb., is the author of this prescription. He used it for years with wonderful success in his own large practice as a remedy for dyspepsia, biliousness and constipation.

Many ladies who have suffered for years are now enjoying good health and a perfect freedom from the old constipation through the use of Anti-Pill.

Mrs. Tabb, 287 Emerald St. North, Hamilton, Ont., says:—

"I am so longer troubled with constipation. I cannot praise Anti-Pill too highly."

Nine Nations

Now Use Liquozone. Won't You Try It—Free?

Millions of people, of nine different nations, are constant users of Liquozone. Some are using it to get well; some to keep well. Some to cure germ diseases; some as a tonic. No medicine was ever so widely employed. These users are everywhere; your neighbors and friends are among them. And half the people you meet—wherever you are—know some one whom Liquozone has cured.

If you need help, please ask some of these users what Liquozone does. Don't blindly take medicine for what medicine cannot do. Drugs never kill germs. For your own sake, ask about Liquozone; then let us buy you a full-size bottle to try.

For the American rights to Liquozone. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, after proving, in thousands of different cases, that Liquozone destroys the cause of any germ disease.

Liquozone has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research. It is not made by compounding drugs, nor with alcohol. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalizing, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissue, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Every physician knows that medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

MOST DEADLY OF INFECTIOUS DISEASES

Consumption Causes Three Times More Deaths Than the Six Other Infectious Diseases Combined.

Rev. P. C. Parker, Former Pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church, Town, on Important Mission.

A Branch of the National Sanitarium Association was Formed Here Last Night in Y.M.C.A. Hall.

Last night a branch of the National Sanitarium Association was formed in Peterborough, the impetus which resulted in its organization being given by the addresses given yesterday by Rev. P. C. Parker, of Toronto, a former pastor of the Murray street Baptist church.

Yesterday morning he preached in the Charlotte street church, a report of which sermon appears in another column, and at night he occupied his old pulpit in the Murray street Baptist church, where he was greeted with a large congregation, among whom were many of his former parishioners.

At the close of the evening church services a public meeting was held in the Y.M.C.A. Assembly Hall, at which Hon. J. R. Stratton presided.

Hon. Mr. Stratton, in opening the meeting, expressed his pleasure at being present, and showing his sympathy with the object of the meeting. Five years ago, when he was appointed Provincial Secretary, there was considerable agitation for the establishment of some means of treating the hundreds of persons throughout the province who were suffering from the dread disease of consumption, and a deputation waited upon the Government asking that something be done to stop the spread of the disease.

Later an Act, known as the Municipality Sanitarium Act was introduced into the Legislature by himself, providing for the erection by a single municipality, or a number of municipalities combined, of a sanitarium for the treatment of consumption.

Up to the present time no municipality has availed itself of the provisions of that act, possibly because of the expense of erecting and maintaining such an institution.

Subsequently the Gravenhurst Sanitarium was established through the efforts of Mr. W. J. Gage and others associated with him, and since the time of its establishment a large number of patients have been treated there free of charge. Later, another institution was opened at Weston, which was also a free institution, and the Association sent a deputation to the department, and the result was that he had again introduced legislation, giving a bonus of $5,000, and had also placed the Sanitarium on what is known as the hospital list, giving $1.50 per week for each free patient in these institutions.

It will thus be seen that the province has done considerable to alleviate the condition of these unfortunates who have contracted the disease, but it is remarkable that so little has been done by the people themselves.

This may have been because they have failed to appreciate the great danger arising from this disease. There is greater danger from one case of consumption than there is from a dozen cases of small-pox, but if a case of the latter disease should be discovered the whole town would be alarmed, and instantly steps would be taken to isolate the patient, and try to prevent the spread of the disease. He was glad to be present and show his sympathy with Mr. Parker and the work in which he has taken such an interest, and hoped that some good results would follow his visit.

The chairman then called upon Rev. Mr. Parker, who spoke at some length upon the work in the interests of which he was in Peterborough. He expressed his pleasure at having Hon. Mr. Stratton preside at the meeting, for he understood the facts, and had shown a sympathetic interest in the work of alleviation of the suffering of the poor people affected with the disease.

The main points of Mr. Parker's address were similar to those of his morning address in Charlotte Street Church, which is reported in another column. He said that contrary to the general impression consumption is infectious not hereditary. It has always been considered that the latter was the case, but it was not so. And another pleasing fact is that it is curable if taken in time, and treated properly. In Germany there are 64 sanitariums, 45 of which were established and are maintained by the insurance companies, who have found it cheaper to provide this means of curing the disease than to pay death claims, and the result of this provision is seen in the fact that whereas the former death rate was 30 in every thousand, it is now only 15 per thousand.

Mr. Parker stated the object of his visit, which was to arouse an interest in the work here, and if possible establish a branch of the association to provide for one or two or more beds in the Sanitarium. Forty beds have been added recently and he hoped that in the near future there would be 300 or 400 beds provided.

Among the places that have either provided already for beds or are taking steps to do so are:—Lindsay, Oshawa, Stratford, St. Marys, Brandon, Paris, Seaforth, Goderich, Kincardine, Wingham and Mount Forest, while Hamilton has a pavillion. The average earnings of the working men of Canada were $12,000, but the average of a consumptive were only $5,000, which meant that there was a loss to the country of $7,000 upon every consumptive. He urged those present to interest themselves in the matter.

Short addresses were given by Dr. Scott, Mr. J. W. Bennett, who personally testified to the great benefit derived from the treatment given at the Sanitarium, and Mr. E. B. Edwards, after which a branch of the association was formed with the following officers:—

Hon. President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.

President—R. M. Dennistoun.

Secretary—J. W. Bennett.

Additional members of the Executive—Messrs. J. J. McBain and Col. E. B. Edwards, R. J. Kidd, Dr. McNulty, R. Neill, Mayor Roger, and the clergymen of the town.

It was decided that a public meeting should be held when the matter will be brought before the public and an effort made to do something substantial in the way of providing beds in the Sanitarium or by other means.

MORE LIGHT ON THE WATERWORKS.

Mr. W. H. Moore Endorses Article in Saturday's Examiner.

The Injustice Done by Present System Should be Remedied—A Contingent Fund Should be Established.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Sir,—Your issue of Saturday last contained some reference to the management of the Town Waterworks, based on the observations of a citizen to your editor. The remarks of the person were made, I have no doubt, in the haste of a passing conversation, and he should therefore be excusable for some errors in his statements as reported. Your representative and he were both a little at fault in the facts.

It is quite true that the circumstance of the main pipes of the water system (now nearing twenty-five miles in extent) passing along a street in front of property does not create liability on the part of the owner to contribute anything from such property, whether it is vacant or improved, towards payment of the debt for the purchase of the works, for maintenance, nor even for the cost of that main unless he has signed a request for putting in the main or for service from it to his property; and there are miles of mains adjacent to the properties, vacant and built on, that pay nothing towards the cost of construction.

Now all lands with a main pipe in front of them gain additional value and the dwellings on such lands rent at advanced figures. Such lands, even if unimproved, have the preference in the market for all who desire property for building upon or for speculative purposes. That cannot be gained. It is generally admitted and yet a wrong continues to be done to water consumers which the commissioners cannot themselves cure.

But against this there is this little set-off, that a general annual tax is collected by the town from all classes (whether they do or do not take water) for public purposes, such as fire hydrants, street sprinkling and fountains and is accounted for in the dealings of the town with the commissioners. This amounts to less than $8,000 and by the Act of 1903, the commissioners are permitted to retain one half of the surplus moneys in their hands towards forming a contingent fund to provide against accidents and improvements. With these exceptions your related facts are correct and the injustice done by the present system which you pointed out should be remedied and legislative assistance, if necessary, obtained. The public uses of money above referred to for hydrants etc., require a rate of about one and a half mills on the dollar on the assessed value, and a fifty foot building lot assessed at $800, would be about seventy-five cents per annum, while the enhanced value of the land by reason of the main in front of it would probably be from $50.00 to $100.00. The contention therefore, that there should be a specific water rate or tax for every main that is adjacent to property cannot be disputed. This unearned increment of increased value should be made to bear its full share of the expense that creates the increment. Taxes of every description are expected to be imposed on an equal footing and according to the benefits conferred and a violation of this principal creates a grievance that must sooner or later find a remedy.

It is of utmost importance that every portion of the waterworks should be constructed and maintained in the most substantial manner that engineering skill can devise, with minor regard to cost, for it has come, that the health and very life of the major part of the people of the town and the protection against fire is dependent upon our waterworks. It would be a calamity that all do not, I believe, properly appreciate, if any portion of the works came by a mishap that could not be quickly repaired.

It was the hope when the works were taken over that they should be made self-sustaining and the cost justly distributed and the charges for the water reduced. For these reasons I am of opinion that authority should be given enabling the commissioners to remedy the grievance referred to, to retain the moneys coming to their hands, and having provided for construction charges and set aside a contingent fund, cancel the surplus income by further discounts to consumers. I presume they could at the present so discount the charges that there would be no surplus to come into the council's hands to be applied to general purposes, but in view of the considerable expenditure that may in the near future be required in making improvements to the system, that course cannot be adopted, for if temporarily adjusted to existing conditions the present charges would have to be replaced.

Your obedient servant,

W. H. MOORE.

"White Plague" Most Dreaded Disease in the Province.

Rev. P. C. Parker Spoke at Charlotte Street Church in Interests of Free Consumptive Hospital in Muskoka —Some Startling Statements.

Rev. F. Clifton Parker, M.A., of Toronto, preached to a large congregation at the Charlotte Street Church yesterday morning in the interests of the Free Hospital For Consumptives in Muskoka. Mr. Parker is a very interesting speaker, and the arguments he advanced in favour of the cause which he was advocating were given in a convincing manner. The existing condition of affairs in connection with the great disease of consumption was shown to be a startling one that immediate steps should be taken to remedy as far as possible the appalling conditions was evident to all who heard Mr. Parker's remarks.

It is hoped that as a result of Mr. Parker's visit to Peterborough an interest will be awakened which will result in a branch of the National Sanitarium Association being formed in Peterborough in order that something of a practical character may be done to alleviate the sufferings of the many who in this as well as other towns and cities are gradually dying from the effects of this terrible disease.

It was not Mr. Parker's first opportunity to preach to a Peterborough congregation, but it was his first opportunity of speaking on the subject announced, which was to him such an important one. For the past thirteen years he had been pastor of a church in Toronto, and last year he gave up his work because he needed a rest and he felt it was his duty to try, if possible, to arouse public sentiment against that dread disease which was sweeping away more of humanity in this country than were any other six diseases combined. During the past year eight members of his congregation had died from tuberculosis, and in coming in contact with the grief-stricken families as he had done, it was brought to his mind very forcibly that something should be done to see that the sanitary conditions were such as to help those who were fighting this terrible disease, known as the "White Plague."

During the past month of July, 124 persons had died in the province of Ontario from seven infectious diseases and of that number 106 deaths were caused by consumption which was three and a half times more fatal than all the other eight diseases. In June there 262 deaths of which number 186 were caused by the White Plague. It was really an alarming condition of affairs, and though the facts are startling when brought to our notice, no definite steps are taken. Not long ago a Municipal Sanitarium Act was passed on our Statute Books but its provisions were never put into operation, because perhaps the municipalities had considered that it was too expensive. The only thing to do under the circumstances was to better the existing sanitary conditions as far as possible.

Rev. Mr. Parker was speaking in the interests of the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives. As many as 750 sufferers have been treated there. Does it not seem pitiable, said the speaker, when we think that every fourth death between the ages of 14 and 45 years is caused by tuberculoses and in the year 1900, one half of the deaths between the ages of 25 and 35 years was caused by this disease. But the pathetic side of it is that from Gaspe to Vancouver there is not a single hospital to take in consumptives. In the city of Toronto, there is a small-pox hospital, built and carried on at a great expense and during the past ten years there has been only one death from this disease while in the same length of time 5,250 deaths have been caused by tuberculosis in the city of Toronto and yet there is not a single hospital which will open its doors to a consumptive unless under strong protest. There is nothing in all heathendom that is worse than our indifference and neglect of those suffering from this dreaded White Plague. He hoped that the people of Peterborough would try and put in beds in the hospital at Muskoka for the sake of the consumptives in this town until there is secured Municipal Sanitoria in the different municipalities. The wealthy who are sick may go to the south and receive every treatment, but the poor man is differently situated and we should all combine to give him a fighting chance against his great enemy. Every year in this town of Peterborough an average of 70 people die from consumption and it was our duty to do something to alleviate their sufferings.

At the hospital in Muskoka about 76 per cent. of the patients had been so bettered by the treatment that they were able to leave and return to their work, and those who continue the system of living taught them have managed to throw off the disease. We should wake up to the situation and gladly support such a cause as he was advocating.

Mr. Parker also spoke briefly from the text "And the Pharesees and scribes murmured saying, This Man receiveth Sinners and Eateth with them". Christ had many times been reproached by His enemies, but the titles of taunt attached to His name were always titles of truth, though they were not intended to be such. The Pharesees and scribes complained of Christ's eating with sinners, but the mission of Christ on earth was to save sinners. He did not descend from Heaven to go amongst the good solely, but amongst the sinners who needed salvation. The missionaries, the prison philanthropists, John Howard, and others of similar types were not found with those who had already found Christ, but with those who needed their assistance and the place to look for the Saviour of mankind is in the lost world. God revealed himself to us through the person of His own Son and the great work of receiving sinners into His fold is still going on. Many who had a desire to become Christians had said that they did not know how to come to Christ. There was no rule to follow for all would have a different experience and the best way we knew how would be acceptable to Him who was always ready to meet us more than half way. Two persons were ready to receive sinners—Christ and Satan, and Mr. Parker hoped that all his hearers would decide upon the straight and narrow path which leads to the eternal life.

THE WORLD IS GROWING BETTER.

Mr. E. A. Hardy, B. A. is a Pronounced Optimist.

Spoke Yesterday in Two Churches in Town—The Place of the Sunday School in the Church.

Mr. E. A. Hardy, B. A., late of Lindsay, now Secretary of the Teachers' Training Department of the Ontario Sabbath School Association preached twice in Peterborough churches yesterday, in the morning in Park Street Baptist Church, and in the evening at the Charlotte Street Methodist. Mr. Hardy is spending a few days in town in the interests of his work, and the churches yesterday availed themselves of his presence here to secure his services in the pulpit.

He is a firm believer in the value to the church of the Sunday School, and believes that the churches should spend more money on their schools and instanced a city church where $300 a year was spent on the choir and only $100 on the Sunday School. He was of the opinion that if the choir was worth $300 per year to that church, the Sunday School should have been worth at least four times that amount. He advocated having a paid superintendent who could give his time to the work of the school, and trained teachers.

Mr. Hardy preached from the text, John 10:10 "I came that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." Speaking of the kind of life that Christ came to give he said that it was not physical life though in some instances he did restore physical life, nor was it this restoration of mental life, although mental powers were restored in a few cases by him; but it was spiritual life that he came to give and he believed that if the spiritual life were given, it meant the development of the physical and mental powers of a man.

God, he said, intended that a man's physical powers should be developed to the highest possible degree. There were in every human body scores of muscles that are not developed, because they are not used, and there are mental and spiritual powers also, which because of disease are not developed as they should be.

Mr. Hardy is optimistic, and believes that in the next hundred years the world will make greater Christian progress than it has made during the whole 1900 years of the Christian era. He is not one of those who believe that the world is growing worse, although he admits that there may be some ways in which it is, but as a whole, he believes that the influence of Christianity is permeating the life of the world to an extent never felt before.

Then Christ came, not only to give life, but he came to give it more abundantly. There was no one who could realize the meaning of that word abundantly. If we let our imagination run riot and think of the most extravagant pleasures, and then you will have no idea of God's conception of abundance. The Sunday School, to Mr. Hardy played an important part in God's plan of giving life. It was a most important feature of the church's life and he believed that more money should be spent on the Schools and more thought given to their maintenance.

He cited a case in Toronto where the Baptist Churches had appointed a minister as Field Secretary of the Baptist Sunday Schools in that city and he gave his whole time to the work of stimulating the effort to convert the scholars and his labour had been most successful.

THE LIBERAL CANDIDATE.

At a largely attended and representative convention of the Liberals of West Peterborough, held in the Liberal Committee Rooms, Simcoe street, on Saturday afternoon, Mr. R. F. McWilliams received the nomination by acclamation. It is to be expected, from what is known, that the local Conservative organ will attempt to discredit the bona fides and representative character of the nomination, and misconstrue the evident attempt that was made to elicit in a regular way the representative opinion of the riding. Considerable time was occupied in discussing the question of the selection of a candidate by the appointment of delegates from each township, or by the popular vote of those present, who were fairly representative of the whole riding, and the outcome was that Mr. McWilliams received the nomination by acclamation, and is regularly in the field to win. Mr. McWilliams is a young man of good ability, and character, with a municipal experience which represents a good training for usefulness in the larger field he aspires, with such excellent prospects of success, to enter. His personal popularity is undoubted. It will be remembered, as a tribute to his personal favour with the electors, that in the last two municipal contests for aldermen, he headed the poll. With a good representative record in the council as alderman, and with a clean personal record, he possesses the elements of a strong candidate, and a good representative. He has also the additional qualification of being a good speaker, and able to creditably voice the views of his constituents. Above all his chief qualification is that he is a supporter of the advance policy of the Liberal Government, and as such, apart from, or rather in addition to, other considerations, is amply entitled to the support of all those who desire to see the affairs of the province energetically and wisely administered. It may be easily assumed also that the local Conservative organ will attempt to make much of Mr. McWilliam's attitude in reference to the last Dominion election, but it cannot say that he showed any particular sympathy for the platform of the Conservative party. It is true that he announced himself as an independent candidate, which he had a perfect right to do and that in his address he differed with the Liberal policy on one point, holding that that policy did not go as far as was desirable in regard to government ownership of the Transcontinental Railway. But in that position he was not alone for many leading Conservatives were not in sympathy with Mr. Borden's policy on that question, and the fact that Mr. McWilliams took the platform in support of the Liberal candidate showed that he was in sympathy with the Liberal policy in the main. But we cannot expect the local Conservative organ to take the fair view or to discuss political questions on their merits, so long as side issues and trivial and nasty personalities can be made to do service. It is natural, judging from the past, that every device fair and unfair should be employed to break the force of the candidature of Mr. McWilliams, for upon the issue of his qualifications in respect of ability for the discharge of the duties of the position of representative, or of the policy he represents, successful attack is difficult to make. Mr. McWilliams is the candidate and as such with the united support of those whose views on public questions he represents will make a plucky and successful fight, for the honour and responsibility of representing West Peterborough in the next Provincial Parliament.

SALVATION ARMY BAND FESTIVAL.

An Evening of Music in the Barracks on Thursday.

On Thursday night the Salvation Army Band will hold a musical festival in the Barracks, Simcoe street, in aid of the funds of the band.

A number of instrumental selections will be rendered by members of the Band, while the latter will play several new numbers, including "Songs of Scotland", introducing cornet, saxophone and trombone solos and "All Nations" in which the national airs of a number of nations is played. A saxophone solo "Nearer My God to Thee", will be a feature.

A splendid programme has been prepared and the Band asks for public support.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH

Music Yesterday was of an Enjoyable Character.

The music at the George Street Church yesterday was of an interesting character in the morning, the choir singing, "Nearer My God to Thee." In the evening the anthem "Saviour Who Died for Me" was given an effective rendition.

Mrs. D. McGregor, a mezzo-soprano, sang two solos at the service. She possesses a voice of good quality, sweet in tone and of fair range and power. She was heard in two numbers, a hymn "There were ninety and nine" and a rather difficult number "I will extol Thee". The first number was sung very effectively and with considerable feeling, displaying the quality of her voice advantageously. The singer's interpretation of the second selection was not so effective, the voice being somewhat forced in the upper register where the fine tone quality was lacking. The enunciation was also slightly defective.

Rev. Mr. Lewis, of Cobourg, preached two excellent sermons during the day.

LADY WITH THE LAMP.

Florence Nightingale Still With Us in the Twentieth Century, Fifty Years After Beginning Her Great Work.

Oct. 21 is not only Trafalgar Day. It is also on another account a day "worthy of a white stone." Fifty years ago Florence Nightingale and her band of thirty-eight nurses set forth on their mission to the Crimea. The immediate result was the conversion of the Great Barrack Hospital at Scutari from "a hell on earth," where, as Sir William Russell wrote: "The sick appear to be tended by the sick, and the dying by the dying," into "a model of all that a hospital should be." But in effect the one action was as the grain of mustard-seed—from it sprang consequences which are seen and felt throughout the world to-day, in the wonderful municipal hospitals, the quiet cottage hospitals, the neat and deft trained nurse; while inwardly a power for good works side by side with external cleanliness and comfort. Hospital reform has not only achieved fewer deaths per thousands, less individual suffering, but it has also proved a powerful moral agent for good.

Within hospital walls are gathered a large percentage of men, women and children to whom dirt, disorder and ugliness are the chief factors of life. The hospital reveals to them a world of exquisite cleanliness, shining opaline walls, gleaming firelight, soft voices, gentle hands, flowers. On a certain number of these patients these new influences exercise a lasting impression. This testimony every sister will give. There are always many to decry hospital work—to dwell on the faults of the system and to depreciate the virtues, but some will find more cause for rejoicing over one Eastender who has learned to appreciate, however faintly, the joys of fair and pure surroundings, than over a class of hungry guttersnipes who have mastered a French verb and the Rule of Three.

The Lady with the Lamp—as Longfellow called her in memory of the long nights, when, lamp in hand, she passed along the Scutari wards—is still among us in this feverish twenty century world of ours. She has so strenuously avoided publicity, since she returned broken in health from her labors in the Crimea, that few realise her presence, save those who have profited by her advice and experience in the management and arrangement of our great institutions.

Yet, in spite of her retirement, public interest flames at the mere mention of her name. There clings about her—apart from the practical value of her great work—a halo of pure romance. Nothing that has been said or sung in praise of woman can rival the words, written by one of the many soldiers whom she tendered: "She would speak to one and another, and nod and smile to many more; but she could not do it to all, you know, for we lay there by hundreds, but we could kiss her shadow as it fell and lay our heads on our pillows again content." Save for a few women, born to the purple, Florence Nightingale has achieved the chief place in woman's roll of fame. In days, moreover, when "the frivolous work of polished idleness" was deemed all-sufficient for her sex.

Prince Eddie's Present to the King.

Among the numerous birthday presents received by King Edward none interested or amused him more than a little book from Prince Eddie of Wales, his future successor. It appears that the King on a recent occasion was unable to inform Eddie how the leopard gets its spots, and in this book was a puzzle which explained all about it.

The Prince of Wales' second son presented his grandfather with a perfect mechanical torpedo-boat. Consuelo, Duchess of Marlborough, gave him a beautiful cigar casket formed of alternative lines of pink and green enamel, separated by rows of brilliants, with the royal crown and cipher in the centre in high relief, and full of the King's favorite cigars. Mrs. George Cornwallis West, who was one of the Sandringham house party, gave him a diamond and ruby bell-push for his writing table, but Mrs. George Keppel's present was probably the most novel of all. It was a beautiful little gold box studded with jewels, and containing a clock of marvelous workmanship, out of which every hour springs a dainty humming bird which for one minute pours forth a flood of melody. It is a copy of a famous eighteenth century trifle. Countess Torby sent a pair of long leather motoring gloves lined with the finest Russian sable, and especially made for him in Moscow.

Encounter With Nine Lions.

Colonel Colin Harding, C.M.G., the commandant of the Barotseland Native Police, who accompanied chief Lewanika to England for the King's coronation, has had an exciting adventure with a number of lions.

While traveling from Mumbwa (the headquarters of the Kafue district commissioner) to Kalomo (the capital of Northwestern Rhodesia) he came across no fewer than nine lions all in a group. Quickly he wounded two, and he was following up one of the pair when a lioness sprang at him and knocked him over. Luckily he retained his rifle and was able to fire, and at the noise of the weapon the brute made off.

In the meantime the mules had bolted with the cart, leaving the colonel in a perilous position in the event of the lions returning. After they had gone some distance, the driver, who had kept his seat all the time, succeeded in stopping and turning the frightened animals. Colonel Harding was conveyed back to Mumbwa, about twelve miles, and medical examination showed him to be suffering from a broken shoulder and a torn thigh. He is now progressing favorably. One of the lions was found dead.

DOUGLAS, TENDER AND TRUE.

Could ye come back to me, Douglas, Douglas,
In the old likeness that I knew,
I would be so faithful, so loving, Douglas,
Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

Never a scornful word would grieve ye,
I'd smile on ye sweet as the angels do—
Sweet as your smile on me shone ever,
Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

O, to call back the days that are not,
My eyes weer blinded, your words were few;
Do you know the truth now, up in heaven,
Douglas, Douglas, tender and true?

I never was worthy of yes, Douglas,
Not half worthy the like of you;
Now, all men beside seem to me like shadows—
I love you, Douglas, tender and true!

Stretch out your hand to me, Douglas, Douglas,
Drop forgiveness from heaven like dew,
As I lay my heart on your dead heart,
Douglas, Douglas, tender and true.

—Dinah Maria Mulock.

A Present.

Kifter—That's a nice umbrella you've got. Lifter—Yes, it was a present. Kifter—Indeed! Who gave it to you? Lifter—Nobody gave it to me, but it has an inscription on it showing that it was "presented to John F. Jones," whoever that is.—Exchange.

Happiness.

The secret of a happy life does not lie in the means and opportunities of indulging our weaknesses, but in knowing how to be content with what is reasonable, that time and strength may remain for the cultivation of our nobler nature.

All He Said.

Binks—What did you say to your wife when you got home late last night? Jinks—My dear. Binks—Is that all? Jinks—Yes. She began talking then.

Noisy Company.

Soarer—So your landlady objected to Topnote and his glee singing duets in your apartment? Hearer—Yes; she told me my room was better than my company.

BAD COMPLEXIONS

Can be Covered up With Lotions, Washes and Powders Containing Arsenic, Lead and Mineral Poisons. But These Always Make a Bad Matter Worse. How to Obtain a Good Complexion in Nature's Way.

It is such nonsense to attempt to cover up or hide a bad complexion or a sallow, mottled skin by cosmetics, face powders or skin foods, many of which contain zinc, lead or arsenic, and all of which in the end make the skin worse. The only safe and sure way to improve the complexion is by purifying and enriching the blood, by keeping the bowels regular and the liver healthy and active. Bad blood is responsible for a bad complexion, and in turn bad blood is a direct result of bad bowels. An antiseptic and emollient is needed as well as an internal and external remedy. Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills possess all these properties in a remarkable degree. They act directly on the liver and bowels, cleanse and enrich the blood and in this way quickly improve the complexion. When you consider that pineapple is a most efficient intestinal antiseptic and that butternut is recognized as a liver regulator, you can quite understand why Smith's Pineapple and Butternut Pills are used by so many ladies to keep their blood pure and their skin rosy and clear of pimples, blotches and sallowness. These little tablets promote the speedy vegetable, never gripe or weaken, and always cure sick headache, constipation and biliousness in one night. 25 cents. All dealers.

WHERE UNCLES RULE.

Peculiar Control That Prevails in Northern Australia.

Uncles rule among the native tribes bordering Torres strait, where the relationship between maternal uncle and nephew is regarded as being closer than that between father and son. There a man is bound to stop fighting when ordered to do so by his mother's brother, and the uncle is entitled to bid his sister's husband cease any hostilities in which he may be engaged. Moreover, the quelled combatant is required to make a present to the uncle or brother-in-law, as the case may be, who stops him.

When a man marries in these parts his father provides the wherewithal to purchase the bride, but it is the maternal uncle who makes the actual payment and who acquires the credit attached thereto.

A man in those parts may not utter the names of his wife's relations, and when he speaks to his father or mother-in-law he must lower his voice and speak humbly, the underlying idea being probably a pretense that he has carried his spouse away forcibly from her home and must sue for peace.

Adam's Stolen Rib.

In one of the many and varied comments on the creation of women in the Talmud the Emperor Hadrian is introduced "as conversing with Rabbi Gamaliel on several religious questions. With the object of casting ridicule on the Bible, Hadrian exclaims: "Why, your God is represented therein as a thief! He surprised Adam in his sleep and robbed him of one of his ribs!"

The rabbi's daughter, who was present, craves permission to reply to the emperor. This is granted her. "But first let me implore thy imperial protection, puissant sire!" she exclaims. "A grave outrage has been perpetrated on our house." "Who has dared to inflict any harm on the abode of a friend?" asked the sovereign.

"Under cover of the night an audacious thief broke into our house, took a silver flagon from our closet and left a golden one in its stead." "What a welcome thief!" cries Hadrian. "Would that such robbers might visit my palace every day!" "And was not the Creator even such a thief as this," archly rejoins the blushing damsel, "who deprived Adam of a rib and in lieu thereof gave him a loving, lovely bride?"

"Dixie."

No other song has ever touched the hearts of all the people of this land as "Dixie" touches them. During the war "John Brown's Body" swept the heartstrings of the north and their brave "boys in blue." The war has passed and the song is passing, is already mush of a memory. But "Dixie" is more vibrant with life today than it was when it cheered the lean and hungry legions that were battling for the "lost cause." It has not only survived the war, but since then it has conquered the conquerors and enthroned in the hearts of those that loved the blue as in the hearts of those that loved the gray. It has the magic of the "Marseillaise" in it. Not as in without its clarion call that quickened the red blood of state. It is gay, sweet, serene, indefatigable. It may not be great music, but it has the quality of all that counts in this world—survival—and it is one of those ballads of a nation that the very wise man reckoned as more powerful than laws.—Indianapolis News.

"No" Is Unique.

"It seems odd that the English alphabet, out of which can be constructed several thousands of words, contains just one word formed by the letters in their present order," remarked the observant young man. "That word is 'No.' You can look the alphabet over, and you won't find any other combination of vowel and consonant characters that will form a word. The nearest approach is 'Ab,' which by straining a point might be considered an abbreviation of 'Abraham,' or 'Hi,' which might answer as short for 'Hiram.' But 'No,' one of the shortest words in the language, is the only bona fide word formed in the arrangement of the alphabet's twenty-six characters."

PRIMITIVE BOOKS.

How They Were Made by the Ancient Battaks of Sumatra.

A near approach to the form of a modern book was made by an obscure people called the Battaks, who in olden days inhabited the island of Sumatra. They invented, or adopted from some unknown source, a form of book consisting of a long strip of bark five or six inches wide and closely resembling a piece of Egyptian papyrus.

They seem to have taken a distinct step forward in the bookmaking art, for instead of rolling their strips of bark in Egyptian fashion they folded them into accordion plaits, so that they took exactly the form of modern books with uncut leaves.

Wooden covers were then put on either side, and the whole was sometimes bound together with a piece of snakeskin. Had the Battak scribe gone one step farther by cutting the leaves and writing on both sides the result would have been an exact prototype of a modern book.

The Hindoos used a palm leaf two or three inches wide, cut in sections and dried. Each section may be compared with the leaf of a book, and they were piled up in sequence or perforated and strung together like a venetian blind.

When They Registered "And Lady."

"Some weeks ago I had an opportunity of inspecting the hotel register of a Niagara Falls hotel of the years 1850-52," said a Milwaukee man. "Even at that time the falls seem to have been a favorite resort, but what impressed me most was the style in vogue at that time.

"The chirography was by far better than one sees nowadays on hotel registers, some writing almost resembling steel engraving. I looked all through the register, but found but one instance of a man registering himself 'and wife.' In every other instance it was 'and lady.' Another feature of the register was a column headed 'Remarks,' which was used by guests in making personal notices, some of which were highly interesting. Today we tell our confidences to the clerk."

Ducks and Decoys.

The duck is much more cunning than a great many of its brothers of the bird trifle, and this is the reason that it was found necessary to devise the decoy as a means of luring him within the reach of the gunner. After a few experiences with these dummies the wise bird begins to cultivate a suspicion and makes a critical investigation before he alights in the middle of what appears to be a bunch of birds on a feeding ground. It is no uncommon thing for a flock of ducks sighting a lot of decoys to circle around out of reach of the fowling piece, and, discovering the deception, start off on their journey, to the chagrin of the watching sportsman.

A New Breakfast Food.

A little girl who was eating codfish for breakfast the other morning for the first time was seen to stop and examine her plate with deep interest.

"Mamma," she said presently, "what kind of fish is this? I've just found a hair in it."

"It is codfish, dear," was the answer.

"Oh," commented her daughter in a disappointed tone, "I thought probably it was mermaid."

Croup Comes Suddenly.

BENCH THE WISDOM OF KEEPING IN THE HOUSE THE MOST EFFECTIVE CURE.

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP of LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Slight hoarseness in the evening is the only warning of croup.

About midnight the child awakes—coughing—that peculiar metallic cough called croupy, which strikes terror to the mother's heart.

Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success.

It is wonderfully prompt in relieving the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.

People who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on, and the danger which accompanies it, usually keep some of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house for use in case of emergency.

Mrs. E. H. Robinson, Duppervile, Kent Co., Ont., writes:—"My husband and baby had very bad colds and coughs, and seeing Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine advertised I decided to try it. The result was highly satisfactory, as both were promptly cured."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Appetite Was Poor.

Dizzey Most of The Time.

Could Not Sleep at Night.

Many people are unaware of having anything wrong with their heart or nerves till some little excitement or overwork makes them feel faint and dizzy, or perhaps simply going up or down stairs causes dizziness and specks to float before the eyes. People troubled in this way should heed the warning, and not fail to take treatment before something more serious occurs.

For all heart and nerve troubles there is nothing to equal

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

We do not claim that they will cure chronic heart disease, but we do claim that they will strengthen the weak heart, and build up the shaky nerve system.

Here is what Mrs. Sidney Hoffman, Hillside, Ont., says:—

"I was troubled greatly with my heart, and was so very nervous that the least little thing startled me.

"My appetite was very poor; I could not sleep at nights, and was dizzy most of the time. I took three boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and I am very pleased to say that they did me a wonderful lot of good."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All druggists, or mailed direct.

ANIMAL MATRIMONY.

Ernest Thompson Seton Tells Many Strange Stories—A Famous Old Wolf and His Mighty Mate.

I have just been talking to a man whose whole life has been given up to the sympathetic study of animal life in the wilds of Western Canada and America, says a writer in The London Daily News. Ernest Thompson Seton left this country as a boy of six with his father, and on a Canadian farm learned the ways of the myriad creatures whose footprints covered the vast snow-covered hills and plains. He came to London and studied art at the Royal Academy, and has also studied at Paris under such masters as Bouguereau and Gerome. But always the background of his life was the great silent west, and in zoological and hunting trips he traveled about for hundreds of miles. For a dozen years or more he has been naturalist to the Government of Manitoba. He is a famous wolf-slayer, and has shown notable wolf pictures at the Salon. Besides his scientific writings, and his pictures of wild animals, he has become the poet and interpreter of their life. His "Animal Stories" have long been famous in both hemispheres for the force and fidelity with which they reproduce the life of the wild animals, their struggles and anxieties, their social order and institutions. They are not fables in which the creatures are made to talk mild philosophy and ethics, but true explanations of their habits and reasoning, their affections and antagonisms.

Matrimony Among the Animals.

For instance, I was surprised to hear from Mr. Seton that matrimony is an institution older than man. A vast number of wild animals choose a single partner for life, and are as faithful and chivalrous as even the most romantic lover, even sometimes dying of grief for the loss of the chosen one. This was the case with one famous old wolf in New Mexico, which committed terrible ravages among the cattle, and took Mr. Seton four months to capture.

A wily old creature was this wolf. The hunters try to kill wolves by drawing a piece of meat for miles across the plain, and dropping here and there on the track a bit of liver with a strychnine capsule embedded in it. The liver must be prepared and carried without being touched by human hands, or even breathed on by the hunter—so keen is the scent of the wolf.

But Mr. Seton prepared a trail fifteen miles long in this way, and in the morning the wicked old wolf had carried the pieces of liver for miles, and piled them up in derision. At last the old creature was caught through his devotion to his young wife Blanca, as the shepherds called her. Blanca was known to be flighty and disobedient to her lord, and Mr. Seton made use of the fact to the undoing of both. He killed a cow, and left it lying surrounded by a ring of traps, but the head he placed at some distance, with two other traps. So in the night, while the old wolf was cautiously sniffing and exploring round the carcase, Blanca went off and examined the head, and was caught. All the next night the old wolf moaned and wailed round the place for his lost love, and he was finally betrayed by following a track made with one of Blanca's paws. When captured he died the very first night—died, Mr. Seton believes, simply of grief.

A Fox and His Hunting.

"It is by their footprints we learn most about the lives of the wild animals," said Mr. Seton. "I have sometimes tracked a single animal for days. I have followed the trail of a fox, seen how carefully he studied every unusual object, making certain that a bit of bull-rush fluff was not a feather, and walking along the bank of a frozen stream and stamping every few yards to see if birds were hidden under the bank. At last scattered feathers showed he had been successful. At one point, when hungry, he had dug out a snake and killed it, leaving it dead in case he should find no better food and be obliged to return. Animals will not eat snakes unless they are nearly starving."

"Have you ever seen a fox catch fish?"

"No, but a lynx will sometimes snatch them out of a shallow stream."

"You know the footprints of all the creatures?"

"Nearly all. When there is a strange one I draw it, and generally soon identify the owner. A fox steps very clean, as stalking animals must. It selects the place for the front football, and then places the back exactly in the mark, thus avoiding accidental stirring of a twig. All cats do the same, but a dog often slurs his footsteps, making a double imprint. Much of the daily life of the animals can be traced by following the tracks in the snow or sand. For instance, there were the tracks one day of a huge bull wapiti, the biggest of the deer tribe. At last there was the place where he had lain down to rest. On the tracks came a second set of prints, those of a puma. When the puma came to the reposing bull he had struck off and gone circling round, crouching so that his belly brushed the ground. At last he had found a log, under cover of which he had approached within twenty feet of the wapiti, and then prepared to spring. There was the ground smoothed and pressed hard with the paws, and carefully tried to see if it was firm for jumping, just as you may see a cat do while keeping its eye intently fixed on a bird. But at last the puma's courage had failed him. No doubt the wapiti, with his immense horns, was too big an antagonist. At any rate, the puma had changed his mind and made off. All this was shown as clearly as could be by the marks."

"And what about the cleverness of the animals, Mr. Seton? Do you ever find proofs among them of mechanical ingenuity?"

Colds

How often you hear it remarked: "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

has gained its great popularity and extensive sale by its prompt cures of this most common ailment. It always cures, and is pleasant to take. It counteracts any tendency of a cold to result in pneumonia.

Was Not Able To Walk For Three Months.

Was Given Up to Die. The Doctor Said So.

Burdock Blood Bitters Saved Her Life.

Read what Mrs. Wm. Cailliouex, Newport, Quebec, has to say about Burdock Blood Bitters:—"Last December I fell very sick after confinement. I was not able to walk for three months, and was given up to die by the doctor. My husband read of the many wonderful cures made by Burdock Blood Bitters, so procured me two bottles. After using it for about ten days, I was able to get around, and could mind my baby without help from anyone, and am now well, and able to do my own work. I told a lady friend of mine who was troubled in the same way, and she used it with equal success. I cannot too highly recommend your medicine, for I know just how good it is, and hope and wish that anyone suffering as I did will give it a trial."

YOU CAN BE CURED

Munyon's Watch Word is "Hope," His Remedies Bring Health

When Munyon says "There is Hope," it is simply the expression of an opinion which he bases on past experiences in the homes of the people where his remedies have brought happiness and hope to hundreds of thousands of afflicted ones.

Munyon's Remedies cure because in their compounding is concentrated the knowledge and discoveries of the brightest medical minds that the century has produced.

There are no "cure alls" among them, but his list of remedies contains a separate cure for each disease. That is why they are called home remedies, or the "family doctor," as they are frequently termed by those who depend upon them absolutely to keep the household in good health.

Munyon's Kidney Cure has saved hundreds from Bright's Disease, and never fails to heal and help ailing kidneys.

Munyon's Paw-Paw Laxative Pills keep the liver in healthy action, and positively cure constipation, biliousness, jaundice and all other ailments arising from a torpid liver.

Munyon's Dyspepsia Cure may be depended upon to cure all forms of dyspepsia, indigestion, sour stomach, and to keep the digestive organs in perfect condition.

"There are things that look like it, but I am not satisfied that they may not be explained as the result of memory, distrust and an exquisite nose. I have seen a swallow's nest which the bird wished to have in a particular spot on a barn wall, supported by a pillar of dried mud from a projecting nail some distance below. But did the bird make the pillar on purpose, or simply go on building on the shelving projection it had chosen, and allowing the mud to slip off till enough got piled over the pillar to form the support? Animals generally seem to have very little notion of the simplest mechanical contrivance. A trapped animal will wind the chain of the trap round a stump or post and get fixed when it could easily escape by going back round the post the other way. And a tethered horse will wind itself up round a peg till it can get nothing to eat."

Finally Mr. Seton pleaded for more sympathy with the wild races, and less wanton slaughter. There is plenty of room in the world for our beautiful fellow creatures, and only those dangerous and destructive to man and his works, he holds, ought to be put down.

The North Country Is Busy.

A. H. Campbell, Commissioner of Good Roads, has returned from his trip with the Temiskaming Railway Commission. Mr. Campbell said that the first time he went to Temiskaming it took him 14 days, while on the present occasion it only took 14 hours. The road is completed to within two miles of Liskeard, except six miles in which the ballasting is not quite finished, and one or two muskegs, where temporary structures have been erected. The road is well built and a speed of 40 miles was maintained over most of it. There are nine locomotives, 100 box cars, 100 flat cars and other rolling stock in operation. The tri-weekly service established from North Bay will be continued during the winter. For 20 miles beyond North Bay the country is broken and hilly, but beyond this the grade is easy and no difficulty is anticipated from snow blockading.

"The country is busy," said Mr. Campbell. "People are flocking in. Lumbermen, emigrants, prospectors, miners, all kinds of people. We could scarcely get accommodation in Liskeard; the hotels were all full. The express service is quite satisfactory to the people, and the telegraph poles have been erected and strung, and the wires are used for the telephone.

A deputation from the municipalities of Liskeard and Haileybury waited on the commission to urge the claims of the respective places for divisional headquarters, but nothing of this kind will be settled for some time to come.

A portion of the road has been laid beyond Liskeard, and ballasting alone is necessary to complete a great part of this. About 25 miles will be finished this season.

The Novelist's Quandary.

"Scribbler is in trouble."

"What about?"

"He has written a novel and selected a name for it. His publisher likes the name, but says it does not suit the book, and he can't decide whether to write a new novel or invent a new name."

Some Differences.

"The difference between a woman and a glass," said the funny fellow, "is that the glass reflects without speaking, while a woman speaks without reflecting."

"And the difference between you and a glass," said the sharp girl, "is that the glass is polished."

GOT HIS NEWS THROUGH.

Canadian Newspaper Man's Feat at Port Arthur—A Costly Despatch.

An interesting story of how news is sent from the seat of war is told by the Associated Press in connection with a despatch from Port Arthur on November 2, and wired to the newspapers by the Associated Press on November 3. The despatch gave a complete review in chronological order of the movements of General Nogi's forces about the beleaguered city, and was the first authentic and direct message to the outside world from the headquarters of the third Japanese army, preparing for the final assault upon Port Arthur. It was the lengthiest cable despatch which the Associated Press has handled during the present war, and one of the largest it has issued during its existence as a news medium.

The despatch was filed at Che Foo by Mr. W. Richmond Smith, a Canadian newspaper man, who was designated to accompany the third Japanese army to Port Arthur about six months ago. In the skeletonized form in which it was received it contained 4,385 words, required fourteen hours in transmission, practically monopolizing the trans-Pacific cable during all that time, and cost the Associated Press $1,783.

The negotiations with the Japanese Foreign Office and the War and Navy Departments in order to obtain permission to send through the despatch were conducted by Mr. Martin Egan, the Associated Press correspondent at Tokio. It was first planned to charter a steamer to carry Mr. Smith's story from Port Arthur to Che Foo, but the Japanese Government refused to permit this, offering one of their despatch boats to carry the story to Che Foo at their leisure. This did not suit the Associated Press, and a compromise resulted in the Japanese Government granting permission to the Associated Press to charter a launch for the purpose.

It was arranged that the junk was to fly a distinctive flag known only to the Associated Press correspondents. The flag was to be of white cotton about three yards by a yard and a half and bearing the letters "M. E.," the initials of Mr. Egan, on red. When this had been arranged, Mr. Hogerty, from the Chicago office of the Associated Press, who is its representative at Che Foo, was instructed to be on the lookout night and day for any craft carrying such a flag at her topmast.

On November 3rd, at 9.16 o'clock, a brief despatch arrived from Che Foo. It read as follows:

"Che Foo, Nov. 2, Mr. Stone—Filed 4,000 Smith 3 afternoon. Smith return Port Arthur to-night."

Thirty-eight minutes later, or at 9.54 o'clock, the momentous despatch, predicting Port Arthur's doom, began to come in.

Mr. Smith had to give a pledge that he would file his despatch only after it had been censored by the Japanese authorities, that he would make no alteration in the story, and that he would do no talking regarding the situation at Port Arthur when he reached Che Foo.

Canadian Born Admirals.

Canadian-born Admirals are well to the fore now with Sir A. Douglas as Commander-in-Chief at Portsmouth, and Sir C. C. Drury as Second Sea Lord at the Admiralty, says The Canadian Gazette. It is now stated that when Lord Charles Beresford retires from the command of the Channel fleet early next year his successor in that most important position will be Vice-Admiral Sir C. C. Drury. Born in Quebec, Sir Charles Drury has had a long and distinguished naval career. In 1893 he was a member of the Ordnance Committee, and in 1896 received the thanks of the Foreign Office for services in Crete. He was elected a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society in 1900, and in 1902 was appointed Commander-in-Chief of the East Indies station, receiving the honor of K.C.S.I. the following year. He was appointed to succeed Sir John Fisher as Second Naval Lord of the Admiralty on August 31, 1905.

ANCIENT STENOGRAPHY.

Shorthand Was In Use as Early as the Third Century.

Shorthand was known to the ancients, though it is impossible to trace the system to its source.

Ennius, the Roman poet, is said to have improved upon an already existing system. He was a friend of Scipio and was born 239 B. C. Seneca also made it a hobby.

Origen, the Greek father and mystic, who was born about 185 and was a voluminous writer, says, in the course of his commentary on St. John, "The absence of my shorthand writers prevents me from dictating my meditations." We are told, too, that he allowed shorthand writers to take down his extempore homilies.

In the tenth century Greek and Roman stenography gradually died out, and the art did not revive until the beginning of the seventeenth century. During this long interval several systems of quick writing were evolved, such as that of Dr. Timothy Bright in 1588, who had a separate sign for every word, and some of these almost rivaled shorthand in rapidity.

The Kicker's Trademark.

In the English hunting field it is the custom to mark kicking horses by tying a piece of red ribbon around their tails. Experienced hunters are on the careful lookout for all such animals, and should it happen that the steeds are running close to one another the equine with the ribbon bedecked tail is given a wide berth, as it is more than probable that it will lash out with its hind legs to the serious disadvantage of its neighbors. In the excitement of the chase horses almost lose their heads, and an animal that naturally is not in any way vicious or inclined to be bad tempered will do the most unexpected things in the way of kicking, rearing and biting.—London Telegraph.

Monuments of Hate.

Throughout Korea a number of monuments are still standing which date from the war of 1592, when Japan invaded Korea with 80,000 men. These "monuments of ears," as they are called, mark the burial places of 10,000 ears which were cut from the heads of the Koreans as trophies of victory. There are many of these monuments in Japan also, for some of these grewsome relics were taken home by the conquering army.

The Coy Widow.

"I think," declared the little daughter of the widow to the millionaire who was calling, "that you are a charming and delightful man."

"How nice! What makes you say so?"

"Mamma told me to."

Faith.

Speaking of a man who fell in love with his mother-in-law and finally eloped with her, Brother Dickey said, "Well, suh, dat man had de faith dat would advertise fer a lost umbreller!"

Scott's Emulsion is cod liver oil prepared as a food—not a food like bread or meat, but more like cream; in fact, it is the cream of cod liver oil. At the same time it is a blood-maker, a nerve tonic and a flesh-builder. But principally it is food for tired and weak digestions, for all who are fat-starved and thin. It is pleasant to take; children like it and ask for more.

PROVINCIAL OFFICER VISITS PETERBORO.

Dr. Bruce Smith, Inspecter of Hospitals is in Town.

Dr. Bruce Smith, Provincial Inspector of Hospitals and County Buildings, is in town to-day on an inspection of the institutions under his charge.

This is the doctor's first official visit to Peterborough since his appointment to that position, and this forenoon he inspected the Nicholls Hospital and the Protestant Home. This afternoon he visited St. Joseph's Hospital and House of Providence, and to-morrow morning he will inspect the jail and Court House, and will leave at noon for Smith's Falls, where he will be present at the official opening of the new hospital, which will take place to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

and it was some minutes before he could speak.

Mr. Stratton's Reply.

Mr. Stratton thanked the convention for the appreciation of his services implied in the resolution, and for the unanimous nomination that had been tendered him. He referred to the hearty support he had received from the Liberals of West Peterborough for the past twenty years. They had given him the position of representative by increasing majorities, and he wished now to repeat what he had often expressed — his hearty appreciation of the support he had received. While he thanked his Liberal friends, he could by no means overlook the also highly appreciated support which had been given him by many independent Conservatives, who had consistently supported him, and whose support, he trusted, his discharge of his duties had amply justified. No public man in any constituency in the province had had a more loyal support than he had received in West Peterborough, and a support that had worked so energetically on each recurring occasion of an election to give him an increased majority. He exceedingly regretted that circumstances would not again enable him to accept their kind offer to become a candidate at the present time. He would not say that he would never—never was a long time—be a candidate. There were many business circumstances which prevented him being a candidate just now. As to the Government, there were no differences of opinion, in the matter of policy or administration; they had been unitedly working for the best interests of the province, and he believed that the record showed that they had been successful in doing so. He left his colleagues and the Premier with as good feelings as he was leaving his constituents with. No government ever worked more devotedly for the building up of the province than had done the Ross Government. When he had entered public life — especially after some little experience—he had expected some hard knocks and he had felt that his expectations had not fallen very far short of realization; he could not complain that he had not received his share of notice during the past five years. He could not complain of being ignored. He could not say he had been slighted, but he could say that he had been grossly and systematically misrepresented, as the people in years to come would fully see and realise. There was no discussion in Ontario to-day of the administrative record of the Government, nor of how the public business had been conducted. Irregularities in a constituency committed by some enthusiast, were taken up by the organs, and himself, personally, and the whole party, were held to responsibility for them. The "Minnie M." cry had been attempted to be foisted upon him. He was not near the "Soo," nor had anything to do with the "Soo" election, in any way. He asked no person to go to the "Soo," and knew nothing of the campaign. The Conservative press attempted to make him responsible. He was charged with something that he knew no more about than any other person who was entirely outside that election contest.

Reasons for Retiring.

He knew that his motives would be misconstrued in the matter of his retiring, but they were as stated. It had long been known among his friends in West Peterborough, that he wished to be relieved from the responsibilities of office and representation, in order to devote the time to his personal business affairs that they demanded. That demand was more emphatic now than ever before and he could not in any sense see his way clear to neglecting these affairs at the present moment to undertake the duties attached to a public or representative position.

Mr. Stratton then referred to the great convention recently held in Toronto, dealing with some of the prominent planks of the platform there adopted. All of the planks submitted were unanimously adopted with a single exception—that referring to the temperance question. Of course there were conscientious temperance men who thought that that question was the only question of the day, and they expected a political party to exclude from membership of that party those who did not see so far in advance as those who were specially and solely enthusiastic upon this one question. These parties sought to set a higher standard of membership of a political party than was set up for the membership of the church. If every member of a church who was not a total abstainer or who held opinions on prohibition not quite favourable to it, were cast out, there would be a perceptible thinning of the ranks. Then, was it a reasonable position to assume to set a higher standard for a political party than for a church organization? The Liberal party had done more to advance the temperance cause than any other party. The legislation given had been really in advance of public opinion, and there was no comparison as to the attitude of the parties upon the important question—one was endeavouring to honestly deal with the question in a practical way, while the other was simply trifling with it. No Government had put forward a more advanced policy in every direction that Hon. Mr. Ross and no Government had made a more honest and persistent effort to see that their policy was carried out. The platform of the party would no doubt be discussed during the campaign, and it was not necessary for him to occupy the time of the convention, to a further extent. Before closing he would, however, wish to again thank the convention for the high honour they had paid him, and he wished to include in his thanks all those who had in the past shown their confidence in him, not only the Liberals but also those many independent Conservatives, who had also shown their confidence in him, during the past twenty years. He exceedingly regretted that the demands of his business affairs prevented his staying in the contest.

The Liberal party in West Peterborough and his friends have quite appreciated the fact that, from a political point of view, it would be better for him to remain in the contest, but his business interests at the present time positively forbade his taking such a course. (Loud applause.)

The Nominations.

Nominations were then called for, and Mr. John McCann in a short speech nominated Mr. H. F. McWilliams, the nomination being seconded by Ald. W. J. Johnston. The other nominations were:—

Mayor Roger by J. O'Brien.
J. J. Hartley by Wm. Yelland.
F. D. Kerr by John Holmes.
Wm. Yelland by ———
E. B. Edwards by ———
A. H. Stratton by G. K. Martin.
D. O'Connell by F. D. Kerr.

The question of delegates was again brought up, and after considerable discussion it was decided upon the recommendation of Mr. Stratton, that the candidates should each speak before the question was decided.

Mr. O'Connell was not present, and Mr. A. H. Stratton was the first called upon. Mr. Stratton made a decidedly humourous speech, and ended by thanking his mover and withdrawing, as did also Mr. Yelland.

Mr. Edwards was the next speaker, and he protested against asking the candidates to declare themselves and advocated the appointing of delegates, to vote on the candidates before those nominated should speak. He declined to state whether he would be a candidate or not.

Mr. F. D. Kerr said that he felt highly flattered at being nominated and also by the kindly reception that had been accorded him. He had many warm friends in the audience, a great many friends, and, he hoped, a few enemies, for he had heard it said that a man was no good unless he had some enemies. He remarked in withdrawing from the contest that while he might be able to fill Mr. Stratton's shoes he felt that he could not fill his clothes.

Mr. Hartley was in a quandary. He hardly knew what to do. He said that he appreciated very highly the honour they had done him. He was deeply interested in Peterborough, the place where he had been born and lived all his life. He had been for 23 years in public life and during that time he had been very kindly treated. A great many of his friends had asked him to allow his name to go before the convention and had offered to support him. He had shrunk from this because he had all his life felt like passing these honours over to others. It was about 30 years ago since he had cast his first ballot, and he had been a supporter of the Liberal Government ever since, and had not yet seen any reason why he should change.

A Clean Record.

The Government had administered the affairs of the province well, and it was a great pleasure to him to know that in spite of all the many and unfounded insinuations that had been made against Hon. J. R. Stratton, who had been made the special object of attack, his opponents had been unable to point to one dishonest act and prove it. When a man can go through life as Mr. Stratton has, and defy anyone to show where he has misappropriated one dollar of public money it was a record of which he might well be proud, and he knew that if he could be induced to accept the nomination again, he would be elected by a larger majority than ever.

Mr. Hartley finally decided to withdraw from the nomination.

Mayor Roger was the next candidate, and he said that he had given the matter very serious consideration and had looked at all phases of it, and after full deliberation he regretted that he could not accept the nomination, and asked to be allowed to withdraw.

Mr. McWilliams Accepts.

Mr. McWilliams was the last speaker, and said frankly that he was a candidate for the nomination, and if chosen he would do his utmost to carry the election.

He had been a life-long resident of Peterborough, and he had made it his aim to win the respect and confidence of those with whom he did business. He had been interested in municipal affairs and had twice been elected Alderman. He had also had considerable experience in elections, and during the last 10 years had spoken in elections campaigns, principally in the East riding.

He expressed his belief in his ability to carry the election, and he also believed that in spite of all that has been said against Mr. Ross, he would be returned by an increased majority.

He promised that if he were given the nomination he would spend no idle hours, but would do his utmost to carry the riding and if he was elected to do as Mr. Stratton had done, work for the riding so that when he came for re-election he would be returned by a larger majority.

All the candidates with the exception of Messrs. Edwards, McWilliams and O'Connell had withdrawn, and Mr. Edwards moved, seconded by Mr. Eyres, that the convention adjourn for one week to appoint delegates by whom the nomination should be made. This motion, however, was defeated, and Mr. Kerr, who proposed Mr. O'Connell, withdrew his name from the convention leaving only the other two.

Upon motion of Messrs. Yelland and McCann Mr. McWilliams was given the nomination, and he accepted it in a few words, asking all who were willing to work for him to meet him at the committee rooms on Monday night.

The New Officials.

President—G. M. Roger.
Vice-Presidents — Andrew McFarlane, Peterborough, and Wm. Crough, Ennismore.
Secretary—R. Kerr.
Treasurer—D. O'Connell.

The executive committee shall consist of the officers elected, with the chairmen of the different ward and township committees.

After votes of thanks had been passed to the retiring officers and the usual cheers, the meeting closed.

LATEST SPORT

HOCKEY.

All Saint's Men's Guild is calling a meeting of the Guilds of town to consider the advisability of forming a Guild Hockey League. The meeting will be held on Wednesday night in the Y.M.C.A. Hall.

* * * * *

The Toronto Telegram on Saturday said:—

"A week from to-day is the annual convention of the O.H.A., the greatest event in the winter end of sport. And, judging from the list of proposed amendments to the rules, the meeting will have a full day's work. But though the list is a long one, no really radical changes are proposed. The amendments tend rather towards helping to enforce the present rules than to creating new conditions.

And as a matter of fact, no radical changes are necessary. Hockey, as played in the O. H. A., is sport with enough of the strenuous element eliminated to keep it from being brutal. It is sport for the players and sport for the spectators. It is played by people who are a credit to the sport, in a style that is a credit to them. Consequently it is felt that while the rules may be mended a little here and there, it would be unwise to go further.

* * * * *

The St. Thomas Journal, edited by Mr. W. A. Buchanan, says editorially:—

Mr. John Ross Robertson deserves well of the O. H. A. He has given valuable time and close attention to development of the highest principles of amateur sport and the proposed opposition to his election as president comes from a clique, who have been unable to open wide the gates of the association to men, who bear the ear marks of the professional. When Mr. Robertson gets away from the O. H. A., good-bye to amateurism and the present reputation of the association. Mr. Robertson hits out from the shoulder and at times makes some fellows feel sensitive, but he is usually on the right side. His decision to bar senior C. L. A. lacrosse players from the hockey convention shows that he is bound to keep the professional sports in the back ground.

RUGBY.

Hamilton won the senior O. R. F. U. championship on Saturday by defeating the Torontos by 43-16, winning the round by 74-15. At half time the score was 11-9 in favour of the Tigers.

Dundas won the junior O. R. F. U. championship on Saturday by defeating the Kingston Limestones by 11-3 at Toronto on Saturday.

THE CALL OF NIAGARA.

Physician's Theory to Account for Suicides at the Falls.

Eighteen names have been added to the list of suicides at Niagara Falls within the last year. There is evidence to indicate that a large proportion of these persons came here merely as visitors, with no other motive than to see the mighty cataract, and were led to kill themselves by some sudden impulse.

Dr. A. L. Benedict, a specialist in nervous diseases and former director of the department of ethnology at the Pan-American Exposition, finds the explanation of this sudden impulse in the hypnotic influence of the rushing waters. Ever since Feb. 17, 1902, when Miss Alice M. Colie left the doctor's office in Buffalo in good spirits one afternoon and was never heard of again except through a note picked up on the bridge leading to Luna Island from Goat Island, Dr. Benedict has studied each case of suicide attributed to the Falls, with the result of confirming him more and more strongly in the theory that the victims were led to suicide by hypnotism.

"The waters are calling me," said Miss Colie in her farewell note to her parents and her betrothed. Dr. Benedict's observations lead him to the conclusions that the waters have called the majority of the eighteen who took the plunge this year, as well as the majority of those who committed suicide in other years.

"I am thoroughly convinced that hypnotism is responsible for so many suicides at the Falls," said Dr. Benedict, "because thousands have experienced the hypnotic influence very strongly while watching the cataract and listening to its hoarse, monotonous roar. That they were not overpowered by it to the extent of forgetting their interests in life was their good fortune.

"I have met many persons who have told me that they cannot stand on one of the bridges over the rapids or near the cataract for any length of time without feeling a strong impulse to jump it. I myself would not care to sit within sight and sound of the rapids for any length of time, and I think I am above the normal as far as yielding to any hypnotic suggestion is concerned. It is dangerous to sit beside the cataract even for persons perfectly normal."

"In what way is the hypnotic influence of the Falls manifested?"

"Monotonous stimulation of any of the senses, except taste and smell, which are both chemical, produces drowsiness or nobetude," he replied. "The only requirement is that the stimulation be mild and repeated and of the same degree each time.

"You can feel this effect through the sight, especially by looking at any bright object, and if it keep moving regularly. If the motion be irregular, it will not produce the hypnotic effect.

"It can be produced through the hearing in the same way. Many persons are lulled to sleep by music, especially if it be soft and in a minor key.

"How these conditions are fulfilled at the Falls is best demonstrated by an examination of the places where suicides occur most frequently. It will be found in each case that the current at that point is swift and strong, and moves incessantly with a wavy motion.

"In the wave will be found bright green colors that dance and flash in the sunlight, irresistibly holding the eye. Joined with this is the hoarse, monotonous song of the cataract.

"In these are hypnotic influences stronger than any but normally constituted persons can resist. To persons suffering from nervous diseases, or borne down with trouble, it is likely to be fatal to get within reach of those influences."

Prospect Park attracts every visitor to Niagara Falls. Here the water in a swelling current takes its plunge into the gorge. At the angle of the iron fence a view is obtained of jagged rocks below that might well deter anybody from suicide. But ten feet south the prospect is different.

Here the river sweeps along with ripples of gold and emerald, and the only hint of the abyss is the full round breast of the cataract as it shimmers toward a region of rainbows below. The motion of the water is steady, and on sunny days it dances with thousands of ripples. The roar of the torrent is loud, but of a quality that in certain moods is soothing. This is a favorite spot for the suicides.

Before the pavilion in Prospect Park the park slopes down to the Rapids. A well trodden path leads to the water, and a round stone affords a seat within three feet of the brink.

Here is a wave that rolls over a submerged rock and curls into foam at the base. Its smooth green surface gleams as steadily as the revolving mirrors used by nerve specialists to hypnotize patients.

The sign containing the warning to visitors, "Do not Venture into Dangerous Places," is omitted here, though according to the advocates of the hypnotic theory, this is one of the most dangerous places on the entire reservation. More suicides are recorded from this place than from any other point at the Falls.

Out on Bail for $4,000, but did not Answer to His Name This Morning.

Special to the Examiner.

Belleville, Nov. 29.—Byron O. Lott, who is out on $4,000 bail in the ballot box case, should have appeared in the Police Court this morning to save his bail. He failed to appear in spite of the telegram, alleged to have been sent by him from Syracuse yesterday, and Magistrate Flint accordingly declared his bail estreated and called on his bondsmen Wm. Lott, Henry Brown and George Whitty to make good the amount of their bonds. The Magistrate said that he thought that if Lott appeared within a reasonable time the Government would not insist on the forfeiture of the bail.

GENERAL ASSAULT ON PORT ARTHUR

Jap Swordsmen Charge the Entrenchments on Second Chain of Hills—Probably Resulted in Heavy Japanese Loss as the Charging Regiments Came Under the Sweep of the Rapid Fire Guns of the Russians From Polyu Slopes—In Shakhe Valley.

Tokio, Nov. 29.—Gen. Nogi began the battle on Saturday afternoon, making his attack from the slopes of Shungshoo Mountain, on the ridges running east that are capped by the terraces called Cable Hill. Every inch of the ground was desperately contested on Saturday evening and during the night, the Russians sending all their reinforcements from White Wolf Hill as well as their naval battalions from the Tiger's Tail Peninsula.

Honor to Lead Assault.

Battalions of the 5th and 15th Hiorsaka Regiments and of the 19th and 43rd from Marugame had the honor of leading the assault. While this movement was going on, infantry of the third brigade moved forward from Taku Mountain in an effort to flank the table lands on the easterly side and thus weaken the defence of the Russian fortress. A tremendous artillery fire from all the hills captured by the Japanese was concentrated on the extreme southern forts so as to prevent their taking part effectively in the struggle for possession of the westerly hills.

The first bulletins came into Tokio Sunday morning, announcing that after seven hours of fighting with a series of successes and defeats, the Russians had succeeded in repulsing the general assault, and that while the Japanese forces had taken several important redoubts and driven the enemy from fortified terraces, they found it impossible to retain their positions because of the enfilading fire and the accurate marksmanship of the Russian sharpshooters in the trenches above.

The general attack continued throughout Sunday, Gen. Nogi sending his troops from positions east and west of the Taku and Ekgas forts. A bulletin recived at one o'clock Sunday afternoon announced that Gens. Nakamura and Saito, leading specially trained bodies of swordsmen, had charged the Russian entrenchments on the second chain of hills and had engaged the Russians in a hand-to-hand encounter. This charge by the Japanese probably resulted in great loss, as before they could reach the second line of the Russian fortifications guarding the western side of Port Arthur, they had to come within the sweep of the rapid fire guns on what are called the Polyu slopes, which are the last line of entrenchments facing the city proper.

The fact that Gen. Nakamura and Saito were able to reach the Russian entrenchments and engage in a hand-to-hand battle is regarded as proof that the Japanese advance since Saturday afternoon, no matter what their loss, was in a great measure successful, and, it is believed, means that the general assault will be continued without cessation until Gen. Nogi accomplishes his purpose. Whether the swordsmen who thus were able to reach the Russian inner line were successful in holding their position is not known.

Assault Still in Progress.

"The general assault, which was begun on Saturday against the western entrenchments near Shungshoo Mountain and the forts lying eastward therefrom is still in progress. The enemy's resistance has been stubborn, and our object has not as yet been accomplished. Our picked divisions of marksmen and our selected swordsmen are fighting in the trenches. The battle still continues."

This was posted at Imperial Headquarters and is taken to mean that, at no matter what cost, the Japanese troops will not stop until they sweep the last of the defences. Gens. Nakamura and Saito, who are mentioned as leading the swordsmen into the trenches, commanded regiments in the 7th and 9th divisions respectively.

Russians Say Repulsed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 29.—The War Office has received information from Che Foo that the Japanese assault on Port Arthur Saturday was repulsed with enormous loss.

Kuropatkin's Motor.

Che Foo, Nov. 29.—Gen. Kuropatkin is the possessor of a new twenty horse-power automobile, with which he is able to rush at high speed from one part to another of the line, 25 miles long, according to M. Ravoir, who reached here yesterday from Mukden.

Chinese As Europeans.

Mukden, Nov. 29.—The Viceroy of the Chinese Province of Honan is the first to carry out the instructions of the Dowager Empress of China in clothing his soldiers in European dress and cutting off their ques.

Russian Stores Activity.

Moscow, Nov. 29.—People arriving from the Far East tell a remarkable story of the mysterious disappearance from the trunk line of 350 carloads of stores and warm clothing belonging to private consignees and officers.

Cossacks Punished.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—A despatch to The Lokal Anzeiger from Mukden, under Sunday's date, says: Severe measures have been taken against marauders. Twelve Cossacks of one regiment were sentenced to death. One was shot in front of the brigade, while the sentences of the remaining eleven were commuted to penal servitude. Discipline generally is good. Patriarchal relations exist between the officers and men and the former are doing everything possible for the latter.

In the Shakhe Valley.

London, Nov. 29.—Generals Kuropatkin and Sakharoff are sending daily long detailed accounts of apparently rather unimportant fighting, which may, however, possibly turn out to be the beginning of another great battle, deciding the fate of Mukden. General Sakharoff, in addition to his report of the Japanese fight at Tsinketchen, announces that the Japanese in force occupied the village of Nanhantaga and the adjoining ravine in front of Poutiloff (Lone Tree) Hill. No further news has been received from Port Arthur, beyond reports from Shanghai that the storming of the Russian stronghold continues. According to The Daily Telegraph's despatch from Che Foo very few of Admiral Togo's ships are now seen bloackading Port Arthur.

Wives of Soldiers Executed.

Berlin, Nov. 29.—Infuriated by the unwillingness of the Polish troops to leave their wives and children, the Russian authorities at Kutno, a town on the Polish frontier, have treated the people in a manner almost incredibly cruel. It is known that one woman has been knouted to death and that a number of others have been thrown into jail. Some of the prisoners were tortured into unconsciousness.

NOTHING TO SAY.

Lord Strathcona and the Canadian High Commissionership.

London, Nov. 29.—(C. A. P.)—"I have absolutely nothing to say regarding this rumor, any more than I have to previous ones," said Lord Strathcona yesterday, when shown by the Canadian Associated Press The Chronicle's despatch announcing Lord Strathcona's retirement in the near future, and his succession by Sir William Mulock. "That despatch is the first I have heard of the matter."

"Can I construe that as an absolute and emphatic denial of the report?" asked the correspondent.

"No; do not say that I give any denial. I repeat that I have absolutely nothing to say regarding the rumor."

No Confidence in Laurier.

London, Nov. 29.—The writer of a letter in The Globe regarding reciprocity between the United States and Canada says: "The impression throughout the States is quite general that the Dominion is about to leap into a mighty Empire, and that, without any preliminary steps, Sir Wilfrid Laurier took advantage of this universal idea to launch the recent railroad scheme. However, the day will come when this extravagant Liberal essay will not be in such favor, and that day is not far distant. Sir Wilfrid Laurier is doubtless more bent on making Canada a great Empire than on making any sacrifices to help the mother country. He is a most suave gentleman, full of soft speeches and indefinite promises, but never yet has this Government been able to get from him direct support of a practicable scheme of Imperial union, and it never will."

Withdraw Halifax Battalion.

London, Nov. 29.—(C. A. P.)—The Government are considering a plan for the strategical distribution of the Imperial forces that will concentrate the naval and military strength in a more effective manner. One change will be the withdrawal of regular battalions from small coaling stations and the substituting of local defence forces. Amongst other places where the battalions will be withdrawn is Halifax, N.S.

CONFIRMED BY MR. HAYS.

Thos Speyer & Co. Will Finance a Portion of Grand Trunk Pacific.

Montreal, Nov. 29.—Mr. Chas. M. Hays, President of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, confirms the report that Speyer & Co. are to manage the financing of a portion of the capital required for the building of the Grand Trunk Pacific, but he denies as ridiculous the report that Lorenzo F. Loree, late President of the Rock Island System, is to be at the head of the new road.

Philadelphia Believes It.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 29.—Lorenzo F. Loree, formerly president of the Rock Island System, is to be at the head of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Co. A statement to this effect was made yesterday by one of Mr. Loree's intimate friends in this city.

Mr. Loree will receive a salary greater than that given him as head of the Rock Island System. Being a civil engineer, he will personally superintend the road's construction. It is now said that he will remain in Europe until all arrangements have been completed for building the road, and that on his return he will make his headquarters in Winnipeg.

To Finance It All.

New York, Nov. 29.—Speyer & Co. of this city and Speyer Bros. of London; have purchased $25,000,000 four per cent. bonds of the Grand Trunk Railway Co. of Canada. The proceeds will be used to extend the western or Pacific branch of the Grand Trunk system. It is understood that the Speyer banking house will finance the entire construction of the new enterprise.

TEN VESSELS WERE SEIZED

Canadian Cruiser Curlew Takes Yankee Poachers.

FINED FOR ILLEGAL FISHING

Each Boat Fined and All Seines and Nets Confiscated—Aggregate Value of the Craft Seized Is About $20,000—No International Issue, and Hon. Raymond Prefontaine Declares Incident Closed.

Eastport, Maine, Nov. 29.—Ten American fishing crafts, including eight sailing vessels and two steamboats, have been seized by the Canadian fisheries protected cruiser Curlew and fined for illegal fishing in the Canadian waters of the tributary of Passamaquoddy Bay, near St. George, N.B.

The fishing craft were seized near St. George Sunday night. Three specific charges were preferred: that they had fished on Sunday; that they had illegally caught fish found in their possession and that they had seined illegally in Canadian waters. For the first two offences each boat was fined $100 and for the last $200. In addition to this all seines and fish were confiscated.

It is understood that the fines will be paid and that the entire matter will be disposed of without involving any international question. The aggregate value of craft is about $20,000. The seizure is the most extensive that has been made by a Canadian cruiser for many years.

No Issue Will Arise.

Washington, Nov. 29.—The American State Department officials do not expect any issue between the Governments of Canada and the United States over the seizure of American fishing vessels by the former, as told in the Eastport despatch. In the present instance the question of extra territoriality appears not have been raised, and the vessels were not confiscated, which has happened in the case of seizures heretofore made, either of these features usually being sufficient to make the settlement of the controversy a matter of diplomatic negotiations.

Hon. Raymond Prefontaine.

Buffalo, Nov. 29.—Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, arrived in the harbor late last night on board the Canadian cruiser Vigilant. The Minister is on a trip of inspection on the great lakes.

Mr. Prefontaine was handed a batch of official despatches when he was landed at the foot of Main street. Among them were telegrams relating to the seizure of American fishing craft near St. George, N. B.

In reply to questions regarding the incident, Minister Prefontaine said: "There was no particular significance in the seizure of American fishing boats in Passamaquoddy Bay. If our American cousins break Canadian laws they must expect to receive the same punishment that would be meted out to Canadian lawbreakers. The incident may be regarded as closed. There is no feature of it to call for international exchanges."

The Canadian Minister, who is accompanied by several officials from Ottawa, will visit Cleveland, Detroit and Canadian ports on Lake Erie.

Speyer Bros. Plans.

London, Nov. 29.—(C.A.P.)—Speyer Brothers, who bought the Grand Trunk Pacific bonds, will issue shortly $6,600,000 of 4 per cent. first mortgages over the Lake Superior division and $8,000,000 of 4 per cent. mortgages over the prairie division. Both series of bonds will run for fifty years. The company will immediately begin construction and the price of issue will probably be a little below par.

Ferry Captain Suspended.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Nov. 29.—Rear-Admiral F. M. Symonds, U. S. N., special representative of the United States Government to investigate passenger steamboat rates and inspections; J. R. Moulther, inspector of hulls, and R. M. Chestnut, inspector of boilers on the St. Lawrence River and Lake Ontario, have been here several days. As a result of their work Capt. James Burns, commanding the night ferry steamer Outing, between Ogdensburg and Prescott, Ont., was suspended yesterday, for having life preservers in an obscure place below the deck of his steamer.

Costs Equal a Fortune.

Montreal, Nov. 29.—Judge Hall yesterday morning decided that ex-Crown Prosecutor J. P. Cooke should pay all the costs in the famous Cooke-Blackeley criminal libel case, which Cooke abandoned. The costs will be very heavy, perhaps $80,000, as six of the highest priced lawyers in Montreal worked on it, and the abortive trial lasted 15 days.

Commander Booth's Departure.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—To-night Miss Eva Booth will leave for New York. There will be a torchlight procession from the temple at 9 p.m. to the City Hall, where the Mayor will present a farewell address from the city. From the hall the procession will march to the Union Depot.

To Buy the Railway.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—A sub-committee of the City Council last night decided to recommend Council to submit a bylaw in January for three million dollars to buy out the street railway.

Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C. S. A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 18th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.

"I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, MISS ELSIE DANFORTH, 703 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."

WHERE RESPONSIBILITY LIES.

In his pulpit in the Methodist church, Bowmanville, Rev. D. O. Crossley, formerly minister of the Charlotte street Methodist church here, dealt with the prohibition problem, and the causes operating against the success of its solution, without gloves. He is thus reported:

Rev. Mr. Crossley, Methodist minister, administered a severe rebuke to professed temperance people in his sermon to-day (Sunday, Nov. 27th), when preaching on Christian duty. He said that over forty million dollars were spent last year in our Dominion for intoxicating liquors, and no one would have the hardihood to say that it was either a needful or a rightful expenditure. "Yet this traffic which costs so much, and ruins so many lives, is the hardest thing to get rid of in the world to-day. If you do not believe that statement, I call you to witness the difficulty of putting a prohibition plank in the platform of either political party. Note carefully the situation as revealed in the reports of the conventions held in Toronto last week. The shame is not that the political parties do not do it; it is in the fact that they cannot do it and have even the Christian public at their back. I shall not point the finger of shame at any party or any government for not giving us prohibition; the shame is not on them. They would do it quickly enough if the voters of the churches would make it safe for them to do it. So because the Christian voters are not true to this great and much-needed moral reform, this enormous expenditure and waste goes on and on, and will continue to go on, until God raises up a better class of voters than we have proven to be. We need not expect any party or any government to take their life in their hands to accommodate a people who will declare for prohibition to-day, and vote the straight party ticket to-morrow.

These be brave words, for the utterance of which Rev. Mr. Crossley takes the risk of being reviled, misrepresented and misunderstood by the professional bigots who make the temperance problem the peck horse for carrying their political schemes. They are true words too, true as the Gospel. The Examiner has time after time presented the same facts in a different form. It has pointed out that if the professed prohibitionists of the Province of Ontario, who take the high moral stand—on the platform, on the streets and everywhere, except where it would be effective, at the ballot box—had been as sincere in action as they were prodigal of speech, prohibition such as the province is permitted to give—would be the law of the land to-day. The referendum was the opportunity. The conditions as to the majority to be attained to make a prohibitory measure effective were by some considered onerous, but the result showed that they were not more so than circumstances demanded, to show the bona fides and earnestness of the friends of prohibition, and to guarantee a sufficient weight of public opinion behind such a measure as to secure respect for and enforcement of its provisions. The vote cast showed that the majority was no near the mark required that the polling of two or three more votes favourable to prohibition in each polling sub-division in the province would have secured more than enough majority to make prohibition the law of the land. And everybody knows that there were in every polling sub-division from a score to a hundred votes theoretically favourable to prohibition that were not polled. If all professed prohibitionists and temperance politicians had been sincere and had done their duty the result would have been what they professed to desire. But a large class of persons choose to refrain from voting for purely political motives—to embarrass a Government to which they were politically opposed, though it had offered them what they had been demanding with so much blatant insistency. It is difficult to understand the moral attitude and conditions of such persons. They seem to be not only inconsistent but absolutely dishonest. They demand a higher standard in a Government than for themselves. They expect a Government to take its life in its hands which, it would do by passing a prohibitory measure, and depending upon the support of a deplorably large section of the professed temperance electorate; for these deeply dyed partizans would "turn down" any Government which might not walk in its own narrow political groove, even if it had passed a perfectly effective prohibition law — even if it had enacted legislation to bring about the millenium. Persons of this kind do more harm to the cause of prohibition than the opposition of all the licensed victuallers' associations in the world, which if they are not so smug and self-satisfied in profession as these political moral reformers, are at least honest, and do not hypocritically preach their doctrines and, then, for political reasons, vote against the party which might help their views to prevail. The cause of prohibition, with all the advantages its advocates claim for it, may well say, "Save me from my friends" —some of my friends—meaning those who prostitute its interests to a political propaganda.

KIND WORDS FOR RETIRING MINISTER

Press Opinions and Tributes of Esteem for Hon. Mr. Stratton.

Warm Appreciation of His Adminstrative and Representative Record.

Hon. Mr. Stratton's retirement from the portfolio of Provincial Secretary has brought forth a liberal display of kindly feeling and generous appreciation by the press of the province, and it is not mere vanity that suggests their reproduction but an aim to show that faithful public service is appreciated:

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

In another column there will be found the resignation of Mr. J. R. Stratton from the Provincial Government. As stated there, the hon. gentleman resigns from the Cabinet, and will not seek re-election. He retires from the strenuous life of the politician, and will devote his energies and exceptional business abilities to the interests of the various institutions and companies with which he is prominently associated. For the last twenty years Mr. Stratton has represented West Peterborough in the Legislature, and during that time no representative could have been more faithful to his duties, more constant in furthering the interests of his locality, or more courteous and painstaking in doing anything at all that lay in his power to assist any person who appealed to him. For the last five years he has occupied a prominent position in the Government of the province. He has had control of a spending department, having to provide for the Government institutions, and over a million dollars a year have been expended under his supervision. He has not been without political opponents, bitter in their animosity, yet no word of complaint or disapproval has ever been raised against his administration of the departments in his charge. In fact, it is admitted by all that as an administrator of the public service Mr. Stratton has rarely been equalled and never excelled. His personality, prompt and business methods, and determination to have everyone sit up and do their full share of work, has infused itself throughout the departments in his control, and has been the means of giving to the province a vastly improved service more efficient, economic and closer in touch with advancing ideas. Personally, and apart from politics, Mr. Stratton has a host of friends. West Peterborough will in many ways miss its genial, jaunty member, and he will carry with him in his retirement from public life, the good wishes of a vast number indebted to him for innumerable acts of kindness.

(Uxbridge Journal.)

The Hon. James R. Stratton has resigned his portfolio in the Ontario Government as Provincial Secretary. Mr. Stratton reviews his work, and it must be said his executive ability and practical business training have benefitted the province. Whatever attempts may be made to besmirch Mr. Stratton politically, the truth remains that he was by those intimate with his work, considered the best administrator of a department in the Cabinet. He says he wishes to be relieved of his duties as soon as may be convenient for the head of the Government, claiming that his private affairs, so long neglected for public duties, require his attention. Of this there can be no doubt. In a business sense, one year out of politics will be worth more to him than five years in public life.

Indigestion and Headache.

Mr. Duncan McPherson, Content, Alta., writes: "I was for many years troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, and derived no relief from the many remedies that I used. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after taking four boxes the result is that I am once more in the full enjoyment of the blessings of good health."

Robbed Station Till.

Whitby, Nov. 28.—Shortly after the 2.05 train pulled out Tuesday afternoon Fred Allin, ticket agent and operator, made the discovery that the till in his office had been opened and rifled of part of its contents. There was missing $10 in bills, but a quantity of coppers and silver in the till had not been disturbed. The robbery had evidently been effected while Mr. Allin was absent at dinner.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE WINTER MEETINGS.

was swept down the St. Lawrence to swell the Atlantic. The men of the country pin their faith to the cow, which is called the "Queen of Ontario." But there were too many queens—there should be fewer of them, and better cared for.

He considered that the farmer stayed too much at home, and had been taken to task for so doing. He did not know of anything a farmer could do with more profit than to save a little money and go the winter fair at Guelph, or Ottawa, or the experimental farms in the summer, where a great deal could be learned. Lectures from learned speakers would be heard, and a great amount of valuable information would be obtained by hearing important subjects discussed. A person could go away from home and always come back wiser and more learned if he would keep his eyes open to what was going on about him.

Mr. Kydd spoke regarding the education of the colt. A great deal depended on the breaking in of the colt. Every man should remember the three words, "Patience, gentleness and firmness." This should be especially noted in breaking a colt. The average colt was expected to do more than he was capable of at an early age. He should be educated gradually. It was an uncommon thing in the country to see a young man or a young woman riding on horseback; it was all carriages nowa-days. This was a mistake. The boys and girls should be encouraged to ride on horseback. No carriage horse should have an over check.

The speaker said that the farmers of the country do not take enough of the general serial papers of the country. It has been said that the farmer had no time to read, but the speaker did not agree with this. The farmer had plenty of time to educate himself if he would make the best use of his time. Every farmer of Ontario was dollars and dollars out if he did not belong to the Farmers' Institute; much literature was supplied by the Institute which would be of great value if read. He advised the young men to go to the Guelph College if possible.

A vocal solo "In May" by Miss Miss Myrtle Kape, was sung with splendid effect and was followed by a recitation "The Man Behind the Plough," by Miss S. Spence, who was received with applause.

BEAUTIFYING THE HOME.

Mr. Glendenning addressed the audience on the subject of "Beautifying the Home." In opening his remarks, the speaker gave some good advice regarding dairying, dealing especially with cheese making. He believed that as good cheese could be manufactured in Canada as in any other country; that at present it was not as good as that of Scotland and England. The milk was too often of an inferior quality. The makers were sometimes to blame for this but when the factories were so close together the makers were afraid to tell the farmers that the milk was of an inferior quality for fear of losing his patronage. He advised all cheese makers to put in a term at the Dairy School and eventually secure a certificate of qualification. He believed as a rule the cheese makers were under-paid where a proper quality of cheese was turned out. He believed in licensing cheese factories in order to do away with some poor factories and poor makers.

Regarding "Beautifying the Home," the speaker said he was delighted with his drive from Peterborough to Lakefield and was pleased with the fine road, for good roads were something which beautified our country which he said in the broader sense meant beautifying the home. As a rule, the roads were neglected and where any attention was put on the central part and the sides were about in the same condition as they were 50 years ago. There were many rail fences which should be replaced by wire fences. Nothing perhaps added so much to the value of a place as to have plenty of trees planted. To-day we were suffering from a lack of forests which was the reverse of what was the case in former years. He advised the planting of trees along the roadside. Trees should be planted outside the fences as was the case in towns and cities. The trees should be planted at least 30 f et apart. Regarding houses, Mr. Glendenning said that as a general rule the people in Ontario did not appreciate the value of paint. The cost to repaint a house was not great and the appearance would be greatly enhanced, and the value of the property generally would be greater.

Mr. Glendenning thought that every farmer could afford to have a lawn as well as any man in the country. He had every convenience for so doing. He also thought that hedges added greatly to the appearance of a farm. He recommended an evergreen hedge, and gave some valuable advice as to how to grow and care for hedges.

A recitation by Miss Fitzgerald, "How mother did it," proved a very popular number.

S. S. MOORE RECITES.

A representative of the Examiner was called upon for a vocal selection. Mr. S. S. Moore, of the Review, was called upon for a recitation, and responded with a selection which fairly raised the roof.

An octette gave a very enjoyable number, which was followed by a solo by Miss Dodge, whose singing was enthusiastically received.

The orchestra gave another selection, and an enjoyable programme was brought to a close with a male chorus, which sang very effectively.

The singing of the National Anthem closed the meeting.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE.

While the afternoon session of the Farmers' Institute was being held in the town hall, the Women's Institute held their regular monthly meeting in the Foresters' Hall. There was a large turn out of the members. The chair was occupied by Mrs. Robert Graham, president. Several very interesting papers were read by members of the Institute, as follows: "The Selection of Meats for Family Use," by Mrs. R. Graham; "Breadmaking," by Mrs. F. Wagner, "Five O'Clock Tea," by Mrs. H. G. Fitzgerald; "Soups," by the president. Mrs. R. C. Gale was appointed delegate to the annual convention in Guelph on Dec. 5, 6, and 7.

The society which was organized four years ago, is in a very flourishing condition. There are 90 members at the present time.

The members of the Woman's Institute served lunch in the Foresters' Hall to the delegates and members of the Institute, following the afternoon meeting.

BOXES IN THE LAKE

Recovery of the "Beehives" Near Sydenham.

BYRON O. LOTT COMING BACK

His Telegram Received From Syracuse, N.Y.—J. J. Kelly's Explanation to the Hon. A. G. MacKay—Bail Secured For All Prisoners Except Kelly, Who Is Dejected and Downcast in the Jail.

Kingston, Nov. 29.—Acting on the evidence of Ed. Ruttan at Belleville, who testified that he looked on while Robert Harpell dumped the bogus ballot boxes into the lake at Sydenham, Detective Parkinson of the Dominion police came down from Belleville on Sunday and went out to Harrowsmith yesterday morning by train, and then drove two and a half miles to Sydenham. There he met Ruttan, who is out on bail, and the two proceeded to search Loborough Lake.

The ice had formed nearly three inches in thickness. With pike poles in their hands, the two started out, following as nearly as Ruttan could guess, the course taken by the boat in which he and Harpell had carried their load. The water is shallow for a considerable distance from the shore. After breaking through the ice with their poles for some time, they were successful and one after another they were hooked up. All of them from shallow water.

By 1 o'clock eight were secured and the ninth shortly after 2. The tenth, if it was there, eluded their efforts, and when it was becoming dark the hunt was given up and the boxes locked in the Town Hall for safe-keeping for the night. They are expected in the city early this morning, and will be taken to Belleville.

REILLY'S FORLORN CONDITION.

Appears to Be Friendless and Is Very Low-Spirited.

Belleville, Nov. 29.—Bail has been secured for all the prisoners so far except F. J. Reilly of Kingston, who still languishes in jail here and who appears to be friendless. He is very low-spirited.

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Sam Harryett, Police Magistrate at Bancroft, who received the bogus ballot boxes from Bremner. Harryett is in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, and refuses to talk other than to say that he will tell the truth when the proper time comes.

The Police Magistrate of this city, J. J. B. Flint, yesterday afternoon received a telegram from Byron O. Lott, dated Syracuse, N.Y., stating that he would return to Belleville to stand his trial and desiring the Magistrate to hold his bonds good.

Bert Cook of Harrowsmith, a clerk of Shibley's, came to this city on an afternoon train, accompanied by his solicitor, J. McD. Mowat of Kingston, and gave himself up. W. W. Cook of Montreal, a brother, also came yesterday, with another gentleman, to arrange for bail.

A Disturbing Rumor.

A rumor is current here that B. O. Lott has been apprehended at the Soo, and that the telegram sent here from Syracuse was a false one.

The Ontario, T. S. Carman's paper, last night had an article commending Mr. Porter for the course he has taken in trying to expose the ballot box frauds. It is said that the defence in the case of Porter v. Carman is trying to have the matter settled.

Kelly's Explanation.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Hon. A. G. MacKay, Commissioner of Crown Lands, was asked yesterday if any action had been taken in regard to the evidence of J. R. Bremner of Bancroft in the bogus ballot box case at Belleville, that J. J. Kelly, a clerk of the department had been present at a conversation in the Somerset House, Toronto, when George Wesse, Byron O. Lott and S. Harryett asked him (Bremner) to conceal his knowledge of the case. Mr. MacKay said he had read the evidence in the papers, from which it appeared that Bremner did not even pretend to say that Kelly had made any suggestions or taken any part in the conversation. Kelly, when questioned by him yesterday morning said he had been invited into the hotel by Wesse to have tea and had not known Bremner previously, but had seen the other parties when they were in the office on departmental business. There was no conversation in his presence regarding ballot boxes, and there was no suggestion in his presence that Bremner should conceal any knowledge of the case.

A RED AND SWOLLEN NOSE

caused by continuous discharges from an attack of Catarrh, has placed many a person in an uncomfortable position, both in business and society. Many a man or woman has missed valuable opportunities through this distracting disease. Why not cure yourself and be troubled no more.

DR. AGNEW'S CATARRHAL POWDER has cured cases of many years standing—it is quick, sure and the reliable, effective CATARRH CURE. It relieves the severest attack in ten minutes. Don't put off treatment, begin today. Opportunities knock seldom at your door, be ready to receive them, don't let this disease prevent you.

Miss Blanche Stagg, Leeds, Eng., sister of Ted Sloan, the world famous jockey, writes: "I have been suffering from Catarrh for three years and had resorted a number of remedies, but none had the great ability to catch hold as Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder. Permit me to extend my gratitude for what it has done for me". —d

Cracker Perfection

The finest wheat in the world grows here in Canada. The best flour is milled in the Dominion. The whole Mooney factory is brand new from top to bottom, and has every modern time-and-labor-saving improvement. The head of the bakery, and every man under him, is a master in the art of cracker-making.

This is why

Mooney's Perfection Cream Sodas

Grocers everywhere have them.

Kelly, Mr. Mackay added, had been some seven years in the sales and free lands grant branch of the department, three or four years as a permanent clerk, and later as a temporary clerk. He would remain in that position unless the evidence showed that he was implicated in the matter.

MONDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

Killed in Chicago.

Toronto, Nov. 29.—A telegram telling him that his son David was killed in a railway accident on Saturday was received by John Bain, 47 D'Arcy street, on Sunday. The telegram was from Chicago, but no particulars of the accident was given. He left 20 years ago and leaves a widow and family in Chicago.

Baby Eczema.

"My daughter was afflicted with eczema from three weeks old. Her entire face and head was raw and she was in an awful state. When doctors failed we began the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which has entirely cured her and she has never had the least symptom of the trouble since."—Mrs. Patrick Sullivan, Welland avenue, St. Catharines, Ont.

Niagara Falls Power.

Buffalo, Nov. 28.—According to a despatch from Niagara Falls, "the Niagara, Lockport and Ontario Power Co. has contracted with the Ontario Power Co. for 30,000 horsepower of electricity, to be delivered Jan. 1, 1907. The contract is for a period of 50 years, with the option of renewal for 50 more. The contract is bound by a large forfeit."

Arrested in Brantford.

Brantford, Nov. 28.—Warren Walley, a lad 15 years old, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of feloniously wounding Edward Dunne, son of ex-Ald. Dunne. The victim is in the hospital, suffering from a knife wound, which, it is feared, may prove fatal.

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Pleasant to Take.

The finest quality of granulated loaf sugar is used in the manufacture of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, and the roots used in its preparation give it a flavour similar to maple syrup, making it quite pleasant to take. Mr. W. L. Roderick, of Poolesville, Md., in speaking of this remedy, says: "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy with my children for several years and can truthfully say it is the best preparation of the kind I knew of. The children like to take it and it has no injurious after effect. For sale by all druggists.

Woman Burned to Death.

St. Catharines, Nov. 29.—Mrs. John Lovell, who lived on Catharine street, this city, accidentally set fire to her clothing early Sunday morning, and after suffering great agony, died at noon yesterday. Just how the accident happened is unknown, her husband being in another room at the time and unaware of his wife's danger until her screams were heard. Deceased was 52 years of age, and leaves, besides her husband, one daughter.

Reciprocity a Dead Issue.

Boston, Nov. 29.—The sixth annual banquet of the Canadian Club of Boston last night resolved itself into an international debate on the question of reciprocal relations between the United States and Canada. Hon. George E. Foster, M.P., of Toronto, opposing the doctrine, championed by Eugene N. Foss and others. Mr. Foster in the course of his speech referred to reciprocity as "a dead question."

Where Sir Wilfrid Is.

Montreal, Nov. 29.—A despatch received yesterday announces the arrival of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and party in California. To-day the Premier will be at his destination, and will spend two or three weeks at the Hotel Delmonte, Monterey, some eighty miles from San Francisco. Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier stopped at Salt Lake City en route, and are both reported to be in excellent health.

When Earl Grey Sails.

Ottawa, Nov. 29.—It is now said that the Earl of Grey will leave Liverpool by the Parisian on Dec. 1 for Canada. Major Pask of the Oxfordshire Light Infantry, who will act as controller of the household to His Excellency, arrived here Sunday from Halifax, with 21 servants.

Ancient Trees.

In the sequoia groves of California there stand trees so old that they may well have cast their leaves and shed their seed on the night of the Nativity. On Mount Lebanon the survivors of the groves which escaped King Solomon's fourscore thousand hewers still stretch their gigantic arms and scatter their cones for the children of the west to carry away.

Malt Purity

Ale brewed from malt alone possesses important dietic properties that are lacking in common ales.

Carling's Ale is brewed from the purest and most scientifically prepared malt, and contains more food and less alcohol than common ales.

That is why it is so regularly prescribed by family physicians for building up their patients.

No ale is equal to Carling's for medicinal purposes.

Ask for Carling's Ale—accept no other, because no other is quite so good.

BURIED ON THURSDAY.

Remains of Late John Bertram Will be Interred Here.

The remains of the late Mr. John Bertram will arrive in Peterborough on the 11.35 C.P.R. train, on Thursday, and the funeral will take place to the Little Lake cemetery upon the arrival of the train.

Ladies' Literary Association.

The Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T. A. S. meet next Friday evening, Dec. 2, at 8.15. An essay on "Brother Amarias", will be read by Miss A. Kelly. "Brother Amarias" is the author of a number of excellent works, and a paper dealing with these, will prove highly interesting and instructive. Ladies of the committee are particularly requested to make complete returns concerning tickets after the Literary Meeting.

A Famous Quartette Coming.

The finest quartette that has ever appeared in this town will be the famous Meistor Glee Singers of London, England, who are recognized as the finest quartette in England, and who stand unique by themselves. They appear here on Monday, December 12th, at Bradburn's opera house. The members of the party are all of them admirable soloists, and their part songs include many of the finest glees of a classical character, down to plantation sketches with banjo accompaniments. They will be assisted by Miss Ethel Henry, elocutionist, one of the most beautiful women on the English stage, and Mr. Roland Henry, in humorous musical sketches. Mr. Henry is the successor of George Grossmith in his particularly happy line of work.

SPECIAL SESSION COUNTY COUNCIL

Governing Body of County Affairs in Session This Afternoon—A Short Meeting Will Likely be Held—Conferences With Different Municipality Officials—Settlement of Special Accounts Will be the Chief Business Transacted—Warden Peck Presiding, and all the Councillors Present.

This afternoon at two o'clock the County Council opened a special session at the Court House. It is not expected that the session will last more than one day, the purpose for which it was called being that of a re-adjustment of the accounts of the county, and to facilitate this re-adjustment the Reeves, Clerks and Treasurers of the different municipalities have been asked to be present at the meeting for the purpose of a conference on the settlement of the accounts between the municipalities and the council.

The greater part of this session will be occupied by arrangements for the holding of the regular semi-annual session early in January, which will be the last session of the present council, before an election.

The members of the Council who are in town for to-day's session are, Warden E. A. Peck, and Councillors Moloney, Warsaw; Moore, Dummer; Fitzgerald, Peterborough; Mc ague, Chandos; Bunt, Norwood; Curtis, Havelock; Shaw, Lakehurst; Johnston, Otonabee and Hunter, Peterborough. Warden Peck is presiding at the session of the council (this afternoon.

A GREAT CANADIAN REMOVED BY DEATH

Mr. John Bertram, Formerly of Peterborough, Passes Away After a Lengthy Illness, in Toronto.

The Globe this morning contains the sad intelligence of the death of one of the greatest Canadians, Mr. John Bertram, whom every Peterborough citizen is proud to claim as a native of this town. The Globe says:

There will be widespread regret at the news of the death last evening of Mr. John Bertram, one of the leading lumbermen of Canada, a man indentified with various industries, and one whose services to the public leave behind a debt of gratitude. As President of the Collins Bay Lumber Company, President of the Bertram Engine Works, Chairman of the Dominion Commission on Transportation, and in 1897, a member of the Ontario Forestry Commission, Mr. Bertram occupied a public and private niche with great loyalty and capacity, which it will be difficult to fill. Though often urged since to enter public life, Mr. Bertram's political experiences were limited to serving in the House of Commons as a supporter of Alexander Mackenzie from 1872 to 1878, and occasional appearances on the Liberal platform.

The illness which resulted in his death lasted about six months, and during the last three months was very acute. Three weeks ago he was operated upon, and from that time he gradually sank, notwithstanding the skilful treatment of Dr. Hewitt. The end came at 8.15 last evening at his residence, 9 Walmer Road, in the presence of the members of the family. The funeral will be held at the family residence on Wednesday evening, and the body will be interred at Peterborough on Thursday morning on the arrival of the C. P. R. train from Toronto.

Born in Scotland, in East Lothian, Oct. 16th, 1837, Mr. Bertram left Edinburgh for Canada in 1860, and settled at Peterborough. He had already learned the business of storekeeping at a little shop in Galashiels, and in 1867 he started a hardeware store in Peterborough, which he conducted until his removal to Toronto in 1878. From 1872 to 1878 he represented West Peterborough in the House of Commons. On removing to Toronto he continued in the hardware business, taking up the wholesale trade as well, and retained an interest therein up to the time of his death.

A MASTER OF FORESTRY.

It is rather as a lumberman, however, that he is best known, and in later years as a shipbuilder and an authority on transportation. For twenty-five years Mr. Bertram was in the lumber business, and in this, as in everything else he touched, he was a thorough master of his craft. The woods were to him as the written page. Few men can be said to be so thoroughly in sympathy with the objects which meet them in their daily work. He was President of the Collins Inlet Lumber Company, whose limits are on the north shore of Georgian Bay, and mills at Collins Inlet. Mr. Bertram was a firm believer in the principles of reforestation, and carried them out on his limits, where he cut each year with regard to the size of the trees, leaving the smaller for future years.

MADE VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS.

His knowledge of this subject was made valuable to the Province through his services on the Ontario Forestry Commission, which was appointed in 1897, the other members being the late E. W. Rathbun, Deseronto; the late Alex. Kirkwood of the Crown Lands Department, and Mr. T. B. McWilliams, Peterborough. Mr. Thomas Southworth, the present Director of Forestry, was Secretary of the commission. After an exhaustive inquiry in eastern and northern Ontario a report was made, which is a classic in Canadian commission reports. One of the recommendations made was that forest lands which by their nature were unsuited for agriculture should be set apart as forest reserves. The Commissioner of Crown Lands, Hon. E. J. Davis, was so impressed by this that now some 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 acres have been set apart for this purpose, chiefly in the Temagami and Mississaga River regions. Several other recommendations were made, including one restricting the cutting of trees under twelve inches in diameter. Another great service to Ontario was performed in the persistent representations made by Mr. Bertram to the Ontario Government during the middle nineties in favour of prohibiting the export of logs to the United States, a policy which the Government ultimately adopted. He was also an active and valued member of the Canadian Forestry Association.

By the death of Mr. George H. Bertram in 1900 the services of Mr. John Bertram became essential in the large establishment of the Bertram Engine Works Company, which has grown to be a large engine and ship building concern. In connection with this Mr. Bertram in January, 1902, addressed a letter to the Minister of Customs advocating greater encouragement for Canadian steel ship builders, who had to face British competition in an industry where the conditions were not at all equal. He also advocated that the Canadian coasting regulations be strictly enforced.

THE TRANSPORTATION COMMISSION.

Mr. Bertram's last field of public usefulness brings the narrative to his fatal illness, for it was only this which cut short the tour he was making of Canada in June last, in company with the other members of the Transportation Commission. His appointment as chairman of this along with Mr. Robert Reford of Montreal, and Mr. E. C. Fry of Quebec, was announced on Aug. 27th, 1903. For this work Mr. Bertram's lengthy experience in business, and as a large shipper, were specially valuable qualifications. The memorandum submitted by Hon. Jas. Sutherland said: "Any improvement, enlargement or other matters affecting the more economical and satisfactory uses of any Canadian channel of transportation by land or water should be investigated." The work began at Ottawa on Dec. 16th, 1903, and during the winter, sessions were held at St. John and Halifax. The Georgian Bay ports were visited from May 26th to June 1st last, and the work at Montreal and Quebec was only begun when Mr. Bertram's health compelled him to suspend, and the task remains uncompleted.

A STRONG MAN.

Mr. Bertram has been described by intimate friends as a cool-headed Scotchmen of excellent judgment and common sense, a man of great firmness of character and positiveness in ideas to which he would cling most tenaciously. He was what would be called a strong man in every sense of the word. The key to his character may perhaps be found in the thorough mastery of every subject which he took up. In religious matters his tastes leaned to the Unitarian faith.

Mr. Bertram married Miss Helen Shields, who came out from Scotland, and who survives him, as well as seven children, as follows: Hugh Bertram, Peterborough; Robert, Vice-President Bertram Engine Works; John A., lumber inspector at Little Current; Melville, Vice-President, Collins Inlet Lumber Company; Ella, wife of Mr. Charles W. Pitt, manager of the Collins Inlet Lumber Company; Kate, wife of T. Bradshaw, Vice-President Imperial Life Insurance Company; Helen, wife of Mr. Charles M. Home, Toronto. Mr Bertram's brothers and sisters were —Peter Bertram, Hamilton; Alexander, Peterborough; Hugh Bertram, Vinemount; the late George H. Bertram, M.P., Miss Anne Bertram, Toronto; Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Gilbert Anderson, 247 Aylmer street, Peterborough, most of whom are still living.

AT THE LIBERAL COMMITTEE ROOMS.

First Meeting of the Campaign Held Last Night.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams has secured the Liberal committee rooms, Simcoe street, and the first meeting of the campaign, preliminary to complete organization was largely attended and enthusiastic. General arrangements for organization were discussed.

The committee rooms will be open on Wednesday night and it is hoped that every worker will be present.

Mr. McWilliams is issuing an address, a copy of which will be sent to every elector during the coming week.

Friday night the first rally meeting of the campaign will be held in the rooms. Addresses by the candidate, Hon. Mr. Stratton, and others will be given. A large attendance is expected.

Heard From in Arizona.

Mr. Wm. Cowie, foreman of the Examiner book-binding department, has received from his son, Harry, now in Arizona, U.S., an interesting album of scenic photographs of that romantic country. In most of the scenes Harry's familiar face may be seen, along with a few comrades, who are enjoying the summer holidays among the finest scenery, prehistoric cliffs, and canyons, in the heart of the Elgit Mountains, Arizona. The scenes are mostly taken in very hazardous and awe-inspiring situations, and furnish a very interesting souvenir of that far-off country.

CANDIDATE FOR MAYOR

Petition Will be Presented to Mr. J. J. Hartley,

Trades and Labour Council at the Bottom of an Effort Being Made to Endeavor Him to Run.

A petition it is understood, is being circulated for the purpose of asking Mr. J. J. Hartley to consent to become a candidate for Mayor.

The Trades and Labour Council have instituted the movement to induce Mr. Hartley to run for this office, and the petition is being circulated first among the members of the Labour Unions represented on the Trades Council.

Mr. Hartley has not yet been interviewed by the men at whose instance the petition was drawn up, but it is understood that when the petition has been signed by those who are in favour of his candidature it will be presented to him.

He will be endorsed by the Trades and Labour Council, which will meet in a few days to draft a platform, and arrange for the candidates who will be endorsed by them for aldermen. A number of names are being mentioned, but as yet there has been no definite decision arrived at, either as to the platform or the candidates.

MAJOR KEEFER ON EASTERN TYPES.

An Interesting Lecture on the Hindoo Characters.

First Lecture in the Forthnightly Club's Course Given Last Night.

Last night the first lecture in the course arranged by the Fortnightly Club was given in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, which was almost filled to listen to the entertaining lecture given by Major Keefer, of Galt, who for over an hour delighted the audience with a talk on the different types of characters met with in India, where the lecturer has spent a number of years in military service. The lectures that have been given under the auspices of the Fortnightly Club in the past have been thoroughly enjoyable, and that of last night, while as the speaker said, it could not be called a lecture, for it was more of a talk on the Hindoo characters, was very entertaining, and was listened to with interest by those who were privileged to be present.

It opened a series of lectures which promises to be intensely interesting, and the Club deserves the gratitude of the whole town for providing at practically no cost, aside from the membership fee, an opportunity of hearing some of the most noted public men of the country discuss questions of great public interest.

The next lecture will be delivered by Mr. J. S. Willison, editor of the Toronto News, whose subject will be "The Independent Newspaper." Other interesting lectures are also being arranged for by the directorate.

LAST NIGHT'S LECTURE.

Major Keefer is an interesting character in himself, and his delineation of the different types of persons that he came into contact with in his service in India was decidedly interesting.

By way of introduction the speaker said that England's connection with India began in 1579 when an Englishman named Thomas Stevens, was the first representative of the English people to set foot in that land.

Later in 1583 three more Englishmen, named Fitch, Leeds and Newberry, set out for India, and one of them established a business there. In 1600 the Honourable East India Company was established, and the expansion of that corporation, was remarkable, until it became the greatest corporation in the world.

In 1809 after the great massacre, a large number of Englishmen went into India, a country which is remarkable for the number of wild animals and snakes that infest it, and every year 20,000 persons died from snake bites or by wild animals. The majority of these, however, are natives.

India has a population of about 250,000,000, the great majority of whom are idolators. Of these 50,000,000 are Mahamodans and the rest are Hindoos.

The heat of the climate is another feature which everyone who goes to that country remarks upon, although in some parts the weather is sometimes quite cold, and the speaker told of a native who had his toes frozen off.

Major Keefer had a number of coloured pictures of representative Hindoos, which he exhibited and explained the characteristics of. The majority of these characters were soldiers, whom the speaker had come into contact with in his service in India. One of these types was that of the Sikh soldier who was a sort of reformed Hindoo. The Sikhs have five main tenets in their religion, one of which is that they never cut their hair, and another, never to touch tobacco, although they do not have the same aversion to liquor.

The Gourkas are another very interesting type of fighters and they make excellent soldiers for three reasons, the first of which is that they obey implicitly, they love fighting, and do not fear to meet death.

A soldier of the Cavalry type was depicted. These men are of the better type of Hindoos, and are paid about 30 rupees per month, which amounts to about $15 of Canadian money. The native infantry, however, only get 7 to 8 rupees per month.

England has about 150,000 native soldiers in India, and they are willing and faithful servants to His Majesty.

Major Keefer then showed and described a number of other types of the Hindoo, both the pictures and descriptions being decidedly interesting, as were also his stories of life in that country.

At the conclusion of his lecture a vote of thanks was tendered to him moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Fessenden, and unanimously passed.

Mr. J. H. Burnham was the chairman for the evening, and introduced the speaker in a short speech.

LOCAL OPTION MEETINGS ANNOUNCED

Special to the Examiner.

Selwyn, Nov. 29.—The Local Option Committee of Smith, has arranged a series of meetings to be held through the township during this month, when the question from the standpoint of those in favour of the passing of the by-law, will be discussed. Speakers opposed to the by-law are also invited to be present at these meetings, and an opportunity will be given them of speaking on the question.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE WINTER MEETINGS

Opened Yesterday Afternoon, at Lakefield, With a Large Attendance.

Speakers Were Mr. W. F. Kydd, of Simcoe, and Mr. W. Glendenning, of Manilla.

Four Important Subjects were Discussed—A Crowded House in the Evening.

(Special Staff Correspondence.)

The regular winter meetings of the West Peterborough Farmers' Institute, opened yesterday afternoon, in the town hall, Lakefield. There was a fairly large attendance. The speakers were Mr. W. F. Kydd, of Simcoe, and Mr. H. Glenderry, of Manilla, both of whom proved to be well versed in their subjects, and were given a most attentive hearing. Mr. R. Q. Dench, president, occupied the chair.

MR. KYDD'S ADDRESS.

Mr. Kydd of Simcoe, spoke on "Am Raising the most profitable horse?" He had he had seen considerable of the horses in West Peterborough, and thought the horses being raised were neither better nor worse than the average in the province. Regarding the stallion side of the horse he said the farmers would not pay on an average of $6 to $7 for a colt. He said that while there might be only a difference of a few dollars in buying a colt, it would be more profitable to pay a good price to get a good colt, for it would more than pay the difference when it had become full grown. A farmer should keep his good mares and sell the poor ones, and breed as good stallions as possible. Grading up was all very well, if nothing else could be done, but if a farmer were able to buy a good horse he would generally get better results. The speaker said there was a profit in the horse business. A good brood mare was a profitable thing to have on the farm. All were raising colts, but few raised profitable ones. Very few horses were salable uutil at least four years of age. He wished to recommend his hearers to raise draught horses of at least 1600 pounds in weight. He did not think there would be the same demand for cheap horses in the future as in the past. To command big money for a horse several characteristics were necessary, and the buyers should know how to choose a horse. The place to examine any horse before buying was his feet. Any kind of a horse's foot would do for the farm. The foot should never be small in proportion to the body. The front foot should be nearly round and have a good thickness of horn. The horses should have shoes without heals, where it was possible for them to do work without them. High heeled shoes often proved a great injury to the foot. There must be good feet and legs to command good prices. Regarding the pastern, there should be a sloping and not an upright pastern in all horses. Ringbone was caused by disease in the bone, which gradually comes to the outside of the bone, and affects the cartilage joining the bones. This cartilage becomes diseased and wastes away; diseased cartilage never healed in a joint. To prevent the two joints grinding against each other, nature steps in and cements the joints, and what is known as ringbone results, and this means the loss of a joint. Horses with either long or short pasterns are the most susceptible to ringbone. Racing horses with long pasterns are very liable to be subjects of ringbone.

It has been said that there are round and flat leg horses. The bones in these two classes of horses are but little diff ent, but it is the way the tendons are put on behind the bone that makes the difference. The farther back the tendon is the flatter is the leg. The round leg horse never has a first class leg. He may be what is called the "beefy" legged horse, which is subject to many diseases. The speaker referred to some of these diseases.

In answer to a question as to whether the Clyde or the Percheron had the better foot, Mr. Kydd said there was but little difference. There were but few Percheron horses in this country. Windgalls on a horse were caused by fast driving.

One should never put on an overcheck on a carriage horse. It was impossible to estimate the value of good care in a carriage horse. Every horse should be wide and flat between the eyes. A horse should have big nostrils, and not have a shallow mouth, but one with a good depth.

It was necessary to stick to approved breeds. Breeding extremes would never give good results, and it was even worse, if possible, in horses than in cows. There was but little difference between the Shire and Clyde draught horses. A light mare should never be bred to a heavy draught horse. He did not desire to see the farmer going into breeding racing horses for a living. There were many imported horses in this country, but because the letters "imp." were found after their names it was no guarantee that they were good horses. There were some good horses raised across the waters, and many very bad ones.

DAIRY COWS.

Mr. Henry Glendenning, of Manilla Junction was the second speaker. He spoke upon the "Dairy Cow." He understood that in this district the people were engaged extensively in the dairying business. The selection of the cow was an important feature. The farmers were crossing their breeds of cattle too much in many districts and consequently the breed of cows was not as good as it should be. If we are going to succeed in dairying we must have the very best cow possible and to get this we should test all the cows we get. Most farmers have to be guided by their own judgment in buying a cow. The whole of our stock can be divided into two sections, the beef producing animals and the dairy cows. Taking a typical case of each class there is found to be considerable difference between them. The shape of the two animals is not similar. He would not say which breed was the better. The first thing to be noticed in a dairy cow is the fine feminine look and the somewhat loose appearance. It is not necessary to have a large cow and the cow should not be heavy in appearance in the front quarters. The value of the cow would be determined by the amount of food it converts in milk. The cow should have a broad mouth and large open nostrils. The face should be clean cut and long with a wide space between the eyes. The eyes should stand out well, for this signifies a large and healthy brain. The horns should be somewhat fine and typical of the breed. The cow must have plenty of heart and lung power which power was shown by characteristics of the body. The backbone should be quite prominent. The hip bones should stand out well and be somewhat lean in appearance. The tail is a continuance of the back bone and a continuance of the tail signified a long back bone. The ribs should be well sprung and not too close to one to one another. There should be a lack of fleshiness on the hind quarters. There must be a large udder, though this is not necessarily an indication of a good cow. The skin of the udder should be thin and pliable so that it would be apparent from the appearance of the udder whether or not the cow has been milked. The udder should be square and broad. The colour of the udder should be of a creamy golden hue. There are two veins called milk veins running from the udder along to the abdomen. The longer the veins the better for these dairying cows. The hair on the cow should be short and silky and the skin should not be thick in hide. The speaker made some suggestions as to a remedy for tough teats, which were found in many cows.

A cow would do much better on some kinds of feed than on others. A cow would give better milk from feeding on grass than on hay, oats, bran, meal, etc., which she had in the stable. Cows to give the best milk should be cared for properly, carefully combed and cleaned and if this were not done, the best results will not be realized. When the cow gets out into pasture, it gets cleaned by the rains and by other methods which are natural to the cow. For this reason the milk is often better when cows are in pasture. The food for the cows must be palatable so that a large amount may be consumed. It requires very little energy on the part of cows to digest food. Grass is the best and cheapest food to give a cow and the question is what is to be done when the grass cannot be secured. Some claimed that fine results were secured from feeding turnips. Most of the turnips was water, being only about 11 1-2 per cent. dry matter. The cows fed on succulant foods would give good results, silage in itself was a very one-sided food and there must be something fed with it to produce proper results; lucerne hay together with corn silage made a good combination. If lucerne hay is not available, clover hay, peas, oats, bran, linseed meal or cottonseed meal would prove satisfactory. Regarding the question of whether the cow needs exercise or not, the speaker said he thought the cow got all the exercise necessary in converting the food into milk. His experience was the cows required but little exercise.

EVENING SESSION.

The hall was crowded at the evening session which was in the form of a public entertainment. Speeches were delivered by the two afternoon speakers and a musical and literary programme was rendered by Lakefield artists. The chair was occupied by Mr. James Moore, Reeve.

The programme opened with a musical selection by the club, which was well received, and an encore was given. The chairman made a few remarks after which Miss Burgess gave an interesting reading.

"A STITCH IN TIME."

Mr. Kydd gave an interesting address on "A Stitch in Time." Lakefield was a place which would always be dear to him. He had visited the place before, and would be pleased to do so again. He complimented the ladies upon having such a splendid Woman's Institute, which, he said, was a credit to the community. The farmers of Ontario had a great future before them. The farmer is deserving of credit for building up live matter as he has done. There were many who planned to build beautiful buildings, but this was dead matter, while the farmer built up something live. The highest ambition was to build up something useful and beautiful. The speaker had been told that this year was not going to be a good one for Peterborough county; he could say the same thing for the province generally. The very severe winter of this year had had its bad effects. Cheese was lower in price than last year. From this he learned, and all farmers should learn, that they could not expect to have such prosperous times in the future, as had been experienced in the past. We should realise that in the past we have not been making the best use of our opportunities, and many things have been allowed to go to waste. Manure had not been used as profitably as it should have been, and half of it

GREAT IN TWO FIELDS

JOHN MORLEY STANDS HIGH BOTH AS STATESMAN AND AUTHOR.

Friendship Between the Author and Andrew Carnegie — How Mr. Carnegie Shocked the House of Commons—John Morley as Gladstone's Right Hand Man —His Literary Achievements—His Addresses Are Models of English.

It is said that Andrew Carnegie was chiefly impelled to his course in the establishment of libraries by the eminent English author and statesman who was recently a guest in this country, the Right Hon. John Morley. Mr. Carnegie was an intense admirer of Mr. Gladstone. Since the latter's death he has found inspiration in the statesmanship and scholarship of Mr. Morley, who was the Grand Old Man's most trusted associate. At Skibo Castle and at the Langham Hotel, which Mr. Carnegie makes his home when in London, the two strange chums can often be heard discussing books and politics, sometimes rather heatedly. When there is a debate on in the House of Commons in which Mr. Morley is to take a part Mr. Carnegie makes it a point to be present, and he has been known to travel all night from Scotland in order to hear his friend speak. On one occasion his enthusiasm carried him to the extent of applauding Morley by clapping his hands, which shocked the liveried attendants. When they remonstrated with the United States multi-millionaire he said he could not promise not to repeat the offence if his friend, Morley, continued to shake the house with his eloquence.

Mr. Morley is conceded to be one of the foremost living writers in the English language and is especially gifted as a biographer. His chief works in this field are his biographies of Edmund Burke, Voltaire, Rousseau, Richard Cobden, Oliver Cromwell and William E. Gladstone. To the last named work, which was published in 1903, he devoted the most of his time for several years, and it is regarded by many as one of the greatest biographies ever written.

Mr. Morley once said in an interview, "Two men have made me—John Stuart Mill and Mr. Gladstone." When Mr. Gladstone saw that he was to lose Joseph Chamberlain he determined to attach Mr. Morley to his cause. He made him Chief Secretary for Ireland and a member of his Cabinet. Thenceforth Mr. Morley became his right hand man in furthering the policy of self-government for Ireland. No statesman was ever more faithful to his political leader than Morley to Gladstone. But he is no mere disciple. He is himself a strong figure. It may be said of him that he would rather be right than be in Parliament, for he will not surrender his convictions for political expediency. This was shown when he was representing in Parliament a borough in which wage earners were powerful. He had been very popular with them, but an issue arose over the proposition to enact an eight hour law, and Mr. Morley found he could not advocate the plan by which it was proposed to bring the system into effect. To the labor delegates who waited upon him he refused to commit himself, and his stand cost him his return to Parliament. He was elected afterward from another borough.

Mr. Morley is said to be the first Englishman to step from an editor's desk to a seat in the Cabinet. It was in the columns of The Pall Mall Gazette that Mr. Morley first made his mark in politics. In the House of Commons he is always listened to with great attentiveness. His voice is clear, resonant and musical.

In composition his addresses are models of English. T. P. O'Connor once wrote: "His speeches have done more to ripen and educate English opinion and to rouse the English conscience than those of any other living man. Their lucidity, their fine diction, their lofty appeal, often their poetic imagery, have made them all sink deep into the public mind."

Many thought that Mr. Morley would be Mr. Gladstone's successor as leader of the Liberal party, but the choice fell upon Lord Rosebery. Mr. Morley is now about sixty-six years of age. He is gracious in manner and genial as a companion, tolerant and sympathetic, patiently listening to others and slow to speak himself. He is popular in English society and is personally liked even when his opinions are not.

When at home Mr. Morley never permits himself to be interviewed. He rarely goes to the theatre, and he loves music and books. One of his peculiarities is that he is much opposed to having a horse pull him up a steep hill, and when such a hill is reached the author-statesman gets out and walks.

PRINCIPAL GRANT.

Well deserved is the post-mortem honor bestowed on the late Principal Grant, in the dedication to his memory of the new Convocation Hall at Queen's University. As Grant Hall will the fine new building take its place among the historic educational structures in Kingston; and thus will the name of a famous Canadian principal be perpetuated for many ages. While outside opinion may differ on the character and capacity of the late Principal Grant, in the university itself it is accepted as an axiom that he was the greatest educationist ever produced in Canada. Students and alumni regard his memory with peculiar affection, and most heroically have they wrought to rear this hall as a token of their love and esteem for the principal who spent the best years of his life in the service of one of Canada's greatest colleges.

Gift From the Students.

At the opening ceremonies at the recent dedication the part played by the students was emphasized by Rev. James Wallace of Lindsay. In a brief history of the movement, the speaker said that the original intention had been to erect a convocation hall and to name it in honor of the County of Frontenac. The residents of the county were thereupon invited to contribute $20,000, but when the bylaw was submitted it was defeated, much to the regret of Principal Grant. Then the students determined to raise the sum themselves, but the principal requested that this course be abandoned, as he did not wish the young men to undergo the hardships this would entail in a great many cases. They persevered, however, and succeeded in raising $34,000. Even then Principal Grant desired the name Frontenac Hall, but the students, probably for the first time, disregarded his wishes, and Grant Hall was chosen instead.

The Message to the Students.

Sir Sandford Fleming, in accepting the gift of the hall, as vice-chancellor of the university, referred to the late principal in these words:

"A few months before he died he addressed you students for the last time in old Convocation Hall. On that occasion he explained to you the secret of his life and impressed upon you one great lesson in these words: 'The road to success which satisfies is through singleness of eye and from a deep-rooted conviction that we owe to the community unselfish service, altogether apart from the question of whether the community is or is not grateful. If I have done any good this is the explanation.' Having given you his secret he prayed God that you would turn it to good use. Then he pictured to you a vision of the future which had been given him. 'Our university, strong in your love, an ever-increasing power for good; our country pressing forward; our Empire champion of liberty, civil and religious, intellectual and commercial.'"

There are men now living who can look back 70 years to the time when Queen's University was but a dream in the minds of the devout founders of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. It was about 1836 that these men undertook the herculean task of establishing a university which would provide a liberal education for their sons and a theological training for the ministers of the Church in Canada. At the time these facilities were sadly lacking in Upper Canada, grammar schools being few, while King's College, Toronto, the only institution of its kind in the country, admitted only students who would subscribe to the Thirty-nine Articles, which, of course, Presbyterians could not do. The aim of the founders of Queen's was to establish a university which would be Presbyterian only in its theological course, its other departments more truly fulfilling the true function of a university in appealing to all beliefs.

A Principal But No University.

In 1841 the Royal charter was granted to these gentlemen—11 clergymen and 14 laymen—and the work of raising funds began at once. The members of the Church in Canada responded heartily; and in Scotland the parent Church made a grant to the infant university. The Colonial Committee, evidently under the misapprehension that the scheme was farther advanced, met at Edinburgh, and thereupon appointed the first principal—Rev. Thomas Liddell, who arrived in Canada before the foundations of Queen's had been laid. As a number of students were also desirous of presenting themselves at once, it was decided to secure a small house for temporary use, until the proper buildings could be erected. Kingston was chosen as the home of the institution, as it was then the seat of Government of the united provinces, a classical and a mathematical master were secured, and the real work of the university began.

The Coming of Grant.

Rev. John Cook, of Quebec, succeeded Principal Machar, and was succeeded by Rev. Dr. Lietch, a Scottish clergyman, who was followed in 1864 by Rev. Dr. Snodgrass of St. Paul's, Montreal. It was on the retirement of Dr. Snodgrass in 1877 that Rev. George Munro Grant of Halifax, became principal of Queen's, he being the first native-born Canadian to fill that position. Under Principal Grant the university became one of the greatest seats of learning in Canada, but the life-work of a remarkable man stretches between the little college presided over by Dr. Snodgrass and the magnificent institution at present in the capable hands of Principal Gordon. One building after another was erected, one after another source of income opened up, one faculty after another added, until the dream of the most enthusiastic of the 25 founders of Queen's has been more than realized. Greater work still lies before Queen's Her real history is yet of the future.

The Missouri Is a Dusty River.

"The dust blows out of the Missouri river," asserted Bob Burdette. "It is the only river in the world where the dust blows in one great column out of the river bed. The catfish come up to the surface to sneeze. The Missouri river is composed of six parts sand and mud and four parts water. The natural color of the water is seal brown, but when it rains for two or three days and the river gets pretty wet it changes to a dark iron gray. A long rain will make this river so thin that it can easily be poured from one vessel to another like a cocktail. When it is ordinarily dry, however, it has to be stirred with a stick before you can pour it out of anything."

The Hornet's Sting.

The female hornet has a rapid fire armament with a recoverable projectile. It uses it for both attack and defense and with remarkable aim and efficiency. The first stroke of a hornet is as penetrating as an electric shock. At the base of its sharp sting there is a sac containing poison which, when injected into the substance of its enemy, causes pain, swelling and discomfort, facts to which most persons are able to testify by experience. Should the injection be upon the end of the thumb or nose or upon the tongue there is danger from it. Strong ammonia applied to the wound is the best antidote.

A Burmese Golden Temple.

At Rangun, the capital of lower Burma, is situated the famous pagoda of a Buddhist temple the whole of the exterior of which is one mass of shimmering gold. This generous coating of the metal is the result of years and years of votive offerings to Buddha, for devotees from all parts of the world go to Rangun and take packets of gold leaf, which they place on the pagoda.

Life.

"I'd like to show you a copy of the work I'm selling," said the agent. "It is something that interests every human being, 'How to Live a Hundred Years.'"

"I've no use for it," said Gayboy, "unless it tells how to live a hundred years in ten years."

ONE BOX OF DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED DROPSY.

Dropsy is not a disease in itself, as many people believe, but is an evidence of very severe kidney trouble. Dropsy is caused by watery particles oozing through the walls of the arteries when they are distended by unusual pressure, which can only be caused by obstructions in the kidneys. The symptoms of Dropsy are puffiness under the eyes, swelling of the feet and ankles, urine changed in character and appearance, smothering feeling from exertion or excitement. The only rational method of treating this disease is to reach the kidneys and restore them to a healthy condition.

The most successful remedy for this purpose is Doan's Kidney Pills. Read what Miss Agnes Crosman, Upper Smithville, N.S., says of them:—"I caught a cold, which settled in my kidneys, and turned to dropsy. My face, limbs, and feet became blasted, and if I pressed my finger on them it would make a white impression that would last fully a minute before the flesh regained its natural color. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and found by their use that I was cured in a very short time. I have never had any trouble with it since.

Declaration Signed Re Hull Fishing Outrage Contains Eight Articles.

London, Nov. 28.—The declaration signed by Britain and Russia referring the questions of fact connected with the attack on the Hull fishing fleet contains eight articles. The first agrees that the International Commission shall be composed of five members, two officers of high rank in the British and Russian navies, one each to be named by the Governments of France and the United States, and the fifth chosen by agreement of these four, or by the Emperor of Austria. Article second defines the duty of the Commission as to enquire into the report in all the circumstances and particularly the portion as to where the responsibility lies and the degree of blame attaching to subjects of either country in the event of their responsibility being established. The other articles provide for the method of investigation, each party undertaking to supply all means and facilities in their power and the Commission to take all its decisions by a majority of votes. The Commission is to assemble in Paris as soon as possible and the expenses are to be equally shared.

Eva Booth's Farewell.

Toronto, Nov. 28.—Every seat in the great Massey Hall was occupied last night at Miss Booth's farewell before leaving Canada to become Salvation Army Commissioner of the United States. In taking leave, she said:

"I am sure you all understand that I arise to speak with a great deal of mingled feelings in my heart," she began. God had been very good to her since she came to this country. "I believe God has blessed me to you, and I know God has blessed you to me." Toronto had been her home, and all the people were her friends; for, she thanked God, she was the friend of all men. She wished to make her closing night one of everlasting memory.

FROM SOUTH AFRICH.

New Way of Using Chamberlains Cough Remedy.

Mr. Arthur Chapman writing from Durban, Natal, South Africa, says: "As a proof that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is a cure suitable for old and young, I pen you the following: A neighbour of mine had a child just over two months old. It had a very bad cough and the parents did not know what to give it. I suggested that if they would get a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and put some upon the dummy teat the baby was sucking it would no doubt cure the child. This they did and brought about a quick relief and cured the baby." This remedy is for sale by all druggists.

Fenelon On His Partner.

Hamilton, Nov. 28.—Frank Genevoys and Rudolph Castellaine, Italians, from Buffalo, were charged in the police court Saturday with robbing Louis Lorenzo of $240. Castellaine pleaded guilty and stated that he gave Lorenzo the dope to drink and Genevoys stole the money. Genevoys pleaded not guilty and both were held for trial in the higher court, where Castellaine will give King's evidence against Genevoys and probably get off.

Liners Fogbound in Mersey.

Liverpool, Nov. 28.—Shipping in the Mersey is practically at a standstill, owing to a dense fog. The White Star Line steamer Cymric, from Boston, Nov. 17, via Queenstown, Nov. 25, for Liverpool; the Allan Line steamer, the Tunisian, from Montreal, Nov. 16, for this port, and other transatlantic liners are fogbound outside the bar.

Croup Comes Suddenly.

HENCE THE WISDOM OF KEEPING IN THE HOUSE THE MOST EFFECTIVE CURE,

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP of LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

About midnight the child awakes—coughing—that peculiar metallic cough called croupy, which strikes terror to the mother's heart.

Then begins the struggle for breath, and if relief is to be obtained treatment must be prompt and effective.

Anyone who has tested Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for croup will not hesitate to pronounce it an unqualified success.

It is wonderfully prompt in loosening the cough, clearing the air passages of the head, and soothing the excited nerves.

People who realize the suddenness with which croup comes on, and the danger which accompanies it, usually keep some of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine in the house for use in case of emergency.

Mrs. E. H. Robinson, Tamperville, Kent Co., Ont., writes:—"My husband and baby had very bad colds and coughs, and seeing Dr. Chase's Linseed and Turpentine advertised I decided to try it. The result was highly satisfactory, as both were promptly cured."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 6

THE AQUILINE PASSING

WANE OF DISTINCTIVE FEATURE OF ANGLO-SAXON CONTOUR.

Portraits of Men in Higher English Life Reveal the Fact That the Fine Racial Curve, Known as the Roman Nose, Is Rapidly Becoming Extinct—What It Represented in Character in Days Gone By.

A number of things are passing in these twentieth century days, among them that peculiarly distinct feature of Anglo-Saxon contour, the aquiline or Roman nose. This is no fancy. Speaking for England alone, any collection of portraits of representative men in the higher walks of life reveals the fact that this fine racial curve is rapidly becoming extinct. From the Duke of Wellington down, this nose has been associated with men prominent in military or naval affairs, in literature (notably poetry and criticism), and in finance and diplomacy, until the possession of such a significant organ has become almost the sine qua non of an individual destined to be famous or successful. Varieties of course existed, such as when combined with beetling brows and sunken eyes you recognised the professor or arch critic of his generation. Or, when taken with the square forehead, thin mouth and visionary eyes of the military genius, you got some great general. Or, simply existing in a silly scion of good family and meaning nothing whatever, in this case usually overhigh at the thin bridge and in profile far too strong for the weakness of the face. In women of gentle extraction this nose was found beautifully proportioned. In belles of the mid-Victorian era were the lineaments of Caesar clearly revealed, associated with the delicacy of coloring and softness of rounded chin and cheek which redeemed them from hard masculinity, so that fifty years ago in any representative gathering of Britain's fairest and noblest the observer would note a similarity of feature, especially in profile, between peers and peeresses, poets and poetesses, statesmen and the grandes dames of society. Caricatured, it lived in the drawings of Leech and Du Maurier. Taken seriously, it inspired creative artists both of pen and brush when dealing with the heroic. Superficial writers confused it with the Hebraic nose, and in prints of criminal and depraved characters one frequently found it distorted and wrenched to conditions of ugliness. Tennyson and the latest murderer apparently owned the same facial angle, if you corrected the droop of the eyebrow, the curve of the nostril, the set of the ear. Thus, the Roman or aquiline nose made itself and its possessor known to the world. Other noses might, if they liked, take a back seat! this nose never. Sala, Lamb, Kingsley—all had varieties of the nose. The American variant is seen in hundreds of nineteenth century writers, preachers, New England farmers, old Cape Cod characters, Gloucester fishermen, actors, especially of tragic mould, showmen, lecturers, bankers—the nose has prospered in the new world. The significance of the feature is matched by its endurance, by the persistency with which it appears in every decade up to the present.

For with the opening of a new century the nose, aquiline in its purest state, equine with accompaniment of cruel gums and sharp teeth in its worst, seems on the point of disappearing. The contemporary portraits of great men and beautiful women no longer display it. There is a new nose. It is to be hoped that it retains the powers with which the organ was originally endowed; for example, we suppose that it still can detect and appreciate, repulse and define odors. But as a sign-post showing the path to glory, as an index of force of character or intellect, it is practically useless. The new nose is modest, retiring, seeketh not its own, is never puffed up. You would know it for a nose, certainly, but its ample and aristocratic proportions are wanting; it lacks a bridge, is spineless, immature, unfinished. Yet is it set in the faces of many eminent thinkers and workers among the younger men; it is already allied to keenness of vision and talent, and may or may not be associated with good birth and breeding. The query is—is it a new nose, or only one that has always been with us, but is now gradually supplanting the old one? Did the nose aquiline largely represent class, and does the phenomenon of the new semi-straight, semi-nothing nose represent the intrusion of mass? Against this timid and, it may be, spurious generalisation you may pit the workingman with the nose of a duke and the young colonial ruler with the uniformed, delicate feature of a school-girl. So we accept the fact that in our own day types are passing.

The English face is going. It has served its turn, perhaps. Infusion of American and colonial blood will help to change it. The high-nosed country gentleman or landed noble, with berserk or Viking blood in his veins, finds that, like Alice in the Wonderworld, it takes all he can do to keep where he is, and the work entailed takes something, a good deal out of him. One thing goes, then another; finally, he casts away his birthright, the arch or bridge of his nose, and his son and the younger members of his family appear shorn of that important feature. The plebeian nose, so long as it is neither pug nor pig, is safer, better. Men are not afraid of it. Syndicates and boards breathe more freely when the barriers of nose are broken down, and a good mediocrity of feature may yet avert a war or preserve a treaty. At all events, a study of our chief contemporaries will bear out a considerable portion of this reasoning. The beauties of society and the stage have a leaning to noses tip-tilted like the petal of a flower, or to a nose which is a kind of modification of the Greek, frequently found among Americans. There is fast growing up a type of head, clean-shaven, firm, expressionless young faces, who bring their thick, straight dark hair and blue-grey eyes from the country to the town. They are forsaking the plow and the roadside school for the warehouse and the pestle and mortar. It is now openly reported of such that they would rather wear a black coat and starve than wear fustian and do well, to quote Thomas Hardy, but the stress of things drives them. The rural communities are dull; amusements are lacking; there seems nothing to live for outside work. Nature poets and wild animal delineators are not among these set, earnest, straight-featured faces. The former are more likely to be denizens of cities. Anyway, in this slightly dour American face you shall see few aquiline noses, and yet such is the dangor of generalizing that no doubt the first people readers of this article may meet after perusing it will be a group of students, none of whom has Celtic hair and eyes, and all of whom have Roman contours. Likewise, on opening the current number of a leading foreign journal, the long, high, prominent nasal organ of Sir Edward Elgar confronts us, whose peculiar cast of thought, confirms the impression that spirituality and fine artistic conception and power to achieve are still the dower of those possessing this fast disappearing feature.

An Inheritance of Gestures.

"Why did you cover your eyes like that?" asked his companion.

"The gesture is an inheritance from my father," the young man replied. "My father in his boyhood was caught in a fire, and as the flames shot up into his face he put his left hand, palm outward, over his eyes, thus saving his sight. Afterward he would put his hand in that way over his eyes whenever he got any sudden shock or fright. I have done the same thing involuntarily all my life.

"Cases like mine are not uncommon," continued the young man. "There is a woman in Washington who never puts her right hand up to her head. Her mother broke her right arm early in life and couldn't raise it thereafter above her shoulder. The daughter can raise her own right arm, but she never does.

"A biologist had a goat that he kept chained to a pole. The chain galled the goat's left fore leg, and she limped on this leg slightly, so as to ease the chain's rubbing. In time she became a mother, and her offspring limped on its left fore leg all its life."

The "Illustrious Hybrid."

George Sand, or Mme. Dudevant, the famous French woman writer, scandalised her literary friends by wearing men's clothes. "A long gray overcoat," she herself says she wore, "a westen tie and—and—a pair of boots." These boots were her joy. "I longed to sleep with them. On their little iron shod heels I was firm on my feet and trotted from one end of Paris to the other." She also smoked in public, cigarettes—even cigars—so that her teeth were much discolored. It was this outward mannishness that won for her the title of "Illustrious Hybrid." However, her hands were beautifully feminine. "It was," says one who knew her, "a delicate hand, all grace, tact, firmness and flexibility. One could not dream of a more perfect combination of the French working class woman's and the aristocratic or royal lady's hand." It will be recalled that George Sand boasted, "The blood of kings is mixed in my veins with the blood of the poor and lowly." She was, as she termed it, "astride" of the two classes, the peasantry and the aristocracy.

Who would exchange the merry noise of children at play, with the childless home where the clock tick can be heard hour after hour in the dull silence? But there are a great many who would like to people the silent house with the children that fate has refused them. Fate is often in this case only another word for ignorance. Many a glad mother dates her happiness from the day she first began the use of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It often happens that with the cure of female weakness and the establishing of the delicate womanly organs in sound health, the way is opened for the joy of motherhood. "Favorite Prescription" is a specific for the chronic ailments peculiar to women. It cures them perfectly and permanently.

No other medicine can do for women so much as "Favorite Prescription." Do not therefore let any other medicine be palmed off on you as "just as good."

"Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, opium, cocaine or other narcotic. It is strictly a temperance medicine.

"I can truly say your medicine is a friend of mine," writes Mrs. Arthur Brink, of Hammond, Jefferson Co., N. Y. "I am mother of four children and received severity at time of birth of first three. When three months along with the last one I began to think of trying some medicine to ease them terrible pains, and asked our doctor whether there was anything he could give me to lessen labor pains. He told me there was nothing that could help me. Then a friend I would write to, Dr. Pierce, advised me to take his 'Favorite Prescription.' I started to take it at once and used two bottles every week and kept growing and would faint away two or three times a day. Our doctor would not help me and life was a drag. I would often say, Oh, if I could only die in one of these spells, but I took five bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and felt better every way. Was about well at the time of baby's birth. I had heard of publishing children's pictures, thought it would be a good testimonial that would help some person, but I know now for myself, and can and will do plain enough. Your 'Favorite Prescription' is the best medicine on the market for women. I advise any woman to try it before taking anything else and it is a strong healthy baby."

A GAME FOR BOYS.

The Way the "Master of the Drawbridge" Is Played.

With a sharp stick a piece of ground about nine feet wide and about twenty feet long is marked off. This represents the drawbridge of the castle of Sir Montgomery of Skye. One of the players is the warden of the castle gate. He stands on the bridge. At the other end of it stand the players, who represent foemen desiring to enter the castle.

They can only go on the bridge one by one. The foemen wheel their imaginary steeds and gallop up and down, making feints at charging to bewilder the warder until suddenly one of them spurts and races up the bridge. Once he is there he must not run off the bridge again, but he may dodge the warder in any way he pleases so long as he stays on the bridge. He may run zigzag or retreat or duck or do anything else that may enable him to slip past the guardian of the castle.

The warder must touch the foeman three times before he can claim that he has made a capture. If he does it the captured foe becomes warder and the old warder joins the besiegers.

Big Name For Little Doll.

The children of the Passamaquoddy tribe of Indians play with a doll not more than a couple of inches high. In fact, it is smaller than the word which means doll, for this word is "amskudahekanek." One had almost rather go without make believe babies than to be obliged to call them by such an outlandish name. Don't you think so? Just fancy a wee papoose crying, "I want a amskudahekanek!"

A Clever Dog.

Rags, a dog owned by a bookkeeper in a tannery at Middletown, N. Y., daily carries the deposits to the bank, allowing no one but his master and the bank officials to handle the purse. Although friendly and playful with everybody at other times, the moment he gets the passbook he forgets all play and attends strictly to business.

Curious Tree of Tibet.

In Tibet there is a most curious tree known as the tree of the thousand images. Its leaves are covered with well defined characters of the Tibetan alphabet.

A Certain Boy.

He doesn't like to go to bed,
And getting up is worse;
To washing, too, I've heard it said,
He's just as much averse.

And as for school and studying
When he would rather roam,
He hates it more than anything
But doing jobs at home.

I must admit that it is true,
Though 'tis a sorry boast,
Whatever he is told to do
Is what he hates the most.

I do suppose that if he chose
What he should do all day
He'd play and eat awhile, and then
He'd eat awhile and play.

—Ann Fitzhugh Maclean in Men and Women.

A Cryptic Advertisement.

The most successful of the great advertising merchants of the United States was the vender of a commodity known as "Plantation Bitters." He devised an enigmatic line, "S.T. 1860. X.," which appeared simultaneously in every American newspaper and periodical of any size, and also on the walls of innumerable barns, fences and trees. One day all the rocks of the Niagara falls were covered with the same mystic sign. Forest trees along the lines of the Pennsylvania railroad were hewn down to afford the passengers a glimpse of the same announcement emblazoned in letters 400 feet high on the mountain side. What did the cabalistic announcement convey? Not until the proprietor had made his fortune did he condescend to explain. "S.T. 1860. X." meant "Started Trade in 1860 with Ten Dollars."

Too Far Away.

"But he has very high ideals."
"Oh, yes. They're out of sight."

The Bad Cold of To-day May Be Pneumonia To-morrow.

The Sore Throat or Tickling Cough that, to the careless, seems but a temporary and trivial annoyance, may develop into Bronchitis.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

contains all the lung-healing virtues of the pine tree, and is a sure cure for Coughs, Colds, and all throat and lung troubles. Miss Bertha E. Craig, Almont, Ont., says:—"Last fall, for over two months, I had a very bad cold, and although I tried several remedies, it seemed as if I was getting worse instead of better. While looking over the Burdock Blood Bitters Almanac, I read about Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, and decided to give it a trial. When I had used about half a bottle, I found it was doing me good, so kept on until I had taken two bottles. It is the best cure for a cold I ever heard of."

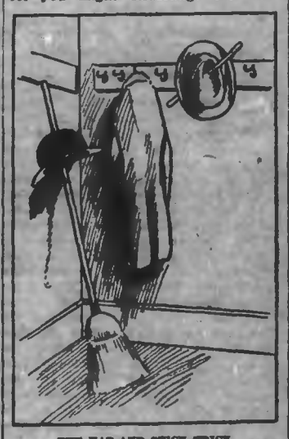
A PRACTICAL JOKE.

Good Trick With a Hat Which Will Raise a Laugh.

Practical joking, as a rule, is objectionable and not to be encouraged, but in the following no evil results can possibly accrue, and the "victim" often enjoys the joke as much as those who planned it. You might try it on your papa some time, but don't under any circumstances use your mamma's hat, for you might disarrange the trimming, and that might be a bad thing for both you and the hat. The trick is performed as follows:



THE HAT AND STICK TRICK.

Take an old brush and saw off some six inches of its handle. Into the shorter piece insert a needle headforemost and, placing the hat centrally between the two pieces, press the needle well home. Now, apparently, the handle passes through the crown of the hat, the needle keeping all securely in position. Place in a corner or elsewhere and await results.

Another way of playing the same trick is to take any piece of stick, roughly paint one end, saw through the middle and fix "through" a hat with a needle exactly as before. Hang this on a peg, as shown in our illustration. The victim, thinking his hat ruined, will be most angry at first, but as soon as he tries to release his hat the trick is discovered, and his frown is certain to give place to a smile.—Exchange.

The Coming Out.

The Housemaid—There'll be grand doin's over to Mrs. Cashley's 'nixt wake. Her eldest daughter is comin' out. The Cook—Faith, that remoind. me. Casey's son ought to be comin' out soon. He's bin in over a year.

Personal.

Jiggs—Every time I go along this road at night I am startled by the apparition of a jackass. Jaggs—You ain't the only man that gets frightened at his own shadow.

Feminine Affection.

Gladys—Jack says if I don't marry him he will go and do something foolish. Edythe (sarcastically)—Poor fellow! Gladys (sweetly)—Yes; he says he will marry you.

SINFUL HABITS IN YOUTH

MAKE NERVOUS, WEAK, DISEASED MEN.

THE RESULT of ignorance and folly in youth, overexertion of mind and body induced by lust and exposure are constantly wrecking the lives and future happiness of thousands of promising young men. Some indulge without fear at an early age, at the blossom of manhood, while others are forced to drag out a weary, dreary, gloomy and melancholy existence. Others search matrimony but find no solace or comfort there. Two victims are found in all stations of life—the farmer, the editor, the workingman, the pulpit, the trades and the professions. Beware! Quacks and Free Cures. Weakness are guaranteed cured by our New Method Treatment or No Pay. You run no risk. 25 years in Detroit. Bank security.

"I am 33 years of age and married. When young I led a gay life. Early indiscretions and later excesses made trouble for me. I became weak and nervous. My kidneys became affected and I feared Bright's Disease. Married Life was unsatisfactory and my home unhappy. I tried everything—all failed till I took treatment from Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. Their New Method built me up mentally, physically and sexually. I feel and act like a man in every respect. They treated me six years ago. They are honest, skilful and responsible financially, so why patronize Quacks and Fakirs when you can be cured by reliable doctors."—W. A. Belton.

REPRESENTED ON O.H.A. EXECUTIVE.

A. W. McPherson Unamiously Nominated for Office of Treasurer.

Peterborough Will Again Have a Good Representative.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association will be held at the Temple Building, Toronto, on Saturday morning at 1 o'clock. The official nominations have been made and it will be noticed that A. W. McPherson has been unanimously re-elected treasurer which will give Peterborough a good representative on the executive for another year. The official nominations are as follows:—

President—J. Ross Robertson, Toronto; W. Wyndham, Hamilton.

First Vice-President—France Wilson, Toronto; Second Vice-President—D. R. Daroch, Collingwood; J. W. Chowen, Stratford.

Treasurer—A. W. McPherson, Peterborough.

Secretary—W. A. Hewitt, Toronto.

Executive (four to be elected)—G. D. Hunt, Galt; J. A. Washburn, Smith's Falls; Duff Adams, Paris; H. D. Jamieson, Barrie; Dr. D. J. Sinclair, Woodstock; J. F. Keith, Cobourg; F. C. Waghorne, Toronto; Dwight J. Turner, Midland; F. D. Woodworth, Toronto.

THE BASKET BALL SEASON OPENED.

Two Good Games Were Played Saturday Night.

The first of a series of basketball games was played Saturday evening at the Y.M.C.A. The first game being between the Athletes and the Class-Team. The score being 47-16 in favour of the former.

The Class Team is made up of entirely new players. Considering this they played a very good game. They played pretty well the first half, but in the second half they weakened considerably and the Athletes made basket after basket.

Athletes	Class Team
Cavanaugh (Capt.)	Galley (Capt.)
Morgan	Downing
Dunsford	Greene
Robinson	Armstrong

The second game between the Brownies and Harriers was faster and the teams were more evenly matched. The second half became pretty warm and it looked like a pretty even score. The Brownies won by a score of 30 against 26 for the Harriers.

Brownies	Harriers.
G. Miller, (Capt.)	Campbell (Capt.)
N. Miller	W. Richardson
Fitzpatrick	Caniff
Parker	Dobbin
Hall	Fred. Richardson

The new rules will make the game cleaner and more scientific.

The games will be played every Saturday evening at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium up to Dec. 17th. General admittance 10c. Get a score card at the office.

ROY ARMSTRONG IS MOVED TO ALLISTON

And Will Play Hockey with the Team of That Place Says a Despatch.

Last evening's News contained the following:—"Roy Armstrong, who was brought here from Peterborough by the Ontario Bank, has been moved to Alliston, and will not be able to play with the Marlboros' this season. Armstrong leaves for his new position to-day. He will be a great acquisition to the team of that place if they play intermediate."

A FAST TEAM FOR KINGSTON.

Queens Hockey Team Will in all Probability Open Season Here.

A despatch from Kingston tells of the prospects of the Queen's Hockey team, the aggregation which last year opened the season here, and which in all probability will open it again this year. It says:—"Last year Queen's won the senior intercollegiate hockey championship, and will make strong efforts to retain it by again putting a fast team on the ice. "Dick" Mills announced his "farewell" between the goals last season, but as he has done such yeoman service for the blue, red, and yellow, an effort will be made to get him out for another farewell performance. "Jim" Macdonnell will resume his position at point, where he shines. At cover-point there will be Eric Sutherland, who so ably succeeded McDowall last winter. On the forward line there are two positions to fill, Knight, who was such an effective player at centre is no longer here. "Jack" Williams of the champion Beechgrove-Frontenac is billed for that. "Marty" Walsh will again be rover and Richardson will fill his usual position on the wing. The other forward position can be easily filled, as there will be much intermediate and new material on hand.

ARE YOU GOING TO CURL?

Curler's Will Appoint Skips on Friday Night.

The local curlers are becoming enthusiastic since the return of the cold weather, and already preparations are under way for a big season's sport. There will be a meeting in the rink on Friday evening, Dec. 2, to select the skips and the personnel of the rinks for the season. It is very important that all those who are going to curl should hand their name to the secretary, Mr. Robt. Kerr, before Friday and you will then be placed on a rink for the season. New members are welcome as there is lots of accommodation for all.

HOCKEY.

The hockey prospects are looking brighter every day.

Just wait until you see our team this year.

Does anyone know where that hockey town named Belleville is located this year?

There does not seem to be a great deal doing in hockey circles in Port Hope. But the Ontarios will be along with a team this year or something strange will happen.

It is only a matter of two or three weeks before the boys will be hard at work.

Some very important amendments to the present hockey rules will be considered at next Saturday's meeting.

• • • •

Hockey promises to be more popular than ever this year. There is all kinds of good material for both senior and junior teams and there will be some tall hustling to catch the teams. Last year, the line-up was practically decided upon two months before the season opened, but things will be different this year. We'll have a team that will take a lot of beating.

• • • •

A meeting of the Karnot Hockey Club will be held in the Y.M.C.A. Thursday evening at 8.15 o'clock. All members and any interested persons are requested to attend. Business of importance.

INSTITUTES IN EAST RIDING.

East Peterboro' Agricultural Society's Meeting at Norwood.

A Splendid Gathering Saturday—Good Addresses on Subjects of Interest to Farmers.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Norwood, November 28, 1904.

The Farmers' Institute of East Peterborough meets in the Town Hall on Saturday afternoon and evening. The attendance in the afternoon was small but the hall was crowded in the evening.

Mr. F. Birdsall, President of the Institute, occupied the chair in the afternoon. In his address he spoke of what had taken place during the year. The Institute had had a successful excursion to Guelph. This year, if the people so desired they would run an excursion to Ottawa. Also that the Institute had granted $35 to the East Petrborough Agricultural Society for prizes regarding the collection of noxious weeds, he said he thought this was a good thing and was the means of helping the pupils of the schools to become acquainted with the noxious weeds in the county.

Mr. W. F. Kydd gave an address on "The Horse". He said that the horse was a very much neglected subject in Ontario generally. The farmers of Ontario were not following any special breed. They should have a fixed ideal and strive to reach it as soon as possible. There were four distinct classes of horse in this country—heavy draft, carriage, trotter, jumping and running horses. The draft horse was the most profitable one for the average farmer. He said the bars of the foot should not be cut out by the blacksmith. These bars are intended by nature as a brace; also have a thin shoe.

Mr. Wm. Forsythe read a paper on Poultry. In his paper he said, keep only good layers, and that a large flock averaged about $100 per year; also to have a pure bred stock. To choose a round egg rather than an overly large one or one that is pointed. He said that the winter layers came nearer weighing the golden egg, and to send all the old hens to the market, keeping only the best.

Mr. J. H. Glendenning, of Manilla, took the place of Mr. Hutton, who was not able to attend as he had no set address he talked of things generally relative to farm stock.

In the evening meeting Mr. James, ex-Reeve of Asphodel, occupied the chair in the absence of the President, much to the satisfaction of all present. After a very short address the chairman called on the Ladies' Institute of Warsaw, Mrs. (Dr.) Meachem in a very able way showed the manner in which the home Institute was conducted. She said the best way to explain would be to conduct a meeting. As the Warsaw ladies had come down prepared to do so at the request of the Farmers' Institute. The programme ran as follows, opened with singing and Lord's Prayer. Then roll call, each member answering with something of interest. This helping the members to give expression to their thoughts and views. Mrs. Wm. Wasson read the report and Mrs. Brown gave a paper on the aims and objects of the Women's Institute. One of its aims was the education one receives in social intercourse and change of ideas, spreading the thought of the home, helping to make home more beautiful, and to find the easiest methods for the hardest work.

Mrs. Meachem explained that they were the first Ladies' Institute, therefore received the $10.00 from the Farmers' Institute, who had promised the same to the first organized Ladies' Institute in the county, also the $10.00 grant from the Government.

Mr. W. F. Kydd's evening address was "A Stitch in Time". He said he did not blame boys of farmers who had two hundred acres to leave the farm unless their father promised them when they became of age of a certain part of the farm for their own. And if the farm was small, the boys should be paid wages and not to think they were paying them when they gave Jack his board and overalls. He said it was a cruel thing to have a boy grow up to the age of twenty-one and not know the value of money. They should be taught from infancy. This also appealed to the daughters. The farmer around here didn't know what it was to pay rent. In Scotland, he told where they pay ten, fifteen and sometimes thirty dollars an acre for land.

The farmers were not careful enough about the machinery. The average life of a first-class binder was five years, but he saw no reason, if it was well housed and taken care of, it would last a man his life time. He gave an instance of a binder after the fall work was done. The horses were unhitched and the binder left in the field, and when ploughing time came instead of moving the machine, the man just ploughed around it and left it out all winter.

He said at the rate lumber was being used that in 45 years there would not be any in United States. That the united countries that had the greatest supplies now were Normandy and Sweden, Russia and Australia. That Canadian oak in fifteen years would be double its present value. He said he had the pleasure of attending the lectures on Forestry in Toronto, and spoke of what the Government were doing in planting hundreds of acres of trees to be sold inside of three years at a very low rate to the farmers for planting, also of the care that should be given to wood now on the farm.

That the cattle should not be allowed to gnaw as they eat the little leader shoots that would in time be trees. That in planting new trees that they should be planted so far apart that the branches wont interfere with each other, also as regard to the nutriment of the earth to the roots.

The farmers were advised to go to the fair either at Ottawa or Guelph. He said that it was the man who stayed at home that always wore the largest hat. Mr. Kydd said that where they used to lose on the pigs, now were greatest profits. He spoke of the stock yards at Chicago, where boys were engaged picking up the bristles and sending them to the brush factory. The toes being sent to the glue factory, also the blood was used as fertilizer and he said if the Russian war continued, they would be bottling the squeal and sending it to Russia for soup. When Mr. Glendenning, the next speaker came on the platform, he said Mr. Kydd was behind the time, because for some time past they had been bottling the squeal and sending it to the north of his country to be used in the bag pipes.

Mr. Glendenning spoke on "Beautifying the Home". This ultimately meant improvement of our county, for when a German, Englishman or Irishman were absent from their country they always spoke of it as home. Therefore he spoke of improvement of public roads. The planting of trees on the outside instead of the inside of fences. It was such a common thing to see an old snake fence. It was all right when they were first made, but it was cheaper and more beautiful to have the wire, because wood was such high price now. He also said that some countries paid a bonus. The people of Ontario did not know the value of paint. He also spoke about the growing of hedges and that each farmer should have a lawn.

Those who took part in the programme were Misses Stinson, Murphy and O'Connell; Messrs. Patterson, Smith and Foster.

Naval Fatality At Portsmouth.

Portsmouth, England, Nov. 29.—A singular accident resulting in the death of two men and injuries to a number of others, occurred at Portsmouth harbor. Two launches belonging to the British torpedo school ship Vernon were engaged in an instructional course of sweeping the harbor mines, when suddenly an explosion occurred on board one of the launches, which it sank. Those who were on board of her were thrown into the icy water and were rescued with difficulty. Two are missing, and several men were seriously injured by flying debris. The second launch was so seriously damaged that it sank later.

RAILWAY WRECK RESULTS FATALLY.

Further Particulars from the Members of Peterboro' Party

Who Were on the Train When Boiler Exploded—Miraculous Escape.

Saturday's Examiner recorded a fatal railway accident which occurred on Saturday, November 19 about 40 miles east of Chicago. This morning Messrs. A. Parker and Jas. English, who with Messrs. T. Hooper and W. Lytle composed a party from Peterborough en route for St. Louis, were seen by the Examiner in reference to the affair.

Mr. Parker said it was a miracle that they escaped with their lives. No one, however, with the exception of the unfortunate fireman, who lost his life and the engineer, who was badly scalded were injured in the least. It was about 5.30 o'clock on Sunday morning with the train which was about one-half an hour late, speeding along at a rate of 40 miles an hour. There were about ten coaches in the train. Without the least warning the sleeping passengers were rudely awakened by a shock which was felt throughout the train. There was a sound of smashing of glass, the swiss of water, the hiss of steam, and the falling of heavy substances. It was still dark, but the passengers hurriedly dressed themselves and felt the cars to ascertain what was the trouble. Cries of "Is there a doctor on board?" were heard and soon the awful truth of the accident was evident. The engine was a total wreck, being practically blown to pieces by the force of the explosion.

The train had travelled a distance of about 400 feet after the explosion occurred and the fireman was found at the rear of the train about 20 feet from the track. He was terribly scalded and several bones were fractured. The poor man was conscious and bore his sufferings heroically. Fortunately there were two doctors on the train who did everything possible to relieve his sufferings. As soon as a relief engine arrived from the nearest station the injured man was conveyed to that point, but the shock had been too great and he died in about three hours' time. He was a man of about 50 years of age, and about to be married. His home was in Port Huron.

The force of the explosion was something terrific. The weak spot was in the fire box, and when the door gave way the ash-pan was blown off and the grate bars smashed to pieces and strewn about the track. The crown sheet was flattened to the ground. Particles of coal, iron and steel were found everywhere. On each side of the track were great fields of corn and here and there small fires were lighted by the burning coal. A portion of the steel front of the boiler, about two feet square and an inch thick was blown a distance of fully 400 feet and was embedded in a huge oak tree at a distance of about twenty feet from the ground. The steel sank fully ten inches in the tree and remained there.

The engineer miraculously escaped death and though painfully burned about the face was not seriously injured.

The tender left the track, but, strange to state, the cars remained on the track though the concussion was a terrible one. The train was brought to a standstill by the operation of the emergency brakes.

The cause of the accident is not known. It was thought by some to have been caused by lack of water in the boiler, but the ground was wet for a distance of about 20 feet surrounding the spot where the explosion occurred, so that there must have been water in the boiler. The engineer stated that a bad accident occurred at the same place only a few weeks ago.

Mr. English was dressing at the time of the accident. When the shock occurred he was thrown several feet head foremost but was not injured.

A rather amusing incident is related in connection with one member of the Peterborough party. He was sleeping when the accident occurred, but was of course awakened by the shock and began dressing when aware of the accident. It was quite dark in the car and the gentleman in question experienced great difficulty in getting into his trousers. After struggling for several minutes, during which time the general excitement was increasing and his opinion of the tailor who constructed his trousers was becoming less elevated, he discovered that he was trying to get his feet into his coat instead of his trousers. The mistake was soon rectified.

The train was delayed about three hours as a result of the accident. The Peterborough party returned home last Saturday and are congratulating themselves that they returned without at least serious injury.

MRS. ROBT. WEAVER DIED FRIDAY

A Highly Respected Resident of Fraserville Passed Away—Personal News.

Fraserville, November 28, 1904.

Friends here will learn with regret of the death of Mrs. Robt. Weaver, which occurred on Friday morning last. Mrs. Weaver will be greatly missed, as she had won many friends since moving here to live.

The bereaved husband and relatives of the deceased have the sympathy of the neighborhood in their sad hour of trial. Rev. Mr. Robeson conducted the services at the house. The remains were interred in the family burying ground near Keene, on Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Wilbert Wood, Mrs. Wood and Harry returned on Friday last, from the North West. Their many friends here were glad to welcome them home again.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

JAPS STILL POUNDING AT PORT ARTHUR

They Take 203-Metre Hill, and its Fall is Now Imminent---Command the Whole Harbour---Ten. Per . More Only to be Taken Now to Complete the Reduction of the Fortress---German Despatch Assault Has Been Abandoned---Japanese Lose 4,000 Men in One Hour.

Tokio, Nov. 30.—The Imperial headquarters last night sum the the Port Arthur situation as follows:

"With regard to the enemy's forts at Sungshu Mountain and eastward we have firmly captured the crests, glacis and counterscarps, and their vicinities, but the time to charge has not yet come. At present we are destroying the casemates and other caponieres. At 203 Metre Hill, by several charges, we succeeded in capturing the enemy's shelter trenches near the summit. At present our force is holding its position and endeavoring to capture the whole fort."

Near the End.

It is reported that the attack against 203 Metre Hill by Japanese right artillery is succeeding. It is estimated that 90 per cent. of the work of the complete occupation of Port Arthur will be finished with this height in the possession of the Japanese. No part of the harbor of Port Arthur will then be concealed from the Japanese.

Japs Lose 4,000 in One Hour.

London, Nov. 30.—According to a Tokio despatch to The Standard, there is an unofficial rumor that the Japanese hauled large calibre guns to the top of 203 Metre Hill, from whence their fire has a sweep of the whole harbor.

This report doubtless goes beyond the facts, but various despatches indicate the progress the Japanese are making in the reduction of Port Arthur. Japanese here explain the great importance of the capture of 203 Metre Hill, which, besides giving command of the harbor, will serve as a wide breach made by the Japanese and previously driven in between the Etse group and the Russians last retreat in the ravines at Lianti Mountain. They declare that retreat to Laotie will be effectually cut off, and that it is not unlikely that Laotie will be simultaneously attacked in the final assault.

Bennett Burleigh wires to the Daily Telegraph from Che Foo that in the last assault the Japanese lost 4,000 men in one hour's fighting. They claim to have captured two more of the northern forts, and a third, which is a part of the West Keekwan fort. They claim, Mr. Burleigh adds, to have effected a lodgement at Pigeon Bay, thus turning the fort on 203 Metre Hill, and that they are now tunnelling from the gorge below Laotie, which they hope first to damage and then to rush. The despatch continues: "Desperate fighting is proceeding daily, and the losses are admitted to be excessive, but the Japanese insist that Port Arthur must fall within twenty-one days."

Seen Bay of Hope.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Foreign reports of the fighting at Port Arthur are accepted here very seriously. If the Japanese have taken 203 Metre Hill, as reported, and are commanding the whole harbor, it is believed that the situation is critical. Experts on Port Arthur topography assert, however, that it is more likely that the Japanese have occupied some positions at the base of the hill, and believe that with the concentrated fire of the covered forts the Japanese will find the top of the hill untenable, if they arrive there.

Berlin Disbelieves It.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—A despatch from Tokio to The Taglische Rundschau reports that the Japanese storming of Port Arthur was abandoned on Nov. 28, because, though large breaches had been made in the Sungshu, Rihlung and Keekwan forts, the Japanese were unable to enter on account of the heavy fire from the other forts and the resistance of the garrisons.

Fight Goes On.

Che Foo, Nov. 30.—Chinese and Japanese advices received here yesterday, while not beyond question, indicate the practical certainty that another general assault on Port Arthur began Nov. 24, and was continuing Nov. 27. It is certain that there has been severe fighting. The fighting is with the object of capturing additional Russian trenches. The summit forts seemingly were not attacked.

Many Japs Fell.

Mukden, Nov. 30.—The activity of the Japanese against Gen. Rennenkampff's front continued Nov. 28, culminating before noon in one of the severest fights in recent weeks. The Japanese retired only about 600 yards, but after the fight the Russians collected 230 Japanese corpses, all from the 7th and 9th reserves brigades. The Russians also captured a large quantity of rifles, entrenching tools and red cross stores. Night sorties continue. Russian scouts prove very adaptable to this sort of work and go all around the Japanese in woodcraft. On the night of Nov. 25 a party of Siberian sharpshooters went out and captured every one of the guards in front of a Japanese party, cutting firewood, without arousing the suspicions of the Japanese that anything had happened.

Campbell-Bannerman's Opinion of Colonial Conference.

MILLIONS FOR RETALIATION

Heavy Price Great Britain Had to Pay to Benefit the West Indies a Few Thousand Pounds—Chamberlain's Mistake Is in Treating Imperial Sentiment As a Marketable Article —Fiscal Pretence.

London, Nov. 30.—(C. A. P.)—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, M. P., Liberal leader, referring at Manchester to the rise in the price of sugar, said that it was the first fruits of retaliation and the colonial preference.

The people of the West Indies had gained a few thousand pounds, while Great Britain had lost millions.

It was bad for the consumer and manufacturer and for employment, and was of precious little good to the colonies.

Mr. Chamberlain's mistake was treating the Imperial sentiment as a marketable article.

The sentiment uniting Great Britain and the colonies would not be strengthened by identifying it with any huckstering policy or by treating the colonies as if they were items in a company prospectus, and still less by suggesting that they were in the market and saleable to the highest bidder.

The colonial conference under present auspices would be a delusion and a snare.

Why should the fiscal pretence be kept up any longer? The whole proposed policy was a colossal blunder and a delusion.

Welcome a Conference.

London, Nov. 30.—(C. A. P.)—The home counties division of the National Union of Conservative Associations passed a resolution welcoming the proposed colonial conference to discuss freely the fiscal relations within the Empire with the view of ascertaining what changes, if any, are desirable and practicable.

Colonial Hunting Ground.

London, Nov. 30.—(C.A.P.)—The Duke of Marlborough, Under-Secretary for the Colonies, speaking at the United Club, Liverpool, said that under the Tory Government the sentiment of closer friendship had grown between them and their brethren. He believed the Radicals had no more sympathy with the colonies than the colonies had with them. The Radicals seem to regard the colonies as happy hunting grounds for getting rid of the surplus population of this country, which was being displaced by the people the Radicals liked much better, namely, the aliens who came to our shores.

Sir John Obdurate.

London, Nov. 30.—(C.A.P.)—A resolution passed by the resident members of the Senate of Cambridge University has been sent to Sir John Gorst, M.P., for the University, stating that, as he no longer represents the views of the supporters of the present Government, they will select another candidate to represent the University. Sir John Gorst in reply says he will appeal to the constituents at large when the time comes to send him back to the House of Commons to oppose protection and uphold free trade. He refuses to resign.

When Real Fight Comes.

London, Nov. 30.—(C.A.P.)—Right Hon. Arnold Forster, Secretary of War, speaking at Croydon, said that hitherto Great Britain had fought the battle alone against foreigners, but it was their hope that when a real struggle came they should have their kith and kin from over the seas joining us in the demand for justice and fair play for British and Colonial goods.

Death of Levi Annis.

Bowmanville, Nov. 30.—Levi Annis, one of the best known men in Darlington Township, passed away yesterday morning at his residence, Hillcrest Farm, near Ebenezer, from heart trouble. Deceased was about 60 years of age. He was an extensive raiser of Clydesdale horses. He always took a lively interest in municipal affairs, being a member of the Council of Darlington Township at the time of his death. His aged father, a widow and a grown up family survive him.

Earl of Hardwick Dead.

London, Nov. 30.—The Earl of Hardwick (Albert Edward Philip Yorke), Under Secretary of State for India, died suddenly in London yesterday. He had been in poor health for some time, but his death was not expected. The Earl, who was born in 1867, was known as a stock broker. His father had a magnificent estate, but he ran through the property, left his son practically penniless and the latter had to adopt a city career as a means of making a livelihood.

YOUNG GIRL COMMITS SUICIDE

Annie M. Mullen Drank Poison Last Night.

Had Been Employed by Mrs. Mullen, of Smith—Despondency was the Cause—Had Been Well Treated —Whereabouts of Parents Unknown.

Annie May Mullen, a girl of 14 years of age, committed suicide yesterday by swallowing a dose of Webber's Cattle Wash. The poison was taken between five and six o'clock in the afternoon and the child lingered until midnight, when death ensued. She died at the home of Mrs. R. Mullen, lot 23, concession 5, of Smith, where she had been employed for the past two years.

The deceased girl was brought to the attention of the Children's Aid Society when she was nine years of age. Her parents were living in Nova Scotia.

She was afterwards in the employ of Mr. Wm. McBride, of Harwood, and Mr. Fred. Lang, of Cavanville, and in October, 1903, she went to Mrs. Rich. Mullen, of Smith, where she has been since. She was a good working girl and had given good satisfaction as a rule. She had been getting along well at Mrs. Mullen's and there had been no trouble between any concerned there. During the past few weeks, however, she had shown signs of despondency, though no mental derangement was noticed. Her death is regarded as a clear case of suicide.

The deceased girl was found sick about six o'clock last evening and she acknowledged having taken the poison though she gave no reason for so doing. She was given an emetic and was greatly relieved and it was then that she had got over the effects of the poison. She went to bed, but about eleven o'clock she was taken violently ill again and nothing could be done to relieve her. She died at one o'clock. She had no convulsions and did not lose consciousness.

Dr. Baker was sent for about eleven o'clock, but before he arrived the girl was dead.

Mrs. Harvey, of Toronto, Superintendent of Neglected and Dependent Children report recently upon the situation of the deceased child. Her report said that she was in an excellent home, with good surroundings and kind foster parents. She was provided with good food and clothing and though she had duties she had promised to try to do better and had said that she liked her home very much. Her rash act was certainly not caused by any unkind treatment.

Dr. Grey has inquired into the circumstances of the case and does not deem an inquest necessary. The funeral will take place from Mrs. Mullen's residence to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock.

THE LATE JOHN BERTRAM.

There are thousands in Peterborough town and county who will learn with regret of the death of Mr. John Bertram, which took place in Toronto on Monday night, the particulars of which, with a sketch of his history appeared in yesterday's issue. The deceased was well known in Peterborough where he held a prominent position in the respect and esteem of every class of citizens.

Mr. Bertram was a Scotchman by birth, having been born at Fenton-Barnes, Haddingtonshire, about sixty-seven years ago. At Dirleton High School in his native county he was educated, or, rather, began his education, for, with his ambitious temperament, he continuously advanced in educational acquirement—practical education in all the active details of commerce, business, public concerns and all that go to make the all-round men of affairs. He became connected with a hardware firm in Edinburg and came to Canada over 40 years ago, being associated for some time with the late hardware firm of W. Darling & Co., Montreal. In 1859 he became associated with Mr. Melville Miller, in Peterborough, under the style of Miller & Bertram, and was connected with the hardware business here from time to time till 1883. In 1884 he went to Toronto and was actively connected with the lumbering business and subsequently became associated with the late Geo. H. Bertram in the great business which has developed into one of the most important industrial concerns in Canada, and was, at the time of his death, the head of the Bertram Engine Works, of which shipbuilding has become a specialty. His long and varied experience in business, his parliamentary experience, his natural abilities and shrewd insight, whose exercise in a public spirited way, made him the prominent figure he was in the industrial and public life of Canada, pre-eminently fitted him for the position of chairman of the National Transportation Commission, to which he was appointed on August 27th, 1903.

Mr. Bertram is most closely associated with Peterborough recollections in connection with his business and political affiliations. He was elected to the Dominion Parliament as the representative of West Peterborough in 1872, but was deprived of his seat on a technicality, and kept out of it by a partisan Parliamentary Committee. In 1874, the general election following the Pacific Scandal, Mr. Bertram was elected by a large majority, and held his seat until 1878. Mr. Bertram was a graceful and forceful speaker—in the days of his active political life, one of the most effective speakers in the country. Many of the older residents will remember many a platform encounter where the late Mr. Bertram was accustomed to receive hard knocks, and repay them with interest. Mr. Bertram's oratory was keen and incisive and always to the point. He never spoke in public without having something to say, and he said it well, an inherent dignity and impressiveness of manner, matter and method characterizing his utterances.

Mr. Bertram will long be remembered for the services he gave the community, not altogether by active and overt effort, but by virtue of his strong personality and public spirit, which were a part of his earnest character and robust mental equipment, both in respect of intellectual qualities, and shrewd common sense. Mr. Bertram's death is a distinct loss to the public life and private citizenship of the country.

SIGNS OF PROGRESS.

When Hon. G. W. Ross came to power he inaugurated a policy of development and progress, which has been pretty substantially carried out. Passing over its application to the longer settled areas of the province, it may be pointed out that that policy has been applied with splendid success. Witness the construction of the Temiskamingue Railway, a truly development railway, which brings to the Ross Government the credit of giving Ontario the honour of having the first provincial owned and constructed railway line on the continent, built by the resources which its construction makes marketable and valuable. The building of this line has given an energetic impetus to the settlement and opening up of a splendidly fertile area of land in Northern Ontario. In continuation of the advance policy of Mr. Ross, at last session of the Legislature, provision was made for extending the line to the Abitibi River and ultimately to connect with the Grand Trunk Pacific.

An example of the Government's enterprise, courage, foresight and faith in the future of the resources of Northern Ontario is afforded by the legislation of last session, putting the Soo industries on their feet by the simple expedient of guaranteeing a loan of $2,000,000. The enterprise this encouragement of provincial industries is to be taken to represent, was obstructed and opposed by the short-sighted and pessimistic Conservative Opposition, led by Mr. Whitney. The latter denounced the proposition as the "last desperate attempt of the Premier to build up his falling fortunes," and he characterized it as a "book-keeping extravaganza." All the Opposition speakers, and nearly all spoke, opposed this wise legislation—wise legislation, for events have justified the reasoned optimism of the Government. At this early day there are prospects that the Government's anticipation, or, rather, calculation, that the guarantee of the $2,000,000 would result in no financial loss to the province will be realized, not to speak of the tremendous benefit of putting the dormant enterprises at Sault Ste. Marie in active and productive operation. The first half of the year's interest on the $2,000,000 loan amounting to $50,000 has been paid, and the first instalment of $250,000 interest on the mortgage bonds of the company, due on December 1st, is in the bank ready to be paid over, it is to be remarked, all made from earnings of the company since they have been placed on their feet by the help of the Ontario Government and against the wishes of the Opposition. It is due to this aid that the first and only steel rail mills established in Canada are turning out Canadian rails equal to any made anywhere. With the building of the Transcontinental Railway the demand for 7,500 miles of steel rails will make these works busy for years. Thus we see that the Ross Government looks ahead and practically applies its policy of progress and development to the upbuilding of a wide circle of Canadian industries and resources.

Mr. Whitney's "book-keeping extravaganza" was, to Mr. Ross, a practical, feasible, common sense piece of legislation which events have amply justified.

DIDN'T MATERALIZE.

Previous to the recent Conservative convention in Toronto, we heard a great deal in Ontario Conservative organs, regarding the large number of disgusted Liberals that were to appear at the conference, and, renouncing, in effect, Liberalism, would announce their conversion to the righteous tenets of Conservativeism. But these big bands of repentant political sinners did not materialize. This is another evidence of the hollow policy of loud-mouthed claim, and violent assertion, that is made to do service as argument on behalf of the Conservative party in Ontario. Mr. Whitney himself strikes the key—his public utterances are always in polysyllabic denunciation and extravagant figures of speech. He speaks of the "righteous indignation" of the people against the Liberal Government, as if what he says reflects an actual condition of which he is personally cognizant, whereas it represents only the wordy workings of his imagination. Time after time, Mr. Whitney has broken out in very rhapsodies of denunciation of government acts, in the admired style of Bombastes Furioso, and time after time his words and attitude have been shown to be "sound and fury, signifying nothing." The same style has gained upon the viler organs of his party, and the more intemperate orators. From this time forth we may expect to hear streams of this sort of invective — assertion without pretence of proof.

WORKS AT SOO ARE PROGRESSING.

Reorganized Industries Meeting Their Liabilities.

First Half-year's Interest on Loan Guaranteed by the Government Paid, and That on Mortgage Bonds Ready

The best evidence to the prosperity and progress of the reorganized industries at Sault Ste. Marie — once popularly known as the Clergue industries — is the fact that their financial liabilities are being promptly met. The first half year's interest on the loan of $2,000,000, at 5 per cent., guaranteed by the Ontario Government by the Act passed last session, and amounting to $50,000, was paid when it fell due this month.

On the first of December the first instalment of interest, totalling $250,000, will fall due on the mortgage bonds (held by an American syndicate), of the Lake Superior Corporation, and to meet this the company have out of their own earnings already placed in a New York bank, the whole of the sum mentioned. There is no sign that this gratifying progress will not continue. The various works are in full swing, the pay list for October showing that 3,934 persons were busily employed, and the amount of wages paid aggregating $127,000.

RESUMING WORK AT HALL'S GLEN MILL

Shingle Mill Will Soon Open up—The Latest News From That Village.

From our Own Correspondent.

A number of the farmers here failed to get their ploughing all done this fall.

Mr. A. Darling hauled his saleable oats to Lakefield early this fall.

We are pleased to learn that the Hall's Glen stage driver has fully recovered from his run-a-away accident some weeks ago.

Mr. Merithew intends spending the winter in a warmer climate, at his former home in the States.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Batten extended a hearty reception to their visiting friends Mr. and Mrs. W. Darling from from the West a short time ago.

A remarkable change is evident in the health of Mrs. Rich. Darling who has been visiting at the home of her daughter in Lakefield during the summer.

The genial proprietor of our shingle mill has shut down to await the rush of the early winter, at which time he will give ready employment and the highest wages for efficient men.

Miss Ida Grant from the West left for home a few weeks ago, having spent a pleasant time visiting friends here.

The Payne and Hamilton sporting party met with abundant success this fall dear hunting, but had the misfortune to lose one of the finest deer on their way home.

Most of the young men have returned from the North West with the exception of the Carveth Bros., whose return is expected any time, and is looked forward to with interest and anxiety not only by the family at home, but by others in the neighborhood.

Mr. D. Little assisted in the transportation of the home furniture and its belongings of Mr. Rich. Thompson, last week to the village of Warsaw.

In view of the goose-roast mentioned in a local paper of a few weeks ago at a widower's residence "Pine Grove" we are pleased to learn that a clue to the secret has been got, and the names of the parties engaged therein are all known. It appears that a passer-by chanced that way at a late hour and being alarmed at the boisterous and unusual merriment was curious to ascertain the cause, and on approaching the house he discovered by looking through the window that a fine roast (was being prepared (but at the public's expense) and all were indulging expressively in beer and other intoxicating drinks.

We regret that those fellows are apparently unable to support themselves by fair means, and we would strongly advise the directory board of this village to erect a reformatory at once and by further charitable assistance prevent much mean work. Their base trick has been tried before. But it is sincerely hoped that ere long both young and old will find a more respectable and commendable business or employment.

LAKEHURST.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Lakehurst, November 29.—Miss Annie Smith returned last week after a month visit with friends in Peterborough and Villiers.

Mr. Jas. Stubbs, of Peterborough, gave a very interesting entertainment in the Lakehurst town hall last Thursday evening. The hall was well filled by an appreciative audience.

Mr. J. McCarl, of Manly, spent a few days in Harvey last week.

Quite a number of new members have lately been added to the choir in the Presbyterian church. There is now a membership of thirteen, who are prepared to dispense sweet music at the Sunday morning service.

Mr. W. Smith and Miss Little spent Sunday in town.

Interesting Happenings at the Busy Railway Town.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Havelock, Nov. 29.—Miss F. Hicks, of Consecon, is the guest of Mrs. A. C. Dermo, of town.

A number of the villagers attended the Liberal convention at Toronto last Friday. The gentlemen from here were Mr. McNicholl, S. and Joe. Johnston, Wm. Mathieson, B. McBurnie, Jos. Rose, E. Chapman, who on their return expressed their satisfaction at having a splendid meeting.

The At Home given in the town hall last Tuesday evening was a complete success, about one hundred couples being present.

Dr. Jos. Holcroft returned from his trip to Chicago, where he has been for some time enjoying himself and has expressed himself as having seen some interesting operations performed in some of the hospitals.

A number of young people from Norwood came down to town last Tuesday evening to enjoy the At Home.

Miss Madge Scrivans, of Toronto, who has been the guest of Miss Eva Lancaster for the past two weeks, returned to her home on Friday evening.

Mrs. Thos. Bennett and son spent Friday in Peterborough.

A very sad event took place last Friday by the death of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Aleck Innis. The funeral took place from the family residence at one p. m. on Sunday, Nov. 27.

What is expected will be a big event is the annual school concert to be given in the town hall on Thursday, Dec. 22nd. This concert has always proved a success and will likely be the same this year.

Mrs. A. Rose and daughter Olive returned from an extended visit to friends in the Queen City on Thursday last.

Mr. John Burnett spent a few days visiting friends in Kingston last week.

Dr. J. Hosker, who has been assistant Mr. Crawford for some time, on account of the absence of Dr. Holcroft returned to his home in Brantford on Monday.

Mr. Jas. Thompson returned from a short visit to friends in Kingston on Monday.

Mr. Ward Patterson and W. Culligan spent Monday in Toronto.

The trial of Martin Ryan, who was up for raising a disturbance and threatening Mr. William Dineen in the latter's hotel some time ago was held in the town hall here on Monday, when he was sentenced for a term of three months at hard labour. Nothing was done as to the threat as no positive proof that such was made could be had.

Mr. John Carey returned to town after a few days visit to his family in Toronto.

A very pleasant time was enjoyed by a number at the Methodist church on Monday evening when the Epworth League of here tendered a reception to the league from Hastings. A large number from the latter town drove over to spend the evening. After a short meeting refreshments and a concert followed.

Mr. Parker Spencer will have a sale of all his farm effects next week when he will take up a house in town and make another addition to the booming place.

The sidewalks in the east end of the town would not blush very much if they were fixed up a little before the winter weather sets in.

A number of new 'phones have gone in around town, the Rev. Tandy having installed the latest, which is number 36.

Mr. F. Lancaster, the editor of the Havelock Standard is getting out a Christmas edition which will be quite a novelty for this town.

BAIL IS ESTREATED

SYRACUSE MESSAGE A HOAX

Bondsmen Protected By Property Transferred— A Cheque For $1,000 Then Did Not Materialize—Important Developments Are Looked For Friday—Mrs. Lott's Friends' Position—Bailly Bailed.

London, Nov. 30.—At 10 a.m. yesterday County Attorney Anderson and Detective Chamberlain appeared before Police Magistrate Flint with reference to extension of Bryon O. Lott's bail. Lott was not present, nor did any one appear for him. Lott was called three times and did not respond. W. H. Lott, Harry Brown and Geo. Whitty, who were sureties for him, were also called and did not answer. Mr. Anderson then asked that the bail be estreated.

The Magistrate said he would endorse default on bond, but if Lott, as stated in his wire from Syracuse Monday, appeared during the day or for trial no doubt the Dominion Government would take the fact into consideration with regard to the sureties.

Developments Looked For Friday.

Sensational developments are looked ed for at the resumption of the bogus ballot box case on Friday. It is now alleged that a trick box was at a poll in Victoria County, eight miles from Bancroft, presumably supplied from that town.

Byron Lott did not come in on the 5 p.m. train yesterday from the east. The general opinion here is that the telegram received by Magistrate Flint from Syracuse Monday was a boax, and that Lott will not come to stand his trial. A correspondent at Stirling wrote under date of November 28: "On Friday Lott was at the C.P.R. junction, where it is said he had an interview with one of his bondsmen, Mr. Harry Brown. As a result of this interview it is alleged that arrangements were made whereby Mr. Lott's property at Anson Junction was conveyed to Messrs. Brown and Whitthy, his bondsmen, as partial security against loss in the event of Lott's bail being forfeited. On Saturday Mrs. Lott had a message from her husband, and it was then believed that he was in what is termed 'the north country.'"

Lott Transferred Property.

When interviewed yesterday Mr. Whitthy said it was true that Lott had transferred his property in part to him, but at the highest estimate it was hardly worth $700. He also stated that Lott when arrested had offered to give him a cheque for $1,000, wherewith to secure him against possible loss in the event of the bail being forfeited. The cheque, however, had never materialized. Mrs. Lott is heartbroken over recent developments, and if her husband follows her wishes he will return and tell all he knows about the conspiracy. Better far, in her opinion, would it be for him to face a trial, and if guilty take the sentence of the court, than to be a fugitive from justice.

Reilly was yesterday afternoon liberated on bail to appear on Friday. James H. Smith, a stock broker of this city, put up the amount, $2,000 in cash.

The ballot boxes fished out of Sydenham Lake have arrived here and are in charge of Inspector Chamberlain.

Mr. Asselstine's Word Accepted.

Kingston, Nov. 30.—Yesterday Thomas M. Asselstine, High Court Clerk, received a letter from Chief of Dominion Police Sherwood, in reply to his letter of Friday last, in which Mr. Asselstine denied having loaned F. J. Reilly a ballot box for a model. Colonel Sherwood states that he showed Mr. Asselstine's statement to Mr. Reilly, who admitted that probably he was mistaken in that part of his evidence regarding his getting possession of the box. Colonel Sherwood added that he was quite satisfied that Mr. Asselstine had not given out the box.

NOT "FOUND" GUILTY.

Toronto, Nov. 30.—The appeal of Hon. E. J. Davis from Chancellor Boyd and Justice Teetzel in unseating him at the North York election trial was argued before the Court of Appeal yesterday and judgment reserved.

The section under which the Minister of Crown Lands lost his seat, reads as follows: "If on the trial of an election petition any candidates is proved to have personally engaged at the election as canvasser or agent any person knowing that such person guilty of any corrupt practices by a competent legal tribunal, or by the report of the judges upon an election petition, the election of such candidate shall be void."

In the case of Hon. Mr. Davis it was shown that he had engaged one William J. Robinson of Meaford as as agent, and that Robinson had by the judges in the North Grey election trial in November, 1903, been reported guilty of a corrupt practice in engaging a vehicle for the conveyance of voters from the polls.

The point raised by Mr. Aylesworth in his argument was that, while the statute provides that the agent must be "found" guilty by a competent legal tribunal or the trial judges, Robinson had only been "reported" guilty, which was quite a different matter. No man could be found guilty unless he were given a trial, which Robinson had not. By being merely reported, Robinson, Mr. Aylesworth held, had not been disqualified for voting, nor as an elector, and if the statute did not prevent a man reported from being an elector, then he could take part in an election by promoting the candidature of anyone. To report a man was merely a method of informing the Legislature of the infraction of one of its statutes, and had none of the consequences which followed being found guilty by a competent tribunal.

IN TIMES OF DANGER

MUNYON'S COLD CURE will be found a mighty helper. Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Grippe, and even Consumption, follow in the train of a simple cold which this reliable remedy would quickly have driven out if it had been used. If taken at the very start Munyon's Cold Cure will quickly relieve and cure colds wherever located.

FEVERS go hand in hand with colds, especially in the case of children. Munyon's Fever Cure has never failed to allay fevers in their first stages, and in nine cases out of ten nothing more will be heard of the fever after a few doses.

Keep these reliable remedies in the house, so as to be handy in emergency cases.

Munyon's General Debility Cure has proved itself to be a remarkable remedy and absolutely unequalled for the purposes intended. It builds up those who are run down, and who are weak, nervous and distressed.

Munyon's Paw-Paw Laxative Pills will speedily cure constipation, jaundice, biliousness and headaches arising therefrom. Munyon's "Guide to Health" will tell you how to keep well.

LIBERAL MAJORITY 65.

Latest Returns in Recent Dominion Election Tabulated.

Toronto, Nov. 30.—Here is the latest statement of the positions of the two parties in Canada as a result of the Dominion election. Many minor despatches have been published since Nov. 3, but few persons have had the patience to piece them together. All the elections have been held except in the Yukon, where date is December 18. The result is, therefore, known in 213 constituencies. As far as can be ascertained, there are 139 Government supporters and 74 members of the Opposition elected, giving the Government a majority of 65. The summary of the provinces is as follows:

	Con.	Lib.
Ontario	48	38
Quebec	11	54
Nova Scotia	0	18
New Brunswick	4	7
P. E. I.	3	1
Manitoba	3	7
N. W. T.	3	7
British Columbia	0	7
	74	139

Government majority—65.
To be held—Yukon.

There had been doubt as to who was elected in Alberta, but a Winnipeg correspondent reported Monday night that Herron, Conservative, holds the seat by 78. In Yale-Cariboo, where the voting took place a week ago, the returns are not yet complete, but Duncan Ross, Liberal, is reported to be elected by about 150.

Nearly 400,000 Votes in Ontario.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—The total vote cast in the Province of Ontario at the last Federal election will be over 400,000. The Clerk of the Crown in Chancery expects to have all the returns in a few days. There are only three or four constituencies missing. The total votes received so far are 399,891. The Conservatives polled 200,199, the Liberals 197,039, and the Independents 2,653. In Middlesex Mr. Bats ran against Mr. Bostem as an Independent Liberal, and is included in the Independent list.

TUESDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

Centre Simcoe—C. B. Hewson, K. C., Liberal.

East Simcoe—J. R. Tudhope, M.P. P., Liberal.

West Middlesex—G. A. Stewart, Conservative.

South Renfrew—Hon. P. B. Latchford, Liberal.

Brockville—Hon. G. P. Graham, Liberal.

South Oxford—W. A. Dowler, Liberal.

West Victoria—Thos. Stewart, Liberal.

CHAPMAN'S LAST THROW.

Son of New York Banker and Oxford Graduate Ends Life.

London, Nov. 30.—Elverton Chapman, aged 28, committed suicide Monday night at the Carlton Hotel by throwing himself from the third floor landing to the vestibule, where he was shockingly mangled on the marble floor. His skull was crushed, one arm was shattered, and there were other injuries, from which he died in terrible agony within a few minutes.

The management of the hotel suspected his mind was unhinged and detailed a man to watch him. He was a son of E. R. Chapman, banker of New York, and had recently graduated from Oxford.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Higher—Feeling Trifle Firmer on New York Market.

London, Nov. 29.—Live cattle are quoted at 8¼c to 12¼c per lb.; refrigerator beef at 8¼c to 9c per lb.; sheep, 12c to 13c per lb.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Receipts of live stock at the City Market were 85 carloads, composed of 1108 cattle, 890 hogs, 2357 sheep and lambs, with about 50 calves.

There was little doing in the shipping class, excepting a few cows and bulls. Cows sold at about $3.50 and bulls at $3.00 to $3.75 per cwt.

A very few choice butchers' sold at from $4.25 to $4.50; loads of $3.5 at $3.70 to $4; fair to good, $3.50 to $3.70; medium at $3.25 to $3.50; cows, $2.00 to $3; rough to inferior, $2 to $2.50; canners, $1.25 to $1.75 per cwt.

The demand for feeders was fair, but not as great as has been; but several farmers and dealers were on the market buying. A. C. Becker of Ayr bought one load, 950 to 1200 lbs. each, for which he paid $3.40 to $3.75, and they were of good quality. The bulk of feeders sold at from $3 to $3.60. Stockers sold at from $2.25 to $2.50 for fair quality, and eastern bred at $1.75 to $2. Feeding bulls sold at from $2.50 to $2.75 per cwt.

About 20 milch cows and springers sold all the way from $30 to $60 each, with a good demand for those of choice quality.

Veal calves of good quality are in demand at from $5.25 to $5.75 per cwt., but inferior to common sell at $3.50 to $4.50 per cwt. McDonald & Maybee sold 12 calves at $5.50 to $5.75 per cwt.

Deliveries of sheep and lambs were fairly large—nearly 2000—but, notwithstanding this fact, prices were a little firmer, as follows: Sheep at $3.75 per cwt.; lambs at $4.90 per cwt.; picked lots of ewes and wethers at $4 to $5.10 per cwt.

Deliveries of about 1000 sold at $4.90 for selects and $4.35 for lights and fats.

HAPPY AND HEALTHY.

A Beautiful Canadian Girl Saved From Catarrh of the Lungs by Pe-ru-na.

MISS FLORENCE KENAH.

Miss Florence E. Kenah, 434 Maria street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"A few months ago I caught a severe cold, which settled on my lungs and remained there so persistently that I became alarmed. I took medicine without benefit, until my digestive organs became upset, and my head and back began to ache severely and frequently.

"I was advised to try Peruna, and although I had little faith I felt so sick that I was ready to try anything. It brought me blessed relief at once, and I felt that I had the right medicine at last. Within three weeks I was completely restored and have enjoyed perfect health since.

"I now have the greatest faith in Peruna." F. E. KENAH.

WOMEN should beware of contracting catarrh. The cold wind and rain, slush and mud of winter are especially conducive to catarrhal derangements. Few women escape.

Upon the first symptoms of catching cold Peruna should be taken. It fortifies the system against colds and catarrh.

"Recently I took a long drive in the country, and being too thinly clad I caught a bad cold which settled on my lungs, and which I could not seem to shake off. I had heard a great deal of Peruna for colds and catarrh and I bought a bottle to try. I am pleased that I did, for it brought speedy relief. It only took about two bottles, and I considered this money well spent.

"You have a firm friend in me, and I not only advise its use to my friends, but have purchased several bottles to give to those without the means to buy, and have noticed without exception that it has brought about a speedy cure wherever it has been used."—Miss Rose Gerbing.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

A COMING TREAT.

Ladies Auxiliary of Y. M. C. A, Securing High Class Artists for Annual Concert.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M. C.A. are preparing for their annual concert which will take place on Jan. 10th. The ladies have in the past secured high-class artists, which have furnished a delightful programme and this year there will be no exception to the rule. The ladies have been so fortunate as to secure Jessie Alexander, the renowned elocutionist, who will be spending the Christmas season in Canada previous to returning to her home in California, and H. M. Field, pianist, who has just completed a seven years' course in Germany and of whom the Toronto critics speak in glowing terms. Other artists whose names will be announced later will assist, and altogether one of the best programmes that has been presented in Peterborough for years should result. The cause is one which everyone should support and no doubt there will be a crowded house on the night of the concert. Remember the date, Jan. 10th.

THE NEW ARMORIES MUST BE SECURED.

Such is the Opinion of Warden Peck, Expressed This Morning in Answer to a Deputation Which Waited on the County Council---Mr. R. R. Hall Explains the Position Taken by the Government---Will Erect an Armories Similar to Those at London to Cost $100,000 to $150,000---A Slight Hitch Over the Transfer of the Land Held by the County---This Morning's Session Yesterday's Session Devoted to The Readjustment of The Accounts Between County and Townships.

The County Council this morning considered at some considerable length the proposition submitted to it by representatives of the Town Council, the School Board, the Militia and the Government, looking towards the erection in Peterborough of an armouries, which, according to the plans submitted, will be a magnificent building, and a credit to the town and county.

The deputation submitted the proposal, which differed in detail somewhat from that originally agreed upon by the Joint Committee of the town and county, which was that the county should deed over their half of the Central Park to the Government for the purpose of the erection of an armoury, which, it was expected would cost $40,000. Since that decision was arrived at, however, the plans of the Government have been considerably enlarged, and instead of a $40,000 building, it will erect one to cost $100,000 to $150,000, and the site for the smaller building would not serve the purposes of the larger structure.

Subsequently the arrangements now familiar to the residents of the town were made, viz., the erection of the Institute and armouries on the Separate school grounds, and the park, which would make an exceedingly beautiful property, and one one which would be a decided credit to the town.

When this plan was decided upon it involved submitting a new proposition to the county, and this proposition was submitted to-day.

Mayor Roger, who was the first speaker, suggested that the county deed over to the town the whole of Central Park, which is at present owned jointly by the town and county, and lots three on Murray and McDonel streets, will be used for the erection of the armouries and Collegiate Institute respectively, with portions of the Separate School grounds the remaining portion of the latter being used for drill and parade purposes, and the front part of the park to be kept perpetually for park purposes.

Mr. Hall and Mr. Dennistoun, the former representing the Government and the latter the School Board, did not insist upon the front four lots of the park being conveyed to the town; they were not particular who owned these lots, and it was upon this question that the principal discussion took place this morning, some of the County Councillors being of the opinion that the park should still be kept in the name of the county.

It is being considered in committee this afternoon and a decision will probably be arrived at.

The military representatives present emphasised the importance of the erection of armouries here. Colonel Miller said that this town would in the near future be made stores depot in place of Kingston, and the armouries, which would be similar to those at London, a cut of which is published on this page, would be very handsome and complete.

It was very largely through the efforts of Mr. R. R. Hall that the Government had been induced to erect such a large and commodious armoury, and he deserves great credit for the efforts that he has made on behalf of the local military authorities, and for the success of his representations he is to be congratulated.

LONDON'S FINE ARMORIES

The Building shown in the above cut is similar to that which the Government will erect in Peterborough.

This Morning's Session.

The County Council opened its session this morning at 10.30, with the Warden in the chair, and all the Councillors present, and the first matter taken up was the grants to be made for roads and bridges, and a motion giving a grant of $25.00 made to Ennismore last season for repairs of bridge on road leading to Gannon's Bridge, be paid to the Treasurer of Ennismore, was passed.

The Armouries.

A deputation from the town was present consisting of Mayor Roger, Aldermen Best and Adams, and a similar deputation representing the military organization composed of Lt.-Col. Miller, Major Dennistoun, Major Stevenson, Major Hayes, Capt. Walker, Capt Ackerman, and Major Wm. Hall, and Mr. F. J. Jameson representing the School Board.

The Mayor who was the first speaker said that at the last session of the County Council a deputation from the town with reference to the provision of a site for the erection of armouries, waited upon the Council.

The town had repeatedly asked the Government to erect an armouries here, and the first question asked by the latter was what land would be available, and it was found that the Government was inclined to erect a much more pretentious building than had been at first contemplated if the suitable site could be secured, as the plan was that Peterborough should be made a military centre of considerable importance. The views of the town authorities and the Government had gradually expanded and those plans had involved a much larger portion of land and the expenditure of money, as a result, would also be considerably increased.

He reviewed the events leading up to the present situation, the details of which are familiar to Examiner readers, viz.,—that of the Armouries and the Collegiate Institute being erected upon the same plot of ground and the Separate School Board was approached with a view of aquiring the land known as the Separate School property for the purpose mentioned.

The Government had, in view of this fact through the interposition of Mr. R. R. Hall, who had taken a deep interest in the matter, and had succeeded in interesting the Government to a degree which had hardly been expected, acceded to the request of the deputation that had waited upon it. The Mayor suggested that the county might deed over to the town the three acres of land in the Central Park. He thought that if the county wished to make a grant of money to assist the town, the latter would appreciate it, but in any case he thought that the land might be transferred, and in answer to a question by the Warden the Mayor said that outside of the buildings it would be open to the public, and he hoped that the Council would see fit to grant the request made.

The Government's Position.

Mr. R. R. Hall was the next speaker, and he said that the Mayor had practically covered the ground. What the Government wanted was to acquire four lots, either on the north or south side; three of these lots would be on the Separate School grounds, and the other lots, one on each side of the Central Park, were the only ones in which the county was concerned. He hardly appreciated the force of the Mayor's remarks with reference to the conveyancing of the whole three acres, for he thought that all that was actually needed were the two lots mentioned, one each facing Murray and McDonnel streets. He thought that the county was getting good value for the lots which would be transferred, for there would be practically four lots open to the public.

Mr. Hall pointed out that it was the intention of the Government to erect new armouries, similar to those recently erected at London, which were large and handsome buildings, and cost from $100,000 to $150,000, and would be a very decided credit to the town.

Unless the School Board had been willing to cooperate with the Government and town, the plan as outlined, would have been impossible to carry out, but the Board, he submitted, was getting a good property at a fair price.

He added that the Government practically had one of these lots at present, because the drill shed at present there covered nearly all of one of them.

The School Board's Views.

Mr. Dennistoun followed Mr. Hall and said that until quite recently the Board of Education was comparatively indifferent as to whether this plan was carried out, because they were paying $10,000 for a site for an Institute, but recently the Board had become more interested, by reason of representations that have been made to it, and was now anxious that this plan should be carried out.

Mr. Dennistoun then read a by-law which he had prepared, and which provided for the conveying to the town of Peterborough, the Dominion Government, and the School Board the two lots on Murray and McDonnel streets, and suggested that the needs of the militia might be heard from the representatives present.

The balance of the discussion is unavoidably crowded out of to-day's issue.

Tuesday Afternoon's Session.

The session of the County Council opened with Warden Peck in the chair, and the full board of Councillors present. The Warden in opening the session welcomed the members of the Council for the last meeting of the year, and to some of them the last time that they would meet in County Council. The business of the council was not heavy, and consisted chiefly of straightening the accounts. One matter that he referred to was the matter of township divisions, and it had been decided to allow Otonabee to remain as it was with two representatives. The question of a drill hall would also have to be dealt with by the Council, and Mr. R. R. Hall and others would meet the Council to discuss the matter. He thought that the drill hall was something which all would like to see erected.

Another matter which the Council would have to deal with was the settlement of the Foley estate. Twelve years ago Mrs. Foley died leaving an estate of $45,000, and annuities were left to be given to destitute widows and orphans of the county. Three of the annuitors have died and there is at present $950 available for the purposes provided for in the will, the council will have to deal with it.

The Reeves and Clerks and Treasurers of several of the municipalities met at the instance of the County Clerk to have an informal discussion with the County Council with the amount due each municipality by the county and to consider the question of disposing of non-resident lands in land registers not collected, or disposed with by sale. The heads of the municipalities were satisfied with the statements read by the County Treasurer, and guaranteed to assist upon his sending to the Clerks of the municipalities a list of the lands liable to be sold next, in having all matters definitely settled.

The following is a statement of monies due municipalities on account of non-resident call up to Nov. 1st, 1904:

Belmont & Methuen	181 37
	$1,374 32
Less amount paid Belmont Sept., 1904	200 00
	$1,174 32

Mr. Shaw moved, seconded by Mr. Menogue, that the 6 per cent. interest due the county on county rates be struck off up to 1904, and that a certain date be fixed by the county for the rate to be paid over to the county and to charge the municipalities a reasonable interest after that date. The motion was carried, and the Council adjourned to meet Wednesday morning.

MAYORALTY CONTEST

Address of Alderman Dr. Morrison to The Electors— He Sets Forth His Municipal Policy.

To The Electors of Peterborough:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—During the last few weeks I have been personally solicited by many of my fellow citizens to offer myself as a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1905, and having been presented with a very largely signed requisition to offer myself as a candidate for that office, I have, after deliberate consideration, knowing the responsibilities and time required to discharge the duties faithfully, decided to accede to these requests, and therefore most respectfully solicit your vote and influence.

My Platform.

The platform upon which I shall seek your suffrages is one of progress and development for Peterborough, and as my whole interests are centered here, I feel that I can appeal to you as one deeply interested in the advancement of our town. If elected, I shall deem it my duty to strengthen the arm of our Federal Member in his endeavours to have the Government put under contract the uncompleted portions of the Trent Canal, so that we may be given an outlet to the Great Lakes with the least possible delay; for the completion of this waterway means the saving of thousands of dollars annually to our citizens, as well as providing facilities for additional manufactories for our town.

The Power Question.

We must also have the question of the conservation of the waters in the upper lakes settled, and a greater depth of water maintained the year round for canal purposes, as well as a more even flow for the power plants along the river. The question of power is already becoming a live issue with us, for the advantage of cheap and ample power is a strong factor in inducing manufacturers to locate here. Already the supply of power for industrial purposes is nearly at its limit, and in the event of the completion of the canal, our manufactories will increase to such an extent as to demand additional power facilities. It does not seem to be any too soon to look forward to and arrange for developing and bringing in power from, now distant, but practically available points.

Municipal Lighting.

As the water commissioners are contemplating the rebuilding of the water works dam, it will be the duty of the Council to make arrangements with them to have the dam so built that a second power house or an addition to the present one, could be made, in order to develop power to do our municipal lighting when the present contract expires, and, if legislation can be had, to control the price of domestic or house lighting.

Street Improvements.

It is very probable that the street Railway Company will double track George street from King street to Central Park next year. It will then be necessary to take into consideration the question of permanent street work in that portion of the town. A better system of cleaning, sprinkling and beautifying our streets should be adopted, not only from an aesthetic standpoint, but also in the interest of the health of our citizens.

The outfall sewer in Ashburnham Ward must be pushed through early in the year, and also any other contracts for sewers or sidewalks.

The agitation for building and plumbing inspectors will have my most careful consideration. I am opposed to a multiplicity of offices in our municipal government, yet if any improvement in the present conditions can be made without too much extra expense, the people should have that improvement.

The New Assessment.

The new assessment law which comes into force on January 1st, 1905, is a radical change from our present system and is somewhat complicated. I would favour some changes in our present method of assessing, so that a more equitable assessment of the whole town could be made.

Control of our Streets.

The decision of the Imperial Privy Council in Bell Telephone vs. Toronto, gives the Telephone Co. complete control over our streets, and it is an outrageous interference with municipal control. If elected I shall assist in every way possible in having the Dominion Parliament make such amendments to the Bell charter as will restore to the municipality full control over the streets. In this connection I would favour Government ownership of the long distance lines and municipal ownership of the local exchanges, doing away entirely with ownership by large and rich corporations which constitute a monopoly.

Other Matters.

The growth of the town and the many new houses built each year will necessarily increase the assessment of the town, and while this growth may cause more expenditure, yet the natural growth and increase in the assessment should meet any additional expenditure, without much, if any, increase in the tax rate.

Other questions will come up during the year which will have my very best attention. In a word, if elected, I shall endeavour to the best of my ability to discharge the duties and uphold the dignity of the high and important office. I shall deal with all the citizens without fear or favour and act to the best of my judgment in all questions brought before the Council.

Again requesting your vote and influence and wishing you all the compliments of the approaching season, I am,

Your humble servant,
M. A. MORRISON.

PRETTY WEDDING LAST EVENING

Miss Ina Mowry Married to Mr. Jas. Pilling.

A very pretty wedding of unusual interest took place at 7 o'clock last night at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Marcello Mowry, Rubidge street, when their eldest daughter, Ina, was united in marriage to Mr. Walter James Pilling, of Park street. The groom was attended by Mr. Lorne Page and Miss Annie F. Allen attended the bride. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. H. Brace of the Park Street Baptist Church.

The bride wore a dress of white voile over taffeta, trimmed with chiffon and covered with a bridal veil and orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of white roses. Mr. Martin C. Mowry led the bride from her retirement and was met by her father who gave her away. The bridesmaid was gowned in fawn etamine, with lace and Persian trimmings and carried pink roses. The house was crowded with guests among them being relatives from Port Hope and Toronto.

The presents were numerous and costly, among them were a superb bed lounge and carving set from the G. T. R. employees and a silver tea pot from the Primary Class of the Park Street Baptist Sunday School, of which the bride was teacher.

The groom's present to the bridesmaid was a pearl crescent.

The bride's travelling dress was of blue with velvet trimmings and hat to match.

A sumptuous spread was heartily enjoyed, the bridal party having the place of honour, surrounding a small table on which was placed the ornamental wedding cake beneath a canopy very artistically arranged and with the assistance of friends sitting around at small tables the night was unique.

The happy couple left on the G.T.R. train for Port Hope and Belleville amid showers of rice. Mr. and Mrs. Pilling will reside on Rubidge street on their return.

Your Christmas puddings you can buy,
At prices that will not be high;
Mince meat too, and gifts for all,
If you goods olde English stall."

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING.

It is not too early to sit down and plan out your Christmas shopping. The merchants have laid in their supplies of all kinds of holiday goods, and are ready to show them to their customers, and it may be said here that at no former holiday season was there a finer or more generous supply of all kinds of goods, knick-knacks and novelties, which always find a ready sale about this season of the year, than there is at present. Times have been good, very good, and are still good, with most people, and the merchants have laid in stocks accordingly, anticipating perhaps the largest and most profitable trade of any season for years. Those who prefer to buy the materials and make their own Christmas presents—and these are generally most appreciated—cannot begin too early to make their purchases. These, again, whose Christmas gifts are to cross the sea, will be none too soon in looking out for that which they desire to send away. And all purchasers of Christmas gifts or goods should do their buying as early in the season as possible, because, notwithstanding that the merchants place in stock an immense amount of goods every season, as the days go by the stock dwindles down, and those who have left their selections to the last have to take what is left, instead of having their pick of the whole stock while it is fresh and unbroken.

Through the aid of the newspaper and the advertiser, shopping has become a pleasure. Examiner advertisers tell daily what they have for their many customers, the kind and quality of the goods, the price, and all other information that it is necessary to know. Ladies in search of what they want should consult the columns of the Examiner.

It is none too early to begin your Christmas shopping.

MAYORALTY CANDIDATES.

In another column appears the address of Alderman Dr. Morrison, announcing his candidature for the Mayoralty for 1905. We have not space to-day to refer in detail to his address and the matters arising from it. Alderman Morrison has had three years municipal experience and he has made such good use of his opportunities that this experience easily represents what many more years of experience would be to a person who took a less serious and practical view of his responsibilities. The electors are referred to Alderman Morrison's address which is deserving of very careful reading and consideration.

Millinery Clearings Before Christmas.

We are busy clearing all our high class hats out of the way of the workmen who are preparing to make alterations and improvements in our store. We offer positive sacrifices in fashionably trimmed hats, children's bonnets and all untrimmed hats. Come early in the forenoon, when we can give you best attention.

2d Miss Delaney.

PETERBOROUGH BED AT MUSKOKA FREE HOME.

Where Peterborough Consumptive Patients May be Treated Free.

Last night a meeting in the interests of a movement to endow a bed at the Muskoka Free Hospital for Consumptives was held in the Ontario Bank Board Rooms. There were present Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, in the chair; Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Dr. Carruthers, Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, Rev. J. F. Scott, Messrs. Mayor Roger, G. W. Bennet and Dr. McNulty.

Mr. Bennet spoke of the general features and excellent character of the work done at the Muskoka Sanatorium, and Rev. Mr. Parker indicated the conditions in connection with the endowment and maintenance of local beds.

A committee, consisting of Col. E. B. Edwards, Dr. McNulty, and Messrs. J. W. Bennet and J. J. McBain, was appointed to consider and suggest ways and means of extending the subscription list for the "Peterborough bed," which will cost about $300 per year, and during the course of a year will admit of the treatment of three Peterborough patients — the average length of treatment necessary being about four months. This bed is intended for the use of those patients who are not in a position to pay for treatment. Those who are able to pay in part or in whole are expected to do so to the extent of their ability.

Already about $100 has been contributed, among the subscribers being R. M. Dennistoun, J. W. Bennett, W. H. Hamilton, W. G. Ferguson, [illegible] G. Morrow, G. M. Roger, E. B. Edwards, Mrs. Jas. Woods, Dr. Scott, Tully, Merrell & Meredith, T. F. Matthews, J. C. Shook, Miss Edwards, J. P. Cunningham, Adam Hall and George Webber.

Subscription lists may be found at the several bank offices, where contributions may be recorded, and will be acknowledged in the town papers.

J. W. Bengough Coming.

The coming of J. W. Bengough, undoubtedly Canada's greatest cartoonist, on Dec. 8th, in the Opera House, is an event which should prove of more than ordinary interest at this particular time, and recent events have provided subjects for the exercise of his ability as a cartoonist. Local subjects and issues will be dealt with by Mr. Bengough. Mr. Norman Jolliffe will furnish musical numbers. The plan of hall opens on Monday, Dec. 5th for subscribers, and on the 6th for the public, at Ormond & Walsh's. Reserved seats 35c. 1d

World's Fair.

It is to be hoped that no one will miss visiting the World's Fair, which will take place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday afternoons and evenings. There will be attractions for old and young, and one visit will insure a second. Dinner will be served from 12 to 2, and supper from 5.30 to 7. The following musical programme will be rendered on Thursday evening:

1. Chorus and solo..... Gentlemen of Japan.
2. Dance..... The Misses Roy, Wallis, M. Burnett and K. Burnett.
3. Song, "It was the Dutch" ..... Masters Frank and Carl Halpany.
4. Trio, "Three Little Maids from School" The Misses Hughes-Charles, Hasel Dean and Gladys Crane.
5. Comic song..... Mr. Pilcher.
6. Sun Flower Chorus..... Mr. Halpany will also appear in his popular selections.

There is to be an especially attractive electrical display.

Arrangements have been made with the Street Railway Company to have special cars after the evening's entertainment. 1d

FROM LOG FORT TO CITY

EDMONTON, ON SASKATCHEWAN, LAST OF CANADIAN CITIES.

Its Proportional Growth Has Been Greater Than That of Any Other Community in Canada—Originally a Trading Post—Fortune for a Foxskin—Old Freighting Days—Great Place for Mixed Farming.

Twenty-two years ago there were just 12 log buildings at Edmonton. A few weeks ago Edmonton was made a city. Its proportionate growth has been greater than that of any other community in Canada. No wonder the citizens are proud of their town, and confidently predict that it will be a second Winnipeg. If Winnipeg is the gateway to the West, Edmonton is the gateway to the north. The city on the Saskatchewan, last of Canadian cities, is not the least fair.

Like Winnipeg, and, indeed, like most Western towns, Edmonton was originally a Hudson's Bay post. Fort Edmonton, the place was called, in honor of a chief factor of the company. In the troublous times, when the white man owned just what real estate he could defend with his gun, every trading post was built with a view of withstanding Indian assaults. Not very long ago Fort Edmonton was enclosed by a stockade, and a bastions at each of its four corners. Before these were cleared away they were called upon more than once to justify the wisdom of their builders. In 1869, Old Sun, at the head of his Blackfeet, made an attack from the other side of the river, where Strathcona now stands, but, fortunately, little harm was done. Two little brass cannon, still on view, may have had their effect on the courage of the savages. Again, in 1885, the settlers from the surrounding district flocked to the fort, but were unmolested.

The fur trade has been for more than a century the backbone of the industrial life of the city. Nearly every large European importer has an agent there to secure the peltries which are brought in by the trappers. The bulk of the trade, of course, belongs to the Hudson's Bay Company, and is not disposed of at Edmonton, which is used by the great company as a mere agency for collection, the yield being shipped direct to London, where it is sorted and sold. In the early days immense numbers of buffalo were killed on the great plains to the southeast. Later on, when this source failed, the woods Indians had their day, and countless beaver, bear, fisher, fox, marten, wolf, wolverine, mink, lynx, skunk and muskrat skins were gathered in the Mackenzie, Peace, Yukon, and Athabaska River districts and traded at Fort Edmonton. If this business is not so great to-day as it was when game was more plentiful, it is at least greater in Edmonton than in any other place in Canada, and must be worth at least $250,000 a year. An Edmonton firm—McDougall and Secord—has the honor of holding the record price, of recent years, for a silver fox skin. This beautiful pelt sold in London for $1,700. Furthermore, Edmonton deserves, if any Canadian city does, the much abused title of "sportsman's paradise." Game is not to be killed in the city itself, perhaps, though no doubt prairie chickens have been seen swaying on the telephone wires, as they have been in Winnipeg within a few years, but moose, elk, blacktail, bear, caribou and antelope may be bagged at no great distance, while geese, sandhill crane, ducks, prairie chicken, partridge and rabbits abound in every direction from Edmonton.

Old Freighting Days.

It was well that game should be plentiful near Edmonton in the days before the Canadian Pacific Railway, when it took all summer for the freighters to go to Winnipeg and return with supplies. Ten weeks on the trail each way was the standard time for the old Red River carts and the oxen which dragged them. This was at the rate of a hundred miles a week, and was good speed when one considers the roads and the loads and the vehicles, which latter were usually home-made, and not infrequently renewed on the trip. These were the days when it cost ten cents a pound to ship from Winnipeg to the Saskatchewan, the days when the freight on a barrel of salt would amount to $30, the salt itself being worth perhaps a dollar.

Great Place for Mixed Farming.

It is as a farming and stock-raising centre that Edmonton will thrive long after the last beaver has yielded up his pelt. Great ranches, such as those south of Calgary, there are none, the land being better adapted to smaller holdings where mixed farming can be carried on, and this holds true of the country that lies between Calgary and Edmonton—the foothills of the Rockies. The soil is rich, and will produce strawberries with almost the same facility as No. 1 Manitoba hard. The sloughs furnish hay for the cutting, and in the poplar bluffs is fuel for the hauling. With wise Government encouragement and supervision Alberta should be a second Kentucky for horses, but it is a deplorable fact that the immense industry of stock breeding has been studiously neglected by Dominion and local authorities in the east and the west alike.

Gold in the Saskatchewan.

Gold-washing is another important industry in the Edmonton district. "Pay dirt" was discovered in the Saskatchewan by a former school teacher named Clover in 1862, and the news attracted hundreds of miners from the United States. In 40 years more than $3,000,000 in gold has been washed from the river, and at present large dredges are employed during the summer months delving in the river bed. The whole district is underlaid with practically inexhaustible coal deposits, the fact that the best lignite may be delivered anywhere in the city for $2 a ton being thus explained. Natural gas has also been found quite near, and the presence of petroleum indicated.

Modern Edmonton.

Edmonton to-day has an urban population of 10,000 people, and few appearances of Western "wooliness." There are banks, hospitals and hotels, with tips for attendance; telephones, electric lights, and complaints, no doubt, about the power; four newspapers, two breweries, fire halls, churches and Sunday school prizes for punctuality; dye works, a pork-packing corporation, public schools, and boys playing "hookey." There are also clubs, social and athletic, afternoon teas and heart-burnings, to say nothing of saw mills, flour mills, and men with three fingers on each hand who work there. Just as there are in the east. Above all, there are the old Rockies, with their venerable white heads, and the free winds and the sky. This is Edmonton. This is the West. And out here they call it God's country.

Dirty woodwork or any other part of the house that requires cleaning can best be cleaned by using Place Names In England.

"Phonetic laziness" in the matter of place names is notorious in the north of England, writes a correspondent of the London Chronicle. Lancashire has a curt way of dealing with troublesome names. "After all," writes a correspondent, "there is an excuse for saying 'Coat'n' instead of Ulverstone in these days of stress and hustle, and life is too short to say 'Little Urswick' when you can make yourself understood more easily by 'Ibsik.' In Cumberland I once asked the way to Aspatria. The native didn't understand for some time, when it suddenly dawned upon him that I meant 'Spethry.' Difficulties of pronunciation, however, present themselves to the Londoner much nearer home than Cumberland. In Essex for instance, I once asked a laborer if he could give me some rough idea as to how far St. Osyth was from any known outpost of civilization. He was a most intelligent fellow, for he had scratched his head only four minutes when he exclaimed, 'Oh, you mean Teosy!' I supposed I did."

Tribute to "The Thunderer."

In 1841 the London Times was instrumental in detecting and bringing to the light of day a far reaching scheme to defraud by forgery not only English bankers, but many prominent bankers of Europe. In an action at law brought against the Times the jury found the charge technically true, and a verdict of 1 farthing damages was given, but the judges refused costs.

As there had been enormous subscriptions to reimburse the Times its costs were set on foot at the Mansion House and throughout Europe. A goodly sum was raised, but the Times firmly refused to handle any portion of it, and it was devoted to scholarships, bearing the name of the paper, to be held at Oxford, Cambridge and Christ's hospital, while marble tablets commemorating the event were set up in the Royal Exchange and the Times office, a notable tribute to straightforward English journalism.

Henry Clay's Father.

John Clay, the father of Henry Clay, the distinguished statesman, was not only a Baptist, but a Baptist preacher. He resided most of his life in what is known as "the slashes" of Hanover, and his farm, on which he lived for many years, is two or three miles from Ashland. Here his son Henry was born, and probably Porter Clay, who removed to Kentucky and became a distinguished Baptist minister. Robert B. Semple, in his "History of Virginia Baptists," says that the Black Creek Baptist church in Hanover county was originated by John Clay and that he was pastor of the Chickahominy church and did much missionary work in the region around.

Rules to Follow in Conversation.

Raillery is the finest part of conversation, but as it is our usual custom to counterfeit and adulterate whatever is too dear for us, so we have done with this, and turned it all into what is generally called repartee, or being smart, just as when an expensive fashion cometh up those who are not able to reach it content themselves with some paltry imitation. It now passeth for raillery to run a man down in discourse, to put him out of countenance and make him ridiculous, sometimes to expose the defects of his person or understanding, on all which occasions he is obliged not to be angry to avoid the imputation of not being able to take a jest. It is admirable to observe one who is dexterous at this art singling out a weak adversary, getting the laugh on his side and then carrying all before him. The French, from whom we borrow the word, have a quite different idea of the thing, and so had we in the politer age of our fathers. Raillery was to say something that at first appeared a reproach or reflection, but by some turn of wit, unexpected and surprising, ended always in a compliment and to the advantage of the person it was addressed to. And surely one of the best rules in conversation is never to say a thing which any of the company can reasonably wish we had rather left unsaid, nor can there anything be well more contrary to the ends for which people meet together than to part unsatisfied with each other or themselves.—Dean Swift.

The Way to Get Press Tickets.

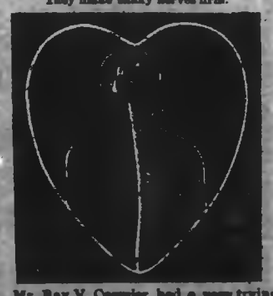
During the course of his investigations one New York press agent learned that enterprising young men often had fifty or a hundred letterheads printed, with the same number of envelopes, and with these letterheads, which represented them as editors of a paper which had no actual existence, they set about acquiring theater tickets. Over in Jersey City one chap was found who actually printed a few copies of a paper at intervals to send to managers of theaters. He paid his printing bills with theater tickets and had enough left to pay him for his trouble. No one ever saw his publication except the theater managers to whom marked copies were sent.—Leslie's Magazine.

Jellies and Custards.

Almost every housekeeper knows the value of a wet hot towel in unmolding jellies and custards. They will appreciate the suggestion in Good Housekeeping of a cold towel to assist in removing a cake or pie from the baking tin. Wring the cloth out of cold water, fold and lay on the table and set the hot baking tin on it for a few minutes, when the delicate cake or pie may easily be removed.

Palpitation of the Heart—Nervous Prostration—Cured by Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

They make weak hearts strong. They make shaky nerves firm.



Mr. Ray V. Cranmer had a very trying experience while at College; but, thanks to Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, he has been restored to health. He tells his experience in the following letter to us:—

"Wallington Station, P.E.I., Dec. 3rd, 1903.

"Messrs. The T. Milburn Co., Limited,
"Toronto, Ontario.

"Gentlemen,—Having been cured of a very troublesome disease, I find it my duty to write you a few lines. I was troubled with a very great palpitation of the heart and nervous prostration. I was attending with it at College, and could not follow up the games of the University without being overcome with fatigue. I could not descend the stairs without resting half-way. I have tried many remedies, and was getting quite discouraged, but after writing to a certain physician, he sent me three boxes of pills. I used three boxes, and am now completely cured; I cannot thank you enough. You can use this letter for the purpose of benefiting anyone who is suffering as I did. My name is in Canada, but I was on present I am on Prince Edward Island.

"I remain, your obt. Ser't. Ray V. Cranmer."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, 50 cts. per box, or 3 boxes for $1.25. All dealers, or mailed on receipt of price.

FLOATING THE BONDS.

Announcement of Speyer Brothers Issued in Wall Street Journal.

New York, Nov. 30.—Details of the Grand Trunk Pacific project are announced in connection with the financing of the road by Speyer Bros. The following announcement was made in The Wall Street Journal today:

The road is to be built in two divisions, the eastern from Moncton, N.B., to Winnipeg, 1,800 miles, and the western from Winnipeg to the Pacific, 1,500 miles. Rails are to be standard 75 and 80 pounds steel rail. Contract specifications for a line "on a standard not inferior to the main line of the Grand Trunk from Montreal to Toronto." The western division is to be completed by 1911.

The eastern division will be built by the Canadian Government under Grand Trunk supervision. The western division will be built by the Grand Trunk Pacific under Government supervision. When completed the entire line will be operated by the Grand Trunk.

The eastern division will be leased for fifty years on a rental equal to 3 per cent. of the cost, and at the end of that time Government may extend the lease or operate the road itself. At all times the Grand Trunk Pacific concedes a right of way to other systems as the Government dictates.

On the eastern division fifty-year 3 per cent. Government debentures will be issued. The Grand Trunk has nothing to do with the financing. The Grand Trunk Pacific will have nothing to do with the eastern division until it is ready for operation. After this date for several years no rental will be paid, this seven years interest being paid by the Government as a bonus.

The western division on which bonds are now being sold is divided into two sections, one prairie, the other mountain. On the prairie section the Government will guarantee 3 per cent. bonds up to 75 per cent. of cost not to exceed $13,000 per mile. For the remainder of the cost the Grand Trunk Railway will guarantee Grand Trunk Pacific second mortgage bonds. In case of a default the first three will get 75 per cent. and the second bonds 25 per cent. of net revenue.

On the mountain division the Government will pay the interest on bonds up to 75 per cent. of cost, not stipulated as to amount, for the first seven years. Thereafter for the three years the company will be liable, but no foreclosure will be possible, the accumulated debt being capitalized and repaid to the Government on 3 per cent. bonds. After the ten years the bonds will become bonds guaranteed by the Government absolutely.

All western bonds are to be dated on the completion of the property, equipped and ready for operation. When this is done the first mortgage debt will be 3 per cent. guaranteed bonds. The second mortgage, representing additional cost, may bear any interest. Of the stock $20,000,000 may be preferred and $25,000,000 common. The latter goes to the Grand Trunk, which will thus control the new property.

Can't Afford Ill Health.

Cure is Cheap at any Price—Benefit Certain if You Try

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Only the wealthy can afford to be invalids.

They alone can bear the expense of constant attendance by doctors and high salaried nurses.

Your time is your capital, and, whether your daily task is in the home or abroad, you must make every day count or prove a burden to yourself or friends.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is well-suited to the needs of a multitude of people because because it overcomes weakness, first, weakness of the blood and nerves, and through them the weakness of the organs of the body.

It may require a dozen or more boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to make you strong and well and send the thrill of health through your shrivelled arteries and wasted nerves.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a creator of blood and nerve force you can be positive that each box of it is at least doing you some good. Prove this by noting your increase in weight, as new firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body.

Mrs. Cross, 148 Rubidge Street, Peterborough, Ont., states:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in my family and have found it to be a great nerve builder. One of my children had been troubled with nervousness for a couple of years and suffered greatly from dizzy nervous headaches. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has entirely freed her of these symptoms, and to-day she is real strong and healthy. We do not lose an opportunity of recommending this splendid medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

Bess, Queen of Strategists

By RUTH SANTELLE

Copyright, 1904, by T. C. McClure

The bushes at the top of the steep bank parted, and a girl dashed down the faintly worn path, landing with a light spring on the narrow strip of pebbly beach. Without a breath of hesitation she seized the prow of the little steel boat, gave a vigorous push, a practiced leap and stood poling swiftly over the shallows with one oar. The blue line of deep water reached, she dropped into the seat and rowed with long, strong strokes. Half across the arm of the lake, that lay between the mainland and the little island toward which she was pulling, she rested on her oars.

"Hm—m!" This in a tone of mild surprise. "The bloodthirsty pursuer doesn't seem to be gaining very rapidly. Not a sign of him yet. Guess I'll give him a little chance. I've excuse enough for wanting to remodel myself, goodness knows!"

And she raised her arms, bared to the elbow and brown against the white of her gown, to a mass of tawny hair, very bewitchingly disheveled from the precipitousness of her launching.

"I'm morally certain he saw me, too," she reflected, braiding the heavy coils into a shining rope that more than reached the floor of the boat as she sat, "for he came around the corner of the piazza just as I crossed the road into the thicket. I should think he'd want to say goodby after—after—everything. But I don't care! I said I'd never speak to him again, and I shan't!" She seized the oars and pulled the remaining half mile with vicious, snappy strokes.

It would have been much cooler back in the evergreens, but she disposed herself on the open sand with the pillows, book and parasol which formed part of the boat's furnishings. The bright scarlet sunshade was thus unmistakably visible from the mainland.

The warm discomfort of her vigil was at length rewarded by the outputting of a boat with a single white flannelled occupant. The scarlet parasol swung around and presented a broadside view to the water. When the oncoming boat was half across, the girl, her back persistently toward it, gathered up her belongings and betook herself calmly to the friendly shadows a few yards away.

The novel must have been intensely interesting, for she had apparently not taken her eyes from its pages during all the time that an athletic looking fellow was beaching a boat, crossing the sand and throwing himself on the ground at her feet.

"I came over to say goodby, Bess," he volunteered to the back of the book.

No answer.

"And to ask you to forgive me."

Continued silence.

"Won't you forgive me, Bess?" with quiet earnestness.

Over the top of the book he was given an instant's burning glance of scornful eyes.

"Oh, I know you told me never to speak to you again, and I don't suppose you'll answer me either. I was a fool not to get at least your forgiveness last night, but some way I was too—too stunned, I guess. But whether you'll speak to me or not I must have the privilege of saying a few things that I want you to know. If—if you'd just put the book down and let me know that you're hearing, Bess!" he pleaded.

The leaves of the novel only turned the faster.

"I'm going on the 5 o'clock train," he said tentatively. "It seemed the only thing to do to make it easier for—for both of us after—after—everything. But probably you heard that I am going. I was simply thinking that as we'll presumably never see each other again it wouldn't do any harm and would be so much more satisfactory if you'd just let me explain."

"Explain!" she flashed, unaware, then bit her lip and turned another page.

He smiled in spite of himself, though her anger was far from being an amusing thing to him.

"Yes, explain," he continued, evidently encouraged. "The first thing I should want to do if I knew I had your permission" (he paused for the response that was not vouchsafed), "is to tell you that so far this has been the happiest summer of my life and to thank you for it. I've had such a good time, Bess! I'm working pretty hard, you know, since they made me a partner, and wasn't intending to take any vacation. But when your aunt's note came asking me for the house party I was too deliriously glad to care a rap for the consequences. Because I knew what it meant, you see—that you had suggested it and wanted me to come."

She stirred uneasily, plumped up a cushion behind her back, snipped an ant from her skirt, then took up the book again, not seeming to notice that a score of pages had fluttered over.

"I suppose you'll hardly realize what it has meant to me." He was on his back, hands under head, and might have been addressing the tiny patches of blue that shone between the green boughs overhead. "I went into the business so very young and have been about so little. It was especially hard after I met you at the pier, to know that I was so different from the others."

The soft end of the heavy braid lay near him and he fell to caressing it absently. As he still gazed overhead he could not see that the book was lowered and two shining eyes were regarding him stealthily.

"And then when I came you were so good, better than to the rest, Bess. You gave me the most time and the most favors. It—well, I guess it turned my head, that's all. And when I came upon you unexpectedly in the shadowy hall last night"—

"Don't speak of it again, Arthur Morton!" she cried so vehemently that it brought him to a sitting posture. "Everything was lovely, and we did have a good time, and then you had to spoil it all by t-trying to k-k-kiss me. I n-never was s-so d-disg-graced in my life!" Her voice choked with angry sobs.

"Please, Bess, I can't bear to have you cry. Anyway, as long as we are having a final straightening up I'm going to finish the nasty business. When I told you last night that I made a mistake, that I thought it was one of the housemaids, I told you a lie. There. Now I suppose it is up for good!"

"A lie! Then you did know? You did mean—but really, Mr. Morton, you must excuse me from discussing this disagreeable subject any further. I said all I had to say last night." She rose stiffly and went over to the boat for the tea things.

All the while that she was rather blindly laying out her dainty lunch her most inconsistent heart was singing: "He did! I'm glad! He did! I'm glad!"

But the man sat very still, his face buried in his arms.

Then she waited for the boiling of the water over the spirit lamp with apparent fascination in its progress.

The man looked up at last.

"Yes, it was a lie," he said miserably. "I knew perfectly well it was you. It's hardly likely I should mistake any one for you, Bess. I was just loving you very hard, and the moon was in the wrong quarter or something, and my head swam—and then it was over with. When I said I thought it was the maid it was just a desperate attempt to make it easier when I saw how hurt you were. Above all, Bess, don't imagine for an instant that I ever thought you that kind of girl! I had a feeling that things were different with us, that we almost understood each other—such a conceited fool is a man in love! It is for seeming to think so poorly of you that I want to be forgiven."

She turned on him a dazzling smile.

"I forgive you," she said, "and won't you have a sandwich? The water is nearly boiled."

Promptly he took—not the sandwich, but the hand that proffered it, also the mate.

After a perceptible lapse of time the girl said softly: "But I never could if you'd believed it the housemaid! What did you expect, sir? Is a girl to be kissed by a man who's never even said he loves her and not say she's angry? Anyway, you've missed your train."

"Some day there'll be another," he answered comfortably.

They rowed back side by side in the man's boat, towing the other, whose oars had mysteriously disappeared.

"Queer about those oars," remarked the man half way across.

"I—I—dropped them overboard when I went to get the tea basket," said a very small voice. "I was afraid you'd start to go."

Here they stopped again, for the average rowboat is distinctly to move without some assistance.

THE AIRSHIP IN WAR.

Col. Copper, of British Army, Thinks That Within a Year Supremacy of Nations Will Be Determined in Air.

I think that within the next twelve years the supremacy of nations will be decided in the air.

The British Government is seriously considering and spending much money just now on the problem of the airship. Our War Office recently commissioned Dr. Barton, the most expert man to-day on aerial machine construction, to build an airship for practical use in war. The War Office has stipulated, and Dr. Barton has guaranteed, that his machine shall be able to carry three men, also fuel and apparatus for twenty-four hours, remain in the air twenty-four hours, have a speed of thirteen miles an hour in calm, turn in a circle of a hundred yards and finally ascend and descend without apparatus working from the ground. In all these particulars I believe Dr. Barton will succeed.

The whole problem of aerial navigation has already been successfully solved, and nothing more remains but to work out by experiment the details of lifting and driving power.

Almost every Government is spending money like water in order to be first in the field with a practical flying machine, and so gigantic is the stake that its anxiety is not to be wondered at.

Suppose the Russians possessed to-day one single dirigible airship. They would be able at once to locate the positions of the Japanese forces.

It is a pity that in the present war the two opposing armies have not the advantages of the airship. If they had I believe the campaign would have been ended by this time without the appalling slaughter that has already been committed.—Col. John Edward Copper.

The King and the Botanist.

M. Gaston Bonnier, a distinguished French botanist, while searching for rare plants some time ago near Stockholm was somewhat surprised to see another man, who was a stranger to him, engaged in the same work. He spoke to him, and the two compared notes until the hour for dinner arrived, when M. Bonnier said: "I must confess I'm hungry, and I propose that we go and look for dinner somewhere."

"Come home with me," said his companion. "Our dinner is ready now, and it will give me pleasure to introduce you to my wife."

The Frenchman accepted the invitation, and, entering the city, they walked on until they reached the royal palace. "Surely we're not going to dine here," thought M. Bonnier, but he was mistaken, for, taking him by the arm, his companion led him through the palace and into the drawing-room, where he said to him kindly:

"I can promise you a first class dinner. Yes, I am Oscar, King of Sweden, but what does that matter? I am delighted to have made your acquaintance, and I only hope that you will enjoy yourself while you are with us."

Then he introduced him to the Queen and a few minutes later dinner was announced.

Stale Bread Griddlecakes.

Soak two cups of stale breadcrumbs for one hour in a quart of milk which must be boiling hot. Pour this over the breadcrumbs. Separate the yolks and whites of two eggs and beat light. Into the soaked breadcrumbs add first the beaten yolks, then three ounces of flour, a tablespoonful melted butter, a small teaspoonful of salt. Beat these well; then stir in lightly two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and the beaten whites. Grease the griddle and bake quickly in small thin cakes until a golden brown. These are the most wholesome of all griddlecakes.

Treated by Three Doctors for a Severe Attack of Dyspepsia,

Got No Relief From Medicines, But Found It At Last In

Burdock Blood Bitters.

Mrs. Frank Hutt, Morrisburg, Ont., was one of those troubled with this most common of stomach troubles. She writes:—"After being treated by three doctors, and using many advertised medicines, for a severe attack of Dyspepsia, and receiving no benefit, I gave up all hope of ever being cured. Hearing Burdock Blood Bitters so highly spoken of, I decided to get a bottle, and give it a trial. Before I had taken it I began to feel better, and by the time I had taken the second one I was completely cured. I cannot recommend Burdock Blood Bitters too highly, and would advise all sufferers from dyspepsia to give it a trial."

AN AMBASSADOR'S WIFE.

Lady Durand, wife of Sir Henry Mortimer Durand, British Ambassador at Washington, who is just now in the public eye because of the strained relations between Great Britain and Russia, is one of the most popular members of the diplomatic corps at the national capital of the United States. She is not only a charming hostess, but is very clever with her pen.

ing the daughter of Teignmouth Sandys of Cornwall, whose family has lived on the same estate at St. Kerern for nearly 500 years. She married Sir Henry in 1875 and lived in India for the fifteen years her husband was connected with the Bengal service. They have two children, a son and a daughter. The son is a cavalry officer in the British army.

Monkey Puzzle Tree.

During the cruise of Vancouver's expedition to the Pacific and northwest coast of America (1791-95) the members were entertained at dinner at Valparaiso by the Viceroy of Chile. In the course of the dessert some "nuts" were served which, so the host told Archibald Menzies, the surgeon of the expedition, were the seeds of the Chile pine.

The doctor, being a wise man, put a few of these seeds in his pocket and on his return to England had them planted in the botanical gardens at Kew. From them grew the first araucaria ever seen in Europe. It became the lion of the gardens and was a prime favorite with William IV., who never failed to point it out to visitors when he happened to be at Kew.

The King's interest in it at first arose perhaps from the fact that Menzies had been a shipmate of his. This historical tree died early in 1893, and its kind, which stand the British climate fairly well, are known by the name of monkey puzzle.

IT WILL KEEP

It is not always necessary to use a whole bottle of Scott's Emulsion. What is left will keep. We have seen a bottle of our Emulsion three years old that is still good. What other preparation of cod liver oil will keep sweet and permanent for half that length of time? Scott's Emulsion is always reliable because it's always absolutely pure.

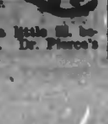
BAD STOMACH MAKES BAD BLOOD.

You can't make sweet butter in a foul churn. Every farmer's wife knows this. Your stomach churns and digests the food you eat, and if foul, torpid or out of order, your whole system suffers from blood poisoning. You will have foul breath, coated tongue, bad taste, poor appetite and a whole train of disagreeable symptoms. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which is not a beverage composed of whisky or alcohol, being entirely free from intoxicants, is a great regulator and invigorator of the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

"About a year ago I was ill with blood poisoning," writes Miss Bertha Lewis, of 68 Walnut Street, Buffalo, N. Y. "I had what seemed to be a small cold sore on my lip. It very soon began to spread over my face. I suffered untold pain and could not go out. I took a number of bottles of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and also used your 'Pellets.' When I began to take your 'Golden Medical Discovery' I was greatly benefited with the first bottle and after taking the second bottle was completely cured. The eruptions soon disappeared and my blood was cleared. My complexion is clear and fresh and I have felt better this year than I did for many years before. Everybody says I look well. I attribute my cure entirely to your wonderful medicine."

Don't accept a substitute for a medicine which performs such cures and which has a uniformly successful record of nearly forty years to its credit. It's an insult to your intelligence—for a dealer to try by over-persuasion to palm off upon you in its stead some inferior article with no record to back it up. You know what you want; it is his business to make that sell.

$500.00 GIVEN AWAY, in cases of The Proprietors Common Sense Medical Adviser, paper bound, sent to the extent of SIXTY cents in stamps, if you have any of the symptoms mentioned above. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.



Constipation although a little ill, begets big ones if neglected. Dr. Pierce's Pellets cures constipation.

A Famous Quartette Coming.

The finest quartette that has ever appeared in this town will be the famous Meister Glee Singers of London, England, who are recognized as the finest quartette in England, and who stand unique by themselves. They appear here on Monday, December 12th, at Bradburn's opera house. The members of the party are all of them admirable soloists, and their part songs include many of the finest glees of a classical character, down to plantation sketches with banjo accompaniments. They will be assisted by Miss Ethel Henry, elocutionist, one of the most beautiful women on the English stage, and Mr. Roland Henry, in humorous musical sketches. Mr. Henry is the successor of George Gresmith in his particularly happy line of work.

THE GUILD HOCKEY LEAGUE QUESTION.

A Meeting to be Held This Evening to Discuss the Plan.

The meeting in the Y.M.C.A. to-night for the purpose of discussing the advisability of forming a Guild Hockey League is arousing considerable interest. Several of the Guilds have signified their intention of entering the league and no doubt a schedule which would provide some excellent contests could be drawn up. The matter of securing ice accommodation can be arranged without difficulty. It is hoped that all the Guilds will be represented at this evening's meeting, when the feasibility of the scheme will be thoroughly discussed.

HOCKEY.

A fair writer in The Toronto Star advocates the establishment of a Girl's Hockey League and says Peterborough has one. The letter reads:—Sporting Editor Star: For a couple of years I have felt the need of a girl's hockey league. Why do not some of the "big fleks" subscribe a cup or something for the girls to play for. It would not take long to form the league. We have some splendid lady skaters, and there is no reason why we should not have a first-class girls' hockey league. All the outside places have them—Peterborough, Hamilton, Lindsay and dozens of others—and surely Toronto is as up-to-date as any of them. Now, I am getting up a girls' hockey team, and I want several good skaters, who must be respectable. If there are any young ladies who would like to join they can address me as

FARMER'S INSTITUTE CLOSING MEETINGS

Meetings Held Yesterday in Council Chamber and in North Monaghan.

There was a small attendance at Tuesday afternoon's meeting of the Farmers' Institute, in the Council Chamber. The president, R. Q. Dench, occupied the chair, and the speakers were Mr. W. F. Kydd of Simcoe, and Mr. G. Carlow, of Warkworth, Secretary of the East Northumberland Farmers' Institute.

Mr. Kydd spoke on the subject, "Am I raising the most profitable horse?"

The same address was given at Lakefield, and was reported at length in yesterday's Examiner.

Mr. Carlow spoke on "Dairying." The farmer, he said, should be careful to select the best possible sire in breeding. He spoke of the necessity of properly feeding the calves, and recommended a certain course to be followed in this respect. The stables should be kept in a healthy condition, they should be high and ventilated and white-washed at least twice a year. A filthy stable would have a very bad effect on the milk. There should be plenty of light, which would assist in destroying any disease germs. In winter the temperature should be kept at about 55 degrees to get the best results. The winter food consisted of ensilage, roots and clover hay.

Mr. Carlow thought that butter could be profitably made for six months of the year and cheese during the remaining six months. He also thought that the cheese making business had been over-done in the past year, resulting in the existing lowered price. He showed how butter-making could be profitably carried on in winter.

SERVICES BEING LARGELY ATTENDED

Jubilee Services at St. Peter's Cathedral This Week.

The services at St. Peter's Cathedral this week in connection with the fiftieth anniversary of the proclamation of the Dogma of the Immaculate Conception are being very largely attended. This week's services are for the man and fully 1,000 have been in attendance so far at the evening services. The Jubilee for men opened on Monday and will close to-morrow morning, when mass will be celebrated at 8 o'clock. Masses have been celebrated at 6, 7 and 8 o'clock every morning and have been well attended.

On Monday evening a sermon on "The Immaculate Conception" was preached by Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore. Last evening Rev. Father McGuire, of Walter, preached on "Moral Sin" and this evening Ven. Archdeacon Casey will preach.

The assisting priests from out of town this week are Ven. Archdeacon Casey of Lindsay; Rev. Father McGuire of Hastings; Rev. Father Whibbs, of Campbellford; Rev. Father McGuire, of Wolfe; Rev. Father Fitzpatrick, of Ennismore.

FINE WEATHER IN NORTH WEST.

Mr. A. C. Carveth of Hall's Glen Returns From West.

Farmers Will be Prosperous Though, the Yield of Wheat will be Smaller.

Mr. A. C. Carveth of Hall's Glen, returned this morning from the North west, where he has spent the last three months, visiting with friends and seeing the country.

Mr. Carveth was at Oxbow, near Estevan, Assa., the greater part of the time, and reports that in that part of the West the crop of wheat this year was not very satisfactory, the average yield being from 10 to 15 bushels per acre. There were portions of the country which yielded 25 bushels per acre, but as a general thing the lower figures would be nearer the mark.

He attributes the small yield partially to the ravages of hail, and to frost, which did considerable damage to the grain, which was sown later this year than usual.

The threshing, which usually required about six weeks or two months to complete, was done in about a month this year, doubtless because of the smaller yield, consequently the farmers had a good opportunity of getting their fall ploughing done, and this opportunity was taken advantage of.

The weather, which during the threshing season was very disagreeable, cleared up, and the last month was the finest that the residents of the West have ever seen for November.

While the yield per acre of wheat this year was less than last year, the farmers of the West will receive almost as much for their crop, for the prices paid are much higher than last year, and the wheat is now selling for about 80 cents a bushel, which, even with a small yield per acre, will bring good returns.

Nearly all of those who went to the west to engage in the harvest, have returned, the tickets expiring to-day.

A MUSICAL CRITICISM ITSELF CRITICISED

A Letter of Interest to Three Persons, at Least.

Peterborough, Nov. 23, 1904.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I appeal to you for an explanation and a correction in your paper regarding the criticism tendered Mrs. MacGregor by the musical critic of your staff in to-day's paper.

Why does he pronounce Mrs. MacGregor a mezzo-soprano? Where did he get his musical education? How does he know the range of the singer's voice? and did he ever look at "Costa's" "I will Extol Thee" in "B flat"?

Judging from his remarks in the paper he cannot be familiar with that exceedingly difficult solo, and for his own benefit he better look at a copy in that key and see whether a mezzo-soprano would attempt it, or even a student of two or three years study in the art of singing could intrepret the different passages correctly. What authority has he for saying Mrs. MacGregor's voice was "forced" in the upper register?

This is not the first time your critic has unjustly commented on Mrs. MacGregor's voice, and if he had used a little wisdom by inquiring who she formerly was in Toronto, he might have saved himself from any embarassing position some time later on as some of his acquaintances there will be highly amused when they see he has had the audacity to comment on a professional who has a standing socially as well as musically in two large cities.

However, he better be very careful in future of his remarks.

I am pleased to know there are some of the most influential and cultured citizens of Peterborough who have heard Mrs. MacGregor and are willing to support the sentiment of this letter.

T. DUNCAN MacGREGOR,
CHAS. E. MILLNER,
Organist George St. Church.

The above letter is published, because, without its text, the "explanation" and "correction" appealed for would be unintelligible. There is very little "explanation" needed; the singer in question invited criticism, it was given, and was an honest expression of opinion in respect of the vocal performance dealt with. The paragraph in regard to the classification of the singer and the anger regarding the "critic's" musical education, seems to be impertinent to the occasion. "Mezzo soprano" is a somewhat elastic term. Because a singer struggles up to tones in the soprano register, or worries tones in the contralto register, does not prove that she is either a soprano or contralto. A singer's classification is genbrally determined by observation of the tones of the register in which the singer is, so to speak, most at home, and if, on a given occasion, the tones generally associated with the middle soprano are produced with the greatest ease and best effect, the hearer, without wider experience, is not to be sneered at as musically ignorant, if he classes the voice as a mezzo soprano. We have in mind two singers, of some little reputation, not won by puffing, or social standing. Harold Jarvis, in his announcements, has at different times classed himself as a tenor and a baritone, and Ruthven McDonald, has, in the same way, classed himself as a bass and a baritone.

As to "correction," the writers of the letters cannot complain from their point of view, if the letter itself is suggested as sufficient.

A gratuitously misleading insinuation is the statement that "this is not the first time that your critic has unjustly commented on Mrs. MacGregor's voice." Our critic only once before heard Mrs. MacGregor sing—her name was mentioned in the publication of a programme and no comment whatever was made upon any of the singers contributing.

What in the world social standing has to do with vocal ability of an artist is hard to see; a society queen might not be able to sing a note, while a person of the humblest extraction might do the work of an Albani or a Melba.

The implied threat in regard to "being very careful in the future," is unworthy of notice. The Examiner has done all it was able to do to foster deserving musical talent, and promote the interests of music, but it never has, and never will, undertake to manufacture musical reputations to order, or otherwise.

More comment than is, perhaps, deserved, has been given the above letter, simply because there will be no return to the subject.

OPEN AIR RINK THIS WINTER.

Peterboro' Radial Railway is Building a Free Public Rink.

No Charge for Skating Provided the Street Cars are Used—Open in a Few Weeks.

(From Yesterday's Last Edition)

Peterborough is to have plenty of rink accommodation this winter for those who desire to indulge in the healthy exercise of skating and for the first time in many years there will be an open air rink in town. The Peterborough Radial Railway Company is now building a large open air rink which in the course of a few weeks will be ready for use. The rink is being built in a lot owned by the Company at the foot of Lock street, a short distance from the Exhibition Grounds.

The skating surface will be about 25,000 square feet and the enclosure will be pear-shaped with a large curve at one end. The rink will be quite long and about 200 feet in diameter and will be built so as to accommodate a large crowd.

The rink is to be free to the public provided they ride to the rink on the cars. Each passenger will be given a coupon which will admit him or her to the rink. A fee will be charged those who have not such an admission ticket. It is the intention to have the band engaged for at least twice a week and everything possible will be done to accommodate the public. A first class band stand, dressing rooms, waiting rooms and other conveniences will be provided. The rink will not be used for hockey purposes, but purely for skating. A good street car service will be provided to and from the grounds and the rink will no doubt prove an attractive resort for the young people of the town. The rink will be ready for use in two or three weeks if the weather is suitable.

THE PRIMARY AND JUNIOR UNION

At the Last Meeting Rev. E. A. Langfeldt Took the Lesson.

Every Friday evening many Sunday School teachers of the different churches in town meet at the Y.M.C.A. for the study of the lesson for the coming Sunday. This praiseworthy work is largely due to the zeal and enthusiasm of Miss Williamson, the President of the Union. Last Friday a large number of teachers and clergymen were present. Miss Williamson had charge of the Primary Lesson. Her mode of teaching the very young, the babies of the Sunday School, is a most excellent one. She illustrated the lesson in a most interesting and simple manner, just suitable for the children of the Infant Class.

She was followed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt who had charge of temperance lesson from Isaiah 5:1-12. After giving the historical surroundings of the lesson, and explaining some difficult phrases in the chapter, he gave the teaching of the lesson on temperance. He pointed out the sad results of intemperance as seen in the ruined honour, ruined physical and mental strength, misled wisdom, discernment and lost influence of the victim of excess. To overcome intemperance, God had provided helps and forces against the evil, which the speaker pointed out. He believed that no man-made gospel could ever make the drunkard sober. The one effective means was "Christ". Bring a soul to Christ and he will be temperate. It was unfortunate that intemperance was exclusively applied to excess in drink. Mr. Langfeldt thought that their was plenty of intemperance in other things. There was a good deal of intemperance shown at 5 o'clock teatables when ladies discussed other people and by the intemperate use of their tongues often made much trouble. There was intemperance in eating, in pleasure, and in many other things which God denounced. "He that strive for the mastery is temperate in all things", saith the Apostle.

Some people's only religion was total asstinence or prohibition. Mr. Langfeldt knew a man personally whose only glory was "total abstinence". Besides being a total abstainer from drink he was also one from entirety any place of worship; he was a godless, prayerless man,—dishonest and foul-mouthed in the bargain. But because he was a prohibitionist he was looked up to by a certain class of people, and pointed out as an example.

Mr. Langfeldt did not believe in that kind of temperance. He preferred a man who would be "temperate in all things."

The meeting closed after listening to a very interesting and instructive address from Mr. H. A. Hardy on "Primary Teaching."

These Friday evening studies of the Bible lessons should be patrohized by all Sunday School teachers. Dr. Crothers will take the lesson next Friday evening.

LATE MRS. ROSE SAUVE.

Death of an Old Resident Occurred Yesterday Morning.

Early Tuesday morning the death occurred of Rose Sauve, relict of the late Joachine Sauve. The deceased lady was born in Montreal and has resided in Peterborough for the past past 29 years. Her husband predeceased her by about five years. She was 84 years of age and leaves two daughters, Mrs. Leo Dase, of Hamilton, and Mrs. P. Dignault, of town; and two sons, Napoleon, of Michigan and Joachine of Quebec. She was a well known and always highly respected lady and a large circle of friends will sincerely regret her demise.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son-in-law, Mr. J. Dignault, 257 Water street, on Thursday morning at 9 o'clock, and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

That Watch of Yours

Is in many respects similar to a railway engine. Let an engine be run without oil or cleaning and before long it will stop dead. Upon examination it will be found that the friction and wear and tear has ruined the machinery, and it is fit only for the scrap iron heap. Likewise your watch, you put in it your pocket, and while there is a kick in it, you, in your mistaken economy, do not consult the watchmaker and consequently rob your watch of years of good service and also much of its former accuracy. The time keeping qualities of a good watch are maintained and often improved by timely and skilful attention. If you have been one of the neglectful ones, call around and see us.

PREMIER ROSS AND TEMPERANCE

His Position in Regard to a Compulsory Vote—Was Against Clause Three, But Did Not Intervene in Any Way---The Platform as it Relates to Temperance Reform is the Most Advanced Ever Adopted in Canada---Gain Rather Than Loss to Temperance Cause.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—Hon. G. W. Ross, Premier of Ontario, writes as follows in the Globe over yesterday's date:

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to my attitude an the resolution submitted to the convention regarding temperance, which I think might usefully be cleared up.

Briefly, the circumstances are as follows: The Committee on Resolutions reported a temperance platform containing six clauses; the first two and the last three the convention adopted almost unanimously. When the report of the committee was submitted to the convention it was moved by Mr. A. B. McBride of Waterloo, seconded by Mr. Thomas Murray of Ottawa, that "this report be not received, and that no change be made in the license law, and that the same be strictly enforced." This was rejected by the convention very summarily, showing that the Liberal party demanded something more than the mere revision of the present license laws.

On the report being auvmitted seriatim clause one was adopted, approving of legislation for curtailing and restraining the treating habit, reducing the consumption of intoxicating liquors, closing drinking resorts, preventing the sale of liquors on Sundays and during prohibited hours, and generally the most vigorous enforcement of the license law. This clause was adopted with apparent unanimity.

Clause two provided that where 25 per cent. of the ratepayers petitioned for a vote to be taken under local option, such vote should be taken without reference to the Municipal Council. It further provided that the alternatives of Government control over the sale of liquors and the present license system should be submitted to the electors, as well as restrictions for the shortening of hours and the reduction of the number of licenses. This also carried without open dissent..

It was on clause three that there appeared to be some difficulty at first of reaching anything like unanimity. The clause is as follows:

"3.—That in each municipality a vote be taken at the municipal elections of 1906 on the two questions, the abolition of the bars and abolition of shop licenses, the result to be decisive, and to go into effect at the expiration of the then outstanding licenses, and that all necessary legislation be introduced in the meantime to enable this to be done. In municipalities in which licenses are continued a similar vote may be taken at any time after three years."

Clause Three the Problem.

It was held that this clause was unnecessary in view of the option given to have a vote taken on petition under clause two, and the question the convention had to decide was, whether, having given the opportunity to the electors of taking a vote where public opinion was sufficiently advanced to express itself in a petition of 25 per cent. of the electors, a vote should be forced upon other municipalities where there was no such evidence of temperance sentiment. This was the policy of the Liberal party in 1878, when the Scott Act was passed. Counties were not forced to vote by act of Parliament, but they voted on a petition of the electors.

During the discussion of these resolutions two of my colleagues took exception to clause three, and this view was supported by active Liberals from different parts of the Province, such as W. S. Bewell of Brockville, J. McDonald Mowat of Kingston, Edward Devlin of Ottawa, W. F. Summerhayes of East York, Alfred Wood of Ottawa, A. E. Dyment, M.P., Senator Cloran, E. J. B. Pense, M.P.P., D'Arcy Scott of Ottawa, Rev. Geo. T. Webb of West Toronto and J. R. Lumley of Fort William.

As opposed to this resolution in favor of retaining clause three, the chief speakers were Mr. F. S. Spence, Mr. R. C. Steele and Mr. Henry Moyle of North Toronto. As far as I have been able to recall the proceedings, no person outside of Toronto spoke in favor of retaining clause three.

No "Cabinet Council."

Now I am charged with the offence of setting up my colleagues to speak against the resolution; in fact, it is said that a "Cabinet Council" was called upon the platform for that purpose. There was neither a Cabinet Council nor a conference of Ministers upon the resolution. The Ministers who spoke did so as delegates, and without any suggestion from me or any other person, so far as I know. I believe they spoke wisely, and the best test of the aptness and wisdom of their remarks is that clause three was eliminated with the overwhelming approval of between two and three thousand Liberals, the great majority of whom are thoroughly devoted to temperance and moral reform. Had it not been quite apparent that the convention would reject the clause in question, I would as a delegate have intervened, but in my anxiety to let the delegates frame the platform for the party on temperance and every other question I refrained from doing so. The absurdity of a vote is all the more apparent when it is known that there are 170 municipalities in which there is no hotel license and 661 in which there is no shop license, and that the German and French municipalities of the Province, and, indeed, many others in English-speaking communities, rejected the referendum by large majorities. To force a vote upon them so soon after their vote on the referendum could serve no useful purpose.

Gains Rather Than Loss.

The temperance platform gains rather than loses by the elimination of clause three. It is the best and most advanced ever adopted by any Province of Canada, and, as a clergyman said to me the day after, "it is more advanced than any religious denomination would ask its adherents to subscribe to as a test of church membership." I am confident that when it is more fully considered it will be accepted heartily by the great bulk of the temperance workers of the Province, who will not, I hope, forget the words used by Mr. F. S. Spence in the discussion of the temperance resolution when he said, "every item of temperance legislation, of which we are so proud, has been put upon the statute books of the Dominion and the Province by the Liberal party, promoted by a Liberal Government."

FUNERAL WAS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of the late John Bertram took place this morning upon the arrival of the 11.35 C. P. R. train from Toronto. A large number of Peterborough's representative men attended to pay their last respects to the memory of the deceased, who held a very high place in the regard of these not only in Peterborough, but throughout the province generally.

The funeral service at the grave was conducted by Rev. W. G. Wallace, of the Bloor street Presbyterian church, Toronto, assisted by Rev. Dr. Torrance of St. Paul's church, town. The bearers were relatives of the deceased. The chief mourners were Messrs. R. M. Bertram, Melville Bertram, Hugh Bertram, Peter Bertram, C. M. Home, T. Bradshaw, John J. Hall, J. Bertram, Alex. Bertram, T. J. Anderson. Other mourners who accompanied the remains from Toronto, were Messrs. Alex. Wright, David Boyle, T. C. Craig and L. Cameron.

There were a large number of beautiful floral tributes.

The town was officially represented by Mayor Roger, Ald. Adams and Rush, and Town Solicitor E. H. D. Hall.

Others who attended the funeral were Messrs, W. H. Hill, T. A. S. Hay, R. M. Denniston, J. H. Burnham, R. Hall, Aaron Cox, Dr. McFall, T. Fortye, R. Innes, Alex. Gibson, J. Connal, G. W. Hatton, James Stevenson, P. Hamilton, J. Tucker, E. B. Edwards, V. Eastwood, County Councillors Curtis and Buck, J. W. Bennett, Rev. J. J. Wright, D. W. Dumble, Rev. J. G. Potter, R. E. Wood, Dr. Boucher, G. E. Elliott, W. Yelland, W. Irwin, J. Carnegie, H. LeBrun, Richard Hall, A. McFarlane, W. Hamilton, J. H. Smith, F. J. Bell, F. D. Kerr, R. B. Rogers, P. McLean, R. Fair, J. E. A. Fitzgerald, H. C. Winch, and others.

COUNTY AGREES TO THE TRANSFER

At This Morning's Closing Session of the County Council, the Transfer of Two Lots, viz.: No. 3 on McDonel and Murray Streets, to the Town, was Recommended, and the Council Will Lease the Four Front Lots on George Street for Twenty Years—New Warden Elected to Succeed Mr. E. A. Peck, who is Appointed County Solicitor—Mr. T. M. Hunter, the New Presiding Officer—Mr. W. H. Casement and Mr. J. B. Pearce Were Appointed Arbitrators.

The County Council closed its last session for the year this morning, with the newly-elected Warden, Mr. T. M. Hunter, in the chair.

As is indicated below a change in the occupancy of the Warden's chair was made at yesterday afternoon's session, when Mr. T. M. Hunter was elected to fill the office for the remainder of the year in succession to Mr. E. A. Peck, who resigned, and who, subsequently, was elected County Solicitor.

This morning bylaws were passed, and reports of the Finance and Property Committees were adopted, and the members of the council who will not be members of the next council, gave short addresses.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

At the Wednesday afternoon session of the County Council Mr. O'Leary, the caretaker of the Mud Lake Bridge, addressed the council, asking for some timber to use for repairs of the bridge, which he said would in the near future have to be re-planked. He also stated that persons had stolen timber from the bridge, and suggested that the council have some signs painted, warning the public against their transgressing the law. He made a complete report as to the condition of the bridge.

The following report of the Property Committee were presented this morning and adopted.

The Committee on County Property beg to report:—

(1) That the County grants the application of the Corporation of the Town of Peterborough and the Board of Education of said Town requesting the County to convey its interest in Lot three South of McDonel street, and Lot three North of Murray street and West of George street in the said Town to the said Board of Education and the Dominion Government for the purpose of the erection of Armouries and a Collegiate Institute thereon.

(2) That the County shall lease to the said Town for twenty years its interest in lots one and two North of McDonel street, and lots one and two South of Murray street and West of George street in the said Town for Park purposes only, on the terms that the said lands shall be held and maintained by said Town for Park purposes and shall not be held or used for any other purpose.

(3) That the Warden and Clerk of the County for the time being be authorized to execute all conveyances, leases or other documents necessary to give effect to the terms of this report, it being provided that any necessary legislation be procurred free of expense to this County for the purpose of confirming and legalizing such conveyances or other documents.

County Council Chamber, 30th November, 1904.

Mr. E. B. Hall tendered his resignation from the office of County Solicitor, and on motion of Messrs. Hunter and Buck, it was accepted.

Mr. E. A. Peck resigned from the office of Warden and County Councillor, and his resignation was, on motion of Messrs. Shaw and Moloney, was accepted.

Mr. T. M. Hunter was on motion of Messrs. Shaw and Monogue, elected elected to the office of Warden.

The new Warden then took the chair, and thanked the council for the honour they had done him by electing him to the first office.

Mr. Peck, of the firm of Denniston, Peck, Kerr & Stevenson, was then on motion of Mr. Monogue, seconded by Mr. Moore, appointed County Solicitor.

Mr. W. H. Casement of Lakefield, was appointed County Arbitrator, on motion of Messrs. Moloney and Moore.

And resolved that this County Council of the County of Peterborough desires at this, the first opportunity to express its deep regret at the retirement from representation in the Legislative Assembly of the Province, of the Hon. J. R. Stratton, as well as his resignation from the office of Provincial Secretary, and coupled with this regret is the desire an appreciation of the excellent service that Hon. Mr. Stratton has rendered this County during the nineteen years in which he has been a representative in the Assembly, and more particularly since he became Provincial Secretary.

This County Council feels that no man could have more satisfactorily represented, and actively promoted the interests of his constituency, and this County owes a deep debt of gratitude to Mr. Stratton for the energy he has displayed and the faithful service rendered his constituents without political distinction, and express the hope that in the near future he may find it convenient again to enter public life.

The council then adjourned to Thursday morning.

The balance of the report is unavoidably held over until to-morrow.

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

EXPERIENCES OF NORWOOD HUNTERS

Two Parties Return and Re-Count the Incidents of the Chase.

News of Interest from Norwood—A Delightful Entertainment—Other Items.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Norwood, November 29th. — Mr. M. E. Knox of this place, accompanied by Mr. E. J. McRobert, Dr. J. B. Campbell, Mr. Jas. Ferguson, of East London, Mr. E. R. Hooker, and Mr. S. W. Tripp, Picton, formed a deer hunting party that went direct to the reserve of Mr. Ganet Vader, where they spent the entire 12 days. Mr. Vader is a royal entertainer, and left nothing undone to make the visit of the hunters all that could be desired. He owns 2000 acres, most of which is covered with a fine forest, and also has on it Valley Lake, a mile in diameter, and what are known as the Twin Lakes. The reserve abounds in all kinds of game, deer, wild cats, lynx, some bear, partridge and quail. Every member of the party had a good share of luck, and some exciting experiences. On Saturday Mr. Knox was wending his way through the woods, when a lynx dropped out of a tree immediately over head. Mr. Knox was wearing a heavy leather hat and coat at the time and escaped without injury, but the lynx fared badly, for it had not time to turn and attack him before he had discharged his rifle into it, killing it instantly. The party also engaged in a bear hunt, tracing bruin into a dense jungle, where he still remains. The ground that the party occupied is the old hunting ground of Mr. T. Fraser, of 14 years standing, who was unable to go on his annual deer hunt, being in the west. Mr. Knox took one of Mr. Fraser's hounds out that had been going to the same grounds for years. The party bagged two bucks, six does, one lynx and thirty-five brace of partridge.

Mr. Edward Martin, with his party, consisting of Messrs. Robert Martin, Wm. Martin, Geo. Gardiner, Dunmmer; Mr. Wm. Simpson, of Campbellford, and Messrs. P. Beckett and Dan Sedgwick, Norwood, hunted on their old hunting ground, between Big Jack's Lake and Little Jack's Lake. This is the eighth season they have hunted on this ground, and in the eight years they have killed 87 deer. This year they counted 14 deer—8 bucks, 4 does, 2 bucklets.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church gave a social afternoon to the ladies of the church on Thursday, in the Sunday school room, which was prettily decorated. During the afternoon a luncheon was served. The object of the entertainment was to create a deeper interest in missionary work, and the sociability of the church.

Rev. P. C. Parker gave an address in the Colborne Methodist church on Monday evening.

Rev. Mr. Smart, of the Methodist church, Blairton, addressed the young people of the Methodist Epworth League on Monday evening on the Forward Movement for Missions. At the close of his address there was an increase of 17 new members for the Movement, which was a very good showing.

Mr. Charles McNulty of Trenton, is home for a short vacation.

An entertainment of music and elocution was given in the town hall on Friday evening, under the auspices of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Church of England, in which the following talent took part: Miss Colina G. Craine, impersonator and vocalist, of Toronto; Miss Mary R. Powell, diplomist of the Toronto School of Elocutionist; Rev. G. McLennan, baritone soloist, and Master Eugene Lockhart, Canada's champion boy comedian and singer, all of whom were very much appreciated.

The auction sale of Mr. Peter McCann, of lot 1, con. 7, Belmont, took place on Tuesday, Nov. 15th. There was a large attendance, and good prices generally were obtained. Thos. Fraser was the auctioneer. The sale amounted to $1000.

At the auction sale of farm stock Bros., let 2, concession 5, Dummer, on Tuesday, Nove. 22nd, there was an extra large attendance. One bay Clyde mare, one year old, weighing 1110 lbs., sold for $136. Everybrought high prices, the sale amounting to $136. The Messrs. Clydsdale Bros. are thinking of moving to the Chicago of Ontario — Peterborough.

Among those who attended the Liberal Convention at Toronto on Wednesday were Messrs John Finlay, M.P., A. J. Robertson, Geo. Elliott, D. A. Fraser, J. J. Finlay, Wm. Shea, Chas. McNulty.

Mr. Eaton, C.P.R. mail clerk from Calgary to Moosejaw, was the guest of Mrs. Wm. Eaton, last week.

WAS MARRIED IN DANSVILLE

Nephew of Mrs. Geo. Carton Made a Benedict.

The Mail and Empire has the following account of the wedding of Mr. Charles A. Henderson, a nephew of Mr. George Carton of town:

"A very quiet but beautiful wedding took place at the Anglican Church, Dansville, N.Y., on Wednesday, November 23rd, at 7 o'clock p.m., when Bernice, the youngest daughter of the late Thomas Golden, of Toledo, O., was married to Mr. Chas. A. Henderson, of New York City, formerly of Toronto, son of Mr. J. B. Henderson, of Paris, Ont. On account of the illness of the bridegroom's father, who was staying at the Jackson Sanitarium, the ceremony took place at Dansville, and only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens, carnations, roses and chrysanthemums. The bride, in a lovely gown of white chiffon velvet, was escorted up the aisle by Mr. George W. Potter of New York, was given away by her mother, and the Rev. Wm. Allen of Dansville, officiated. She was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Irene Golden, who was beautifully gowned in pink chiffon, with large picture hat, carrying a huge bouquet of pink roses. The bride's mother wore a handsome gown of bisque chiffon, and the stepmother of the bridegroom was in black with black net. Miss Shaw of St. Catharines in green silk, and the bridegroom's sister looking sweetly pretty in white chiffon, were also present. The bridegroom's best man was Mr. H. Douglas Eby, of Toronto. After the congratulations and best wishes, the wedding breakfast was served at the Jackson Sanitarium. Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Henderson and party left for New York, on the evening train."

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure." — Mr. Wm. McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont.

No Blame For Anyone.

Toronto, Nov. 30.—The verdict of the coroner's jury appointed to hold an inquest on the bodies of the fourteen men recently killed by an outburst of gas in No. 1 Mine, Carbonado, in British Columbia, was handed out yesterday and was to the effect that death was due to suffocation and that no blame attached to anyone.

MILITARY MEN TELL THEIR NEEDS.

Continuation of Discussion re the New Armouries.

A Battery of Six Guns Would Likely be Located Here, if the Armouries Were Erected.

Continuing the report of the discussion which took place yesterday at the County Council with reference to the needs of an armoury in Peterborough, the following is published to-day, held over from yesterday's issue:

THE MILITARY NEEDS.

Colonel Miller addressed the council saying that the local military authorities had frequently asked the Government to erect a drill hall here which would provide the facilities for the drilling of the troops. The original idea was to erect $40,000 armories here, and at that time the plan was to erect this building on the present park, but since then the military authorities of the Dominion had come to the decision that the town of Peterborough should be made the mobilization point, to replace Kingston, and in the near future the stores department will be located here. To show that the Government were in earnest, plans had been prepared, showing mobilization facilities for artillery, infantry, and a city battalion, and the plans at present are to erect a very large and pretentious building, which will be used for the headquarters of the country military regiments. It must not be forgotten that if there is to be a large drill grounds, it will be possible to drill cadets upon it, and the importance of this feature should not be overlooked. The Government had asked the deputation to see the London armouries, and inform them if a building similar to that erected there would suit the local authorities, and Mr. Hyman appeared to be anxious to give Peterborough the largest possible building.

Colonel Miller made it clear that the military authorities were not asking for any privileges on the park but the drilling would be done on the grounds to the rear. The Midland Field Battery would in the near future be greatly enlarged, and there would be a full battery of six guns, and Colonel Buchan was also anxious that an engineers' corps should be established here, and other branches of the militia would also be formed.

THE RURAL REGIMENTS.

Mr. Hall, representing the rural regiments, said that at present these regiments had no headquarters which were in any degree commensurate with their requirements, and it was necessary that some further facilities should be provided. At present no inducements could be offered to men to enlist, but if suitable armouries and a base of supplies were located here the inducements would be much greater. About 50 or 60 men at present were drawn from this county, which was fully 75 per cent. of the total strength of the squadron.

BATTERY NEEDS.

Captain Ackerman, of the Field Battery followed, and said that for the last ten years Peterborough has provided two-thirds of the strength of the Battery, and the result of not having a suitable headquarters here, was that Port Hope had received the credit which should have come to Peterborough. At present the Battery was one of the best in the service, and had last year defeated the other Batteries, and was now in first-class shape. If a proper place were provided, no doubt a new Battery would be established here, and if new armouries were provided as a place to store the Battery supplies the country would be benefitted greatly.

Considerable discussion arose between the Council and the members of the deputation with reference to the proposal to convey the four front lots of the park, and Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald moved, seconded by Mr. Molony, that the matter be referred to the Property Committee, at the same time expressing his opinion that the proposition was a reasonable one, and should be met by the council.

The Warden said that he was very glad to welcome the deputation, and he might say frankly that they really must have the armouries, and he thought that some agreement between th two councels must be arrived at, and the matter of the front lots would be considered very carefully by the council before a decision was arrived at.

Mr. Hall added a word of explanation, saying that there could be no objection to acceeding to the proposal as submitted by the Mayor, who was willing that a clause should be inserted in the deed to the effect that the park should be used for park purposes.

The council then adjourned to meet at two o'clock.

FARMER TELLS OF A BAD TWO YEARS

Then Dodd's Kidney Pills Drove Away all his Pains.

Was Bent Over with Pain and Hardly Able to Work till He Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Consecon, Ont., Nov. 30. — (Special.) —Mr. David Rowe, a well known and highly respected farmer, living about three miles from here, is visiting his friends of his remarkable recovery from a long period of suffering by the use of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I had very severe pains in my back more or less for upwards of two years," Mr. Rowe says. "These pains seemed to concentrate their full force in the small of my back, and the pain was almost unbearable. It made me go bent over, and I could not straighten up to save my life.

"When I went to urinate it gave me great pain, and you may imagine I was not able to do much work. I consulted a doctor but his prescription did me no good.

"Then I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I felt better by the time I had used the first box. Ten boxes cured me completely."

New Bishop of Huron.

London, Nov. 30.—Rev. David Williams of Stratford was elected Bishop of Huron yesterday at the Synod of Huron, St. Paul's Cathedral, London, on the third ballot. The election was afterwards made unanimous. There were attending 100 lay delegates and 137 clerical delegates.

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. No Names Used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I blame the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated who you were first, and finding you had over 25 years' experience and responsible financially, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

Bartlett Against McKellar.

Winnipeg, Nov. 30.—A commission, composed of Judges Walker and Myers, began taking evidence Monday in the matter of the charges of Bartlett, the defaulting clerk in the provincial department of agriculture, against Hugh McKellar, chief clerk in the same department. Bartlett was the only witness examined Monday. He stated he and McKellar had a tacit understanding in advance regarding the funds misappropriated. The defalcations began in 1902, and hundreds of dollars were probably taken.

Sir Wm. Mulock At St. Louis.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—Sir William Mulock, Postmaster-General of Canada, who is visiting the World's Fair, carefully inspected the postoffice yesterday, afterward complimenting Postmaster Wyman upon its excellent management. Sir William was particularly impressed with the pneumatic tube service, which, he said, was far superior to the system in vogue in any Canadian city.

TO FALL ON FRIDAY

Significance of Japs' Port Arthur Success on Wednesday.

CAPTURED 203-METRE HILL

Jap Gunners Dominate Port Arthur City, Harbor and Fortress—Russian Destroyer Sunk—Destroyed By Friendly Guns While Returning to Vladivostock —Japs Are Falling Back Below Sintsintin.

Tokio, Dec. 1.—The Japanese have captured and now hold 203-Metre Hill. The force operating against 203-Metre Hill advanced at ten o'clock yesterday from trenches already captured near the summit of the hill and struggled for the south-eastern portion of the fort on the summit till after 7 o'clock at night, when the Russians were driven back.

With this last range of hills in possession of General Nogi no part of the harbor nor of the city of Port Arthur will be concealed from the view of the Japanese gunners. The prompt destruction of the warships and burning of the city will follow unless surrender is offered without delay.

No Refuge For Stoessel

There is no refuge for Gen. Stoessel's army except on the line of hills southwest of Port Arthur, known as the Liaotie Mountain. There is no water there for the army's supply, and there would be no way of obtaining food except that carried in the fight which must follow the final assault of the Japanese.

This is accepted in Tokio as practically the end of the struggle at Port Arthur. The final charge against the splendidly equipped line of final earthworks, in which breaches have been made, undoubtedly will cost the Japanese soldiers many lives, but their success will give them command of the entire city and harbor, and mark the capture of the great fortress. Its fall is expected not later than Friday.

Struggle On 203-Metre Hill.

Imperial headquarters made the following announcement at 10 o'clock last night:

"Our force operating against 203-Metre Hill advanced at 10 o'clock to-day from trenches already captured near the summit of the hill and are now struggling for the south-eastern portion of the fort on the summit. A fierce battle was still in progress at 7 o'clock to-night."

Russians Sunk Own Boat.

London, Dec. 1. — The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs: "It is reported that a Russian torpedo boat destroyer, returning to Vladivostock, from a scouting expedition, was sunk by the guns of the Russian forts by error."

Japs Falling Back.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 1.—Official and private despatches received here last night indicate that the Japanese are falling back below Sintsintin, where for several days they had apparently been attempting a turning movement. After four days of severe but unsuccessful fighting, they are now retiring, with the Russians in pursuit. It is impossible as yet to tell whether either movement has real strategic significance.

The Russian Consul at Che Foo telegraphs that the Japanese captured two forts in the storming operations against Port Arthur on Nov. 29, but the news is not confirmed from any other quarter. The Consul says the Japanese losses were enormous, and that 5,000 men were sacrificed in two hours.

Mikado Opens Diet.

Tokio, Dec. 1.—The Emperor formally opened the second war Diet yesterday. He rode through the crowded streets in a State coach, escorted by a troop of lancers, and accompanied by the Crown Prince, his staff and some members of the Imperial household, to the House of Parliament, where both Houses were assembled in the Chamber of Representatives.

On Dogger Bank Inquiry.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The President announced yesterday that Rear-Admiral Charles H. Davis has accepted the appointment on the Dogger Bank court of enquiry.

An Inquiry Made.

London, Dec. 1.—According to The Standard the Government has instituted a searching inquiry regarding British vessels coaling the Russian fleet, with a view to prevent any future breach of neutrality.

Beat On Other Foot.

London, Dec. 1.—(C.A.P.)—The Aberdeen Chamber of Commerce by 9 votes to 2 passed a resolution proposed by G. M. Cook, shipowner, urging the Government to remove the restrictions on the importation of Canadian cattle. Mr. Cook said at one time this was a Canadian question, but now the Canadians are not pressing Great Britain to admit their stock. The Canadian now got the advantage of finishing their cattle and derived the profit the home farmer formerly had.

A Tax on Theatre Tickets.

Victoria will probably be the first British community to levy a tax on amusements for the support of local charitable institutions. Mr. Bent, the Premier, proposes a tax of a penny on every shilling spent in the purchase of theatre tickets. The Melbourne theatrical managers are alarmed at this proposal, which, they say, means a levy of 8 per cent. on their gross takings. They have had a long conference with the Premier, but did not succeed in converting him to their way of thinking.—London Chronicle.

SUBPOENAS SERVED.

Hon. Mr. Graham to Give Evidence A Belleville—James Vance to Retire— Others Also Served.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—James Vance, secretary of the Ontario Liberal Association, has intimated to his friends that he intends to resign as soon as the election conspiracy investigation at Belleville is concluded. He would have been out of office now had it not been for the Liberal convention and the conspiracy case causing a change of his plan. He was asked for the reasons.

"I am tired of it," he said, "and will be glad to get out. I do not know just what I am going to do. I have not been well since the convention, and my physician has ordered me to take a rest. If it were not for the fact that my name has been mentioned in connection with the ballot box case, I would immediately go away for a rest, which I so much need; but if I left now my absence would be looked upon as a desire to evade giving testimony. If they want me I will go down to Belleville and explain the telegram that passed between me and Shibley.

"It has been well-known to my friends that I desired to get out, and I intended to do so as soon as the Dominion campaign was over. Then the convention came on and I did not want to leave the association without a secretary. I told Senator Kerr verbally before the convention that I wanted to be relieved, but in the face of the insinuations that are being hurled against me, I have not resigned, and I do not intend to just yet."

Mr. Vance was served with a subpoena by Detective Forrest yesterday afternoon. Early in the afternoon he called up the detective office to find out if there was a subpoena for him. He was told there was and a little later he called at the office for it. Mr. Vance made no attempt to evade service, as his absence from his office yesterday led some people to believe.

Hon. George P. Graham, the new Provincial Secretary, was also served with a subpoena to attend the ballot box investigation. Mr. Graham said he was on the point of telegraphing to Belleville, asking that he be permitted to give evidence.

Mr. Graham said yesterday that he remembered the visit of G. O. Lott and F. J. Reilly to his house in Brockville. There was nothing political in the visit. Mr. Lott said he had a few hours to spend in Brockville, so he thought he would call.

"Was there any mention made of trick ballot boxes during the interview?"

"Not the slightest."

"How did the talk about corruption arise?"

"The conversation on that point was in perfectly general terms, and had no reference to any riding in particular. I remember saying that I had no confidence in crooked methods of trying to win elections, and that I disapproved of outside workers being brought into any riding. I thought each constituency should manage its own campaign.

John J. Kelly, the Crown Lands official, who was present in the Somerset House, when Lott, Weese and Harryett, tried to induce John R. Bremner, the Bancroft editor, to perjure himself, has also been served with a subpoena, to attend the investigation at Belleville.

Reilly Resigns Position.

Kingston, Dec. 1.—In an interview yesterday F. J. Reilly declared that the stories published from Watertown were nearly all untrue, and that the tinsmiths over there were simply "loading up" the Canadians and then laughing at them for believing all they heard. In regard to Reilly's future movements, he states that he expects to resume his course in medicine at Queen's as soon as his trial is over. He has resigned his position as chemist on the Kingston College, his resignation to take effect at New Year's but he has now decided not to accept his former position, but will return to Queen's as soon as possible. He will go to Belleville on Friday next. He does not consider that any criminal case has been made against him.

Archibald Forsythe in Harrowsmith stated yesterday that he had sent a copy of the telegrams which passed between Shibley and Vance and Shibley and Lott, and will be on hand on Friday to testify.

WEDNESDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

Centre Wellington—James Tucker, M.P.P., Conservative.

North Norfolk—Dr F. L. Snider, Conservative.

West Peterboro—T. E. Bradburn, Conservative.

Killed By a Blow.

Winnipeg, Dec. 1.—Antonio Starnaud was found dead in his room at Norwood House yesterday morning, under circumstances which may develop into a case of manslaughter. Deceased was about 24 years of age and a native of St. Genevieve de Betican, Que. He arrived here thirteen weeks ago and had been working as a plumber in St. Boniface. Tuesday evening he had a scuffle with a man named Collin, on the street, in which he either got knocked or fell down several times, and was found dead in his room yesterday morning. On his face were the marks of bruises, and on one side was a cut, from its appearance, likely to have been caused by a blow from a fist.

New Bishop DuVernet.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 1.—The consecration services of Rev. F. H. DuVernet as Bishop of Caledonia, were held yesterday in Christ Church Cathedral. Morning prayers were conducted at ten o'clock, Archdeacon Norton, Rev. Herbert Symonds, and Rev. G. S. Boyle participating. Archbishop Bond, the primate of Canada, Bishop Sweetman of Toronto Bishop Carmichael, co-adjutor Bishop of Montreal, and Bishop Mills of Ontario, took part in the consecration services.

Civic Address to Eva Booth.

Toronto, Nov. 30.—Ex-Commandant Eva Booth of the Salvation Army has left Toronto for new scenes of labor, toil and Christian work. Last night a torchlight procession was formed at the Temple at 8 o'clock, consisting of many hundreds of her enthusiastic followers. They marched to the front entrance of the City Hall, where Miss Booth was received by His Worship the Mayor, Mrs. Urquhart and Ald. Ramsden and Hay of the Civic Reception Committee. The Mayor in addressing Miss Booth spoke of the wonderful work that had been accomplished during her eight years stay in Toronto. Miss Booth thanked the Mayor for his kind words and wishes and spoke of the able assistance she had received from the authorities and the citizens. The procession marched to the Union Depot. There was an immense throng at the depot to shout farewell and godspeed her on her journey. Miss Booth left on the 9 o'clock train for New York, where she will take charge of the Army in the United States.

Indigestion and Headache.

Mr. Duncan McPherson, Content, Alta., writes: "I was for many years troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, and derived no relief from the many remedies that I used. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after taking four boxes the result is that I am once more in the full enjoyment of the blessings of good health."

Surveys For Two Years.

Montreal, Dec. 1.—Arthur St. Laurent, engineer in charge of the Georgian Bay Ship Canal surveys, who was here yesterday, says the 425 miles have been divided into the Nipissing, the Ottawa and Montreal districts, and each district sub-divided into three sections, in all, with 145 men, and the surveys will take two years, but Mr. St. Laurent says that no insurmountable engineering difficulties will be encountered.

Revenue Increases.

Ottawa, Dec. 1.—The customs revenue for November amounted to $3,858,267. The receipts for November, 1903, were $182,952 lower. For the three months ending Nov. 30, the customs receipts were $17,844,033, an increase of $811,033 over the same period last year.

Horses that we use for racing purposes we treat with care and concern, machinery and other mechanical devices that we use continually we oil and keep in good condition, but the heart that must pump a whole lifetime, we neglect, overwork and misuse and only when it thought when it becomes weak and frightened and can no longer properly distribute our blood to all parts of our body, if you are living a fast life—dissipating or working hard, you must give your heart some nutriment so that it can stand the strain, is the best heart food. It will make your heart strong and healthy. It builds up the walls and tissues of the heart and enables it to distribute pure, clear blood to all parts of the body.

PROF. RUTHERFORD HONORED.

Awarded the Rumford Medal of the Royal Society of Britain.

London, Dec. 1.—The Rumford Medal of the Royal Society has been awarded to Professor Rutherford of Montreal University on account of his researches into radio-active matter.

Lord Strathcona, proposing the toast of the "Guests" at the dinner of the society referred to the pleasure it gave him to receive the medal for Prof. Rutherford. The award would be highly appreciated not only in Montreal University alone, but by the whole people of Canada. It was well that the colony and the Mother Country were coming together to carry on the great work of the Royal Society.

Nelson Won in the Tenth.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 30.—The battle between Young Corbett and Battling Nelson was fought before an immense crowd in Woodward's Pavilion last night. Nelson won in the tenth round, of which the following is a description:

Nelson went right after Corbett. Corbett hung to Nelson desperately, fighting back like a wild man. His swings were wild, however. Nelson again rushed Corbett to the ropes, landing at will with right and left on the face. Corbett was groggy, and the crowd yelled "Stop it! Stop it!"

Nelson went after Corbett, who could scarcely raise his hand. Corbett's seconds, seeing the helpless and hopless condition of their charge, threw up the sponge.

Corbett was carried to his corner with blood streaming from his nostrils, mouth and ears, an utterly defeated pugilist.

Nelson left the ring with scarcely a mark to show that he had been in a fight.

Reform Prejudiced.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Prince Mestchersky, editor of The Grashdanin and the foremost spokesman of the autocracy, holds that the inauguration of such reforms as are at present possible in Russia has been actually prejudiced by the "irresponsible agitation for a constitution which is now in progress."

MR. T. E. BRADBURN WAS THE CHOICE.

Of a Largely Attended Conservative Convention Last Evening.

Eight Were Nominated and Three Remained in the Field.

One Hundred and Sixty Delegates Present From the Riding.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn is the Conservative candidate who will contest the riding of West Peterborough against Mr. R. F. McWilliams at the coming Provincial elections.

The Conservative convention held last evening in the old Labour Hall, on Water street, was a largely attended affair, the hall being full to the doors. Delegates were present from the five wards of the town, the Young Conservative Club, and the country polling divisions, and the vote of these delegates was largely in favour of Mr. Bradburn. The rural divisions were well represented at the convention, Galway being the only division which failed to send delegates.

THOMAS EVANS BRADBURN,
Who was Last Night Chosen as the Conservative Candidate in West Peterborough.

The president, Mr. T. E. Bradburn, opened the meeting, but after receiving a nomination resigned the chair in favour of the vice-president, Mr. J. J. Lynch.

Eight candidates were nominated, and all but three of these declined to remain in the field. Those nominated were:

COLONEL J. W. MILLER, nominated by T. E. Bradburn.

T. E. BRADBURN, nominated by R. E. Layfield.

G. W. FITZGERALD, nominated by Jas. Bogue.

E. A. PECK, nominated by R. C. Strickland.

C. B. McALLISTER, nominated by Jas. Edgar.

DR. COUGHLIN, nominated by W. A. Brundrette.

JAS. KENDRY, nominated by E. A. Peck.

F. H. DOBBIN, nominated by S. Manning, of Lakefield.

COL. MILLER.

Brief speeches were made by those receiving nominations. Col. Miller thanked the mover and seconder of his nomination, and thanked his Conservative friends who had supported him in the past when he was in the field, but he would be unable to allow his name to go before the convention on the present occasion. He expressed his confidence in the Conservative leader, and his willingness to heartily support the Conservative candidate, whoever he might be.

MR. T. E. BRADBURN.

Mr. T. E. Bradburn was received with cheers. He was very grateful for the honour which had been shown him by the Conservatives in electing him president of the Association for for the past ten years, and he was willing to put his shoulder to the wheel and work for the man who got the nomination at the convention. They could win if they worked, and he wished to impress upon all present the necessity for constant effort until the polls were closed on election day. He had decided to allow his name to remain before the convention, and if chosen as a candidate he would do his utmost to win West Peterborough.

MR. G. W. FITZGERALD.

Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald also had decided to remain in the field, and was prepared to devote his time and energy for the interests of his party.

MR. E. A. PECK.

Mr. E. A. Peck was loudly cheered upon rising to speak, and it seemed the wish of the majority present that he should remain in the field. Mr. Peck, however, was unable to do so. He was delighted to see such a large and enthusiastic gathering of Conservatives, for it spoke well for the chances of the party in the coming contest. He would give his most hearty support to the candidate chosen.

MR. C. B. McALLISTER.

Mr. C. B. McAllister also expressed his intention of seeking the nomination of the party, and if chosen would do his utmost to carry the riding. He was entirely in sympathy with the Conservative leader and his proposed reforms, one of the first was, he considered, the secret ballot. He believed the Conservatives would be returned to power, and West Peterborough should fall in line. He was ready to stand by any candidate who received the nomination.

DR. COUGHLIN.

Dr. Coughlin, thought such large, enthusiastic and representative gathering as he saw before him was a good augury for the chances of the Conservatives in the riding. It was about time that there was a gathering which showed some determination to turn West Peterborough back to the Conservative fold. He could not allow his name to remain before the convention, but he was heartily in sympathy with the Conservative cause, and would give the candidate his support. He spoke of the necessity of complete organization, which was a strong factor in winning an election.

MR. JAS. KENDRY.

Mr. James Kendry was warmly received. He was glad to see the names of so many capable men before the convention. It would be impossible for him to accept the nomination, but he would be at the back of whoever was nominated. The organization in the past had not been what it should have been, and he attributed the recent defeat of the party to over-confidence. All must enter heartily in the work and he believed by so doing the riding would be redeemed.

Mr. F. H. Dobbin thanked the mover and seconder of his nomination, but could not allow his name to go before the convention. He spoke of the need for organization, and said he was in hearty sympathy with the Conservative cause.

A resolution was moved by T. W. Wilson, seconded by Jas. Kendry, to the effect that the convention pledge itself to unitedly support whoever received the nomination. The resolution was unanimously carried.

A resolution of confidence, in the leader, Mr. Whitney, was also carried.

There were 163 delegates present, each with his credentials, and they occupied the front seats. As each name was called the delegate answered and deposited his ballot in the box before the scrutineers, who were Jas. Kendry, E. A. Peck and F. Adams. The voting, and in fact, the whole proceedings, were carried on in a business-like way, and though the hall was crowded, there was no confusion.

BRADBURN THE CANDIDATE.

The vote stood as follows:

T. E. Bradburn..... 95
G. W. Fitzgerald..... 41
C. B. McAllister..... 27

The result was received with prolonged cheers, and cries of "Speech, speech!" were heard everywhere.

Mr. Fitzgerald moved, seconded by Mr. McAllister, that the nomination be made an unanimous one.—Carried CANDIDATE SPEAKS.

Mr. Bradburn thanked the delegates and those present most heartily for the confidence they had expressed in him in choosing him as their candidate in the coming contest. He hoped the choice had been a wise one, and asked all present to pledge their support. He entered into the contest to win, and he believed he would win if given the hearty support of the party.

The meeting concluded with cheers for the King, Mr. Whitney and the candidate.

A meeting of the Conservative Club was held at the conclusion of the convention, when several new games were added to the roll.

The Meister Glee Singers.

The Toronto Saturday night has this to say of the Meister Glee Singers, the famous male quartette, from England, which will appear in Peterborough, Monday, December 12th:—

The Meister Glee Singers, a male quartette from England, gave a very enjoyable concert in Massey Hall on Thursday evening of last week. They sing with great refinement and with a perfection of intonation and ensemble but rarely heard. In expression, accent and rhythm they are like many other English quartettes, somewhat placid. The audience were delighted with them, and recognized their fine work with numerous encores. Their selections included Kidner's glee, "Lull Me to Sleep," a fine effort in subdued singing; Edgar's "Whether I Find Thee", "The Old Folks at Home", with imitation banjo accompanied by Van Lennep's, which made a great hit, and a humorous number, "Sunday Fishing". Three of the members of the party also sang solos with great success. They were assisted by Mr. Roland Henry, a dexter in mild musical humour, something after the style of Grossmith, and Miss Ethel Henry, an accomplished reader.

This will undoubtedly be one of the greatest musical events in the history of the town. A subscribers' list is at the Examiner office, where names may be entered.

NEW WARDEN WAS ELECTED.

Mr. T. M. Hunter Fills Office Until Close of the Year.

MR. PECK RESIGNS.

Late Warden Appointed County Solicitor—Other Business of the County Council.

At the Wednesday afternoon session of the County Council, a number of very radical changes were made in the course of a very few minutes. The greater part of the afternoon was taken up with committee work, but just before six o'clock, the Council went into open session, and Mr. E. A. Peck, who, during this year, has filled the office of warden, to the entire satisfaction of every member of the council, was appointed to the office of County Solicitor, an office made vacant by the death of Mr. W. A. Stratton, and, since his death, temporarily filled by the firm of which he was a member. Mr. Peck subsequently resigned his position as Warden, and Councillor T. M. Hunter, of North Monaghan, was elected to fill that office for the remainder of the year.

Mr. Hunter's election was a complete surprise to himself, and in accepting it he made a short speech, thanking the Council for the honour they had done him, and expressing his appreciation of the confidence thus shown in him.

Mr. Hunter will fill the office until the new Council is elected at the January elections.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

Miss Eva W. Bradd Makes her Debut Into Society.

Mrs. (Dr.) Bradd was the hostess at a charming at home last Thursday afternoon to introduce her daughter, Miss Eva W. Bradd. Mrs. Bradd received her many friends in the drawing room, which was abloom with chrysanthemums and American beauty roses, while a profusion of palms and ferns added very effectively to the scene. A dainty tea was served in the dining room, where the tables looked beautiful, the colour scheme of green and white being tastefully designed. The young ladies who assisted were Misses L. Rush, O. Bradburn, H. Dean, A. McBain, M. Hall and M. Rush.

On Friday evening Mrs. Bradd and her daughter were the hostesses at a delightful dance at which about a hundred of Miss Bradd's young friends were present. Mrs. Bradd wore rich black lace over white taffeta, while her daughter was gowned in white Brussels net over taffeta, and carried a beautiful bouquet of roses. Miss Roberta Eakins of Toronto, assisted in receiving the guests, and wore white crepe de chine trimmed with embroidered chiffon. Miss Daisy Mills, who was also a debutantee on the occasion, wore white organdie trimmed with embroidered Swiss.

The Examiner to-day has to offer an apology for the fact that a number of articles have been omitted, the cause of this omission being that one of the three big type-setting machines, a machine that "eats up" copy at the rate of several columns an hour, was put out of commission early this morning, and though a duplicate of the broken part was telegraphed for it has not yet arrived, and as a consequence the news matter is not as full as it otherwise would have been.

Ladies' Literary Association.

The Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T. A. S. meet next Friday evening, Dec. 2, at 8.30. An essay on "Brother Azarias", will be read by Miss S. Kelly. "Brother Azarias" is the author of a number of excellent works, and a paper dealing with these, will prove highly interesting and instructive. Ladies of the committee are particularly requested to make complete returns concerning tickets after the Literary Meeting.

MR. GARNET GALLEY ELECTED PRESIDENT

Of George Street Methodist Young Men's Guild.

The regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild of George Street Church was held Monday in the Guild room. Mr. Geo. Robertson, Vice-President, was in the chair, and the meeting was devoted (o the transaction of business the principal item of which was the election of a president, the result being the election of Mr. Garnet Galley, who accepted the office, and will at once enter upon his duties.

Arrangements were completed for the Bengough concert to be held in the Opera House under the Guild's auspices December 8th, and committees appointed to carry out the work.

NEW COUNTY SOLICITOR.

The Examiner begs to extend its congratulations to Mr. E. A. Peck, ex-Warden, on his being selected for the post of County Solicitor. Mr. Peck's capable discharge of the duties of his late dignity, and his general qualifications, personal and legal, indicate him as a worthy occupant of an important and responsible office, and a worthy successor of the late incumbent of the position of County Solicitor.

WARDEN HUNTER.

The Examiner extends its hearty congratulations to Mr. T. M. Hunter, County Councillor for the Bridgenorth Division, on his selection to be Warden of the county, in succession to Mr. Warden Peck, who becomes County Solicitor. Mr. Hunter is well worthy of the position, both on account of his personal qualities, and also on account of his municipal experience. He has been a member of the Township Council of North Monaghan for fourteen years, the last two years as Reeve, to which, on both occasions, he was elected by acclamation. Mr. Hunter's occupancy of the honourable and dignified position of Warden, of one of the best counties in the province, is proof of the confidence and respect of his colleagues, which there is no doubt his discharge of its duties will amply justify.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE.

At the Conservative convention of delegates held last night, Mr. T. E. Bradburn was unanimously selected as the candidate of the party to contest the representation of West Peterborough at the approaching Provincial elections. Mr. Bradburn is very properly the subject of congratulations in respect of the confidence reposed in him by his political party, but congratulations on his prospects of success in the coming electoral contest are not so readily suggested. Personally, Mr. Bradburn is well known to the citizens, and in that regard needs no special introduction. In that respect he has no advantage over his opponent, and is at a distinct disadvantage in regard to the policy, or, rather, party, judged as a claimant for power, under whose auspices he enters the field. As a man is known by the company he keeps, so is a candidate to be judged by his political affiliations. Apart from his personality, he must stand or fall by the policy he represents. When Mr. Bradburn makes an announcement of his platform, and his claims for popular support, a fair opportunity will be afforded of dealing with these claims.

WEDDING BELLS.

Nuptials of Miss Emma Kennedy and Mr. John H. Leahy in Douro.

On Tuesday, November 22nd, St. Joseph's Church, Douro, was the scene of one of the most fashionable weddings, which has been seen for some time, when Miss Emma, only daughter of Mr. John Kennedy, was united in marriage to Mr. John Henry Leahy, one of Douro's most highly esteemed young gentlemen. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Kelly. The bride was daintily attired in a dress of rose coloured silk with trimmings of all-over lace and knife pleated chiffon, edged with silk and a black picture hat decorated with large black plumes and silver buckles. The bridesmaid, Miss Gertie Leahy, sister of the groom, was dressed in navy blue and a hat to match and Mr. Michael Kennedy, cousin of the bride, performed the duties of best man. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold locket and to the bridesmaid, a pretty brooch. After the ceremony the party repaired to the home of the bride's parents, where a hearty luncheon was partaken of and the evening spent most joyfully. The bride received most beautiful and costly presents. The bride's travelling suit was of brown ladies' cloth with trimmings of insertion, velvet and buttons. Their many friends give them many hearty congratulations and a happy wedded life. —Com.

Some of Montreal Snaps at LeBrun's

Look in at the George street window of the City Clothing Store, and see some of the grand bargains bought in Montreal by Mr. LeBrun last week. These include men's English braces, for only ten cents per pair; men's strong working shirts, worth 50 and 75c, for 39c each, or two for 75c. Fine white and coloured shirts, at 50c, worth double. Also see the Hunter street window for a smart showing of high class overcoats and suits, bought to sell at from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. below regular prices. Come on Saturday and Monday sure, and share in some of these snaps. H. LeBrun & Co.

THE MAYORALTY CANDIDATE'S RECORD

Dr. Morrison's Qualifications for the Position of Chief Magistrate.

Has Served Three Years in the Council and has Been Chairman of Important Committees.

The address of Alderman Dr. Morrison to the electors of Peterborough places him definitely in the field as a candidate for the mayoralty of 1905. At this time it is fitting that the public should know something more definite as to his career and experience than is generally known.

Dr. Alderman Morrison has been a resident of the town for fifteen years and has identified himself with the promotion of its interests in a more energetic, effective and public-spirited way than many of twice his length of residence. His relations to the town, and his interest in its progress, his devotion to, and his success in, his profession, have made him one of our substantial citizens, and his association with civic public affairs, designate him as a safe man to be intrusted with the duties and responsibilities of Chief Magistrate of the town. He has had a considerable practical experience with municipal matters, and that experience is made more valuable by the zeal and energy with which he has devoted himself to the duties of Alderman.

MATTHEW ALBERT MORRISON,
L. D. S., D. D. S., M. D. S.
Candidate for the Mayoralty of Peterborough.

Entering the council in 1901, he has consequently been three years a member, and his abilities have been recognised by his fellow Aldermen. In his first year in the Council, he was made a member of the Joint Town and County Committee. The second year he occupied the position of chairman of the Franchise Committee, and the third year he was, and is, chairman of the amalgamated Franchise and Manufacturers Committee. He was specially associated with the work which resulted in the resuscitation, on so strong a basis, of the street railway. This year the Manufacturers Committee has been busy with negotiations looking to the establishment in Peterborough of important industrial enterprises seeking a location. In this work Alderman Morrison had a large share in moulding the conservative policy of the committee, by whose application the interests of the town have been so carefully consulted. If the large steel corporation and the rubber company should be induced to locate here, no small share of the credit will be due to Alderman Morrison. He was, and is, also interested in the establishment in Peterborough of the Peterborough Tool and Shovel Company, and is assisting other enterprises.

Considering his relations to these matters, and his advanced and aggressive policy in relation to these and cognate matters, it is no surprise that Alderman Morrison's address should reflect his position. Its first paragraph strikes a key-note which will secure the sympathy of every citizen. A policy of progress and development is what Peterborough pre-eminently needs at the present time. We are just emerging into the status of city-hood, and the direction which will be given to our energies at the present time will determine to a large extent our future importance. A head of the Council who has shown by his past record a sympathy with progressive measures, should be able to infuse his earnestness into the Council with good results. Alderman Morrison's platform, as reflected in his address, covers pretty thoroughly the chief material and other requirements of the town. It is apparently well considered, and is, therefore, well worthy being well considered by every ratepayer. No ratepayer will do himself, and Alderman Morrison, justice, that does not give close attention to the programme which his address suggests. At the present time it seems unnecessary to enter into a detailed analysis of his address. As remarked, the first paragraph is the key-note.

Alderman Morrison has been faithful in the discharge of his aldermanic duties, and, apart from other considerations, equally weighty, deserves well at the hands of the electorate in his present appeal for support. As a rule, a man who has made a good Alderman, will make a good Mayor, especially when other qualifications are conjoined, as in the case with Alderman Morrison. He has a high standing as a citizen, has a large share of the confidence of his fellow citizens, and would make a capable and creditable occupant of the Mayor's chair.

LICENSE HOLDERS TAKE NO ACTION.

Report to the Effect That They Were Interested is Denied.

Mr. Arthur Rountree Says They know Nothing of Reported Action Being Taken.

The following paragraph appeared in a morning paper a few days ago, and in answer to it, the Examiner has been asked to make a reference:

A Times representative interviewed a number of the local hotel men yesterday, and found them to be entirely hostile to Mr. Ross. This probably is indicative of the feeling throughout the province. One leading hotel keeper, who has always been a staunch supporter of the Ross Government, said he believed that every hotel man in the province would be out against Mr. Ross in the present campaign.

Mr. Arthur Rountree called on the Examiner yesterday and requested it to say that the License Holders' Association, of which he is secretary, has taken no action such as that indicated above, and that he knows nothing whatever about any such action having been taken.

The license holders he says, are taking no part in the elections, one way or the other.

OBITUARY.

Death of Mrs. Margaret Hurley in Lindsay on Sunday.

After a temporary illness superinduced by a fall, sustained last summer, Mrs. Margaret Hurley departed this life on Sunday morning at 7 a. m., at the ripe age of 86 years. She was relict of the late John Hurley, who predeceased her many years. Mrs. Hurley was among the early pioneers of Northumberland Co., and moved here with her family some twenty-eight years ago. For a number of years she lived with her son Thomas on the farm in West Ops, later they moved into town. Up until six months ago she was in full possession of all her faculties.

She leaves behind to mourn her loss Thomas, with whom she had lived, P. J., the well known boot and shoe merchant, of town; John, of Peterborough and Michael, of Windsor; Mrs. P. Hartnett, of Ops; Mrs. John Twohey, of Ops and Mrs. D. O'Neill, of Chicago, who was with her when she died. The funeral will take place to-morrow morning, the remains going to St. Mary's church, where a requiem mass will be chanted, then to the R. C. Cemetery.—Lindsay Post.

ENGLAND SLIPPING INTO SEA.

Twenty Feet Each Year Is the Encroachment of the Water.

The alarming extent to which the sea is diminishing the area of the British Isles is hardly realized.

It is no longer safe to build near the coast line in many places, so persistent is the encroachment of the waters.

Freshwater Bay, in the Isle of Wight, is a case in point. Here there is great danger that Freshwater and Totland will be entirely cut off from the rest of the Isle of Wight, and a circumstance making the matter exceptionally serious is that on the portion which would be isolated are all the fortifications of the western part of the isle, including the Needless Fort, with its powerful ordnance.

The extent of the ravages of the sea may be judged by the fact that the continuous cliff road which formerly went round this portion of the Isle has been cut and now leads straight over the cliff into the sea.

A prominent resident of Freshwater expressed the opinion that prompt protective measures should be adopted by the War Office, the local authorities and private owners of land acting together.

In the current issue of The Lifeboat Society's journal an astounding statement is made. It is said that parts of the Holderness coast, in Yorkshire, between Bridlington and Spurn, are being swallowed up by the sea in exceptional years by as much as twenty feet a year.

At Pakefield, Suffolk, in 1884 the institution had two lifeboat houses on the seafront with timber slipways for launching the boats. Not only has every vestige of the houses and slipways disappeared, but many of the buildings standing some distance further inland have been washed away.

There are other parts of the coast, according to this journal, where to erect any thing of a character intended to be permanent would be simply throwing money into the sea.

The difficulty of dealing with the encroachments is that the sea is inexorable, and if its advance is stopped in one place it will force its way in another.

Great Lace Revival in England.

There will be a great revival in the wearing of lace this season, owing to the fashion set by Queen Alexandra and Queen Margherita of Italy.

Paris shops, taking their cue from royalty, are filled with lace goods of every description. In turn our own buyers are flooding the country with heavy importations of the various makes of lace which will lend themselves to the fashions of the season.

Owing to the encouragement of the Queen and Vicsroyalty in Ireland, modistes the world over have given precedence to the beautiful Irish point and crochet lace.

The wearing of the mantille has also produced a demand for the Maltese and Spanish laces, and the Egyptian, Persian, and Armenian scarfs.

Lace designs by Giovanni di Udini and other famous Italian artists are still in existance, and are now being revived for the use of the modern woman.

So great is the craze for old lace just at present that women of business instincts are lending valuable pieces which have come to them as family heirlooms to their vainer sisters for a sum of money that greatly enhances their bank account.

The Animal Man.

There cannot be a question, says The London Argus, as to the animal, man, being able to endure all classes of climate as against every other animal. Take for endurance the Weston walk in 1879, 1,977 consecutive miles in 1,000 consecutive hours. Then Gale, in 1877, walked 4,000 half-miles in 4,000 consecutive periods of ten minutes. And in the last century a man called Powell ran from London to York and back in 140 hours. The camel can beat this, of course, but then it fills its tank with water and stores its hump with nutrition before starting. The bump fades away as the journey goes onward. Then comes the reindeer; it can draw 200 pounds 120 miles in 12 hours. And there are extraordinary stories told in Sweden and Scotland of feats of endurance by the deer tribe. But, on the whole, for all kinds of endurance man comes first.

A Yarn About Yawning.

I have come to the conclusion, says a writer in The London Argus, that if a man yawns, and you don't want to yawn too, the only way to prevent it is to blow your nose! A man of my acquaintance boasts that he can set a whole railway carriage full of people off yawning by merely taking time over it himself. And I believe he can. I myself made an old woman yawn three times between Tottenham Court Road and Oxford Circus, and then she caught my eye and began to laugh. She had a sense of humor. She guessed what I was up to, and I had to mutely own up. But you can't do it with a child. And you can't do it with a young lady who respects the fit of her veil. She will see you somewhere first. But she doesn't blow her nose. She thinks she won't yawn, and she doesn't. It is all a lazy imitative.

A Suggestion.

Inventor—"This will be an eighty horse-power airship."

Hurt in Train Wreck.

Winnipeg, Nov. 30.—Two men were injured in a train wreck on the C.P.R. main line at Kaministiqua yesterday morning. The eastbound transcontinental ran into the rear of a freight. Engineer McLeod of the express had a couple of fingers broken and R. Cameron of Ignace, a car repairer, riding in the van of the freight, was seriously injured.

Conscience For Halifax.

Ottawa, Nov. 30.—Sir Frederick Borden was asked yesterday morning what truth there was in the report that the Imperial authorities desired the local troops to garrison Halifax. He said: "I have heard nothing of it whatever."

Engineer Ford Dead.

Barrie, Nov. 30.—Engineer Ford, who was injured in the Allandale accident on Saturday morning, died at the hospital Monday night. He leaves a wife and one son.

ANOTHER NILE BARRAGE

VAST SCHEMES OF EGYPT'S LATTER DAY JOSEPH.

The Great River Is to Be Regulated in Future as One Regulates a Kitchen Tap—Channel of White Nile to Be Improved So as to Add to Lower Nile Flood and Carry More Water During the Dry Season.

Vast schemes for controlling the Upper Nile are confidently put forward by Sir William Garstin, G.C. M.G., in a report just published, with a covering despatch from Lord Cromer by the Foreign Office. The report is really an elaborate geographical treatise on the Nile Basin, illustrated with numerous excellent photographs, maps and plans, and both in style and matter presents a welcome contrast to the ordinary blue book. Sir William Garstin and his staff have been studying the Upper Nile for five years, and the report shows that he has a complete mastery of his subject. The object of this prolonged inquiry is simply to find out whether the supply of water brought down to Egypt by the great river can be increased, and, is so, by what means.

"Egypt is the Nile, and the Nile Egypt," as we have often heard. Every raising of the level of the Nile at Khartoum means an extension of the area of land in Egypt which can be irrigated all the year round, and, therefore, an increase of the cotton crop, among others, upon which Egypt's prosperity and Lancashire's welfare depend.

Now Sir William Garstin has proved that at present the White Nile contributes almost nothing to the fertilizing flood which comes down once a year from the Blue Nile and the Atbara. On the other hand, the water that comes down during the spring and early summer is derived from the great lakes by way of the White Nile.

The problem is, therefore, to improve the channel of the White Nile in such a way that it will add to the Lower Nile flood and also carry more water during the dry season. At present as much as eighty per cent. of the vast quantity of water that flows from Lakes Victoria and Albert into the White Nile is lost on its passage through the swamps between Ledo and Fashoda.

Making a River.

Sir William Garstin proposes to cut an entirely new channel for the river, over 200 miles long, to the eastward of its present course, and thus avoid the marsh country, which "has an aspect of desolation beyond the power of words to describe." He would also regulate the outflow from the lakes by dams. Alternately, if this scheme proves to be too costly or difficult, he would train the channel known as the Bahr-el-Gebel by damming the tributaries and planting ambatch trees at intervals for hundreds of miles. By either plan he believes that he could add fifty per cent. to the volume of the White Nile at Khartoum.

Sir William Garstin also sketches great projects for regulating the Blue Nile, at a point several hundred miles above Khartoum. For political reasons he sets aside the scheme for damming Lake Tsana on the Abyssinian plateau and making it into a reservoir for Egypt's water supply. He would also dam the River Gash, which at present runs dry during half the year, and would thus irrigate the plain round Kassala. All these schemes need to be studied with a large-scale map, as the late Lord Salisbury used to say, for their magnitude to be realized.

Population Needed.

Sir William Garstin admits that the depopulation of the Soudan will impede the progress of these great works. But, he says, "What has once been may again be, and there are good grounds for anticipating an eventual return to prosperity—a prosperity perhaps even greater than that which excited the astonishment of Nero's envoys nearly nineteen centuries ago."

"Those," he continues, "to whom the privilege shall be granted of assisting towards this consummation, will have a chance given to them such as seldom falls to the lot of man. To rescue the Upper Nile from the marshes in which it has lost half its volume; to control and regulate the great equatorial lakes, making them add to the flow of the river at will; to cause the waters of the Blue Nile to rise and irrigate the fertile tracts through which they pass; to secure to Egypt a constant and sufficient supply for the entire area between the cataracts and the Mediterranean; to free that country from the ever-present danger of a disastrous flood—these are tasks worthy of comparison with any previously recorded in the world's history, and which, if sufficiently accomplished, will leave behind them a monument that will probably endure long after all evidence of those erected by an earlier civilization shall have passed away."

Lord Cromer, in his covering despatch, agrees that the great scheme should be adopted generally, though it cannot be carried out all at once. It would involve a total expenditure of £21,400,000—an Egyptain pound is worth £1 0s 3½d—of which £E18,000,000 would be spent in the Soudan and £8,400,000 in Egypt. The works would occupy at least from ten to fifteen years.

Lord Cromer proposes, first of all, to spend £E24,000 a year on further investigations by the Public Works Department, over which Sir William Garstin presides as Under Secretary. He first proposes to spend £E5,400,000 as follows: In providing middle Egypt with perennial irrigation, £E1,000,000; in reorganizing Egyptain railways, £E3,000,000; in raising the new Assouan dam, £E500,000, and in remodelling the Rosetta and Damietta branches of the river, £E900,000. Next, he would like to proceed with the proposed diversion of the White Nile into a new channel, at a cost of £E5,500,000. Another £9,000,000 would be needed for the regulation of barrages between Assiout and Kench, and the perennial irrigation of Upper Egypt.

The estimated result of these works would be to give water all the year round to 750,000 acres which now have only a partial supply; to bring water by pumps to 100,000 acres; and to add 800,000 acres to the area under cultivation. The increased revenue from taxation would amount to £E1,205,000 for Egypt alone.

Strange Wagers.

A gentleman of an old Shrewsbury family, named Corbet, says T. P.'s Weekly, bet and won his wager that his leg was the handsomest in the county or the kingdom! No doubt the tribunal empowered to pronounce this new Judgment of Paris was feminine, but who the ladies were is not recorded. Nor is it on record who were the judges that decided a somewhat similar bet in George II.'s reign.

A bet was made that the slums of London would be ransacked in vain to find an uglier man than Heidregger, master of the revels to His Majesty. At last an old hag was unearthed somewhere in St. Giles, whose hideousness was supposed to surpass that of the master of the revels, and the judges at first were inclined to admit the lady's preeminence. Before, however, pronouncing a final decision, they begged Heidregger, who entered into the spirit of the sport with the utmost good humor, to don the hag's bonnet, and the additional hideousness imparted to the appearance of the master of the revels by this grotesque head-dress won him the palm of ugliness.

In the year 1812 a clergyman, the Rev. B. Gilbert, brought an action at the York Assizes against Sir Mark Sykes, Bart., for the continued payment of an extraordinary bet. Sir Mark at a dinner party in his own house, in speaking of the risks of assassination, etc., run by Napoleon, offered to pay anyone who would give him then and there 100 guineas, a guinea a day so long as the usurper lived. "Done!" cried the Rev. B. Gilbert, who contrived to raise and pay then and there the 100 guineas. For three years the squire paid the parson the guinea a day, and then repudiated the transaction. In defence of this repudiation it was urged by his counsel that his client had been surprised into his rash bet by the clergyman's prompt acceptance of it, and also that the wager was illegal, since it gave the person a beneficial interest in the life of an enemy of England, and that this interest would tempt him in the event of an invasion, to use every means in his power for the preservation of the invader! On these grounds, the jury found for the squire, and upon an ultimate appeal—for the case was tried three times—the judges confirmed the original verdict. They pronounced the bet illegal, since, on the one hand, an interest was created in the preservation of the life of a public enemy, and, on the other hand, an interest in his assassination.

Fall Ploughing in West.

Winnipeg, Nov. 30.—The C. P. R. yesterday completed the preparation of a special report on fall plowing throughout the west. The report shows an increase in areas broken for 1904 of from 20 to 25 per cent. in general as compared with the fall plowing done in 1903. Only a few points show a decrease, while districts along the Prince Albert branch report extraordinary percentages of increase, running as high as 1,000 per cent. at Kenaston. These figures came from newly settled districts.

Can't Afford Ill Health.

Cure is Cheap at any Price—Benefit Certain if You Use

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Only the wealthy can afford to be invalids.

They alone can bear the expense of constant attendance by doctors and high salaried nurses.

Your time is your capital, and, whether your daily task is in the home or abroad, you must make every day count or prove a burden to yourself or friends.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is well-suited to the needs of a multitude of people because because it overcomes weakness, first, weakness of the blood and nerves, and through them the weakness of the organs of the body.

It may require a dozen or more boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to make you strong and well and send the thrill of health through your shrivelled arteries and wasted nerves.

Because Dr. Chase's Nerve Food is a creator of blood and nerve force you can be positive that each box of it is at least doing you some good. Prove this by noting your increase in weight, as new firm flesh and tissue is being added to the body.

Mrs. Cross, 148 Rubidge street, Peterborough, Ont., states:

"I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food in my family and have found it to be a great nerve builder. One of my children had been troubled with nervousness for a couple of years and suffered greatly from dizzy nervous headaches. Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has entirely freed her of these symptoms, and to-day she is real strong and healthy. We do not lose an opportunity of recommending this splendid medicine."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. The portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

SONG HEROES AND HEROINES.

Generally Strange and Uncertain Charac ter Are These of Popular Songs.

Most of the heroes and heroines of popular songs, says a writer in "T. A. T.," have been of humble origin. Pretty Polly Perkins of Paddington Green, for instance, was a barmaid, and her character hardly bears very strict investigation. Sweet Jessie, the flower of Dunblane, was the illiterate daughter of a poor hand-loom weaver, with whom the author of the ditty in question, one John Tannahill, chanced to be acquainted. Annie Laurie was fair but false, for she jilted the writer of the ballad that was to confer immortality upon her, in order to wed a rich rival of his, Alexander Fergusson, Esquire of Craigdarroch.

"Oh my poor Nellie Gray,
They have taken you away,
And I'll never see my darling any more."

To these words, and the plaintive melody that accompanied them, a hundred thousand men were soon marching upon the slave states, bent upon putting an end to a system that could forcibly sunder lovers, no matter whether their skins were black or white. The original Nellie Gray was a "yaller gal," who picked cotton for Mr. Dennison, a South Carolinian planter.

About Maggie Lauder the less said the better. Highland Marry was either Mary Campbell or Mary Morison, both of whom were beloved by Burns. Ben Bolt was a young Massachusetts fisherman, and the "Sweet Alice, whose hair was so brown," was the daughter of the lighthouse keeper at Cape Cod. Tom Bowling was an old salt who was once a well-known character on Portsmouth Hard.

The Village Blacksmith was a somewhat churlish individual of Cambridge, Massachusetts, who never ceased to grumble until the day of his death at the "liberty" Longfellow had taken in "putting him into a song."

The Vicar of Bray was a certain Simon Alleyn, who lived in the little Berkshire town during the reigns of King Henry VIII., King Edward VI., Queen Mary and Queen Elizabeth; and was first a Papist, then a Protestant, then a Papist and lastly a Protestant again.

The Lass of Richmond Hill had, contrary to the generally-accepted belief, nothing whatever to do with Richmond Hill in Surrey. Her name was Mary Janson, and she resided at Hill House, Richmond, Yorkshire, where she was wooed and won by the writer of the song, Mr. Leonard McNally.

"My Pretty Jane," is said to have been one of the most profitable songs ever issued. The original of the ballad was the daughter of a farmer residing at Burwell, an old-fashioned village near Newmarket. She died young, of consumption, but her portrait, painted by Edward Fitz-Bell, is still in existence. It was this same terrible scourge, by-the-by, that cut short the existence of another song heroine. Dorothy Dene, the beautiful young model who posed for so many of Lord Leighton's creations.

The Desecration of Milton's Tomb.

The body of the great poet Milton was once on view at a charge of threepence a head. It was in 1790, after a little carousal, that two overseers and a carpenter entered the Church of St. Giles, Cripplegate, where Milton lay buried, and, having discovered the leaden coffin which contained his body, cut open its top with a mallet and chisel. "When they disturbed the shroud," Neve says, when telling the story of the ghoulish deed, "the ribs fell. Mr. Fountain confessed that he pulled hard at the teeth, which resisted until some one hit them with a stone." Fountain secured all the fine teeth in the upper jaw and generously gave one to one of his accomplices. Altogether the scoundrels stole a rib bone, ten teeth and several handfuls of hair, and to crown the diabolical business the female gravedigger afterward exhibited the body to any one willing to pay threepence for the spectacle.

The Lobster's Life.

Lobsters haunt rocks, just as rabbits do woods or furze brakes. They cannot live without cover, and if there are no holes in the rocks for them to retire to they burrow, just as a rabbit does, in the earth and sea turf under the water, and there sit, claws forward, ready to seize any intruder or to haul in any morsel which the sea washes into the hole. It is doubtful whether lobsters remain awake all day on the off chance of a meal coming to their door. More probably they sleep off the fatigue of the previous night's wanderings. But their antennae are so sensitive that they warn them if anything touches them or even stirs the water. No electric bell could work more instantaneously.

Ireland's Lesson From Canada.

"Since I came into Canada I have been enormously interested in the position and the history of the French-Canadians, and I have been struck by the points of resemblance, as well as, unhappily, the points of difference between that case and the case to which I have given so many years of my life, the case of Ireland. But what is my conclusion? It is a feeling, a mournful feeling, in my own mind how different the case of Ireland would have been, how we should have been spared more than a century of torment, what would Ireland have been spared if the British Government, when the act of union was passed, had pursued the same conciliatory policy in Ireland as the British Government pursued in 1760 or 1763 in the case of French Canada. (Applause.)

"I barely like, not being profoundly instructed in all the details, to make another single remark upon that point, but I would say that anything that sets up a division in sentiment, in national sentiment or in action between two races either in Canada or anywhere else in the world is a mischief to mankind. (Cheers.) If I had the honor of being what is called a statesman in Canada—(loud laughter)—if I had the honor of being in Canada what is called a statesman—(renewed laughter)—I do not believe I would find any part of my work more interesting than to try to do here what I have failed in doing elsewhere, to soften any bitter feeling that may remain, make a fusion uniting in the common effort in every direction where good for the common land can possibly be achieved."—Right Hon. John Morley in Toronto.

The First Steamships.

The first steamship appeared on the Hudson in 1807 when Robert Fulton proved the possibility of steam navigation with the famous little Clermont. Ten years later the first steamboat appeared on the Ohio and Mississippi, and in 1827 the Chancellor Livingstone made her first run through Long Island sound from New York to Providence. In those days the ordinary steamboat was about as large as a good sized modern tugboat, and among them the Chancellor Livingstone, 157 feet long and 33 wide, was a veritable giant. All these vessels were propelled by paddle wheels.

Shakespeare's Best Monument.

The actors who show little respect to the poet's text, are determined to set up a monument to the poet's memory. Shillings are demanded in the public prints, and the warnings of the past are unregarded. No man that ever lived needs honor that a statue can afford so little as Shakespeare. If you would seek his monument, open his book. Moreover, every attempt to celebrate his genius has ignominiously failed. Who thinks of the sad monument in Leicester Square without disgrace? Can anyone feel a pride in the vast tea garden which has been arranged under the very best auspices at Stratford-on-Avon? There is but one tribute which the actors of England need pay to England's dramatist. They may recite his works with the same restraint of gesture, intonation and adornment which interpreted his works in his own day. And if this method be not acceptable to them, let them be sincere in their admiration, and set up all the statues they can afford to the carpenters and scene painters, who are the real masters of the modern drama.—Blackwood's Magazine.

THE SONG OF THE GLEN DUN.

"Sure this is blessed Erin an' this the same glen,
The gold is on the whin bush, the wathe sings again,
The Fairy Thorn's in flower—an' what ails my heart, then?
Flower o' the May,
Flower o' the May,
What about the May time, an' he far away

"Summer loves the green glen, the whit bird loves the sea,
An' the wind must kiss the heather top, an the red bell hides a bee;
An' the bee is dear to the honey-flower, an one is dear to me.
Flower o' the rose,
Flower o' the rose,
A thorn pricked me one day, but nobody knows.

"The bracken up the braeside has rustic in the air,
Three birches lean together, so silver-limbed an' fair,
Och! golden leaves are flyin' fast, but the scarlet roan is rare.
Berry o' the roan,
Berry o' the roan,
The wind sighs among the trees, but I sigh alone.

"I knit beside the turf fire, I spin upon the wheel,
Winter nights for thinkin' long, round runs the reel . . . . . .
But he never knew, he never knew that here for him I'd kneel.
Sparkle o' the fire,
Sparkle o' the fire,
Mother Mary, keep my love, an' send to my desire."

—Moira O'Neill.

Married Mother and Daughter.

An extraordinary story was told at the Aldershot County Court recently, when Mrs. A. G. Fitzgerald brought an action against George Knight, telegraphist at the headquarters office of the first army corps at Aldershot, for the recovery of £10 due to her under a deed of separation. Plaintiff, it appeared, married defendant about 22 years ago. She had then just returned from India with her two children, believing her first husband was dead. Defendant was then in the army. Before the marriage took place plaintiff told him the story of her previous marriage. Some years later her daughter left her. Recently defendant discovered by means of an advertisement that plaintiff's former husband was alive when he married her, and also by the same discovered the whereabouts of Mrs. Fitzgerald's daughter. The daughter was reunited to the family, and soon afterwards defendant caused plaintiff to sign a separation agreement, by which he was to pay her so much a week. Shortly after her daughter and defendant left the house, and she then discovered that the former had had a child by defendant, and that he had married her. In the agreement, which Mrs. Fitzgerald said she had not read, was a clause to the effect that if she interfered with defendant the allowance would cease. All she had done was to go to her daughter to induce her to come back to her.

The judge, the Hon. Arthur Russell, characterized the defendant's action as the most disgraceful thing a man could do, and told Kinght that the plaintiff could molest him as much as she pleased as far as he was concerned. Judgment was given for the plaintiff, with costs, amid loud applause.

The Primate As a Chess Player.

The Archbishop of Canterbury is a skillful and, in some respects, a wonderful chess player. Once when on a visit to India he stayed with an official who had the superintendence of the laying of a new railway line, and in the daytime he made long tours with his host over the new route. On these occasion the two constantly played chess without either board or men. All the moves were made verbally, they never forgot a move or a point of the game, and each could tell at any moment what was the exact position of the imaginary men on the imaginary board.

Startling Metamorphosis.

A would-be-recruit for an English police force was rejected by the medical examiner until vaccinated. Subsequently, Denny, writing to his brother in the Emerald Isle, gave an account of this incident, "an' if ye plaze," he concluded, "the dochtor man wants to make a chile iv me afore they can make me a polishman. There's fur ye now! Axe Billy Scullion what he thinks iv thet fur regilashion?"

A Difficult Task.

"Jack, dear, I do wish you would get another photo taken."

"How often have I told you I will not?"

"But why not?" Then thoughtfully after a pause, "Are you afraid of being asked to look pleasant?"

EGYPTIAN HALL IS DOOMED.

Famous London Place of Entertainment Being Pulled Down.

Egyptian Hall, the picturesque old building in Piccadilly which is about to be pulled down, is best known to Londoners as a place of entertainment that for many years has been unique in the metropolis.

"When the Egyptians built this hall," drawled out the humorist, Artemus Ward, when he stepped on the platform before his first English audience—and the house roared, and so he "made good" with them from the very start. The subject of his lecture was, it will be remembered, "The Mormons," and Ward's hearers were amused in advance at finding on their tickets the legend "Admit bearer and one wife." That was in November, 1866, and Ward stayed on in this country—lecturing and writing for Punch—until the following February, when his pulmonary trouble obliged him to seek a warmer climate in the Island of Jersey. He failed rapidly, however, and returned to Southampton to die in the following month.

In Ward's time the venerable hall in Piccadilly which, from its appearance, might really have been built by the Egyptians, was let out for entertainments of all kinds, but for years it has been identified with the illusory performances of J. N. Maskelyne, who is probably the greatest wizard outside India.

The facade of the Egyptian Hall really is an artistic piece of work, and Londoners will miss Hahnemann's famous figures when they have disappeared from Piccadilly. By the way, the Egyptian Hall Building contains two shops, and both are rather celebrated in their way. One of them is owned by James Epps & Co., who are the oldest chemists in the United Kingdom. The other—Jackson's—the one place at which almost every specialty in the way of food—maple syrup, Boston beans, corn for "popping," etc.—can be obtained. It is the one place, too, where real, sure-enough pie-tins can be had.

Shipping an Elephant.

An elephant is without doubt the most difficult passenger to load of any in the world. It is rarely that the best of them can be induced to walk aboard a ship as did the traditional pair of elephants who boarded the ark. To overcome their objection they are usually first coaxed or forced to enter great wooden boxes, when they are securely fastened and the entire outfit is hoisted with a derrick to the level of the deck and swung aboard.

BOOZE OR MEDICINE?

Which will you have? If a woman suffering from one of the delicate ailments peculiar to your sex it will be well for you to know that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only remedy advertised for such maladies which is absolutely free from intoxicating liquors and all other harmful agents. The good you feel from its use is not the delusive exhileration from a tippling beverage, from which the system reacts into a worse condition than before. It may be a little slower in manifesting its bracing and invigorating action, but its benefits are none the less positive and, best of all, they are lasting. It's an honest medicine—not a beverage.

"I have been taking your medicine for the last three weeks and can say I am gaining strength," writes Mrs. Sneath Kinzy, of 63 East Madison Street, Mount Pleasant, Iowa. "I have been having very poor health all winter. I doctored with our family doctor but was relieved only while taking the medicine. I took Dr. Pierce's medicine several years ago. I knew it was good for any one suffering with female trouble. Have taken only one bottle and am gaining strength very fast. I could not eat nor sleep when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription.' Heart troubled me and I had cold and numb spells till my heart would almost stop beating. Have had one child since first taking your medicine. If my confidence with your treatment can restore I will be cured."

Every suffering woman in this land should write to Dr. Pierce and learn how certainly he can help her to health and strength. It costs nothing to write and receive entirely free the advice of one of the most experienced physicians in this country. His great thousand-page book the Common Sense Medical Adviser, in stiff paper covers, will be sent free for 21 one-cent stamps the bare cost of mailing; or, send 50 stamps for cloth bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Those ORIGINAL Little Liver Pills, first put up by old Dr. R. V. Pierce over 40 years ago, have been much imitated but never equalled. They're made of purely vegetable, concentrated and refined medicinal principles, extracted from native American roots and plants. They promptly relieve and cure biliousness, sick headache, dizziness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. One or two a laxative, three or four a cathartic.

Don't allow the dealer to insist upon his having "just as good" for you, but if you insist upon having the well-known pellets of Dr. Pierce's, anything that sets up a division in sentiment, in national sentiment or in action between two races either in Canada or anywhere else in the world is a mischief to mankind. (Cheers.) If I had the honor of being what is called a statesman in Canada—(loud laughter)—if I had the honor of being in Canada what is called a statesman—(renewed laughter)—I do not believe I would find any part of my work more interesting than to try to do here what I have failed in doing elsewhere, to soften any bitter feeling that may remain, make a fusion uniting in the common effort in every direction where good for the common land can possibly be achieved."—Right Hon. John Morley in Toronto.

Pain Across the Kidneys For Three Years.

Suffered Great Agony. Could Not Stoop or Bend.

No disease is so quiet and stealthy in its approach as kidney disease. That is why it is so dangerous. It may become deep-seated before you realize the danger.

It is therefore of great importance to recognize the early warning symptoms, because in its early stage kidney disease is easily curable. Pain or dull ache in the back is one of the first signs. So are bladder pains, bearing-down pains, smarting sensation when urinating, frequent or suppressed urination, and gravel or sediment in the urine, etc. You cannot be well if your kidneys are not performing their functions properly. In all ordinary cases of any derangement of the kidneys, a few doses of will put the patient right; in old or chronic cases, the treatment should be persisted in.

Mr. Michael A. McInnis, Woodbine, Marion Bridge, N.S., tells of his experience: "For the last three years I suffered great agony with pain across my kidneys, and was so bad that I could not stoop or bend. I consulted and had several doctors treat me, but I got none the better. On the advice of a friend I procured a box of that valuable life-giving remedy, Doan's Kidney Pills, and to my surprise and benefit I immediately became better. In my opinion Doan's Kidney Pills have no equal as a cure for any form of Kidney disease.

Price 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or direct by mail.

"I should have answered your letter sooner, but I wanted to see how your Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills worked. I can say they did all I expected of them. I have not had rheumatism since. I gave some of them to a young man here and he took them, he could not walk with any ease, for he had rheumatism in both feet, and was greatly benefited. There are a great many using Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills. I know the great good of Smith's Buchu Lithia Pills in bad cases of rheumatism."

GUILD HOCKEY LEAGUE FORMED.

Along the Same as Lines the Baseball League.

Mr. C. G. Graham Elected President of the new Organization.

The success of the Guild Baseball League during the past season has stimulated the Guilds to form a similar league for hockey and such an organization was formed last night in the Y.M.C.A. parlours.

The meeting was called by All Saint's Guild, the representative from which submitted a proposition to the meeting to have the games played on the rink which that Guild is erecting on Reid street.

There were present at last night's meeting, Messrs. Rickey and Morgan, representing All Saint's; McWilliams and Thornton, of Charlotte Street; Cressman and Hutchinson, of George Street; Graham, of St. John's; Rosenburg, of St. Paul's and W. Turner, of St. Luke's.

Mr. Rickey made the offer of the All Saint's Guild to the meeting, which was that the Guild would allow each team three nights' practice each week and to play the games on their rink for $15 each for the season, the gate receipts from games to be divided one third each to the teams in a game, and one-third to the rink.

A League was eventually formed with the following officers:—

Patrons—The Clergymen of the churches represented by Guilds in the League.

Hon. President—R. F. McWilliams.
President—C. G. Graham.
Vice-President—B. Rickey.
Sec.-Treas.—R. N. Jolliffe.

The Executive Committee shall consist of the elected officers and one representative from each Guild.

Four Guilds represented themselves as being reasonably sure of entering the League and the other two, St. Paul's and St. Luke's were not certain.

A meeting will be held in the near future to arrange a schedule, and settle details not decided last night.

ANOTHER TEAM FOR CITY LEAGUE

Y. M. C. A. Hockeyists Organized a Club, Last Night.

Another hockey team is anxious to see a City League, and enter it if it is formed. The Y.M.C.A. organized a hockey club last night, with the following officers:—

President—G. H. Williamson.
Vice-Pres.—F. K. Holmes.
Secretary—T. H. Hutchinson.
Manager—W. Cavanah.
Captain—W. Miller.

The colours will be white with blue trimmings and the team will play independently if a city league is not formed.

CURLING.

To-morrow night the curling club will meet to select skips for the season. All who intend to curl this winter are requested to attend the meeting.

HOCKEY.

The Farmers will meet to-night in Dr. McKercher's office. All the members are asked to be present at 8 o'clock.

"STRUCK OIL!"

LeBRUN'S

DURING Mr. LeBrun's successful visit to Montreal about a week ago, he secured large quantities of Winter Clothing and Furnishings at a great sacrifice. Lucky purchases were made from manufacturers who were willing to close out leading lines at any price in order to secure ready cash and a quick clearance. Many of these goods are worth double; and instead of getting full prices, as we should at the start of the season, we begin right now to offer them at startling reductions. When LeBrun buys for less than manufacturers' prices he gives his customers the full benefit.

THRESHING ENGINE CAUSES STAMPEDE

An Exciting Experience Met With in Ops Township.

The Lindsay Post says:—"Most horses look with distrust upon the steam thresher's outfit, and when Mr. Joe Traynor was heading south Saturday evening in the vicinity of Ops swing bridge he became aware that about a dozen farmers' rigs were hanging back until a favourable opportunity to pass him presented itself. He at once shut off steam, and the procession passed in safety until a young and mettlesome horse driven by Mr. John McGahey, caught sight of the engine, and escapint steam. Then there was trouble. In less time than it takes to tell it the rigs seemed to be locked together in an inextricable mass.

When the knot was untied it was found that Mr. McGahey's rig was a wreck, having been overturned and tramped upon, and that his young son, who remained in the vehicle when it upset, had narrowly escped suffocation, his head having been forced out through one of the openings in the carriage top.

Don't overlook the season's best attraction—the appearance in the Opera House of the Meister Glee Singers, on Monday, December 12th. Subscribers list at the Examiner Office. Reserved seats 50c and 75c.

WORLD'S FAIR NOW IN FULL SWING.

Opera House has Been Converted Into a Scene of Brilliancy and Beauty.

Many Nations Represented in the Various Booths, Which are Handsomely Decorated.

Fair Opened at Noon To-day, and Will be Continued until Saturday Evening.

Fair is Under Auspices of Ladies of St. John's Church and is Being Well Attended.

Just exactly twelve hours after the close of the St. Louis Exposition, the greatest of its kind in the World's history, the greatest World's Fair in the history of the town of Peterborough was opened amid a blaze of glory and the martial strains of the band of the 57th Regiment. The doors of the opera house were thrown wide open at noon to-day and the World's Fair was formally opened. That it is going to be the great success which it was intended to be, there is no doubt, as everyone in town has decided to "take in" the fair. Those who were so fortunate as to visit St. Louis will want to go to compare St. Louis with Peterborough in reference to World's Fair and those who were obliged to remain at home will greatly appreciate the opportunity of seeing a World's Fair at home.

One great advantage which our fair has over that at St. Louis is in the fact that the latter city many beautiful things were to be seen and if money could have bought them, they would have been purchased but the treasures were not for sale. But things have been so arranged that at the World's Fair now in progress at the Opera House everything will be sold at cheap prices.

The preparations for the event have been on a most extensive scale and no expense or pains have been spared in making the affair a noteworthy one. The opera house has been converted into a scene of attractive beauty and uniqueness. The decorations have been carried on in an elaborate manner, the hall being ablaze with flags, bunting pannerettes, strung from wall to wall across the ceiling producing a most cheery effect. Myriads of coloured incadescents twinkled throughout the building and the spectacle was further enhanced by the beautiful and appropriate costumes of the ladies in their booths so attractively designed and adorned. A great deal of work was necessary in connection with the affair and the ladies are deserving of every commendation upon the splendid success of their efforts as far as the arrangements of the fair have been carried out so far.

Upon entering the hall, the first booth to visit is the "Gypsy Encampment". Here in a quiet secluded spot amid the evergreens, one can consult the renowned fortune teller, Signora Gimononowichk who will reveal the future or anything else desired. All the characteristics of a true gypsy encampment are to be found here. The booth is in charge of Miss Archer with Misses Anglish, Wilmot, Barlee and Sheffield as assistants.

One of the largest booths is the "Swiss Dairy" the second one to be visited. This will be found a delightful resort to spend a few minutes rest and be refreshed by the appetizing liquids which are served by the Swiss maidens. Anything in the line of ginger beer, cocoa, buttermilk, ice cream, etc., is here served very daintily and the apartments is so large that many can be accommodated. Miss Hatton is in charge of the booth and has as her assistants, Misses Boucher, D. Hamilton, Belcher, Pearse and Colville.

A scene of beauty and magnificence is the flower booth. The harmonious blending of colours, the enhancing effect of the electric lights shining out as they do from a bower of evergreens produce an exquisite scene. Flowers and plants of every description are for sale here. The ladies in charge represent flowers and represent them admirably. The booth has to be seen to be fully appreciated. Miss Roy has charge of the beauty scene and is assisted by Miss Stephens, Mrs. McAllister, Misses Maud and Lillian Rush.

The "French" booth is most attractive The colour scheme while simple is very effective. All manner of candies most tempting to the palate may be had here and it is proving one of the very popular resorts of the Fair, Miss Alma McCallum is in charge with Mrs. J. H. McClelland, Misses Alice McCallum, Perry, Burnham, and A. Roger, as assistants.

The "Advertising Booth" is one of the most unique at the great Fair. Samples of everything you ever wanted or ever heard of are on exhibition. Many of the large manufacturing firms have sent their samples while the merchants of town have also contributed. Groceries and all manner of staple and household goods are exhibited at the booth. The roof covering has been supplied by the Eddy match factory of Ottawa. The booth is in charge of Mrs. R. M. Dennistoun, whose assistants are, Misses Halliday, O. Bradburn, P. Lundy, L. Charles.

The "National Booth" in the form of a tent is very pretty. Several parts of the empire are represented by the ladies in charge who are clad in appropriate costumes. All manner of useful and fancy articles are for sale here. Mrs. Larmouthe representing Scotland is in charge and her assistants are Mrs. A. Elliot, as Canada; Miss D. Sawers, Ireland; Miss Belcher, England; and Miss Anderson, Wales.

In view of the fact that Christmas is but a few weeks away, an Xmas tree has been erected in one corner of the hall and is resplendent with delightful gifts. The electric light effects are exceedingly pretty. Santa Claus will be present each day. The tree is under the charge of the St. John's Girls' Guild of which Miss Roberts is president.

The boxes at each side of the stage have been decorated with yellow and white bunting and will be made use of as cloak rooms, parcel delivery post office and telephone station. The Bell Telephone Company has installed a phone free of charge. Miss Barlee, assisted by Misses M. Roger, J. Hay and C. Clement have charge of this department.

The Japanese Booth is a scene of elegance. The booth has been designed and constructed by Mr. Choates, Japanese valet, who is deserving of great credit for his work. In coming to this booth, one comes to Japan, for the booth has been erected along the exact lines of a Japanese tea house. Everything is in perfect harmony, the cherry blossoms, the paintings, the posters etc., being truly Japanese. Those in charge are Mesdames Dr. Boucher, A. P. Poussette, E. Sherwood and A. Stevenson, assisted by Misses Lundy, McGill and Moore.

Last, but not least comes the "Old English" booth. The prominent colours, green, white and red, combine very effectively in making the booth an attraction. The roof is thatched and everything about the places suggests appropriateness. Here such relishes as plum pudding, mince pies and other English dishes can be had, Mrs. Peter Campbell has charge of the booth and is assisted by Mrs. A. H. Stratton; Misses B. Hall, B. Clemonit, E. Fair, M. Bradburn, M. Rush.

Dinner is served in the room adjoining the opera house from 12 o'clock to two and tea from 5.30 to 7 o'clock. The room is prettily decorated and is in charge of Mrs. Rubidge and Mrs. Hammond, with twenty assistants.

Every evening an excellent programme will be presented. The Japanese Gentlemen's choruses promises to be very popular and will be given each evening. The solo parts are taken by Mr. J. Legg, and those in the chorus are Messrs. R. Heiderman, H. Morphet, H. Sawers, R. N. Jolliffe, J. Halpany, W. Wesley, A. Elliot, W. Cunningham, A. L. Davis, D. Hughes-Charles, F. A. Lount.

The ladies of St. John's Church, under whose auspices the Fair is being held, certainly deserve credit for the excellence displayed in planning and carrying into effect such a splendid plan.

OUR BOYS AT THE Y. M. C. A.

The Work of Making Strong, Vigourous Men Out of Boys.

It is truly said that the boy of to-day is the man of to-morrow. The boys that are around us everywhere will be the men in a few years. What the boy has been, so to a great extent, will be the man.

In order to become the best man, capable of making the greatest success, the boy must bring to manhood a strong and healthy body. That is just what the physical department of the Y.M.C.A. is trying to do for him.

He comes in twice a week for his class work. The first thing that he does is to get a warm-up by a mainy run around the floor. Then five minutes are spent in military drill. Then that which is most important the calisthenic drill, which straightens up the round and drooping shoulders or the curved spine. After this he enjoys himself on the many different pieces of apparatus, and it is surprising to see with what ease he can do many quite difficult stunts.

The work on the apparatus is all led by the Boys' Leader Corps, which consists of Ed. Mann, Murray Nicol, Max. Dobbin, Max Fife, and Hugh McGuire, and it is one of the most efficient Leaders' Corps in the gymnasium.

The last and probably the most enjoyable part of the class is that which consists of games and contests. Each month two boys are picked for captains, they in urn choose sides from all the remaining boys, and keep the same through the month. They run relay races, obstacle races, play hussle ball and basketball. The winner of each game and race scores a point. At the end of the month the names of the winners will appear in print. This month's contest was between Eddie Mann and Murray Nichol. Murray Nichol's team won by one point. His side consisted of, Max Dobbin, Max Fife, Melville Turner, Chas. Kingan, Ray Scott, Grant Potter, Melville Hartley, Stanley Madill, Elmer Sanderson, Bobbie Thompson, Herb. Johnson, Herb. Reid, Arthur Dawe, Hugh Dark.

Sufferers from sciatica should not hesitate to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The prompt relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. Sold by all druggists.

—The Girls' Guild of George Street Methodist Church met on Monday and completed their arrangements for the "Stocking At Horse" to be held in the church parlours next Friday evening, December 2nd. Much interest was taken in the coming event, which promises to be a grand success. At the close of the meeting the Young Men's Guild treated the girls to cake and coffee.

FULL OF YEARS AND OF HONOUR

Principal Caven, of Knox, Answers the Call of Death—He Was Ill Only One Week—Succumbed to Influenza and Pneumonia Contracted at Last Public Appearance at Guelph—Name and Fame of the Great Presbyterian Divine Was in all the Churches of the Dominion.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—Last night at 8 o'clock the Rev. William Caven, D. D., principal of Knox (Presbyterian) College, this city, died after an illness of exactly one week. On Friday last he attended a meeting at Guelph, Ont., where he delivered an address of two hours' duration. While there he contracted influenza, afterwards developing into pneumonia, which caused his death. The principal was approaching his 71st birthday, having been born on Dec. 26, 1830, and had therefore exceeded the Psalmist's limit, but his eye was not dim nor his natural force abated. His demise was, therefore, in a manner unexpected, and will come with a shock to the people of Canada, for his name and fame were in all the churches of the Dominion.

The obsequies will take place on Saturday, and a movement has already been made in the direction of a public funeral, but this, as well as the place of interment, is meantime under consideration by the family. About a year ago Dr. Caven suffered from a severe illness, which necessitated a retiral from active duty for some months, but from this he had entirely recovered.

In the year 1856, the principal was married to Miss Goldie of Greenfields, near Ayr, Scotland, by whom he had a family of seven children, six of whom survive. Dr. John Caven, Dr. W. P. Caven and Dr. James G. Caven; Mrs. Wilson, wife of the Rev. W. A. Wilson, missionary in India; Miss Caven and Miss Jean Caven.

Universally a Grand Old Man.

Dr. Caven was not only the grand old man of Canadian Presbyterianism, but one of the grand old men of Canada. He was born in the parish of Kirkcolm, Wigtonshire, Scotland, on Dec. 26, 1830, and sprang from a family whose names were foremost in local counsels. Away back in the days of the Scottish reformation they were upholders of the Solemn League and Covenant, and the name is inscribed on the roll of the "Wigton Martyrs." A cherished tradition of the family by the mother's side relates how one of them, for refusing to abjure his faith, suffered grievous mutilation at the hands of the dragoons of Claverhouse, known later as John Graham, Viscount Dundee.

His father, John Caven, by profession a schoolmaster, was a man of exceptional ability and attainments and a member of the United Sessions Church, which, in 1840, united with the Relief Church, to form the United Presbyterian Church, which in its turn united with the Free Church to form the present United Free Church of Scotland. John Caven left Wigtonshire for Canada in 1847, first residing at Galt, Ont., and removing shortly afterwards to the neighborhood of St. Mary's, where he resided till his death, in 1880.

Studied Under His Father.

William Caven, the future principal, began his education under his father at Kirkcolm, and proved himself to be a diligent and painstaking scholar, early displaying a strong bent towards the ministry, which he later adopted as his profession. His theological studies were prosecuted under the late Rev. William Proudfoot of London, and the Rev. Alexander Mackenzie of Goderich, members of the United Presbyterian Church in Canada. In 1850-51 he studied in Toronto, and after reading for another year, was licensed to preach in 1852 by the old Flamboro Presbytery. His first charge was in the parish of St. Mary's and Downie, to which he was inducted in October of the same year.

Spent a Year in Scotland.

During 1855-6 he spent a year in Scotland for the benefit of his health, still retaining his charge, and in 1865 the synod appointed him and Professor Gegg to fill alternately the chair of exigetical theology and Biblical criticism. In the following year he was made permanent professor and commenced his long period of devoted service to Knox College, succeeding to the principalship in 1870, on the resignation of Dr. Willis, his official title being thus chairman of the college board. When the building of the present college was mooted he and his colleague, Prof. Gegg, devoted two summers to a tour through the Province of Ontario, and it was largely through their exertions that the necessary fund was raised. The corner-stone was laid in April, 1874, and the college was occupied for the first time during the academical year of 1875-76. Thenceforward the principal's life work and history is practically that of Knox College. And to his learning, sagacity, moderation and urbanity, it owes its high place among theological halls of the country.

It has been said of Principal Caven, as an exegete, that his incumbency was noted for his great moderation and candor in stating the opinions which he felt it necessary to controvert, and not less for his firm adhesion to the views of Biblican interpretation, held by the evangelical churches, as well as in expounding those more peculiarly his own. The truth as he holds it, has had no more fearless and uncompromising defender and few more efficient.

Active in Religious Work.

Principal Caven, in addition to his college work, was a frequent preacher and an active member of the church courts. At an early period he earnestly advocated the union of the various Presbyterian bodies in Canada, and his church honored him by his election as moderator of the general assembly of 1875, when the union was consummated. In 1892 he acted as moderator of the United Church. Twenty years before this he received the D.D. degree from Queen's University. Princeton Union gave him the same honor in 1896 and Toronto University that of LL.D in the same year. Of the latter university he was also a senator. Dr. Caven took a leading part in the formation of the Presbyterian Alliance, better known as the Pan Presbyterian Council, and was its president at its last assembly in Liverpool, England, in June last, besides holding the office of chairman of the western, or American, section of the alliance. In 1887 he succeeded Prof. Goldwin Smith as president of the Ontario Teachers' Association, and in addition to numerous other similar appointments was a prominent member of the Ontario Lord's Day Alliance and vice-president of the Toronto branch of the Evangelical Alliance.

Tendered a Noted Banquet.

On Oct. 6, 1902, Dr. Caven, who had then completed fifty years' service in the ministry during twenty-nine of which he had been principal, was tendered a banquet by one hundred and fifty leaders of the Presbyterian Church in convocation hall of the college. In acknowledging the toast of his own health he dwelt lovingly on the work of uniting the different Presbyterian churches and on the prospect of a still greater union. "My humble hope," he said, "is that church union awaits us. We have spiritual union, we have the union of believers, but I long for the time when this inner union will work itself out into formal visible union. I am looking for that time." For this larger union Principal Caven thought no labor too grievous and he passed away on the eve of another meeting of the committee appointed to consider the proposed union of the Methodist, Congregational and Presbyterian Churches. But though his voice will no longer be heard in support of charity, of tolerance, and of brotherly love, the spirit he ceased not to inculcate will continue to move and inspire the cause for which he did so much.

Model Patriot and Citizen.

Dr. Caven was in every sense of the word a model patriot and citizen. He was earnest in support of every good work, and advocate of all that made for the righteousness which exalteth a people, a wise counsellor, and an upholder of the principles of justice, truth and freedom. His temper was singularly sweet, his mind was Catholic; his judgment exhaustive and accurate, his learning weighty and profound. Although not an orator in the ordinary acceptation of the term, he had the gift of clear argument and fine lucidity of speech. He conquered not by swaying the feeling, but by appeal to the heart and intellect. Yet personally he was one of the most modest and unassuming of men, easily accessible and always courteous. His passing leaves a void not easily filled, but if his loss has to be deplored both his church and nation have reason to rejoice that it was given William Caven by the Providence of God so long a term of service nobly performed and of enduring value.

His Death a Nation's Loss.

Universal testimony to the late Principal Caven's Christlike personal character, statesmanlike qualities of mind and to his worth as a great Canadian was borne in saddened appreciations by a "great cloud of witnesses" among the leading representatives of the Presbyterian and other denominations last night. Principal Gordon of Queen's, summed it up in the words, "His character and life shall remain as a treasure and an inspiration."

203 Metre Hill the Object of an Assault by the Russians, who Were Repulsed—A Reported Jap Reverse.

London, December 2nd. — A despatch from Rome received at the Japanese legation to-day, states that only the internal forts at Port Arthur are now holding out against the Japanese. The town and docks, the despatch says, have been abandoned by the Russians, as they are at the mercy of Japanese cannon.

RUSSIAN FORCES DEFEATED.

Tokio, December 2. — It is reported here that the Russians have attempted to retake 203 Metre Hill. They assembled a strong force, and assaulted the position, but were repulsed with heavy loss. The Japanese finding sailors, among the Russian dead, believe that if the men from the fleet are being employed in making sorties, the complement of the force must be falling short. The fact that the Russians are fortifying the positions available between Liaoti and Mentai Mountains, increases the belief that they will make their last stand there.

JAPANESE VACATE POSITION.

St. Petersburg, December 2. — Despatches from Mukden to-day say that General Rennenkampff's force on November 30th, drove the Japanese out of a new position southward of Tsinkthstchen, near Dapass.

New Provincial Secretary Testifies in Belleville City—Had no Connection With the Case.

Special to the Examiner.

Belleville, Dec. 2.—The criminal libel case went on again this morning. D. A. Horan, a Brockville hotelkeeper, corroborated Reilly's story as to the meeting of Lott, Reilly and Whalen in his hotel. Hon. G. P. Graham admitted meeting Lott and Reilly at his house on Sunday, Oct. 13th, but denied that anything was talked of concerning bogus bonds or crooked work of any kind. He denied that Lott ever told him that he had a big scheme on, and that he, (Graham,) had replied that he knew all about it. Mr. Graham denied all knowledge of the case and all connection with it.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was poor, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—MRS. M. E. REVIVING A SCANDAL.

Mr. Foster handed out a poser, in Toronto, when he asked if the Ontario Government were any the better of its reconstruction? Well, the introduction of three new men, the Kingston Whig thinks, ought to lead to new plans, new impulses and new experiences. Incidentally one is reminded of the bolt of the Conservative Government which Sir Mackenzie Bowell led. Under Sir Charles Tupper all of the ministers went back into office. Were they any better of the change? They had got rid of their leader, by a miserable conspiracy, but they had not got rid of their tricks. They were the same men, given to the same meanneasse, and carrying with them the trickery and cowardice which the people punished in the succeeding election. It may be in order to discuss the personal characteristics of members of the Government, but it does not lie with Mr. Foster to institute comparisons and in that way to call attention afresh to one of the most humiliating episodes in the history of Canadian Conservatism.

Some Conservative organs are clamoring for the immediate resignation of the Ross Government on the ground that it is now in a minority. They forget, however, remarks the Ottawa Free Press, that it has yet to be demonstrated that it is in a minority and that such a demonstration is impossible until the Legislature is in session.

BISHOP O'CONNOR AT PORT WILLIAM.

Re-opens Enlarged Church of St. Patrick in That Town.

His Lordship's Visit to the Northern Part of the Diocese—A Splendid Structure.

To-day His Lordship, Right Rev. Dr. O'Connor, Bishop of Peterborough, performed the interesting ceremony of blessing the newly remodeled and enlarged church of St. Patrick in the flourishing town of Fort William. The original building, erected some years ago, was a frame structure, but prepared for a veneer of brick. For want of means the interior was also left in an unfinished state, only rough benches being used as substitutes for pews. As the town grew in population, the old building was found totally inadequate for the congregation and last spring the energetic pastor, Rev. Father Arpin, S. J., took the matter in hand and engaged Mr. Thomas Hanley architect at Port Arthur, formerly of Belleville, to prepare drawings and specifications for the remodelling and enlarging of the building. Mr. Hanley's plans were approved by His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, and a contract was immediately let, involving extensive additions to the church and a new sacristy 30 x 22 feet. The entire remodelling of the old portion of the building and the veneering of the whole exterior with brick, and fitting up the tower for a bell.

New altar, communion rail and pews have been placed by an artist from Montreal. Several stained glass windows are being donated by members of the congregation, and the building throughout is beautifully lighted by electricity. To Father Arpin's untiring energy the congregation to-day may attribute the fact that they have a church, which, for interior beauty and excellence has no superior anywhere in the country, and His Worship, in his eloquent and really grand discourse gave the venerable pastor and all concerned, unstinted praise for the splendid work they had accomplished.

The whole improvement cost about $14,000.

GIRL'S GUILD BAZAAR WAS VERY SUCCESSFUL

Large Attendance and Ready Sale of Articles.

The Bazaar held on Tuesday under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of All Saints' Church was in every way a most successful affair. There a very large attendance both in the afternoon and evening and a handsome sum realized by the sale of articles. The room was very prettily decorated and the colour scheme of red and white in the booths was very effective. The Ladies' Home Journal booth was in the centre of the room and many subscriptions for that magazine and the Saturday Evening Post were registered.

The handkerchief counter was very interesting. Many handkerchiefs had been obtained from well known politicians, statesmen, clergymen and others and the sale was a ready one. Misses Cairns and Dugan were in charge of this department.

Misses Whitcroft and Sabine conducted the "Jack in the Box" which was very popular with the young people.

The fancy work booth in charge of Misses Nimmo, E. Dugan, E. Harris. The apron table was in charge of Miss Mabel Rickey.

Miss Charlotte English and Miss B. Best presided over the tea room, which was a very attractive resort for all present.

During the afternoon and evening an informal musical and literary programme was rendered. The Guild has every reason to feel gratified with the success which attended their efforts.

BYRON O. LOTT MAY APPEAR

At Least There Is Some Expectation to That Effect—Several Additional Summonses Issued—Appears That Government Intends to Go Fully Into the Ardoch Bogus Ballot Box Charge.

Belleville, Dec. 2.—Nothing of consequence has occurred in connection with the ballot box case yesterday. A number of witnesses and others directly concerned have arrived, also several outsiders, who expect to see a great tilt between counsel and some witnesses to-day. So great is the public interest that if the court room were four times as large it would be crowded.

Reilly and Whalen will to-day appear before Magistrate Flint, but the proceedings will probably be formal. A few expect Byron O. Lott to appear, but the general belief is he will not. It is reported that a resident of Stirling, has received a letter from Byron O. Lott, dated Syracuse, in which he says he will return to Belleville to-day.

The Ardoch Ballot Box.

Kingston, May. 2.—Yesterday Detective Chamberlain served a summons on Station Agent Forsythe of Harrowsmith to appear on Friday at the investigation in Belleville. Charles Cochrane of the Albion Hotel was reserved with a summons to give further evidence concerning the bogus ballot boxes which were sent to that hotel. Another summons served was on W. J. Franklin, returning officer for Frontenac. This evidently means that the Government intend going fully into the charge that a bogus ballot box was used at Ardoch by Joseph Hawkey. Mr. Franklin will be examined as to the appointment of Hawkey as deputy returning officer, and also as to the ballot box he received back from Hawkey the day after the election.

To Meet Mr. R. L. Borden.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—Several of the Conservative members of Parliament for Ontario constituencies, including Toronto, will leave to-night or to-morrow for Montreal to consult with Mr. R. L. Borden on the future of the party. It is anticipated that should Mr. Borden decide to remain leader of the party the seat which is to be offered him will be decided upon at the meeting.

THURSDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

North Brant—Daniel Burt, M.P.P., Liberal.

South Grey—John McKechnie, Liberal.

West Simcoe—James Duff, M.P.P., Conservative.

West Wellington—Joseph Roach, Liberal.

RETURNED FROM NEW YORK.

Mr. Hays Home After Completion of Disposal of G.T.P. Bonds.

Montreal, Dec. 2.—General Manager Hays of the Grand Trunk System returned home yesterday from New York, where the company's bond deal was consummated under the following conditions:

Some $14,000,000 of Grand Trunk Pacific bonds have been disposed of to Speyer Bros. & Co. of New York and London, at 96½, the bonds, of course, being guaranteed by the Grand Trunk Railway Co., and it is understood that of this amount $6,000,000 will go to the construction of the Port Arthur branch to the main line, as the latter is built by the Government east of Winnipeg, while $8,000,000 will go towards the prairie section.

It appears to be well understood that work on these two sections will be begun by the Grand Trunk Pacific in the early spring.

A BIG CONCESSION.

Result of Hon. Mr. Dryden Meeting U.S. Minister Wilson.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Yesterday was "Railroad" day at the Fat Stock Show and was attended by a large crowd. It is said that never before in the history of the stock yards have there been so many prominent stock breeders present. The most notable feature of the day was the meeting of Hon. John Dryden, Minister of Agriculture of Ontario, and Secretary of Agriculture Wilson. One result of this meeting, it is said, probably will be legislation to enable Canadian stock breeders to bring exhibits to the United States without payment of duty.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."—Mr. Wm. McGee, 49 Wright ave., Toronto, Ont.

RUN OVER BY A CAR.

Sugar Factory Workman At Berlin Meets a Sudden Death.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—A shocking fatality occurred at the Berlin sugar factory last evening about six o'clock when Dougal McLean was instantly killed by being crushed beneath a freight car.

He and a fellow employe named Al Wiedfang were moving an empty car by using crowbars, when, without warning, a G.T.R. yard engine backed up again the other end of the car. Wiedfang succeeded in getting out of the way, but McLean tripped and fell upon the track and was run over, his body being terribly crushed.

Coroner Lockner has ordered an inquest to open at 10 o'clock this morning.

Deceased lived in Waterloo. He was about 40 years old. His father lives in Bridgeport and is over 80 years old.

Capt. Welch Drowned.

St. Catharines, Dec. 2.—Word was received by his parents here yesterday of the death by drowning at St. Clair Flats of Captain Andrew Welch, son of Capt. A. Welch of this city. No particulars were given in the telegram, but it is surmised that he was lost overboard. Capt. Andrew Welch, jr., had been a mariner from boyhood.

Drowned At Campbellford.

Campbellford, Dec. 2.—Wednesday night about 10 o'clock, George Nadon, carter in Smith's flour mills, fell over the low railing of the new bridge here and was drowned. Grappling parties were formed but were unsuccessful. The body was found yesterday morning about 7.30. Nadoo leaves a wife and two children.

Fireman Matthews Dead.

Windsor, Dec. 2.—John Matthews, fireman of the M.C.R. freight wrecked at Pelton Wednesday, died at the Hotel Dieu that night. Matthews' home was at Niagara Falls, Ont. His mother arrived before death, and went east at 11 o'clock yesterday with the body. The dead man was 30 years of age. Bruce Little, the engineer, and Thomas Stewart, the brakeman, are still at the Hotel Dieu, and cannot be moved for some time.

Accident Proved Fatal.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—David Patterson of McKellar, Parry Sound district, died about midnight in the Emergency Hospital as the result of injuries received through being run down by a street car on Yonge street on Tuesday evening, November 22nd, while in the city to attend the Liberal Convention. Mr. Patterson was a Division Court Clerk in Parry Sound district.

Child Burned to Death.

Brantford, Dec., 2.—Wednesday the adopted child of Mr. and Mrs. Burbanks, Ayr road, was burned to death. The little one was left alone in the house for a few minutes, and during this time pushed a broom into the front of the stove. When the blazing broom was withdrawn the child's clothes caught fire, and the burns received caused death.

Father Saves His Son.

Amherstburg, Dec. 2.—Capt. Calum, master of the E. M. Peck, jumped from the deck of his vessel in the Canadian Channel abreast of Amherstburg, and rescued his 10-year-old boy from drowning. The lad was aboard the Peck and intended to go ashore in the tug Home Rule. He jumped from the deck of the Peck, but fell short of the tug, and dropped into the icy water. The father, although hampered with a heavy fur overcoat, followed his boy overboard and succeeded in bringing him to the surface.

Balloonist Nisson's Body Found.

Detroit, Dec. 2.—A bulletin to The Journal from Stevensville, Mich., seven miles from St. Joseph, says that the body of Balloonist Peter Nisson has been found in his boat on the beach there.

Drink Poisoned Brandy.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—A despatch to The Lokal Anzeiger from Kieff, Russia, announces that 20 persons have lost their lives there through drinking poisoned brandy.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Becomes a Stated Case.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—In the Police Court yesterday a conviction was registered against William Hendrie, president of the Ontario Jockey Club, for keeping a common gaming house at the Woodbine track, by allowing betting on the races. The conviction was made with the consent of C. H. Ritchie, K.C., in order that a stated case might be sent to the Court of Appeal. There was no penalty imposed.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

A HIGH PRICE PAID

LOST 15,000 MEN IN ONE DAY

But the Mikado's Gunners Dominate Port Arthur, and Expect to Make the Final and Complete Capture of the Fortress By the 10th Inst.—Many Recruits Have Joined the Colors.

London, Dec. 2.—The correspondent at Che Foo of The Daily Telegraph says that the attack on 203 Metre Hill resulted in heavy losses to the first division of the Japanese stormers, and that simultaneously stormers of the ninth and eleventh divisions advanced and menaced the Rihlung and Keekwan forts. It is stated, the correspondent adds, that within the last 24 hours, the Japanese casualties have totalled 15,000, and it is asserted that the attacks have been planned to until Dec. 10, when it is hoped the capture of Port Arthur will be completed.

Tokio, Dec. 2.—The Imperial Army Headquarters has announced that the Japanese troops besieging Port Arthur are in possession of 203-Metre Hill. The following despatch has been given out:

"The army commenced a bombardment against 203-Metre Hill at dawn, Nov. 30, and made several charges before 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Owing to the enemy's stubborn resistance, the charges failed. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon our force advanced against the southeastern portion of the hill, made a fierce charge and reached within thirty metres of the summit. At 7 o'clock, with reinforcements, we charged to the top, which was occupied by our forces. Against the northeastern part of the hill we also charged, and at 8 o'clock the entire fort on the summit fell into our hands.

"The Russians left heaps of dead bodies on the eastern side of the hill, but we have had no time to investigate further."

Rejoicing in Japan.

General Nogi's telegram announcing the storming and capture of 203-Metre Hill was received with cheers by the Japanese people. It revives the hope of an early capture of Port Arthur proper. The people have never despaired of the success of the besiegers, but the fortitude of the defenders and the prolongation of the siege, which exceeds by months the most liberal preliminary estimate of the time required to accomplish the reduction of this stronghold, have been a source of deep regret, combined with the loss of life, and disappointment over the fact that the siege has occupied such a large force of men, decreasing Field Marshal Oyama's strength at a time when he needed every available man.

Many Recruits Join the Colors.

Yesterday was the date set under the conscription act when recruits could join the army. Cheered by the news from Gen. Nogi, thousands of recruits throughout the empire marched to barracks and donned uniforms for the first time. Following an honored custom, the relatives of the recruits, carrying flags and banners, escorted the new soldiers to their barracks. In Tokio yesterday, there were scores of little processions escorting detachments of popular conscripts. The number of men who have joined the colors yesterday under the conscription act has not been made public.

Two Prominent Officers Wounded.

Reports from the Japanese army besieging Port Arthur says that Lieut.-Gen. Thuchiya is among the wounded and that Gen. Nakamura, the leader of the specially trained body of swordsmen which charged into the Russian forts November 26, was injured in both legs.

Skirmishing Near Mukden.

Mukden, Dec. 2.—There was another small skirmish on Gen. Rennenkampf's front on Nov. 30, but otherwise everything remains quiet here. The weather is warmer and more agreeable.

Why Cruise Was Shortened.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—Commander Spain has returned from Lake Erie, where he went with the Minister of Marine to take a cruise on the Vigilant. The commander states that the weather is very cold on the lake and owing to this fact the Vigilant's cruise has been curtailed. About Dec. 20 the Atlantic cruiser Canada will start for the West Indies with a crew of 86 men.

Canadians May Tender.

Albany, Dec. 2.—A number of Canadians have asked for particulars of the plans for the construction of the 1,000-ton barge canal. There is no provision in the law that forbids awarding such contracts to aliens, and it is quite possible that several of the jobs under the canal construction will go outside the United States.

Seven Times President.

City of Mexico, Mex., Dec. 2.—The inauguration of General Diaz as president of the Republic of Mexico for the seventh time and for Senor Don Ramon Corral as first vice-president, took place yesterday in the hall of the Chamber of Deputies under most auspicious circumstances.

Soo Rails Already Made.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—The 20,000 tons of steel rails ordered by the Government from the Soo works have all been manufactured, and on inspection appear to be satisfactory and of good quality. Delivery of all the rails has not yet been made at Montreal.

Stubborn Skin Diseases.

Nothing is more discouraging than a case of eczema or salt rheum which refuses to heal. By using Dr. Chase's Ointment, however, you soon see that new skin is forming, and the sore part is becoming smaller and smaller. The itching is easily overcome after a few applications, and you are given satisfactory evidence that a continuation of the treatment will bring a thorough cure.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

Festivities At Sandringham Simple—School Children Entertained.

London, Dec. 2.—Queen Alexandra celebrated her sixtieth birthday yesterday at Sandringham. Flags flew everywhere, the church bells pealed and the usual salutes were fired at the naval and military stations at home and in the colonies.

The festivities at Sandringham were of a simple character, the main feature being the entertainment of the school children of the estate at which the Queen and her guests personally attend to the wants of the little folks. The members of the royal family and a few intimate friends made up the house party. The Queen was the recipient of an immense variety of presents. Telegrams of congratulations from friends and public bodies, to which Her Majesty always responds personally, reached Sandringham in very large numbers during the morning.

Toronto, Dec. 2.—The 60th birthday of Queen Alexandra was officially observed at noon yesterday by the firing of a royal salute of 21 guns by the Field Battery at Queen's Park.

Baby Eczema.

"My daughter was afflicted with eczema from three weeks old. Her entire face and head was raw and she was in an awful state. When doctors failed we began the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment, which has entirely cured her and she has never had the least symptom of the trouble since."—Mrs. Patrick Sullivan, Welland avenue, St. Catharines, Ont.

Snowed For Thirty Hours.

Madrid, Dec. 2.—The heaviest snowstorm experienced in Spain in many years, lasting nearly 30 hours, has compelled a partial cessation of business. The markets are without supplies, and 60,000 workmen are out of employment. The authorities are taking all possible measures of relief.

Troopship Wrecked.

Island of Perim, Dec. 2.—The Portuguese transport Sao Thome from Lisbon, Nov. 10, with troops and passengers for East Africa has been wrecked in the Red Sea and abandoned. The British steamer Clan McKay rescued all on board.

Noted Safe Blower Arrested.

Chicago, Dec. 2.—Kid Leary, veteran safe blower, who is said to have stolen more than $500,000 in his career, has been arrested after a determined resistance. He was surprised while asleep.

CHEESE MARKETS.

Brockville, Dec. 1.—Brockville cheese board held its last meeting for this season to-day. The offerings were only 798 boxes; 9¼c was bid, but no sales were made on the board. Next season the board will reopen on the first Saturday in May.

Britain Buys Our Land.

Ottawa, Dec. 2.—The British authorities are in need of more land for a magazine at Esquimalt. They opened negotiations for the purchase of 104 acres of land with the Hudson Bay Co., but the latter asked $1,000 an acre, or a total of $104,000. This was deemed exorbitant, and the matter was placed in the hands of the Canadian Militia Department, who managed to get the price reduced to $108 an acre. A cablegram has now been sent to the Admiralty in London asking whether this price is satisfactory.

MEN OF ONTARIO.

One of Their Chief Attributes Is to Hang On to Objects Sacred to Them. Even "Rising" to Vote.

The recent address by Dr. W. H. Drummond, author of "The Habitant," to the Canadian Club of Toronto, was a rich treat to those who were privileged to hear it. The attendance was large, the Assembly Hall at the Temple Building being filled. The eminent guest dealt at some length with the tendency of the citizen of Ontario, once he has acquired the franchise, to live forever, and pointed the moral to his witty utterances by dwelling upon the great good to the national life which must inevitably result from the application of the undoubted energy and vigor of good citizens to secure purer elections. Dr. Drummond said, in part:

The Faculty of "Hanging On."

"True, the birth rate of Ontario is not remarkable; that is, it does not even exceed the modest birth rate of my own Province of Quebec, but the male inhabitants of Ontario have, it seems to me, one quality far surpassing anything of the kind in the sister Province, and which is simply phenomenal; namely, the power, as I said before, of 'hanging on' to objects sacred to them.

"Judging by political history, the son of Ontario who reaches the years of maturity and the right to a vote never dies. Once his name has been enrolled upon the glorious roster of his country, his name, if not his fame, is undying. He may pass from this earth, and the place that once knew him know him no more for months, or even years at a time—there he lies, the noble son of Ontario, perchance in some foreign land, where, instead of the butternut of his native homestead, the gloomy cypress guards his lonely grave; but, though the dread trumpet remain unblown, yet one blast from the old familiar party horn summons him to the same old polling booth.

His Vote Goes Marching On.

"Ontario 'mon pays, mes amours,' is the slogan which calls him to the combat. His ashes may have been scattered to the winds, or his body have become food for worms, but his vote goes marching on, and his resurrection is sure as election day. And this, my friends, is not a tribute to him alone, but to the living, energetic politicians of Ontario, who bring to the polls every voter dead or alive. I have heard, and there may linger, too, in your memory, traditions of a poll in a certain town of western Ontario, where out of a living possibility of eighty, one hundred and twenty polled their vote on election day. What an inspiring, yet pathetic, scene it must have been! The men of to-day and the men of yesterday side by side! Imagine the feelings of the oldest inhabitant as he saw gathered around him the shades of friends long departed! To many eyes those spirits were perchance invisible (spirits generally are invisible on election day), but to use a slang expression, 'They got there just the same.' If these spirits of the departed voters were not apparent to the mortal eye, they made their presence felt through the sign of a cross, or rather an 'X,' and perhaps this 'X,' was symbolical of the reason for returning to earth, and if they did not rap the table as some spirits do, well, somebody's candidate was, to dip once more into the realms of slang, 'knocked on the head,' which result proved just as good, or bad, according to the point of view.

A Battle Song.

"Sometimes I understand the spirits do not always return. Their graves may be distant, or they may have spiritual reasons for disliking the district in which they were wont to register their vote—they say, too, that the dead do not rise in Lake Superior, but in such a case Ontario can always depend upon self-sacrificing sons among the living; and so we behold them putting off to sea in stormy weather, risking life and meals on a great fresh-water ocean, ready to fill the ranks in place of those who have quit this terrestrial sphere. It is such scenes as these that show the vigor which fills the blood of Ontario's sons, and also demonstrate the value they place upon the right of every free man to vote, first for himself, and after that to see that nothing is wasted, dead or alive, for in the words of the immortal though unknown bard:

"If traitor hand be on my throat,
Ontario! Ontario!
Thy silent host must rise and vote,
Ontario! Ontario!

"Though scattered far our bones may be,
On alien shore, or 'neath the sea,
One blast upon the horn, and we Shall gladly rise and come to thee,
Ontario! Ontario!"

"The Resurrection."

"Down in my own Province of Quebec we are not quite so vigorous, we living ones, and as for our dead, they are generally quiet—perhaps they were glad to get away, and had had enough of our politics, when in this world." Mr. Drummond, amid roars of laughter, described an incident which occurred in the Beaudry-Beaugrand election for Mayor of Montreal some years since. A shrewd Irishman, who was acting as scrutineer for Mr. Beaudry, was inveigled into leaving the poll for luncheon. When he returned he was handed a list of the voters who had voted during his absence, and, as his astonished eyes ran over the names, virions of old Montreal and her founders—men who had disappeared from mortal ken many years before—half forgotten friends, well remembered enemies, all were there. "John Dwyer," said he; "I never heard tell of John, only that he's dead since he went to Pittsburg fourteen years ago. George Blinkinsop! We buried him in '54! Michael Cassidy! Glory be to God! And he's here, too! The biggest funeral we ever had in Griffin Town. Denis Mulhearn! The poor boy was kilt the night St. Patrick's Hall fell in. Well! Well! Well this is great work," and, turning to the young lawyer, after carefully removing his spectacles, he ejaculated, in a most impressive manner, "'Fore God, Bob, I never thought I'd live to see the resurrection."

For a Healthful Cleanliness.

"Now, gentlemen, these which may be considered rather flippant references to very grave faults should serve to teach us that if the dead are capable of such wonderful energy, what may the living do? And that if we apply the same degree of vigor, irrespective of party, to bettering conditions, to bringing out the healthy, honest vote of the country, to choking the dishonest voter and the loathsome, corrupt heeler, and keeping the dead where they belong, we can put into our municipal, Provincial and Federal elections a healthful cleanliness that cannot but conduce to the national good. You have the vigor, the energy, and the knowledge to some extent that such things as I have referred to exist, and we know that votes of the kind I have spoken of are not productive of good to any party or to our country; so let us one and all, without question of party, hand in hand set vigorously to work to wipe out the heelers, the pluggers and grave robbers, and give ourselves clean politics and clean elections."

Colds

How often you hear it remarked "It's only a cold," and a few days later learn that the man is on his back with pneumonia. This is of such common occurrence that a cold, however slight, should not be disregarded.

A Renowned Vocalist.

Mr. Edward Barton, baritone, who appears at the 57th Band Concert in the opera house on December 9th, recently toured England and France, and is now touring Canada. The Ott. a Journal, speaking of Mr. Barton's recent appearance in that city, says: "Mr. Barton's share of the recital included excerpts from 'Samson,' 'Phil'emon and Baucis,' 'Robert le Diable,' 'Don Giovanni,' and 'Geisha,' with French and English songs. Mr. Barton's voice is grateful, mellow and of excellent timbre; it is of great range, and preserves its quality both in lower and upper registers. He enunciated clearly, and one is happy to say that his singing is quite free from that distressing vibrato. He is a vocalist of merit."

The Toronto Saturday Night says of Mr. Barton: "It was a pleasure to hear him sing, as he possesses the true method of tone production, and moderates delightfully."

FIRST LIBERAL RALLY TO-NIGHT.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams Will Open his Campaign.

Mr. R. F. McWilliams, the Liberal candidate in West Peterborough will hold the first rally in his campaign to-night in the Liberal Committee rooms, when addresses will be given by Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Mr. F. D. Kerr, the candidate and others.

Mr. McWilliams is starting out in his campaign in good shape, and at to-night's meeting there should be a good turn-out of his supporters.

The committees are all working well and the campaign is well under way, and Mr. McWilliams is meeting with encouraging success in his canvas.

Let there be a good attendance of Liberals at the first rally to-night.

FINE CONCERT AT S. A. BARRACKS.

Band Rendered a Splendid Programme Last Evening.

Individually and as a Whole the Band Did Splendidly.

The concert in the Salvation Army barracks last evening was well attended, and those present were highly delighted with the programme provided. The concert was given by the band, a musical organization which is deserving of every commendation. The band is composed of 37 pieces, and their playing last night, as on other occasions, met with the hearty approval of the audience. The band is a credit to the Army, and to the town. Their numbers last night were all rendered with excellent effect, the tone being good, the parts well balanced, and the shading quite marked. Bandmaster Greene conducted, and may well feel satisfied with the band's showing.

The solo numbers, whether vocal or instrumental, were very enjoyable, and were heartily received.

Adjt. Jennings gave a short address in which he spoke of the farewell to Commissioner Booth, in Toronto, this week, and of the work she had accomplished for the Army. He also spoke of the welcome to the new officer in charge, Commissioner Coombs. It is expected that the new commissioner will very shortly visit Peterborough. The programme was as follows:

SERVICES APPRECIATED.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Sir, — A number of your readers are sure to be gratified by your picturesque description of the "World's Fair," but no mention happens to be made of the ladies who originated, and are directing, this unique enterprise—Mrs. K. Hardley Wilmot, and Mrs. D. Hughes-Charles, who superintends the music. I hope that those ladies will pardon the giving of this information, but people will desire it, and the interests of Peterborough require that our gifted and public spirited citizens should be known and appreciated.

It may be added that this costly undertaking is the work of many skilful people, a number of whom are not connected with the congregation, under whose auspices it is given. A friendly feeling, such as has been generally evidenced in this connection, is very admirable, and should do much to promote the happiness of the community. Christian co-operation is a much more edifying spectacle, too, than church rivalry or exclusiveness. Yours,

APPRECIATION.

In reference to this letter, it may be mentioned that the information regarding the "World's Fair," and the persons taking part in it, was gained from these ladies, who, naturally, did not mention the part which they themselves played in it, but subsequently the facts mentioned in the letter were learned, and when the letter was received a paragraph was already in type covering the point referred to. The Examiner is glad, however, to give the letter publicity, and thus do honour to the ladies who have worked so energetically, and, as the results show, so successfully.

The Meister Glee Singers.

The Toronto Saturday night has this to say of the Meister Glee Singers, the famous male quartette, from England, which will appear in Peterborough, Monday, December 12th:—

The Meister Glee Singers, a male quartette from England, gave a very enjoyable concert in Massey Hall on Thursday evening of last week. They sing with great refinement and with a perfection of intonation and ensemble but rarely heard. In expression, accent and rhythm they are like many other English quartettes, somewhat placid. The audience were delighted with them, and recognized their fine work with numerous encores. Their selections included Kidner's glee, "Lull Me to Sleep," a fine effort in subdued singing; Edgar's "Whether I Find Thee", "The Old Folks at Home", with imitation banjo accompanied by Van Leaney's, which made a great hit, and a humorous number, "Sunday Fishing". Three of the members of the party also sang solos with great success. They were assisted by Mr. Roland Henry, a dealer in mild musical humour, something after the style of Groesmith, and Miss Ethel Henry, as accomplished reader.

This will undoubtedly be one of the greatest musical events in the history of the town. A subscribers' list is at the Examiner office, where names may be entered.

COUNCILLORS WHO WILL NOW RETIRE.

Several Members of County Council Who Will Have Completed Terms.

A Number Will Seek Re-election - Mr. Shaw has Served Sixteen Years in Council.

The County Council session which closed yesterday, was in some respects rather unique, one of the features being that in a remarkably short space of time the Warden who has filled the office for nearly a year, resigned, was appointed County Solicitor and a new Warden was elected, and the new occupant of the office had no knowledge of the intentions of the council to elect him to the office until he was actually in.

Three members of this council will not be in the next year's body. Mr. Peck, who for seven years has been a member of the Council, representing Ashburnham, would not have been eligible for re-election, since Ashburnham has been annexed to the town, and in this respect he has been "gerrymandred" out of the running, and the members of the council considered it only just that he should be appointed Solicitor, as a slight recognition of the services he has rendered the county.

Mr. G. W. Fitzgerald is another of the members who will not sit in the next council. He has also been in the council seven years, representing Smith, and his removal to town will necessitate his retirement from the council is regretted by his colleagues. Mr. Fitzgerald has been particularly interested in the care of bridges and roads, and last year, under his chairmanship of the committee, the Gannon's Narrow Bridge was constructed.

Mr. T. M. Hunter, the third member who retires this year, after a brief occupancy of the Warden's chair, has only been in the council two years, and his retirement is made necessary by an understanding that exists between Monaghan and Ennismore that these townships shall be represented alternately, and next year is Ennismore's turn. Mr. Hunter was chairman of the Finance Committee this year, and in that capacity has done excellent service.

Mr. H. A. Moore, is another of the members who may not be seen in the next council. He was elected to fill out the term of the late Richard Crowe and has only sat in two sessions of the council. He intends to contest East Peterborough in the coming Provincial elections in the Conservative interests, and does not intend to again be a candidate for a seat in the County Council, unless—

It is likely that the other members of the Council will be candidates for re-election in the January elections, and no doubt the majority, if not all of them will be returned. Mr. Shaw, who represents the Harvey Division, has served 16 years in the Council in succession, and is in point of length of service, the oldest member of the council. He has been twice Warden, and his knowledge of the county affairs is very wide. He is certain of re-election.

Councillor Buck, of Norwood, is the next oldest member, having been a member for four years consecutively, but before that time he served a number of terms at intervals, having been in the council at the time before the present system of representation was inaugurated, and sat as Deputy Reeve. It is whispered that Mr. Buck will be the next Warden.

Mr. Curtis is one of the new members, having just about completed his first term of two years. He has has shown a good grasp of public affairs, and it would be a regrettable circumstance were he not to be a member of the next council. He is one of the most hard working men on the council. Mr. Moloney, of Douro is another member in his first term, but who also has done excellent service to the county and to his division. He has shown himself a careful legislator, and his constituents will do well to again send him to the council to represent them. Mr. Monoguc represents one of the largest divisions in the county, and has also been a member for two years. He has faithfully discharged his duties, and will no doubt be returned.

Mr. Johnston, representing the Otonabee Division, will also be a candidate for re-election, and his record during his years of service on the council will no doubt be rewarded by those whom he represents.

WILLIAM S. GAMBLE DIED VERY SUDDENLY

Well Known Resident of Douro Dies After a Week's Illness.

A sudden death occurred yesterday morning in Douro, when William S. Gamble, lot 2, concession 10, succumbed to an attack of pneumonia. The deceased had been ill for only one week and had always been in good health previously. He was 53 years of age.

The late Mr. Gamble was born in Bathurst township, county of Lanark and came to Douro four years ago and bought the farm of Mr. A. Cartwright, where he has since resided. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and three children, Ward, Joshua and Sadie. The brothers are Samuel and Andrew, of Bathurst township; Robert, of Elmsley township; John, of Maberly, Ont. One sister, Mrs. George Curry, of Bathurst, is left.

The funeral will take place from the family residence on Saturday at 2 o'clock, and proceed to Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Morrows Class.

There was a splendid turnout of members at Mrs. W. J. Morrow's choral class Wednesday evening and splendid progress was made in the choruses. Mrs. Callendar, of Norwood, sang in a manner reflecting credit upon herself and teacher. Her number was "With Verdure Clad" from Haydn's Creation and was excellently vocalized. Miss Mabel Rickey sang with clear articulation "The Brightest Day" displaying a well-developed contralto voice. Miss Curtis, a mezzo-soprano with a promising voice sang in expressive tones "Hear us O Father" ... the meeting

JOHN THORNBECK IS CARETAKER.

Directors of Rink Appointed Him to That Position.

Ice has Begun to Form in the Rink, and Tickets Will be on Sale.

Last night the directors of the Peterborough Hockey Club, Limited, held a meeting in Mr. W. H. Hill's office, when a number of matters in connection with the affairs of the rink for the coming season were discussed.

The applications for the position of caretaker were considered, and Mr. John Thornbeck, who for the last two years has been employed as assistant caretaker was appointed to the higher position for this season. Mr. Thorbeck is known to everyone, who has frequented the rink, and is very popular with skaters and hockey players, who will be pleased to know that he has secured the appointment. Mr. Arthur Blade was appointed assistant caretaker associated with Mr. Thornbeck. The directors feel that the staff at the rink this season is a good one, and that the patrons will have no fault to find with the service.

Tickets will be issued at once and the prices will be the same as last season, and will be on sale at the same places as in former seasons.

The rink was given its first flood last night, and with a continuance of the present cold weather it should not be long before the ice will be ready for use.

A CLERGYMAN'S ADVANCEMENT.

Rev. W. Archibald Appointed to the Leamington Church.

The many friends in Peterborough of Rev. W. Archibald, formerly of this place, and more recently in charge of the Anglican Churches of Warsaw and Hall's Glen, and lately of Stouffville, will be pleased to learn that he has been appointed to the parish of Leamington, in the Huron Diocese.

The appointment is a good one and Mr. Archibald is being congratulated upon his well deserved advancement.

He will leave Stouffville to take his new charge this month.

PLATFORM OF THE TRADE'S COUNCIL

Slate for Municipal Officers and the Platform Will be Announced Shortly.

A meeting of the Trades and Labour Council will be held in the near future for the purpose of choosing candidates for Aldermen and possibly for Mayor and for the adopting of a platform. It is expected that one of the planks of the Trades and Labour Council will be the appointment for Assessment Commission, and also the appointment of a Building Inspector whose duties it shall be to inspect all buildings being constructed in the town and to see that they are erected in a manner in compliance with the provisions of the fire limit by-law, and also that the plumbing is done in a proper and sanitary manner. No candidates have as yet been endorsed by the council, but the complete slate and platform will in all probability, be announced in the course of a few days.

WORKING BOYS. AT THE Y.M.C.A.

An Interesting Contest in the Physical Department.

Each month contests are held between the boys of the gymnasium. The working boys form a very important part of the Physical Department. The boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15 years, are very enthusiastic in their work. Each night a series of contests are held. Two captains are picked and they in turn choose their sides from the remaining boys. Races and games are participated in with intense enthusiasm. Ernest Ware and Leo Borradaile were chosen captains this month. Ernest Warne's side won the month's contest by one point. Up to last night the sides were equal when the winners scored their point in a game of basketball. The names of the winning team are Ernest Warne, Captain; Geo. Martin, Wallace Harris, Peter Wallace, Arthur Hall, Ernest Saxby, Wm. Saxby, H. Broad, Geo. Hilliard, Louis Thompson, Cecil Stark, Wilbert Yelland, Jarvis Barraclough, Ben Billington, Leslie Pife.

Christmas Reduction Sale.

Although it must be with reluctance that the Peterborough Bookstore has decided on a reduction sale at the beginning of the Christmas shopping season, buyers will hail with pleasure such an excellent chance for economic gift getting. This sale has been started as the result of too heavy buying and room must be made for new and later holiday gift novelties arriving almost every day. Xmas cards and booklets on sale on Saturday. A. COUNTY COUNCIL'S CLOSING SESSION

Special Session Closed Yesterday Morning.

Messrs. Casement and Pearce was Appointed Arbitrators—Speeches by Retiring Members.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The Thursday morning session of the County Council was opened by the new Warden, Mr. T. M. Hunter, with all the members of the council present.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and confirmed.

Councillor Menogue called the attention of the Council to the case reported in the Examiner a few days ago of the Airess family, the members of which are in a pitiable condition. The family lives seven miles from the nearest settler, and they would probably have to remain there for the winter with no one to look after them. He thought that the first charge of these people was on the municipality, but he would like to see the county do something if the municipality could or would not attend to these unfortunates. The Warden suggested that Mr. Menogue should be appointed to act with the municipality, and endeavour to do something to alleviate their sufferings. The opinion of the council was that the county really could do nothing until after the local municipality had taken the matter up. The persons in question had property, and therefore were not vagrants. Mr. Fitzgerald moved that Mr. Menogue be appointed to confer with the township of Burleigh Council in the matter.

Mr. Fitzgerald moved, seconded by Mr. Moore, that Mr. J. B. Pearce, of Norwood, be appointed county arbitrator to act in the readjustment of the assets and liabilities between the town and county, made necessary by the annexation of Ashburnham to the town. The motion was carried.

It was moved by Mr. Menogue and seconded by Mr. Shaw that the costs of sale on all lands not patented that appeared in the sale warrant of 1902, under $10, be not charged against the municipality. The motion was carried.

COUNTY SOLICITOR.

Mr. Menogue moved the first reading of a bylaw apointing Mr. E. A. Peck to the office of County Solicitor, at a salary of $100.00 per year. The bylaw was passed.

AN ARBITRATOR.

Mr. Menogue moved the first reading of a bylaw, appointing Mr. W. H. Casement of Lakefield, as arbitrator to determine the amounts to be paid the county by the town for the administration of Justice, the use of the county buildings and other services for which the town is liable. The bylaw was carried after it had been given its several readings.

Mr. Curtis suggested that since there were some members of the council who would this year end their connection with it, it might be a good idea to hear a few words from those who were retiring. The Warden acquiesed in the suggestion, and a number of the councillors were called upon for short addresses.

MR. G. W. FITZGERALD.

Mr. Geo. W. Fitzgerald, who is finishing his term as county councilior, and by reason of his removal to town will be unable to again sit in the council, expressed his regret at the severance of his connection with the council. He thanked the members of the council for the courteous manner in which he had been treated during the seven years that he had sat on the Council Board, and said that he would in the future frequently stroll up to the Court House. There had been a number of deaths in the council during his term of office, but he thought that good men had been elected to fill their places.

THE EX-WARDEN.

Mr. Peck added a few words and said that his associations with the members of the councils during the seven years that he had represented Ashburnham, and he would always look back with pleasure upon those years. There were only three members of the present council that were in when he was elected.

He thanked the council for the honour they had done him in appointing him to the office of County Solicitor and hoped that for many years to come he would be able to be in his place looking after the business of the county.

Mr. H. A. Moore followed and said that although his stay with the council had been short, he had decided to look for higher honours, and would not be a candidate for a place in the council in 1905. He hoped some time in the future to again sit in the council.

The new Warden, Mr. T. M. Hunter, in response to requests, addressed the council briefly, saying that he was deeply gratified to the council for the great honour they had done him in electing him as Warden, and that honour was especially appreciated since he had been in the council such a short time. He would not be a member of the next council because he had given his word to Kanismore that he would not be a candidate for the next term, but in the future he might again be found in the council.

He had been in municipal life for a number of year, having served in the township council for 14 years, the last two of which he had been Reeve, and he found a fascination in municipal life.

He hoped that all the old members of the council seeking re-election would be returned.

After the different bylaws had been passed, the council adjourned, and the session was concluded.

GREAT CROWDS FLOCK TO FAIR.

Very Large Attendance Yesterday Afternoon and Evening.

An Excellent Programme Presented Last Evening—This Evening's Entertainment.

The first day of the World's Fair could hardly have been more successful. From point of members, the amount of sale and the programme rendered last evening there was left nothing to choose and the ladies, though somewhat fatigued by their hard day's work, felt that the first day had proved a crowning triumph. Even greater crowds are promised for to-day and to-morrow.

Yesterday afternoon, a great many visited the Fair and purchased readily the sale being even larger than anticipated. Last evening the place was packed to the doors and those present had the pleasure of listening to a programme of much excellence. It was novel and unique and every number was a gem.

The programme was opened with a solo and chorus "Gentlemen of Japan" sung by eleven local vocalists with Mr. Jos. Legg, tenor soloist. The costumes were most appropriate and the scene presented when the curtain was drawn was quite attractive. The chorus sang in splendid voice and with the excellent effect. Mr. Legg sang the difficult tenor solo in masterly style and made a decided "hit". So well was the chorus received that it had to be repeated. This chorus will be on the programme to-night and to-morrow night.

A dance by four charming young ladies in very pretty costumes was a very popular number. The dainty grace and charm of manner appealed strongly to the audience and an encore was demanded. The young ladies were Misses Roy, Wallis, M. Burnett and K. Burnett.

A duet "Gold Dust Twins" by Frank and Carl Halpany in costume was splendidly sung and the number was heartily applauded.

One of the prettiest numbers of the evening was the trio, "Three little maids from School" by Misses Hughes-Charles, Hazel Dean, and Gladys Crandy. The young ladies looked charming in their Japanese costumes while they sang and acted their parts in a most delightful manner. The number was enthusiastically encored.

Masters Frank and Carl Halpany sang in costume "It was the Dutch". The number caused much merriment, the youthful comedians singing their parts exceptionally well.

The closing number "A Sunflower Chorus" was quite unique. The solo was sung in very creditable style by Master Fred. Seymour, who wore a costume to represent a "Cullied Lady" and who was all that could be desired in that capacity. The chorus was composed of eight of St. John's Choir Boys, who came from behind a curtain, their black coloured faces surrounded by the golden sunflaked petals being all that was visible. The boys sang well in tune and in good voice the number being in every way a most popular one. A hearty encore was responded to. Those in the choruses were Vernon Dredge, Charlie Dean, Evans Bradburn, Gordon Cummings, Claude Bartlett, Roy Dixon, Lorne Fitzgerald and Roy Hutchinson.

The Examiner omitted to make mention yesterday of the weigh-scales department. There never was a World's Fair without a device for finding one's weight and this department is being well patronized at the present Exposition. Mrs. Bartlett is in charge assisted by Misses Lillian Dean, Robina Cummings, Grace Burritt and Grace Lount.

This evening a programme of a very interesting nature will be furnished. Miss Nellie Davies will sing a Japanese song, and Mr. J. Halpany will be heard in popular selections. The Gentlemen's Japanese chorus will be repeated as well as the "Sunflower Chorus".

A great deal of credit is due to Mrs. Hughes-Charles for the excellence of last evening's programme which was under her supervision.

To Mrs. Eardley-Wilmot also much credit is due for her very efficient management of the Fair.

Don't fail to attend the great Exposition this evening.

Mr. Halpany's splendid orchestra plays every afternoon at the Fair and adds materialy to the pleasure of those in attendance.

The following will be the programme presented this evening:—

1.—Orchestra number, Mr. Halpany's orchestra.
2.—Spanish dance, Miss Roy, Miss M. Burnett and K. Burnett.
3.—Song, ...Miss Ruth Dawson
4.—Duet, Masters Frank and Carl Halpany.
5.—Solo and chorus, "Gentlemen of Japan" ... ...Mr. Jos. Legg, etc.
6.—Japanese love song, Miss Helen Davies.

PRINCIPAL CAVEN.

Perhaps death could not have chosen a victim who has had wider and deeper influence upon the religious thought and moral element of the country than Rev. Principal Caven, who was for nearly forty years the principal in name as well as in essence, of Knox College. The influence he has directly exercised upon the hundreds of students who have been sent forth into the ministry of the Presbyterian church, is beyond all computation, and in a more catholic way besides in his general attitude to moral movements and interests, he has to his credit a sum total of good influences due to few of the great Canadians of the past.

MADE CLEAN SWEEP

Canadians Won Everything in Lincoln Sheep at St. Louis.

OUR POULTRYMEN TAKE $3,053

Official Fair Report Will Be Interesting Reading to Canadians—Great Individual Successes of Our Live Stock Men Gratifying Also in Their Total Aggregate in All Classes.

St. Louis, Dec. 1.—The success which has attended the Canadian exhibits in all lines of live stock represented at the World's Exposition at St. Louis, which closed last night, is unparallelled in the history of the Fair. In horses, cattle, sheep and swine the Canadian exhibit was exceptionally good, while in poultry they practically swept the boards.

In addition the money prizes offered by the various separate stock associations, will add handsomely to the Canadian winners.

The winnings of the Canadians in poultry was most gratifying, totaling $3,053 out of a possible $5,380, in the classes in which entries were made. Canadians won $3,053 on 1,011 birds, among over 9,000 entered, also having the largest individual winner, Wm. McNeil of London, who won $669.

The Individual Successes.

The official report will present the following very interesting statistics:

In hackney horses, Robert Beith of Bowmanville won all specials given by the English Horse Society, totaling in value $900.

In Ayrshire cattle, with 122 entries, and a total prize list of $3705, J. G. Clarke of Ottawa won $900. Robert Ness of Howick, Quebec, won the premier championship for breeders.

In Shropshires, with total entries of 243 and a total prize list of $2935, Mr. Campbell of Woodville, wins $1624, together with premier championship for breeder. In addition he won a special cash prize of $50 for taking the largest list of prizes.

In Southdowns, Telfer Bros. of Paris and Senator Drummond of Quebec were large winners, securing $833. In this class the total prize money was $3915, while the entries were 197. Senator Drummond won the honor of premier championship breeder, while Telfer Bros. secured the grand prize for championship ram.

In Leicesters, there was a total entry of 237, with a prize list aggregating $2901, out of which the Canadian exhibitors were fortunate enough to secure $2795, or all but $135.

In this class A. W. Smith of Maple Lodge won premier championship as exhibitor and breeder and also took two other diplomas. Hastings Bros. of Crosshill won $881 and three diplomas, A. W. Whitlaw of Guelph, $451 and one diploma.

A Clean Sweep.

In Lincolns the Canadians won everything out of a total entry of 147, and in a prize list aggregating $2021, they took every cent. J. T. Gibson of Denfield won $1520, also championship for breeder and five other diplomas. J. H. Patrick, Ilderton, wins $674 and one diploma, and E. W. Patrick, $136 and one diploma.

In Dorsets, the entries were 144. A total prize list of $2921, of which the Canadians won $1482. Col. J. A. McGillivray was especially successful in this class, winning $961, the premier championship for exhibitor and two diplomas. R. H. Harding of Thorndale won $521 and two diplomas.

Cotswolds were represented by 222 entries, pitted for prize money aggregating $2915, out of which the Canadians were successful in taking $1632. J. C. Jarvis won $902 and two diplomas. T. Hardy Shore of Glanworth $545 and one diploma, and E. J. Park of Burgessville $185.

In Suffolks, James Bowman won $225.

Prize Winning Swine Breeders.

In swine the Tamworth were represented by 129 entries, aggregating $2415. Of this George Douglas & Sons of Mitchell won $723, premier championship for breeder and exhibitor and two diplomas.

In Yorkshires there were 100 entries and prize money of $3241, of which J. E. Brethour of Bradford won $1287, the premier championship for breeder and two diplomas. Joseph Featherstone of Streetsville won $748.

Essex were represented by 181 entries, and a prize list totalling $2415, ont of which Joseph Featherstone won $595 and two diplomas.

Berkshires were shown by W. H. Durham of Toronto, who got $180.

MRS. CHADWICK, NEE BIGLEY.

Promises to Pay $300,000 and May Institute Libel Suits.

New York, Dec. 1.—"Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick will settle the claim against her by Herbert D. Newton of Brookline, Mass., for $190,800 upon a cash basis and in full."

This statement was made yesterday by George Ryall of the firm of Baggot & Ryall, counsel in New York for Mr. Newton.

"I have seen Mrs. Chadwick at her apartments at the Holland House," Mr. Ryall said, "and as a result of my talk with her, I am able to say that the case will be settled satisfactorily to my client. When the case has been settled she is very liable to bring suit against some people. She also denies the stories to the effect that several banks are involved in her case."

Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick is ill at the Holland House.

Meanwhile complications and sensational revelations multiply hourly in a bewildering manner in respect to the moneyed operations of Betsy Bigley. The figures representing various sums that the former Woodstock woman is said to have procured from leading financial institutions and individuals throughout the country already foot up more than $600,000. The methods by which this large amount was obtained are the wonder of the banking world, overshadowing in interest the story of the woman's past.

Toronto Branch Suspends.

London, Dec. 1.—It is reported a large banking and brokerage firm in London is in serious difficulties. The liabilities of the firm are said to amount to $1,000,000 sterling. The Evening Star says it is the London and Paris Exchange, and adds that it closed its doors yesterday afternoon.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—The London and Paris Exchange has a branch in Toronto at 84 Victoria street. C. G. T. Bailey, the Canadian manager, when seen yesterday said that he had received no cable confirming the rumor, but that he had suspended business until he received instructions from headquarters.

Wrecked On Cape St. Mary's.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 1.—The schooner Alma Cook, with a crew of seven men, has been wrecked on Cape St. Mary's. The crew escaped, after being all night afloat in an open boat, which several times was almost upset. The vessel is a total loss. The schooner Cardigan also was completely wrecked on Sacred Island. Her crew of three were destitute until they were rescued.

SON OF NORTH GREY.

Demonstration At Owen Sound to Hon. A. G. Mackay Seldom Equalled.

Owen Sound, Dec. 1.—Hon. A. G. Mackay's welcome to his native town last night was all that conquering hero or successful public man could desire. At Dundalk, forty-five miles from Owen Sound, the citizens gathered at the station with a brass band, and the train stopped for a few moments. At Markdale, the home by the way, of Mr. I. B. Lucas, M. P. P. for Centre Grey, the demonstration was even more marked, and the train was boarded by about half a hundred of Mr. Mackay's Owen Sound friends.

An Important Reform.

As to the demonstration, Owen Sound had never seen its like before. In his speech Mr. Mackay foreshadowed an important change in the administration of the mines branch, whereby local offices will be established in mining centres at which immediate information will be available, and which will obviate the delay incident to writing the department at Toronto. He also said that the natural conflict between the settler and the lumberman would receive early attention. Both Mr. Mackay and Hon. Richard Harcourt spoke on non-controversial lines, and for once Liberals and Conservatives united in doing honor to a son of North Grey.

RAILWAYMEN WILL DIE.

Signalman Derails Freight to Prevent Collision At Crossing.

Windsor, Dec. 1.—Owing to some misunderstanding, apparently, by the flagman at the Pelton crossing of the M. C. R. and Pere Marquette Railways, a freight train going east on the M.C.R. was thrown from the track. The train was a double-header, the first engine passing the switch all right, but the second engine and freight cars are piled in the ditch.

Engineer Bruce Little, Fireman John Matthews and Brakeman Thomas Short, all of St. Thomas, were scalded, probably fatally. The signalman thought a M. C. R. freight and the Pere Marquette would collide and derailed the freight.

Killed By a Cave-In.

Hamilton, Dec. 1.—William Teeple, the 15-year-old son of John Teeple, 587 North Hughson street, was killed by a cave-in at a sandpit at the foot of Oxford street yesterday morning. Coroner Philp held an inquest last evening, and the jury brought in a verdict that only a coroner's jury could bring in. This is how the verdict read: "We are of the opinion that William Teeple came to his death by an undue amount of earth falling upon him." The jurors were also of the opinion that proper precautions had not been taken, and recommended the appointment of an inspector to supervise operations in sandpits.

Fell Twenty-Five Feet.

Chatham, Dec. 1.—While working yesterday putting up eave troughs on a city residence S. J. Ingles, a tinsmith, fell from the scaffolding 25 feet, fracturing his thigh. His head and shoulders were also horribly lacerated.

Indigestion and Headache.

Mr. Duncan McPherson, Content, Alta., writes: "I was for many years troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, and derived no relief from the many remedies that I used. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after taking four boxes the result is that I am once more in the full enjoyment of the blessings of good health."

He Wished For Her.

"You see," explained a young man as he showed a pretty girl the wishbone of a chicken at a picnic luncheon, "you hold here and I'll hold here. Then we must make a wish and pull, and, when it breaks, the one who has the bigger part of it will have his or her wish gratified." "But I don't know what to wish for," she protested. "Oh, you can think of something!" he said. "No, I can't," she replied. "I can't think of anything I want very much." "Well, I'll wish for you!" he exclaimed. "Will you really?" she asked. "Yes." "Well, then, there's no use troubling about the old bone," she interrupted, with a full smile. "You can have me!"

To have a respect for ourselves guides our morals, and to have a deference for others governs our manners. —Sterne.

One Came Out After The Other.

Suffered with Boils for Six Months.

Mr. Elie Braizeau, Meadowside Station, Ont., tells of his experience with Boils and Burdock Blood Bitters.

He says:—"In the Spring of 1899 I was continually troubled with boils—one coming after another for about six months. I suffered terribly, and was in a very bad condition. In August I got a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters, and began to feel better after taking it. I kept on until I had used five bottles, and can truthfully say that I was cured, and have remained so ever since. I have not had the least sign of a boil."

There is nothing like Burdock Blood Bitters for bad blood, boils, pimples, dyspepsia, indigestion, or any trouble arising from the Stomach, Liver, Bowels or Blood.

SALMON NURSERY.

Most Successful One in the World Is in Canada.

On the shores of the Bay of Fundy—at St. John, N.B.—is the most successful salmon nursery in the world. The situation of the pond is unique. It is in the very heart of the seaport, on the west side of the harbor, where the larger part of the Canadian winter port shipping is done.

On all sides city streets bound the pond, which covers about four acres, and the streets are among the busiest in the city. None the less, the splendid game fish which it contains thrive as do no impounded salmon on this or any other continent. From the latter part of May until the middle of August salmon run in the St. John River and are caught by Canadian fishermen in the weirs. The Canadian Government buys the fish for $2 apiece and employs from six to ten men every season to convey them from the weirs to the pond.

The bay itself is naturally adapted for the retaining of fish, as it is connected with the great tidewater of the Bay of Fundy, and fills up every twelve hours. After the number of salmon wanted by the department is secured, all but two of the staff of employes is discharged. These, one by day and one by night, are kept to watch the pond.

The stripping of the salmon usually commences about Oct. 28 and continues to Nov. 9. This year 1,022 fish were placed in the pond. They were so well cared for that the loss was only 4½ per cent. Of this number 690 were female, from which were taken about 5,400,000 eggs. The eggs were sent to hatcheries in various parts of the provinces. After they were stripped they were taken from the pond to the mouth of the harbor, where they were liberated.

This year 800 were marked with copper tags three-eighths of an inch by one-eighth of an inch on the surface, on which is the letter C and the figures '04. The tag is attached to the fish with silver wire. The idea is to discover whether they live to return again, and if they spawn every year after arriving at maturity, as has been claimed by some experts.

Some five-pound fish were specially marked. If caught next year, or in two years, it will show how much a salmon increases in weight in that time.

A Unique Holiday.

Mr. J. B. McLachlan, chief clerk in the Provincial Secretary's Department, has resumed his duties after a holiday extending nearly one month, which he spent in a somewhat unusual manner. Accompanied by Mrs. McLachlan, he drove to Chatham and back. Going, the route was via the Lake Shore road to Hamilton, thence to Dundas, Paris, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Aylmer and Morpeth. The return journey was made by way of Sarnia, thence east through Lambton and Middlesex counties toward Parkhill, to London, Ingersoll, Paris, St. George, Rockton, Waterdown, Dundas and home. The journey was made in a buggy drawn by a span of good horses, and an average of 35 miles a day was made, the total distance aggregating nearly 600 miles. Stops in the rural districts were made principally at the residences of farmers. The roads throughout were good, and Mr. and Mrs. McLachlan enjoyed their holiday immensely.

Heliotropism.

Heliotropism is the peculiar property shown by many plants, notably the sunflower, of always turning toward the sun. In the case of seedlings the phenomenon is especially marked. The cells on the light side are apparently retarded in growth, thus causing a curvature toward that side. Professor Romanes experimented with an intermittent light, such as that of an electric spark discharge, upon mustard seedlings and found the heliotropic effect produced in this way far greater than that caused by the sun or any other form of light. Strange to say, however, this abnormal influence is unaccompanied by the generation of chlorophyll, the green coloring matter in plants which relatives themselves for its proper production.—Pall Mall Gazette.

TEMPER POWDERS.

Sir Lauder Brunton Makes Known His Prescription for Curing Irritability and Making Life Easy.

Good temper is a matter of easy achievement, according to that eminent medical authority Sir Lauder Brunton, of London, England.

Sir Lauder believes that good digestion is a considerable factor in securing amiability, but in special cases he recommends the administration of "temper powders."

Gouty persons, he says, become temporarily irritable shortly before an attack of gout, and for such people he recommends twenty grains of bicarbonate of potash with ten to twenty grains of bromide potassium, to be taken when the feeling of irritability comes on. This frequently soothes it and has the further effect of lessening worry even in those who are not irritable.

"If this 'temper powder,' as I am accustomed to call it," says Sir Lauder, "be taken when some irritating occurrence takes place or some depressing news is heard it appears to take away the sting of either, so that in the place of being much worried and unable to turn attention to other things a person feels as if he had slept over the bad news or worry and is able to obtain relief by turning his attention to something else.

"In the irritability of temper caused by cardiac diseases or which is the precursor of headache I have found a few doses of bromide of potassium and salicylicate of soda will give relief and improve the temper. Constant explosions of temper on the part of a member of a family may affect the health of the other members, who have their appetities spoiled, their digestion impaired, their nerves shattered and their pleasure in life destroyed by the irritable temper of another. For these patients the best treatment is to administer 'temper powders' to the offending person, when the distressing symptoms of the other members of the family will be relieved."

Commissioner Coombs Welcomed.

Toronto, Dec. 1.—Unbounded enthusiasm was displayed in welcoming Eva Booth's successor to the Commissionership of the Dominion, Thomas S. Coombs, last night. He made a red-hot Salvation Army address in response. Commissioner Coombs came to Canada 20 years ago and spent five years in building up the army all over the Dominion. In 1889 he went to Australia, and for eight years he has been in charge of the work in Great Britain.

Kidney Cells Destroyed

BY REPEATED ATTACKS OF DISEASE—SURPRISING RESULTS OBTAINED BY USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Because it is sometimes a slow and lingering malady, people are prone to overlook the destructive tendencies of kidney disease.

They forget that the wasting process brings about a change in the cellular tissue, which practically renders the kidneys useless as filtering organs.

Continued paleness and loss of flesh, pains in the back and loins, dry, harsh skin, severe headaches and backaches; scanty, highly coloured urination, stomach troubles and irregular bowels are among the symptoms of kidney disease.

As a cause of downright suffering few diseases are to be compared with kidney disease, and the results are frequently, the end coming suddenly and unexpected.

By their direct and wonderfully prompt action on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills call a quick halt to the advance of kidney disease.

By their combined action on kidneys liver and bowels they prove effective in complicated cases, in which ordinary kidney medicines bring little or no relief.

Mrs. H. Trollope, 650 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I have used two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and found them an excellent medicine. I had very severe pains across the back which came came from my kidneys being out of order, and since using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for a time, I began to feel a wonderful improvement in my health.

"I have no more pains in my back now and am feeling as well as ever I did. Consequently, I am glad of an opportunity to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have thoroughly proven their genuine and indisputable merit, and you can use them knowing of a certainty that you will receive all the benefit that would be derived from attention of the most skilful physician. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE COLONIAL SECRETARY.

Statesman Who Has Achieved Fine Reputation in Three Departments of the Strenuous Life.

Shakespeare was right when he said, "Time travels in divers paces with divers persons." This is particularly true of the Hon. Alfred Lyttelton, Colonial Secretary. Sport, law and politics have all disputed the possession of the Colonial Secretary. In each department he has achieved a reputation, but it remains to be seen whether his success at sport and in law will be carried on to the arena of politics. Time is young politically, and so is Mr. Lyttelton. The qualities that make for success in sport are not always available in politics. One makes a demand upon the physical mainly, the other is mental. One is seen, the other is unseen. Watch him for a moment in the House of Commons, and it is the keen eyes, the alert mobility, the athletic presence, rather than the evidences of outstanding statesmanship, that will appeal to you. You encounter the atmosphere of the sportsman, and not the pervasiveness of political greatness. There is one feature of his varied career that is full of interest. It is the ease with which fame has come to him. In sport he was a success from the first, and undoubtedly this initial success has played its part in each successive triumph. Just the Lyttelton contribution to Eton. Eight brothers played in the cricket eleven. During the schoolboy period a tragic scene occurred in mere Lyttelton's drawing-room.

A Tragic Scene.

One of the younger scions of the famous house entered the room in an agony of grief and shame and told of the downfall of Alfred.

"I never should have thought he could have done it," groaned the boy.

"Why, what has he done? Tell me quickly," demanded the mother.

"Done? Why he ran out to a beastly slow, and got stumped."

During his cricket career, however, he made ample atonement for this mistake. Fearlessness is one of his most prominent characteristics. This quality never deserts him—even in Parliament. It was during one of those strenuous matches with Australia in 1884 that this trait was seen at its best value. The colonials were piling up a huge score. All the bowlers had failed to stay its progress, and it was left to Mr. Lyttelton's ingenuity to conceive a method of disposing of them. Daring all risks, he put himself on to bowl slow underhands; and he soon had the satisfaction of seeing the kangaroo's tail wag, for he disposed of four men for only 19 runs. At the bar, to which he was called in 1881, he found matters completely easy for him. Directly he was called he was known. There was no need to ask whence cometh he, for all the world had noted his prowess in football, tennis and cricket. Deviling for Sir Henry James gave him a good start, and in 1849 he was appointed Recorder of Hereford, whilst a year later he secured the Recordership of Oxford. After 19 years' service he took "silk."

His Oratorical Methods.

He is not a brilliant lawyer, but he is sound, and quite a capable speaker. It is said that many know how to please, but know not when they have ceased to give pleasure. This is true of Mr. Lyttelton's oratorical methods both at the bar and in the House of Commons. He never leads people to a conclusion and permits them to draw it for themselves. At least, in one historical investigation—the Parnell Commission—he was given a full opportunity of displaying his readiness of tact. That he was eminently successful I do not propose to admit, for it was a struggle where qualities of mind were demanded which he did not possess.

Then came his passage to Westminster. What a horde of Parliamentary candidates the bar furnished. When Mr. Speaker Peel retired from the representation of Warwick, Mr. Lyttelton was returned as the Unionist member. This looked strange considering his distinctly Liberal leanings. It was the home rule issue, an issue which set all family traditions at naught, that led him to embark upon the political ocean in the Unionist boat.

At Westminster he is only an occasional contributor to the debates, for he understands that the House of Commons hates to be lectured. Outside the House his speeches are persuasive and suggestive. During the storm and stress of argumentative battle he is inclined to an irritability of temperament that leads him to impetuous retort and taunting sneer. But in the calm of legislation he adopts the twin role of lawyer and legislator. One is afraid that, what was said of Columbus can never be said of Mr. Lyttelton, "The instinct of an unknown continent burned in him."

Hints for Girls.

Some one has suggested twelve things that every girl can learn before she is fifteen. Not every girl can learn to play or sing or paint well enough to give pleasure to her friends, but the following "accomplishments" are within everybody's reach: Shut the door, and shut it softly. Keep your room in tasteful order. Have an hour for rising and rise. Learn to make bread as well as cake. Never let a button stay off twenty-four hours. Always know where your things are. Never let a day pass without doing something to make some one comfortable. Never come to breakfast untidily dressed.

Balfour the Sleeper.

Mr. Balfour, Prime Minister of England, sleeps at least 12 hours a day—sometimes longer. He is one of the champion golfers of England, and did more to popularize the game abroad than any other person. He set the fashion. He is also an expert cyclist and automobilist. When preparing an important speech he thinks it out in bed. Old-time doctors used to say that persons who slept long slept their brains away. One of the strenuously active business men of New York says he never wants more than three hours of sound sleep.

The Literariness of the General.

"Mary, there's three months' dust in the drawing-room!"

"That isn't my fault, mum. You know I've only bin here a fortnight!"

A SAMPLE OF IRISH EVICTION.

Premises Barricaded and a Determined Defence Put Up.

Extraordinary scenes of lawlessness took place recently at the eviction of Edmund Murphy, who held a large house and 100 acres of land on the Fell estate at Watergrasshill, situate between Cork and Mallow. Murphy, who owed six years' rent, expected the sheriff, and with his friends he made extensive preparations to resist the entrance of the bailiffs. The house was fortified as for a siege. Trunks of trees were piled outside the doors and windows, which were barricaded inside with iron gates, barbed wire fencing, and other obstacles. The tenant and twenty other neighbors, who were armed with scythes, crowbars and pitchforks, shut themselves in and awaited the arrival of the shrieval party. Outside Messrs. E. Crean, M.P.; D. D. Sheehan, M. P., and other Nationalists, accompanied by a brass band, harangued a large crowd at intervals. However, there was no sign of the sheriff's coming, and the crowd dispersed at nightfall, leaving the farmstead in possession of its garrison.

At 9 o'clock next morning Mr. John Gale, county sub-sheriff, and a number of bailiffs, protected by a large force of constabulary, under District Inspector Webster, appeared in front of the house and set about taking possession. When an attempt was made to force one of the doors the police and bailiffs were deluged with boiling water and pelted with paving stones by the occupants, and after a desperate scene the officers were obliged to retire and despatch couriers to Cork for reinforcements and a battering ram. These arrived a few hours later, their passage to the scene of the eviction being blocked at several points by tree trunks thrown across the roadway. Ardnacarter Bridge was practically fortified and held by an immense crowd, and it took the constabulary nearly an hour to clear a passage. At 2.30 the Cork force of fifty constables joined the Fermoy force outside Murphy's dwelling, and the large hostile crowd which filled the farmyard had to be ejected by the force of police, using their rifle butts.

A head constable and some men armed with crowbars advanced towards the house, when they were received with a fusillade of missiles from the upper windows. Dodging bottles, bricks, and so forth as well as they could, half-a-dozen constables forced an entrance into a stable which adjoins the main building and began to demolish the gable wall, but they made slow progress and at 4.30 other tactics were tried. A score of policemen stood in a line in front of the house, and hurled volley after volley of stones at the windows, and under cover of this fire a similar number got their battering-ram at work on the front door, and after half an hour's work the front door was smashed to atoms, revealing the defenders still protected by iron gates. An order was given to draw bayonets, but the defenders, who seemed in a frenzy, replied with iron bars, and the constabulary did not deem it prudent to continue the conflict further at this point, or there certainly would have been bloodshed.

In the melee several of the policemen were struck with missiles, and one was felled to the ground. One had his nose broken, another had all his front teeth knocked out and several others were cut and slashed or bruised. The constabulary, then, using a large wooden gate as a shield, advanced again to the door, and after encountering much boiling water, they gained an entrance to the ground floor, to find that the occupants had retired upstairs and strongly barricaded the staircase. One of the defenders (Laurence Flaherty) was captured and placed under arrest. At this juncture District Inspector Webster (Midleton) approached Messrs. Crean and Sheehan and asked them to prevail upon the men inside the house to surrender, and Mr. Crean replied that he was most anxious to do so on honorable terms. After the strong protest that had been made, he wanted to prevent loss of life. There was a cessation of some hours, during which frequent parleys were held.

At length the men surrendered, and the police made twenty arrests. The prisoners were taken under a strong guard before a magistrate at Watergrasshill and remanded. The police force and bailiffs then returned to their different stations, leaving a body to guard over the farmstead.

A Caterpillar Farm.

One of the wonders of Scarborough, England, is its caterpillar farm, a walled in half acre, on which rare species of moths and butterflies are reared with as much care as the poultryman gives to the prize fowls. Each female lays several hundred eggs. The feeding caterpillars are confined in muslin bags or "sleeves," and these are moved from place to place on the trees. The eggs, caterpillars and mature insects have considerable market value. Ordinary caterpillars sell at 5 to 50 cents each, and moths are not thought high at $1, while certian hybrids sell readily at $7.50 per specimen, and rarities are often taken at $12 to $15. For unusual colors the price may even reach $100.

A Wonderful Woman.

Perhaps the most remarkable digestive apparatus on record, so far as human beings are concerned, passed out of existence recently when a certain Mrs. Williams died at Bristol, England, "at a good old age." One time, it is said, the lady seized a box of dominoes and swallowed twenty-eight pieces. On another occasion she consumed one and a half pounds of gravel, and later she swallowed thirteen iron screws. None of these things apparently harmed her.

Explained.

The Office Boy (at luncheon)—I wonder how doughnuts ever come ter be called "sinkers?"

The Messenger Boy (disdainfully)—Yer a bright Sherlock, youse are! Soy, did yer ever notice de family resemblance between a doughnut an' a life-preserver?

Practical Imperialism.

Mr. William Wilfred Campbell of Ottawa addressed the Empire Club in Toronto recently on the "Practical Side of Imperialism." On the furthering of the Imperialistic spirit he based our only chance of becoming a great people. Canadians, he said, should realize their part in public affairs, and not leave the conduct of the country entirely to professional politicians. This was necessary if free representation and the freedom of the ballot box were to be maintained. To avoid Americanizing influences Imperialism and Canadianism should be preached through the medium of the press, the church, the schools, and in the House of Representatives. An Imperial Press Bureau in London, Eng., was also advocated, by which the interchange throughout the British Empire of newspaper editorials fostering Imperialistic sentiments might be effected.

Present day Imperialism, continued the speaker, was not a mere self-satisfying jingoism; it was a vital force necessary to human progress and national entity. Religion, commerce, travel, education, invention, science and literature were a continual reproach to the separationist. The little Englander, the little Irelander and the little Canadian were the opposers of this spirit. They were behind the times of the 18th century, to say nothing of the twentieth.

Spoiled It All.

A farmer went to hear John Wesley preach. Wesley said he would take up three topics of thought. He was talking chiefly about money. His first was, "Get all you can." The farmer nudged a neighbor and said: "This is strange preaching. I never heard the like before. This is very good." Then Wesley discoursed on "Industry," "Activity," "Living to Purpose," and reached his second division, "Save all you can." The farmer became more excited. "Was there ever anything like this?" he said. Wesley denounced thriftlessness and waste, and he satirized the willful wickedness which lavishes in luxury, and the farmer rubbed his hands, and he thought, "All this I have been taught from my youth up," and what with getting and what with hoarding it seemed to him that "salvation" had come to his house. But Wesley advanced to his third head, which was "Give all you can." "Ah, dear; ah, dear," said the farmer; "he has gone and spoiled it all!"

BAD! BAD!! BAD!!!

Bad blood comes from bad digestion—bad stomach, bad liver, bad kidneys—attended with bad, foul breath, coated tongue, bad taste, bad headaches, bad appetite and kindred symptoms. Bad as these all are, and serious as are the diseases to which they lead, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery comes to the relief and cure of all these by regulating and invigorating STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS and KIDNEYS, and putting all these organs in good order.

"Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, opium or other harmful drugs; neither does it contain sugar or syrup, which are injurious to some stomachs. Without any of these it retains its pleasant taste and marvelous healing qualities in the most trying climate. Don't let a selfish medicine seller cheat you out of your health by giving you a substitute. He's only looking out for a larger profit, not for your good. Shun him. Honest, unselfish dealers recommend the "Golden Medical Discovery."

"That your remedies are not for the few, but for the many is evident, for I personally know of many scores of persons in this city who have been restored to health and strength by your medicines," thus writes Henry Lauenstein, Esq., Alderman in 11th Ward, Buffalo, N. Y., of 1220 Fillmore Ave. "I know that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is most valuable in cases of derangements of the liver, having taken the medicine some two years ago when I had a bad attack of liver trouble, and I never used a medicine before that did me so much good. I have known Dr. Pierce for twenty-six years, and do not wonder at his success, for he is a physician and man of sterling qualities, is possessed of extraordinary skill, and he has in his Sanitarium a corps of specialists who are chosen because of their unusual knowledge and professional skill."

If suffering from any obstinate, lingering ailment, write to Dr. Pierce and get, free of charge, sound medical advice. He has the counsel and assistance of a large staff of expert specialists.

Felt Weak and Nervous.

Had Faint and Dizzy Spells.

These symptoms arise from a weak condition of the heart and nerves. Wherever there are sickly people with weak hearts and deranged nerves, will be found an effectual remedy.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS

Through the medium of the nervous system, they impart a strengthening and restorative influence to every organ and tissue of the body.

They restore enfeebled, enervated, exhausted, devitalised, or overworked men and women to perfect constitutional power.

Miss Maggie L. Cleveland, Bayswater, N.S., tells how she was cured in the following words:—

"I was sick for the past year, and became thoroughly run down. I had faint and dizzy spells, and felt weak and nervous all the time. I tried numerous remedies, but could get no help. I then read in the paper about Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and got a box of them. Before I had used one-half the box I began to get better, so got another one, and by the time the two were finished I was as well as ever."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25. All dealers, or THE T. MILBURN CO., LIMITED, Toronto, Ont.

A LABOR ENTERPRISE.

Co-operative Experiment in Slate Quarrying in Wales.

Mining and industrial circles generally in the United Kingdom are intently watching a co-operative experiment which is being tried in slate quarrying in the neighborhood of Lord Penrhyn's famous quarries in Wales. So universal is the interest in this undertaking that the necessary working capital has been provided by the labor organizations of the entire country. They have now subscribed $126,529, which sum, it is expected, will soon be increased.

The importance of this experiment appears in the question asked, "If co-operative slate quarrying can be made a commercial success, why not have co-operative coal mines, cotton mills, iron and steel foundries, woollen manufactories—in brief, co-operation in every industry employing a large number of hands?"

Leaders of the movement profess to see in its success the "emancipation of labor from the bondage of capital." The glowing accounts of the undertaking's present success and future possibilities brought by trade union delegates who have visited the quarries have given rise to visions of untold wealth in this departure. One result is that prospectors thronged the mountains of North Wales during the past summer, and owners of small quarries were approached with offers of purchase, this with a view to forming additional companies on the basis of the original one.

The ardor of enthusiasts, however, was cooled by the showing of a debit balance of the undertaking, but confidence was restored by the explanation that the deficit was due to legitimate expenses of development of mines and that it would be more than made up in the future, when the richer veins (confidently believed to exist) should be reached.

Kitchener and the "Heavenly Nymphs."

Lord Kitchener, during his recent tour in the interior of the Simla Hills, received a remarkable address of welcome from the Rajah of Bashahr, from which the following is extracted from The Civil Military Gazette:

"My Lord—Let the Rajah of Bashahr, his servants, and his subjects be first of all heartily thankful to the Almighty Father of Heaven, whose favor has to-day enabled them to see your gracious excellency in the country of Bashahr, a country whose northern part is not only closely connected with the western Thibetan frontiers, but also with the manners, customs and religion of the Thibetans. O, my lord, the songs of your excellency's stainless glory, of the most gallant and benevolent deeds, the sincere, impartial, and the honest acts of the late Transvaal war (which are the real ornaments of the honorable officers of your excellency's position) are cheerfully sung by the Heavenly nymphs in the paradise. May your excellency's career be ever peaceful, comfortable and remover of the frontier troubles, and may God bless your excellency with the enjoyment of a happy life full of the Divine blessings."

Well Spent.

The Pessimist—It costs a great deal more to live nowadays than it used to.

The Optimist—Well, it's worth it.

NOT MEDICINE

Babies don't need medicine — older children very rarely. Better nourishment will generally set them right. Scott's Emulsion is the right kind of nourishment and the kind that will do them the most good. Scott's Emulsion contains nothing that children should not have and everything that they should.

FARRIER HOCKEYISTS HAVE ORGANIZED

Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Night

An interesting meeting of the Farrier Hockey Club was that held last night in Mr. McKercher's office, Hunter street. A club was organized with the following officers:—1st Vice-President —J. Fowler; 2nd Vice-President— J. Sharpe; Sec.-Treas.—Frank Conroy; Treasurer—J. Fraser; Executive Committee — Messrs. F. O'Connor, L. Jackson, F. Belcher; F. Brown; Manager— Wm. Armstrong; Trainer—J. Emmerson; Mascot—Dart Rowley.

The club decided upon the colours, which will be purple and white, and orders were left with Messrs. Lang and Maher, for suits of sweaters and stockings in the regulation colours.

A social evening was then spent by those present and a number of toasts were proposed and enthusiastically honoured.

Refreshments were served in the parlour and a delightful time was spent.

The team will enter the City League if one is formed, and is an enthusiastic supporter of the project to form such a league.

Correspondence is being carried on with a view of arranging games with those teams to open the season.

PRAISE FOR THE STRATTON TROPHY

Havelock Riflemen are Pleased with the Cup.

The Havelock Standard of this week says:—

The "Stratton Challenge Trophy", presented to the local Civilian Rifle Association by the Hon. J. R. Stratton, has arrived and is on exhibition in Mr. Edward Fernell's window. The cup is a beautiful and a costly specimen of art and the local sharpshooters are beginning to plan for its possession next year. Our readers will remember that it was won this fall by Mr. John Armstrong by a small margin of points over Mr. Wm. Johnston. The cup stands 22 inches in height. It is mounted on an ebony base and the bowl is supported by two military miniature rifles, between which a target is suspended. The generosity of Mr. Stratton in presenting the trophy is being highly commended by all who see it, and his action is sure to result in a greatly increased interest in target practice next year.

HOCKEY.

Lindsay is getting ambitious. Now they're after the scalp of the Dawson City team, the Stanley Cup challengers.

The Belleville Intelligencer wakes up for a moment and sighs that Belleville can still pick up seven men that can trim any bunch of hockeyists that Peterborough can send to Cemeteryville. Perhaps.

• • • •

Port Hope, Lindsay and Peterborough would be a snug little district. That is, of course, if Belleville still remains mad and won't play.

• • • •

The Karnet hockey club will have a very pretty uniform. The sweaters and stockings will be purple and white.

The O.H.A. annual meeting takes place to-morrow.

Queen's, the winner of last year's Intercollegiate championship, will again place a very strong team on the ice this winter.

It's time we had another championship. Two years have elapsed since an O. H. A. championship came to Peterborough.

Meanwhile the Press team is anxiously awaiting an opportunity to wallop Lindsay.

Come on, Port Hope, get into the game.

• • • •

Cobourg expects to have fully as strong a junior team as was the case last year.

The Lindsay Press team will wear black sweaters with a large "P" on the front. That letter stands for "pie".

The question of hockey will be further discussed at this evening's meeting at the T. A. S. rooms.

It is understood that Port Hope will enter a strong team in the Trent Valley League this winter in place of an intermediate O. H. A. team. A junior O.H. A. team, however, will likely be entered from the Lake town. Reports from that town are to the effect that the meeting to decide whether T. V. L. or O. H. A. hockey would be played was a stormy one and the faction favouring the former came out best.

• • • •

Fenelon Falls is preparing to recapture the Trent Valley League cup. The village team will be strong this winter.

• • • •

Wonder what's going to be doing in hockey circles in Picton this winter.

• • • •

Instead of this being a dead season for hockey in Peterborough this year as was predicted by many a month or so ago, it promises to be the best in the history of the town. There will be more teams in the town this year than ever before.

• • • •

The T. A. S. hockey club will meet to-night in the T. A. S. rooms at 8 o'clock. All the members are kindly asked to be present.

• • • •

The Yukon team will walk about fifty miles a day to cover the first 300 miles of their journey on the trip to Ottawa to play for the Stanley Cup.

CURLING.

Remember the meeting of the Peterborough Curling Club in the rink parlours to-night. Skips will be selected for the season and other important business will be transacted. A full attendance is requested of all members already signed and all others who wish to join the club for 1904-05.

The draws for the Tankard and district Cup competition of the Ontario Curling Association have been made. Group five is thus in the Tankard draw:—First round—Port Hope vs. Colborne; Lindsay vs. Peterborough; Cobourg vs. Bobcaygeon; Uxbridge vs. Fenelon Falls. Play at Lindsay. Umpire, J. W. Corcoran.

In District Cup draw.—Dis. No. 2.—Preliminary—A, Oshawa vs. Bobcaygeon; B, Round— A, Oshawa vs. Bobcaygeon; B, Colborne vs. Whitby. First Round—Winner of A and B, Peterborough vs. Lindsay, Port Hope vs. Keene, Fenelon Falls vs. Uxbridge. Play at Peterborough. Umpire, J. P. Rogers.

Nearly every city, town and village of any importance is on the list in the draw for the Ontario Tankard and District Cups. Of course no one would expect to see Belleville there.

TUG-OF-WAR.

The John Hayes tug-of-war team at the locks, challenges any team, to pull at any time and at any place, on regulation cleats for $25.00 a side. Replies may be sent to the Sporting Editor of the Examiner.

BASKET-BALL.

Don't forget the league basket-ball game again to-morrow night at the Y. M. C. A. Two games will be played each Saturday evening. These league games will be kept up till Christmas. They are very interesting and also afford a very pleasant evening's entertainment. The popular price is ten cents. Come up to-morrow evening.

FOOTBALL.

There will be a meeting to-night at the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock of Association Football players of the town to pick a team to play against a team coming from the Old Country.

CITY HOCKEY LEAGUE TO BE DISCUSSED

Public Meeting to be Held Wednesday Evening Next.

The question of a City League is one which is being looked upon with general favour by many of the young hockeyists and those interested in the game and it has been decided to call a public meeting for the purpose of discussing the feasibility of the scheme. Several schemes have already signified their intention of entering a team in the league should it prove to be a reality. There are several important questions in connection with such a league, which must be discussed thoroughly and this will be done at a meeting which will be held next Wednesday evening in the Y.M.C.A. All interested are asked to bear the date in mind.

A MOCK TRIAL PROVOKES AMUSEMENT

Meeting of St. Andrews Gaurds Last Night.

St. Andrew's Guards held their regular meeting last night at the home of the president, Miss L. Richardson. A very interesting paper was read, on "What the Kingdom of Heaven is like unto," by Mr. C. Kelly of Picton. A mock trial was then held, in which a number of members took an interesting part. One member was charged with stealing taffy and raising a disturbance on Hallow-e'en, and after considerable evidence had been taken he was found guilty and sentenced to two years in his regular boarding house. He pleaded hard to be let off, but the evidence was too strong against him. Another member was then charged with coming late to three meetings in succession. It was proved however that he only came late to two meetings. The jury were out about twenty minutes and returned the verdict above, and also asked for the constable to be discharged for not arresting him sooner.

This proved an interesting part of the meeting, and no doubt another will be held in the near future. The meeting closed by singing a verse of the club hymn.

14TH BATTERY BEST IN SERVICE.

Success of Last Year Surpassed in Record of 1904—A Triumph for Capt. Ackerman.

Capt. Ackerman, of the Midland Field Battery, in his address to the County Council on Wednesday referred to the fact that the Battery he represented was now a first-class organization, but perhaps he hardly expected then that his words would so soon be verified in such a practical way. Thursday's Toronto papers published despatches from Ottawa in which it was stated that the Governor-General's prize for general proficiency in Field Batteries had been won this year by the 14th Midland Field Battery, of which Lt.-Col. MacNachton, of Cobourg, is Commanding Officer, and Capt. Ackerman in charge of the Peterborough Squadrons.

Last year it will be remembered that the 14th won a number of cups and trophies for shooting competitions, and this year the success of last year has been surpassed, and the Battery has proven itself the best in the Canadian Militia service.

The leading batteries with the marks were:—

14th, "Midland," Lt.-Col. N. F. MacNachton, commanding.....	332
2nd, "Ottawa," Maj. E. C. Arnold.....	327
5th, "Kingston,"...	320.9
11th, "Guelph," Major H. D. Merewether.....	287.4
3rd, "Montreal," Capt. A. D. Retford.....	287.4
16th "Guelph," Capt. T. O. K. Harrison	287.3
15th, "Shefford," Maj. W. R. Seale.....	275
8th, "Gananoque," Maj J. R. Robinson.....	271.7
4th, "Hamilton," Maj. W. O. Tidswell.....	269.5

TEMPERANCE LESSON

"Citizen" Writes to Criticize Report of Meeting.

The Examiner has received the following letter, with the request that it be published. The request is granted, but it is only fair to this journal to say that the report to which reference is made in the letter, was supplied by a person, who the Examiner understood, was requested to send it by the officer of the Union. The letter follows:—

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—There is certainly something quite remarkable about the report of the last S. S. Primary Union meeting appearing in Wednesday's issue of your paper. Only a passing reference is made to the address of Mr. E. A. Hardy, an able and interesting speaker, who had been widely advertised and who together with the announced meeting of the Executive led many to attend. The references to Miss Williamson, the first teacher for the evening, are all of a general character.

The article is largely devoted to a report of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt's lesson teaching. Little is said to show the plan of the speaker or to aid a teacher in shaping a plan for himself. Much is said about temperance in all things, though it is clearly understood that the design of the lesson is to show the evils of intemperance in the use of intoxicating liquors, which by a great majority in our land means any use of them for beverage purposes. The climax is reached when the speaker singles out an absurd and certainly rare example of total abstinence and ridicules others who would work with him for the prohibition of the nefarious liquor traffic. Something more strange than a godless bad man as a prohibitionist is a Christian man favouring the traffic and having the sympathy of those engaged in it.

Yours,

CITIZEN.

Some of Montreal Snaps at LeBrun's

Look in at the George street window of the City Clothing Store, and see some of the grand bargains bought in Montreal by Mr. LeBrun last week. These include men's English braces, for only ten cents per pair; men's strong working shirts, worth 50 and 75c, for 39c each, or two for 75c. Fine white and coloured shirts, at 50c, worth double. Also see the Hunter street window for a smart showing of high class overcoats and suits, bought to sell at from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. below regular prices. Come on Saturday and Monday sure, and share in some of these snaps. H. LeBrun & Co.

HON. G. P. GRAHAM AND B. O. LOTT.

The Provincial Secretary Gave Good Advice, but That was All He Did—Never Heard of a Scheme to Win the Elections—He Sent no Men Into Frontenac or West Hastings—Evidence a Disappointment to the Complainant—George Weese Flatly Contradicts Editor Bremner.

Belleville, Dec. 3.—There was perhaps greater interest and excitement in Belleville yesterday than at any stage of the investigation in connection with the bogus ballot boxes. The chief interest centred in the examination of Hon. Geo. P. Graham, Provincial Secretary.

It has transpired that Byron O. Lott was in Buffalo on Saturday and dined with Dr. and Mrs. Newton, leaving the same evening for Toronto, according to the information he gave his host. Mrs. Newton is a native of Stirling, Mr. Lott's home. Mr. Lott's movements have been traced to Toronto, where he called at the Grand Union Hotel on Sunday evening and telephoned from there to someone. At the same time Mr. W. J. Shibley was in the hotel, but neither of them registered. Since then no trace of either of them has been obtained.

The evidence yesterday was distinctly disappointing in its nature to the complainant. A searching examination, which Hon. Geo. P. Graham underwent, elicited an emphatic repudiation of any knowledge of the scheme to use the bogus ballot boxes in any shape or form. Mr Graham also asserted that the visit of Reilly and Byron O. Lott to his residence on Sunday afternoon, which Mr. DuVernet appeared to think had some significance, was entirely unbidden, and, in fact, unwelcome, he having experienced annoyance at being disturbed in his rest by the intrusion of a political discussion upon him on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Graham's evidence, frankly given was emphatic in its directness, and appeared to create a decidedly favorable impression upon the audience.

Mr. Jas. Vance was not called, although in waiting all day for the purpose of testifying, and when the court adjourned prematurely Mr. DuVernet intimated that Mr. Vance might return to Toronto, and would be notified by him if his presence was required at a future sitting. It is thought that he will not be again asked to attend.

Interest in the Libel Case.

Notwithstanding the counter-attraction of the trial of Messrs. Reilly, Whalen and Ruttan before the Police Magistrate, in charge of the conspiracy case, the court room was crowded when Mr. A. F. Wood, ex-M.P.P., took his seat on the bench to resume the investigation into the charge of criminal libel against T. S. Carman. As on the previous occasion, Mr. E. A. DuVernet appeared for Mr. E. Gus Porter. Mr. W. J. McCammon, who represented Mr. Carman, the defendant, was accompanied by Mr. T. C. Robinette, K.C.

"Call Mr. H. P. Dwight," said Mr. DuVernet. The constables obeyed, but there was no response, and Mr. DuVernet intimated that if Mr. Dwight did not appear and produce the telegrams asked for during the day he would ask that the usual course be taken.

Dwight Not There.

Mr. DuVernet called H. P. Dwight, the G.N.W. General Manager, but there was no answer. Mr. DuVernet then put Dennis P. Horan, proprietor of the Alexander Hotel, Prescott. Last October, said witness, Reilly and another had dinner at his hotel, and Reilly enquired for Whelan.

"I object," interrupted Mr. Robinette, "to this evidence. Why should this conversation be heard in a case against Mr. Carman?"

The Magistrate said the investigation had taken a very wide range on both sides.

"So I believe," said Mr. Robinette.

Horan's examination was continued. He said he got Whelan for Reilly, and a little later Whelan, Reilly, and the other man went west, presumably to Brockville.

Hon. G. P. Graham Testifies.

Hon. Geo. P. Graham took the stand.

"You were formerly a Liberal organizer for some Eastern constituencies, Mr. DuVernet asked.

"Not in the ordinary acceptance of the term," was the answer.

"In the extraordinary sense, then?"

"I agreed to oversee the campaign in the East for some weeks."

Mr. Graham said he knew Shibley and Byron Lott, the former only slightly. Regarding the ridings in which Shibley and Lott ran, Mr. Graham said he had known all along that they were hopelessly Conservative. One Sunday early in October Byron Lott and a young man called at his (Mr. Graham's) house in Brockville. He could not remember whether the latter was introduced as Reilly or not. Mr. Graham thought the two came together, though Lott might have preceded Reilly. If it were so, it was only by two minutes or so.

Conversed with Lott.

"Reilly says he found Lott with you," observed Mr. DuVernet.

"So far as I can recall, they arrived together," replied Mr. Graham. "Lott and his companion stayed about half an hour, and did not return."

"You spoke of corruption and outside election workers?"

"I did, and condemned both."

"Lott swore he was going to carry Frontenac and West Hastings, did he not?"

"He said there were chances."

"What did Reilly say?"

"That he had hopes of Frontenac."

"Did you see the joy in Lott's face when he predicted victory?"

"Not particularly."

"Did you see Lott before or after that October 2nd, in the Russell House, Ottawa?"

"I think I saw Lott in Ottawa before October, but I am not sure."

"Do you remember meeting Lott in the Russell in September?"

"I wouldn't swear, but I have no recollection."

Heard No Scheme.

"Did you have a conversation with Lott in which he said he had a scheme with which he could win West Hastings?"

"I did not"—and Mr. Graham's reply was emphatic.

Concerning Mr. DuVernet's persistent suggestion that Mr. Graham had talked over election matters with Lott in the Russell House, Mr. Graham commented that he did not conduct business in hotels.

"You prefer your office, where there is none to hear?" said Mr. DuVernet.

"But Byron Lott is not a cautious man."

"He might talk so loudly that bystanders might hear?"

Mr. Graham denied that there were discrepancies in his interviews with the newspapers.

Through indisposition the magistrate was compelled to vacate the bench for a short time.

Resuming Mr. Graham's examination, Mr. DuVernet asked: "Since you were in the box, have you heard where I got my information as to the Russell House conversation? Did Mr. Robinette tell you?"

"No."

"How many times did you see Lott in your Ottawa office?"

"Twice."

Mr. Graham did not remember the date, but it might have been about a month before the elections.

Mr. Graham had an Ottawa office or room during the campaign for a month, in connection with his duties. Dredging and the Trent Valley Canal were the questions discussed by Mr. Graham and Lott.

Heard No Scheme.

"In any of these interviews did Lott tell you of a scheme to win West Hastings?"

"Positively, no."

"Now, Mr. Graham, I want to be fair with you. I am instructed that you had a conversation with B. O. Lott at the Russell Hotel before the elections, and that a man of the highest standing overheard Lott speak of the scheme. I am also informed that he heard you tell Lott that you knew of the scheme."

"It is absolutely untrue. I never heard Lott say anything of the kind."

"I am informed that the man I speak of will swear to what I say."

"I can't help what others say."

"Are you prepared to swear that you did not discuss election matters with Lott in the Russell House?"

"I have no recollection of having done so."

Mr. Graham again denied that Lott had spoken of a scheme.

"The man who comes here and swears he heard you say that you knew of a scheme is committing perjury?"

"Unless he misconstrued a conversation," Mr. Graham replied, and he could not understand how anything said could be so construed. Mr. Graham certainly had heard no mention of a scheme.

Mr. DuVernet repeated his scheme questions in various forms, to which Mr. Grahom gave an emphatic and unwavering denial as to hearing Lott make the statement suggested.

"Then the conversation did not take place?"

"Not in my hearing."

Got No Letters.

The only name mentioned by Lott, so far as Mr. Graham could recall, was Waddell, who thought the Trent Valley Canal would carry Trenton. Mr. Graham had no correspondence with him.

Mr. DuVernet remarked that political correspondence was generally destroyed.

Mr. Graham could not recall a telegram from E. J. Walsh, nor did he remember a wire from B. O. Lott, "Mulholland and Farley at Ottawa to-morrow. Their representations should be heeded."

A Strong Denial.

After a dozen interrogations by Mr. DuVernet as to Shibley and Lott, Mr. Graham made this statement: "Neither from first to last, neither by themselves nor through others, neither to me nor to another, were insinuations made to me as to the use of bogus ballot boxes, nor were they ever referred to. The telegram from Belleville on election day was the first intimation I received."

GUN ACCIDENT ON THURSDAY

Mr. Sandy Hill was Accidentally Shot.

A Companion's Gun Discharged 25 Grains of Shot in His Body—A Serious Accident.

On Thursday morning Mr. Sandy Hill of Lakefield, met with a serious accident in Smith township. It appears that Mr. Hill, in company with Messrs. George Hill, and Rollie Crawford, was shooting rabbits in a swamp in the vicinity of Mr. Stephen Nicholls' farm. Rollie Crawford was waiting for a rabbit that the dogs were running, a short distance in from him being a small clump of cedar trees, behind which Mr. Hill was standing, and of whose presence Rollie was ignorant, when the rabbit came along. Rollie discharged his gun at it, the shot going through the trees and lodging in Mr. Hill's body. He was brought to the village as quickly as possible, and medical aid was summoned, when it was found that twenty-five grains of shot were embedded in his body, and only five of which have been extracted so far. The majority of the shot lodged in his back near the left shoulder. Mr. Hill is getting along as well as can be expected, and it is to be hoped that nothing serious will result from the accident.

The Meister Glee Singers.

The Toronto News has the following to say of these singers, who will appear in the opera house here on Monday evening, December 12th: —"The summit of achievement in quartette singing is reached by the Meister Glee Singers of London, Eng., who appeared last night at Massey Hall at a concert in aid of St. John's Hospital. To such a point has the ensemble work of the quartette attained that it is like a single instrument, an organ with the swell flute and violin stops out. The tone is sweetness itself, the vocalization is perfect, the phrasing accurate, and the expression, particularly in the more delicate compositions, all that the most captious critic could ask. The quartette is composed of Mr. William Sexton, Mr. Ager Grove, Mr. Alfred Cunningham, and Mr. Ford Waltham. Their quality was excellently shown in the close harmonies of Dudley Buck's "In Absence," which opened their programme. One point worthy of the warmest comment was the perfect balance maintained throughout. The four voices are always heard and no enthusiastic soloist permits himself to lose sight of the fact that the others are accompanying him, and that their voices are required to make his work more effective."

Tickets on sale at the Examiner office and Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Reserved seats, 75 cents and 50 cents. Plan will be open at Ormond & Walsh's drug store on Wednesday. Hear the finest quartette in all Britain.

—The regular meeting of the Peterborough Ministerial Association will be held on Monday morning at ten o'clock.

THE RETIREMENT OF MR STRATTON.

(The Deaf Mute.)

By the retirement of Hon. J. R. Stratton from the position of Provincial Secretary, the deaf of Ontario have lost a warm friend, to whose kindness and generosity they are greatly indebted. Ever since Mr. Stratton assumed charge of the public institutions of the province, he has shown a special interest in the deaf, and has endeavoured in every possible way to promote their welfare. As was his duty, he always carefully enquired into every detail of the estimates for the Institution in order to ensure that no money asked for was required; but when once convinced that any proposed outlay would add to the comfort and advancement of the pupils, he willingly, and liberally, granted the necessary funds, though always insisting on the strictest economy, consistent with the highest possible efficiency. His interest in the deaf was not merely official, it was also warmly genuine and personal; and in his private, as well as his public, capacity, he was always glad of an opportunity to do a kindness or confer a favour on any deaf person that came to him. The pupils will long remember his kind remarks in the chapel on the occasion of his last visit to the Institution. The boys and girls, in the highest class, especially, have not forgotten that he then promised a gold medal to the pupil who gets the highest marks at the end of the session; and there is, and will continue to be, a keen rivalry for the coveted reward. Nor have any of us forgotten that he virtually promised us a new school building in the near future — a promise which we hope his successor in office will fulfil. Mr. Stratton intends to retire from public life for the present on account of the demands of his private business, which he has had to almost entirely neglect for the past five years. We doubt not that his interest in the deaf will continue as warm as ever, though his opportunities for promoting their interests will be less; and we are sure that every deaf person in the province will wish for him a long and happy life, and a career of continued prosperity and usefulness.

BENEFACTOR OF HIS RACE.

At a meeting in Ottawa, Prof. Robertson, who accepted principalship of Sir William Macdonald's new agricultural farm and college, gave an outline of what the millionaire had done for the rural schools of New Brunswick. There are several consolidated institutions—schools which represent several sections and which have been united for grading and classification which is not usually in the country. These schools are at Middleton, N.S., or in its vicinity. The attendance has increased seventy per cent. The boys and girls are taught to keep their house in order. They are taught to prepare meals at a cost of three and one-half cents per head from the products of their own garden. They are taught the dignity of making things, the dignity of labour. "I would rather the boys should know a great deal about the roots of garden stuff and wheat and oats, than a little about the roots of Greek verbs," he said. He predicted that there would be one hundred consolidated schools in Canada within five years. "And I know where the money for fifty of them is coming from," he added. In those schools would be trained teachers who would go out into rural schools and permeate the whole national life with this new education.

Sir William Macdonald is evidently the man to whom Mr. Robertson refers all through. He has advanced millions already for educational purposes, and there seems to be no limit to his generosity. He is giving, giving, giving, all the while, and towards experiments from which the state has shrunk for financial reasons. His name will be presently revered all over Canada as that of the man who has done most in his and generation for the cause of education.

NOTICE RE COL. HUGHES SLANDER.

(Lindsay Post.)

At the meeting held at Fenelon Falls on November 2nd, the sum of one hundred dollars was placed in the hands of Mr. Thomas Robson, chairman of the meeting, to be donated to charitable purposes in the village of Fenelon Falls if any one of the slanders circulated by Colonel Hughes and his tools in the recent election could be shown to be true, these slanders being as follows:—

1.—That Mr. McLaughlan attempted to charge the township of Fenelon $40 on a $1.00 cheque received from the Government for the Rosedale bridge.

2.—That Mr. McLaughlan kept 25 per cent. on $30 out of a cheque of some $400, the proceeds of an award received from the Ontario Government for the township of Fenelon and only paid the township the balance.

3.—That Mr. McLaughlan was paid both by the Government and the farmers for settlements obtained for certain farmers in the township of Fenelon for flooding of lands around Cameron Lake.

Mr. McLaughlan further stated at that meeting that if Col. Hughes, or any of his friends, desired to submit any evidence as to the truth of any of these statements, he was willing to leave the decision to Mr. F. D. Moore, honourary resident of the Conservative Association.

Up to the present time no evidence has been offered and the one month mentioned has expired, and Mr. McLaughlan has asked this notice to be inserted and Mr. Robson to hold the money for ten days longer to give Col. Hughes a still further opportunity to submit evidence as to the truth of any of these statements made by him. At the expiration of that time, if no evidence is given, the money will be returned to Mr. McLaughlan, and the fact will be established beyond question that Col. Hughes circulated those statements knowing them to be untrue.

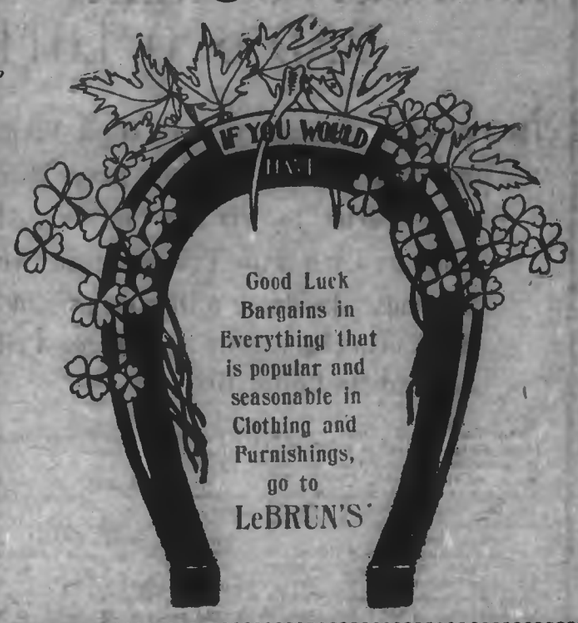
LeBRUN'S



DURING Mr. LeBrun's successful visit to Montreal about a week ago, he secured large quantities of Winter Clothing and Furnishings at a great sacrifice. Lucky purchases were made from manufacturers who were willing to close out leading lines at any price in order to secure ready cash and a quick clearance. Many of these goods are worth double; and instead of getting full prices, as we should at the start of the season, we begin right now to offer them at startling reductions. When LeBrun buys for less than manufacturers' prices he gives his customers the full benefit.

HEALTHY BABIES.

Healthy babies are always happy babies. If the stomach and bowels are kept right the little ones will be healthy and happy. Baby's Own Tablets are the best thing in the world to accomplish this purpose. The Tablets are the favourite prescription of a doctor who for years made the ailments of little ones a specialty. They are used in thousands of homes, bringing health to little ones and comfort to mothers. The Tablets reduce fever, break up colds, expel worms, check diarrhoea, cure constipation, promote digestion, allay the irritation of teething and bring sound healthy sleep. Ask any mother who has used these tablets and she will tell you there is no other medicine so safe and effective. Good for the new born baby or the well grown child, and guaranteed to contain no opiate or harmful drug. Medicine dealers everywhere sell the Tablets or you can get them by mail at 25 cents a box by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CANADIAN CORUNDUM

Samples Will be Sent to the Paris National Museum

Peterborough County Will be Represented in France With Specemins From Methuen.

At the request of the authorities of the National Museum, Paris, the Ontario Bureau of Mines is forwarding a collection of corundum and corundum-bearing rocks to that institution for permanent exhibition. The collection is from the mines in Raglan, Carlow and Methuen Townships, Renfrew, Hastings and Peterborough Counties respectively, and comprises splendid specimens. The fact that Ontario has the finest corundum deposits, in every respect, in the world seems to have become known to the French authorities, hence the request mentioned.

YOU CAN'T FIND ONE DYSPEPTIC

Who Has Used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets—No Case of Stomach Trouble Too Far Gone for Them to Cure.

"Yes, Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured my dyspepsia. I was a sufferer for eight years; I could not eat without suffering intense agony. I doctored some but without any avail, and I was given up to die. Five boxes of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cured me completely. Now I am well and strong."

This story of a terrible disease easily and completely cured is told by Mrs. John F. Sellars, of Western Bay, Nfld. It teaches several lessons, the most important of which are that no case of Dyspepsia is too far gone to be beyond the reach of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, and that if Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets cure the most extreme cases of Dyspepsia, they will easily dispose of your Indigestion.

The fact remains that you can't find a Dyspeptic who has used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets, but you can find thousands of healthy, happy people in Canada who were once dyspeptics, but who have used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One 25 cent bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This is one of the most staple medicines in use. Thousands have testified to its excellence. It not only cures a cold quickly and effectually, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is equally valuable for children and may be given to them with implicit confidence. It always cures and is pleasant to take. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

"Marie! You are in trouble, ma'amselle? Your face, it is so white!" whispered Pierrot, stepping noiselessly toward her on the little sawdust circle before the performers' entrance.

"Oui, oui! I—I—am in trouble—grave trouble, Pierrot," she answered brokenly.

"Ah, ma'amselle, and you know not what to do. That is it?" he questioned quickly and inviting confidence with his earnest, searching little eyes. "But, Marie, ma'amselle," he muttered, stepping closer to her, so close that she felt the warmth of his breath on her cheek, "maybe—maybe Pierrot might know—if—if you would tell him, hey?"

"Ah, Pierrot, non!" she faltered, covering her face with her hands. "You—you could not, non, you—you"— No other words would come. Her lips quivered. Her eyes filled.

"Marie, Marie," he urged, "maybe I—I—ah, you think not, hey?" And his broad breast swelled with a smothered love, a love that had known no utterance, for he was "Pierrot, the fool," a groom! And she? She was "Ma'amselle Mirabeau, premier equestrienne," in Barkalow's big circus ring.

Suddenly ting-ting, ting-ting-ting!

"Ma'amselle, ma'amselle," whispered warningly, "the first bell! You hear? Thirty minutes and you go on. Just thirty, Marie!"

But still she did not answer.

"Ah, I am only Pierrot, Pierrot, the fool," he murmured, "and you—you will not tell a fool, ma'amselle. No, no. Why should you?"

"Pierrot!" From her tear dimmed eyes she dropped two small, pink starfish hands and faced him. "Pierrot 'a fool?' You said a fool?" she quavered. "Ah, to ma'amselle you must not say so once again. I know you. A fool? Non, non! You say I will not tell you, I will not trust you, mon ami. Leesten, leesten! That Hercules, the dead weight lifter, bah!" and she shuddered violently. "Again, today, he say. 'Ma'amselle, you will marry me, oui?' Already six times he haf said so. Oh, Lala, how persistent! Ah, Pierrot, you do not know. And for answer I say: 'M'sieur, no—no. No—no—no!' Six times I say so, and of heem I think no more. But today, today, it is different. I am afraid. He look so black, so terrible when he say: 'Ma'amselle, you will marry me. No? Ah, no more trifling, I say, none at all. Gif me your answer. You haf till 7 o'clock tonight; that is all!' And Pierrot, number eight on the programme, oui, number eight, tonight's! Look at it, and—and you will understand!"

"Number eight, ma'amselle, number eight on the programme, tonight's? I have one somewhere," he mumbled, searching doubtfully among the frilled yards of red, white and blue at his pockets. "Ah!" At last with trembling fingers he unfolded the crushed crimson sheet. "Hercules, Hercules, Hercules! The dead weight lifter! Tonight, tonight, tonight!" it read. "Head downward from a swinging trapese twenty feet above the circus ring this worldwide champion will dangle in his teeth 100 pounds of solid steel. Is that all? No! We tell you no! But see for yourselves the most marvelous sight ever seen. From a ring beneath the suspended weight he will hold fast the added burden of our premier equestrienne, and backward and forward in midair she will swing and hang until at length she drops, dancing and pirouetting on her galloping steed below."

"Mon Dieu, mon Dieu!" muttered Pierrot when he had read the bill. "I understand, I understand, ma'amselle. Tonight you must answer 'Oui,' or he will drop the dead weight from his teeth when you hang below!"

"Pierrot, Pierrot," she cried, "I cannot, I will not perform tonight! See—see—I tremble; I could not stand; I could not ride Comanche Bill. I must beg off. I am sick. I—I will tell the manager!"

"Ma'amselle! No, no, ma'amselle; one moment, one moment!" cautioned Pierrot, detaining her and pressing his hand against the crimson diamond on his forehead.

"But, Pierrot, Pierrot," she insisted, "I must, I must, I"—

"Non, non, ma'amselle, you must not!" he whispered. "I have it; Pierrot has it!" And again he glanced intently at the programme. "Bien, bien, I have it! In number seven you ride Comanche Bill. Ride him, ma'amselle. Pirouette! Jump! Jump through the drum. I hold it, ma'amselle. Look, number seven, 'Mirabeau on Comanche.' Bah, beg off? Non, non; trust Pierrot. Have no fear. You will not swing from Hercules' weight!"

"But, Pierrot, how? How? You must tell me!"

Ting-ting, tin-ting-ting!

"Second bell, ma'amselle," he interrupted, "second bell!" and, grasping the curtains, he peeped through the faded fringe. "Ah, the tiers; they are black with people—black, ma'amselle! There is no time, no time to tell. Trust Pierrot, trust, trust!" And in a moment he was gone.

* * * * * * *

Fifteen minutes later, with an angry scowl, Hercules, the dead weight lifter, raised the flap of the manager's tent and entered. "Sir," he announced, "my weight—m-my weight! It is stolen. Some prowlers, curse them! T-the last moment too!"

"Stolen, stolen!" repeated the manager in his highest key. "By heavens, man, and we have 3,000 unbelievers in that tent all waiting to see your act. We've posted 1,000 bills; we've advertised it for a month. We've—we've—Hercules, what is to be done?"

"Well, sir," growled the champion darkly, "it ain't my fault. No, sir! But there's one way out of it; one way, I think."

"What way?" snapped the manager.

"It's—it's the papier mache weight, sir; light as a feather. I—I used to practice with it," stammered Hercules. "But they—they wouldn't know it from the real thing, sir; not on your life. Git two of the grooms, Dan'l and Pete, sir; I know 'em well enough. They'll perspire an' purtend a bit when they bring it on. Saves the idee, hey? I reckon you do, sir—ha, ha!"

"Ha, ha! Ha, ha, ha!" laughed the manager heartily. "Splendid, Hercules, splendid. "I'll write to Barkalow. You get a bonus for this—ha, ha! And we can stave off challenges for one night, eh? Tomorrow we'll invite inspection. Very good, sir, v-very good, indeed!"

And so it was arranged.

Came 8 o'clock dinging and dying amid railway siding sounds, and six items, like snow in a tropical sun, had melted from Barkalow's big wonder list. Comanche Bill, pink nosed and piebald, with Mirabeau, was prancing around the mammoth ring. Whoop, whoop, whoop, whooplah! Crack! Through ribbon ring after ribbon ring the ma'amselle jumped, landing always fair and dancing on her plush platform saddle. Suddenly whoop, whoop, swish! A tissue drum went into shreds, and Pierrot stepped down from his pedestal and looked proudly at the lady. "Hurrah, hurrah!" The audience cheered and clapped their hands. "Well done, well done!"

But now it was number eight on the programme, and all eyes were focused on the performers' entrance.

"Hercules, Hercules!" The excited whisper gathered force and chased along and up and down the tiers. Jauntily the manager advanced and made a brief announcement. Two blue coated, quick action grooms spread out a brilliant carpet star, and two others, red faced and with straining arms and shoulders doubled over, brought on the plaything of the giant.

"Ha!" In a moment he was there before them, smiling and bowing, a spangled vision in scarlet and gold, a miracle of physical strength and Bigness. He stretched out his long right arm, his left, too, and the muscles of them rose up like plaited whipcords. Then he breathed, and every man breathed with him. He broke a poker across his thigh, and the cheers rang wild and deafening. He looked at the weight, at the trapese above, at ma'amselle with critical eye, and again the audience cheered. If before they had doubted the claims in number eight, it was evident now that they believed.

Mirabeau? White as chalk beneath her mask, she held her breath and glared from her steed at Pierrot. And Pierrot? Eyes bulging outward, be transfixed the little trapdoor in the belting below the orchestra stand.

Suddenly the giant stepped before the weight and faced the high priced seats. Above his head he raised his hands. "Once, twice, thrice!" On the third call he would swing and grasp and juggle with the dead weight as with a toy.

Click! Click!

Pierrot, and only Pierrot, heard it. The violins and the flutes were murdering sound, and the clown's heart thumped his chest like a drumstick beating the time.

Click! Click!

Up went the trapdoor, and a boy, a very little boy, hatless, but with a sun crisped thatch of curly hair, struggled through the ring. For a moment he hesitated, blinking his big blue eyes in the glare of light; then quick as a flash he was over on the big carpet star.

"Pierrot, Pierrot," breathed ma'amselle, squeezing the cold fingers resting on her saddle.

"Once, twice—once, twice—whooplah!" shouted Hercules, bending swiftly and throwing his mighty arms between his legs.

But the boy was first. In his tiny hand he grasped the weight and, hoisting it to his slender shoulder, sped with it like a startled hare across the ring and out through the quivering curtain.

"Ah, ha! Ha, ha, ha!" It was one brief trickle of laughter accentuating the intense silence that followed, for in the thrill of a flute it all happened, and no one had attempted to stop him.

Eat-tat-tat!

"Now, all together!" commanded the leader of the orchestra, coming gallantly to the rescue, and a bunch of mandolins and violins ripped the air. But music had no charms for the outraged audience, and at last the storm broke. Loud, long and deep voiced it raged—ribald laughter, shrill jeers, dark threats and hisses like the angry exhaust of steam.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen!"

In vain did the manager attempt to stem the avalanche, but like a sick man's whisper against a battery cannonade his explanations and apologies melted on soundless lips.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, one minute, and I will explain, I"—

"Ye's can't do it! Ye's can't do it!" piped a thin, querulous voice.

"Tricksters! Swindlers! Money back! Money back! Boo for Barkalow!" chorused the galleries.

"Gentlemen, gentlemen, I must tell you—I must tell you"—

"Tell nuthin', nuthin' at all!" volleyed the leaders. "Square the deal at number eight an' screw out yer lights!"

"Gentlemen, order, order!"

"Hiss, hiss, hiss-s-s-s! Square the deal at number eight!"

"Gentlemen, gentlemen"—

"Hiss, hiss, hiss-s-s"—

And in the ticket office a few minutes later, though he knew it not, the manager was paying back the fabulous price of a threat.

One of England's Superstitions.

Among the many quaint superstitions which have survived in rural England are some interesting traditions about the building of the oldest churches. The story goes that they were originally intended by the mediaeval builders to be erected on other sites, but the stones being persistently removed during the nighttime by demons to the situations they at present occupy the builders proceeded with their erections on the sites thus supernaturally selected and were not further interfered with. Though many old relics, such as stone coffins and Roman altars, have been used by thrifty farmers for drinking troughs, buttery stones and such like purposes, they have not been desecrated with impunity, and many a stone has been taken back to the place whence it came in order to get rid of ghostly visitations. In Lougridge, near Preston, in Lancashire, there is a lane called Written Stone lane, from an inscribed stone which has lain there for a great number of years and which none of the villagers care to move. It is about eight feet long, two feet wide and eighteen inches deep and bears on it the following inscription in deeply incised characters: "Ralph Radcliffe laid this stone to lie forever, A. D. 1655." Why Ralph Radcliffe laid this stone no one now knows, but it is regarded with mysterious awe by the inhabitants.

Incubation in the Desert.

Many a person who has watched a mother robin nestling patiently on her eggs in a blossoming apple tree has wondered how the little creature of her ancestors ever learned that that long process would cause the eggs to hatch. A greater puzzle is set for them, says the author of "The Land of Little Rain," in the great desert, where the same birds have learned to cool their eggs instead of warming them.

In the unsheltered nests on the sandy plains it becomes necessary to keep the eggs from cooking. One hot, stifling spring in the Little Antelope a traveler had occasion to pass and repass the nest of a pair of meadow larks, located unhappily in the shade of a very slender weed. The birds were never sitting except at night, but at midday they stood or drooped above the nest, half fainting, with pitifully parted bills, spreading their wings between the sun and the eggs. Sometimes both of them together, with wings spread and half lifted, maintained a spot of shade in a terrific temperature.

Their patience was in this case rewarded, for the compassionate traveler at last spared them a bit of canvas, which she spreated over the nest

HER HERO

By LILIAN C. PASCHAL

Copyright, 1904, by Lilian C. Paschal

"There aren't any heroes nowadays, hence my own celibacy."

Nell was nineteen. "I want a real man, one that can do things."

This with a lofty scorn and a curl of her red lips as she thrummed her guitar in the light of the campfire. There had been a light scud of snow during the day, and the air was chill, though it was August, but Yellowstone park is no respecter of calendars.

"I can do one thing, love the most tantalising little witch that ever walked all over a man's heart."

Jack Stanley sprawled on the thick carpet of pine needles at her feet, glanced up half pleadingly, half quizzically into the pouting face of the small autocrat of the camp. "Why won't you marry me? Your father wishes it. I have enough"—

"Yes, I know," she interrupted hastily. "You have all the ordinary requirements—wealth, position, good looks, family," checking them off with her pink fingers, "and I suppose a reasonable amount of brains, though in our way of living they are needed so little that"— She paused suggestively.

"Well, then, what's the trouble? You haven't yet said the only thing that will send me away like the other fellows—that you don't love me—dear. As for the hero business and all that rot"—

"It isn't rot," exclaimed Nell indignantly. "I know you think me schoolgirl sentimental. I'm not. It's just this: You men when you aren't impossible are all so much alike these days I can't differentiate. You're like your ugly black clothes, all cut by the same pattern and apparently from the same cloth. How can a woman single out one of you and feel that he is the one above all others to love and to cling to 'in sickness and in health'"—

"'Till death us do part,'" he finished low.

"Why don't you do something to make me love you? I want to. I can't." She stamped her little mountain climbing boot hotly. "We don't get at the realness of life. A true, primitive instinct is unknown to us all. Even our pretended roughing it for the novelty of the thing is an artificial sham. We come in a special train. Our tents are filled with hair mattresses, down quilts and Navajoes. You must have a French valet to dress you each morning in that brave khaki suit of yours, which never saw real service and never will. My tailored short skirt came from Paris and is silk lined. Do you know my grandfather went over that old Mormon trail down yonder to the south with an ox team? And my grandmother walked beside it most of the way. I'd like to marry a real pioneer, a true history maker. That's the kind of man I could love. He'd be a hero to me if he didn't have a dollar and had never heard of the twostep."

Nell held her flushed cheeeks and shining eyes for one intoxicating instant up close to his own, then turned like a flash and ran back among the white gleaming tents to her own luxurious quarters, where a sleepy maid waited her coming.

The man picked up her guitar and held it lovingly like a child in his arms. It was hers, and he loved it for her sake. He knew he could feel all the "primitive instincts"—the longing for wife and child and the warmth of a home fire instead of the cold splendor of his club—but how make Nell see it and respond to it?

Long he sat there by the subsiding embers, while the tall, stately pines tossed their fragrant censers and intoned their mournful chant above, and the cold moon lit up, one by one, the ghostly pillars of steam which rose day and night from the geysers and vent holes in the Fire Hole basin below.

A huge black bulk came lumbering from the deep shadows back of the camp and skulked near the commissary tent, whence presently rose a sound of falling tinware and the objurgations of the French chef as bruin ambled away with paws and jaws sticking full of the toothsome contents of the butter tub.

As bruin's sticky footfalls padded heavily down the slope a slow grin overspread Jack Stanley's face. He stood up and blew an airy kiss to the smiling moon.

"She wants a real man, eh? Well, sweet Mistress Nell has always had what she wanted, and she must'n't be disappointed in a little matter of husbands!"

He called a servant to put out the fire, tucked the guitar under his arm and strode off to his tent, where he slept the dreamless slumber of a general whose maneuvers are all planned.

The next evening they were all grouped about the campfire, which had been replenished, mountain fashion, with whole logs drawn and stacked across its first kindling flame by a team of horses. The little party, chaperoned by Nell's mother, who drowsed on a folding easy chair, sprawled about the fire, recounting the day's adventures and the wonders of the park.

Two or three kodak enthusiasts soon rose to go to the dark tent to develop their snapshots.

"Give us a song, Nell," begged Jack Stanley, handing her the guitar. "Sing that old one—old songs are best suited to things primeval," tenderly. "So let's have 'In Days of Old, a Warrior Bold,' and all the rest of it."

"That's a man's song," retorted the girl. "But since"— The rest of the sentence was left to his imagination, and Nell bent her bright head over the beloved instrument and fingered daintily the stirring accompaniment to the old ballad. But her eyes were lifted challengingly to his when she reached the ringing refr in:

"I'll live for love, I'll live for love—and die!"

Suddenly a deep growl thundered out of the dense darkness behind them. All eyes turned startled toward a great black mass slowly emerging into the glare of the campfire. Jones and Trent beat a hasty retreat toward their tent—to get their rifles, they explained eagerly afterward—and every one was too busy then to remember that all their weapons had been sealed by the officials on entering the park.

Mrs. Carter and the other women shrieked, scattered and fled screaming to the tents, all but Nell, who was too paralyzed to move. One white hand still clung to the vibrant guitar strings. Her red lips, now paled with fear, were still parted, forming frozenly the last words of her song. Here was Jack's chance.

He seized it instantly, also a red, burning brand from the fire. With this weapon he bravely charged the shaggy animal towering above poor, terror stricken Nell.

Just as the huge fore paws reached out to clasp her in a crushing embrace—one rasping claw did scratch her tender arm, the mark of which she shows proudly to this day—Jack's gleaming firebrand fell resoundingly again and again upon the grizzly. With a roar of pain and a snarl at his antagonist the great bear released trembling Nell from his deadly clutch and amid a terrific odor of singeing hair made for the cooling river a few yards below.

"Nell, darling, are you hurt?" Jack's voice was tender with real concern as he remorsefully wiped the single red drop which oozed from the dear arm. She was clasped in a real man's hug this time, and she crept close like a fluttering, frightened bird into its nest. Her stubborn little heart melted into gratitude, admiration and love and soon stilled its tumultuous fear throbs into a rapturous answer to the manly one that beat against it.

Her trembling arms stole about his neck, and her ripe lips met his, drinking in the blessed draft of mutual love and joy.

"You are a real hero, dear, after all," she whispered.

"Then you will marry me, sweetheart?" the graceless youth asked unblushingly. The answer went so intoxicatingly to his head that it was no wonder Francois thought M. Stanley had been imbibing too freely when an hour later in the strict privacy of the cook's tent he thrust a $1,000 bill into that worthy's hand, said [illegible] To his confidants he said, "All's fair in love and war," a primitive motto.

The Frenchman looked joyfully at the lavish gratuity, then at the wrecked bearskin at his feet.

"Eet ees burn tres mauvaise," he chuckled. "But, as m'sieu say, eet ees worth eet!"

Rapid Unloading of Ships.

The world's record for boat unloading has just been broken at Conneaut, on Lake Erie. The Wolvin, the largest freighter on fresh water, was emptied of a cargo of 9,945 tons of iron ore in four and one-half hours, reducing by six hours the best record heretofore made. The total delay from the beginning to the end of the unloading did not exceed five minutes. One by one eight monstrous hoisting machines were transferred in turn to the thirty-three cargo hatches of the Wolvin, while a vast audience watched the proceedings from the adjacent docks. Not that the unloading of big boats is rare at Conneaut. It is to-day the foremost ore port of the world, its ore receipts for July being 786,554 tons, nearly 100,000 tons more than were ever received before.

THE DANGER OF ANAEMIA.

Its Victims are Defenceless When Disease Strikes—The Blood Should be Kept Rich and Pure.

Anaemic people—people with watery blood—are without defence when disease threatens. The strongest weapon against disease is a plentiful supply of rich, red blood. A robust person may catch cold, but quickly throws it off. But a cold lingers with the anaemic one, goes to the chest and the first signs of consumption appear. It is the anaemic one who suffers from headaches and dizziness, who cannot climb a stair without resting, whose heart flutters and palpitates wildly at the least exertion. Such people can only be saved by a new supply of rich, red blood, and Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the only medicine that actually makes rich, red blood with every dose. Ordinary medicines only touch the symptoms of disease—Dr. Williams' Pink Pills go right straight to the root of the trouble and drive it out. That is why these pills have a larger sale than any other medicine in the world, and that is why thousands and thousands of people praise them so highly. Miss Florence G. Marryett, Chester, N.S., says: — "I have used Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for several months and I am happy to say they have restored me to health after all other means had failed. I was suffering from anaemia in its most severe form. The least exertion would leave me breathless and worn out, I had no appetite and suffered greatly with nervous headaches. I was pale and seemed to be going into a decline. I had medical attendance but it did me no good. Then a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and in a few weeks I found they were helping me. I continued their use for several months, and am again enjoying good health. I think Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will make every weak and ailing girl strong and healthy."

You can get these pills from any dealer in medicine, but you should be careful to see that the full name "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People" is on the wrapper around each box. If in doubt write the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and the pills will be sent at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50.

ARCHIBALD LAMPMAN.

One Who Occupies a Foremost Rank Among Canadian Poets.

Most of us, I think, are familiar with one or another of the various portraits of Archibald Lampman, the poet. Handsome and expressive of countenance, Lampman's face seems to reveal the nature of the man, and the gentle, earnest gaze and almost pensive expression bespeak his sympathetic temperament, so that one recognizes him as one who "dreams in lonely places, seeing where others cannot hidden faces."

Inheriting poetic instincts from a long line of literary men, Lampman, through his early environment, was strengthened in his natural sensibility to the charms of nature, for seven years of his childhood were spent at Gore's Landing, on Rice Lake, and here, roving through the woods and along the streams, he became intimately acquainted with the outdoor world, a world which impressed itself deeply, if imperceptibly, on the receptive mind of the boy.

As years passed Lampman went through collegiate institute and college, working assiduously for college papers, and, like many other literary men, reading widely on almost every subject but the prescribed work. Nevertheless, he graduated with a fair degree of credit and then found himself rather perplexed as to the earning of a living. The first chance that offered was the position of classical master in Orangeville Collegiate Institute. It was accepted, and we can picture Lampman, with his sensitive, artistic temperament, struggling with a form of lively school children.

Soon, however, he was enabled to quit a profession so ill suited to his tastes through receiving a position as clerk in the civil service. He took up his abode near Ottawa, and for the rest of his life continued to hold this position, although he found the life of the capital interesting still he found it somewhat wearying in its activities, and was at liberty to devote his spare time to the poetry which was the bent of his finer nature.

Gradually his work, appearing from time to time in the magazines, won him distinction, and at length he published a collection of his poems in book form. His prestige as a poet was soon established, and for the rest of his life he continued to devote his spare time to the writing of verse.

But an injury, contracted while on a camping expedition, resulted in heart disease, and after a period of ill-health he died in 1899, at the age of 38.

Had Lampman lived to maturity he would doubtless have ranked higher as a poet; as it is, he writes much too well to be passed over, but there is, in a large part of his work just that immaturity which practice would have overcome. In many of Lampman's poems there is a forced extravagance of praise, which gives the impression of studied and conscious art, a weakness which, it is curious to note, is also present in the earlier works of Tennyson, who, like Lampman, was an ardent admirer of Keats. Notice, for instance, the studied phraseology of these lines:

In briary dells, by boulder-broken screams,
And wide and far on nebulous fields afoam,
The mellow morning gleams.

But again, there are poems of Lampman's almost equal to Wordsworth's finest lyrics in simplicity and beauty. Listen, for example, to the exquisite verses entitled "Among the Millet":

The dew is gleaming in the grass,
The morning hours are seven,
And I am fain to watch you pass
Ye soft white clouds of heaven.

Ye stray and gather, part and fold,
The wind alone can tame you;
I think of what in time of old
The poets loved to name you.

They called you sheep, the sky your sward,
A field without a reaper.
They called the shining sun your lord,
The shepherd wind your keeper.

Your sweetest poets I will deem
The men of old for moulding
In simple beauty such a dream,
And I could be beholding.

Where daisies in the meadow toss,
The wind from now till even,
Forever shepherd you across
The chrism field of heaven.

There are, too, among the sonnets, lines of such clarity of thought and directness of expression as could only be written by an artist and a man, moreover, who saw into the very heart of things, and saw truly. The poet who wrote that:

He who sees clear is greatest of his words.
And that's not truth that hath the heart to kill,

is not likely to be soon dropped from the foremost ranks of Canadian poets.—Helen McMurchie, Macdonald Institute, Guelph, in The Globe.

Walking on the Ceiling.

Few people probably know what it is that enables flies to walk on the ceiling. It has been supposed that their ability to do so was due to the fact that each of their feet is a miniature air pump. This theory was found to be unsound, and it was then explained that the feat was made possible by means of a viscous substance which exuded from the hairs on their feet. This theory also was abandoned as being only partly accountable for the facts, and the preferred explanation is that flies are enabled to walk upside down on smooth substances by the help of capillary adhesion. An investigator has found by a series of nice calculations, such as the weighing and measuring of hairs, that a fly would be upheld by capillary attraction were it four-ninths as heavy again as it is. Each fly is supposed to be furnished with from 10,000 to 12,000 minute foot hairs. These exude an oily fluid, and it is because of the repulsion between a watery surface and this oily liquid that a fly finds it difficult to mount a dampened glass.

Spring Purity

The solvent powers of water are so great that few springs produce water pure enough for brewing.

Carling's springs were discovered after many years of searching and the brewery established only when Government analysts deposed that the water never tested less than 99.08 degrees pure.

Hops used in Carling's Ale are grown in Oregon, and certain favored parts of Southern Europe, particularly Bavaria—no cheap hops are used as in common ales.

Ask for Carling's Ale—accept no other, because no other is quite so good.

Fruit-a-tives

or Fruit Liver Tablets

Instead of Fruit.

Fruit is a splendid tonic for stomach and liver. The active principles give fruit its medicinal value. But they occur in such minute quantities, that when fruit is taken with other food, and goes through the process of digestion, their action is lost.

"Fruit-a-tives" are the active principles of apples, oranges, figs and prunes—extracted from fruit juices, combined by our own secret process, and compressed into tablets. They are the concentrated medicinal virtues of fruits and act much more effectively than any other known treatment in curing Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Torpid Liver, Biliousness and Kidney troubles. At all druggists. 50c. a box.

HON. G. P. GRAHAM AND B. O. LOTT.

Mr. Graham said he had no relations with Mr. Vance, the assistant organizer.

When Mr. Robinette arose, Mr. DuVernet having concluded, Mr. DuVernet was inclined to object, but the court ruled that Mr. Robinette was at liberty to question Mr. Graham.

Mr. Robinette merely observed, "Mr. Graham, can you tell us when Port Arthur will fall?" Mr. Graham could not. The court smiled and the public roared.

Mr. Johnston said Shibley and Lott were at his hotel in Kingston several times in October.

J. P. Moore was a returning officer at a poll near Bancroft. No one had asked him to act. He had acted before. S. Harryett had not spoken to him about the ballot boxes, and he had not been in Harryett's office so far as he knew. Harryett had none in his possession. Moore and Harryett drove to Maynooth a few days after the election and stayed at Smith's hotel all night.

"Will you swear you had no part in getting rid of these ballot boxes and that you know nothing about them?"

"I had no part; that's the truth."

The Thumb Missing Incident.

When George Weese, hotelkeeper at Bancroft, took the stand Mr. DuVernet asked that he be compelled to repeat the oath after the magistrate before kissing the book, which was done. Mr. Weese had attended the Liberal convention in Toronto. Bremner, a delegate, was to meet Lott there. Weese saw Harryett in the Somerset House, Toronto, and talked with him. On the street Weese met Kelly, and they returned to the hotel. Then they met Lott after tea. Weese, Bremner and Lott went out, but did not discuss ballot boxes.

The first time Lott mentioned the boxes to Weese was in Toronto next day late, saying that "Belleville jail wasn't a nice place to stay at." That was all Lott said. Witness did not know where Lott was at the present time.

"Did you ask Bremner not to tell the truth, or did you ask Bremner to kiss his thumb when taking the oath?"

"Neither."

Weese, Bremner, Kelly, Lott and Harryett, witness said, were in a room at the Somerset House, but they simply took a drink.

Weese repudiated Bremner's charge that he (Weese) was one of the conspirators. A lawyer to defend Lott was spoken of later. Mr. E. F. B. Johnston was the man. Bremner confided to Weese that he did not wish to go to Belleville as the lawyers would tear him to pieces, and make him say things he did not mean. Weese knew no reason why he had been appointed deputy returning officer. Weese visited the Parliament buildings on business of his own, and asked Kelly for papers that he wanted. Nothing else was spoken of.

"Have you seen Kelly since?"

"I saw him here to-day. He shook hands with me, but we did not discuss this matter."

The court then adjourned till 2 p. m.

No Afternoon Session.

Owing to the illness of the Magistrate, there was no session of the court in the afternoon. The prosecution intended calling James Vance, Liberal organizer for Ontario. Some day next week Mr. Vance will be called upon.

Magistrate Wood's illness, it is thought, is not of a serious character, and he will be able to proceed this morning. Mr. Vance left for Toronto last evening, accompanied by Mr. Robinette. He will not be here to-day.

CONSPIRACY CHARGES.

P. T. Reilly, T. E. Whalen and Edward G. Ruttan Sent For Trial.

Belleville, Dec. 3.—The conspiracy case against T. J. Reilly, T. E. Whalen, Ed. G. Ruttan and Bert Cook was disposed of yesterday in much less time than anybody thought it would be. The prisoners were arraigned before Magistrate Flint for their preliminary examination, G. F. Shepley, K.C., appearing for the Crown. Byron O. Lott was called, but did not answer to his name. Mr. O'Flynn appeared for Messrs. Ruttan and Whalen, and Mr. Mowat for Cook. Reilly was not represented by counsel.

Mr. Shepley stated that against the defendants there were five separate charges. The first two indictments were laid under section 894 of the Criminal Code, which he defined as concerning the charge of attempting to defraud. If proved guilty, the accused were liable to seven years' imprisonment. Two other charges were from section 87, of conspiring to defraud; and the fifth in reference to forging, counterfeiting or destroying certain ballot papers. Reilly, Ruttan and Whalen, at the suggestion of Mr. Shepley, consented to waive examination and allow themselves to be committed for trial at the next court of competent jurisdiction, after the various indictments had been read to them.

Witnesses Bound Over.

Mr. Shepley also said there were certain witnesses whom he desired to have bound over to appear when called upon. They were G. A. Lott, C. G. Thresher, C. Cochrane, J. Brenner and P. Moore. The magistrate asked what amount their bond would be.

Mr. Shepley—In their own recognizance of $1,000 each.

The parties were then bound over in the amount suggested by the Crown prosecutor.

The court adjourned at 12.15 till 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the case of Bert Cook was taken up. Cook was confidential clerk of W. J. Shibley. His lawyer, Mr. Mowat, refused to waive examination and go up for trial. If there was anything against his client, Mr. Mowat, said, they wanted it to be shown. Thereupon Mr. Shepley said he would be willing for the present to group two conspiracy charges against Cook and have him held as a witness in the personal bond of $100, the same as the others. This was satisfactory to Cook and his lawyer. The court then adjourned.

County Judge Lazier accepted bail as follows: Reilly $2,000 cash, $2,000 personal bond, $2,000 Smith's bond; Whalen $1,000 cash and $1,000 personal bond; Ruttan $2,000 personal bond, $2,000 his father's bond. All are to appear at the next General Sessions.

Died From Old Knife Wound.

Brantford, Dec. 3.—Edward Dunne, a youth of 20 years, succumbed yesterday in the hospital in this city to injuries received one Sunday last September. On that day Lorne Walley, also of this city, in a fit of indignation, threw an open knife at Dunne. The blade penetrated his back. The wound was not considered serious at the time. Walley admits throwing the knife. He was arrested some days ago, when the victim's condition was known to be serious. The charge was that of feloniously wounding, but it now may be changed to manslaughter. Dunne is a son of ex-Ald. Dunne of this city, while Walley comes of a most respectable family.

Exit of the Oldest Actress.

Chicago, Dec. 3.—Mrs. George Henry Gilbert, the oldest actress on the American stage, died in her rooms at the Sherman House yesterday shortly after she had suffered a stroke of apoplexy. Mrs. Gilbert was born in England 88 years ago and came to this country with her husband, who was a dancer, in 1849.

Letter to Santa Kills.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 3.—Ada, the 5-year-old daughter of H. R. Coleman, grocer, met a pathetic death Thursday evening. The little one had been writing letters to Santa Claus in the morning and putting them in the fire, the children's postal service to the home of the good man. In raising the cover from the stove her dress caught fire, and she was so badly burned that she died the same evening.

Tribesmen After An Englishman.

Tangiers, Dec. 3.—The Beni-M'Saur tribesmen made a determined attack on the residence of Walter B. Harris, the English writer, Thursday night, with the avowed intention of capturing him. The mountaineers surrounded the house, stabbed a guard who attempted to raise an alarm, and secured others, but finally after some looting the tribesmen left without finding Mr. Harris.

SAYS HE WAS A TOTAL WRECK

But Dodd's Kidney Pills Gave Him a New Lease of Life.

Geo. Robertson Had Rheumatism and Dropsy—Had to be Tapped—Doesn't Know What it is to be Sick Now.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 2.—(Special.)—Mr. Geo. Robertson, a well known citizen living at 202 St. James street, Montreal, is one of the many people in this city who are never without Dodd's Kidney Pills in the house. Like all the others, Mr. Robertson has his reasons for this and is always ready to give them.

"I was a total wreck before I started to use Dodd's Kidney Pills," Mr. Robertson says. "I had been troubled with Rheumatism and Dropsy for five years. I had to be tapped to relieve me of the pain. My arms and legs were terribly swollen.

"I had just begun to get downhearted when a friend induced me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. Before I had used the second box I felt better. Seven boxes cured me so completely that now I don't know what it is to be sick."

THE HALL OF HUMANITIES.

A Notable Occasion and a Notable Man
One Estimate of Dr. Goldwin Smith and His Work.

The dedication of the Hall of Humanities at Cornell University by Dr. Goldwin Smith is an event of no ordinary significance in the academic and intellectual world, says The Toronto Globe. Dr. Smith became a professor at Cornell over thirty years ago, when the new school of learning was not much more than in the germ. It has since then flourished with a vigorous growth until it is now recognized as one of the great intellectual centres of the United States. In his dedication address Dr. Smith feared that he would not look upon Cornell again. Let us hope that his fears in this respect will not be confirmed, and if Dr. Smith's physical powers were as well preserved as those of his mind, to indulge such a hope would not be extravagant. To observe the interest which the Sage of the Grange still maintains in the questions of the hour, the vigor and flexibility of his faculties, and the survival in his eighty-second year of his unrivalled power and felicity of expression, is an encouragement to all whose field of labor is among the things of the mind.

Dr. Robertson Nicoll, in a recent number of The British Weekly, had some references to Dr. Smith which illustrate how contradictory and haphazard are sometimes the judgments of hasty journalism. Dr. Nicoll in almost one and the same breath declared that nothing that Dr. Smith had written would live, and that he had carefully collected everything from his pen, even employing a friend to pick up for him in Canada the old copies of The Bystander. Dr. Nicoll has only done what hundreds have done. It may be urged that these works are valued for their form and not for their subjects. This can scarcely be said of the two volumes of the "Political History of the United Kingdom." They contain the ripe judgment on the annals of his own land of a man who has given a long lifetime to the study of history. It is couched in a style which is the perfection of the union of compressed narration and reflection. Condensation is aimed at, but the pages are nevertheless studded with phrases and passages, allusive or illuminative, of singular charm. We cannot think that these judgments of the most scholarly of our historians will soon disappear from the shelves of lovers of books.

Who shall say what in literature will longest survive the changes of taste? When Pennant, the famous scientific man of his day, was receiving letters from Gilbert White, an obscure country clergyman, he could little have guessed that these unstudied communications would become an English classic, and that the only guarantee of his being remembered by future generations lay in the fact that his name was preserved in their pages. The one sure thing in literature is that fascination of form is the indispensable quality.

There is a little book on which the name of Goldwin Smith appears, entitled "A Trip to England." We feel quite unable to imagine how the mind can so alter in time to come that that little volume will cease to charm. We know of no pages of his which exhibit in a higher degree that simple and restrained perfection of expression that has gained for him a place among the masters of modern English style. Among those masters we have no hesitation in giving him the highest place. The whimsicalness of Carlyle, the mannerisms of Arnold, the exaggeration and want of measure in Ruskin, the preciosity of Pater, are quite absent in the exquisite English of the "Lectures on the Study of History," and continued without diminution of justice till the present day.

Dr. Smith has undoubtedly thrown much of his energies into questions of the day which require journalistic treatment. What a wealth of information, scholarship, and taste has been employed in this way, and who shall say that it has not been in the main well employed? It has always been sincere and conscientious, and calculated for the improvement of the times and of humanity. Dr. Smith holds opinions as to the destiny of Canada that are distasteful to the vast majority of us, but to conclude from that fact that he has had no influence in Canada is to show a woeful lack of discrimination. We think it may be said, for example, that the growing urbanity of Canadian journalism received its first impulse from Dr. Smith, and that his has been a potent influence in rendering the national conscience sensitive to whatever would be dishonoring to public life. This alone is an achievement which any man might be proud to claim as his.

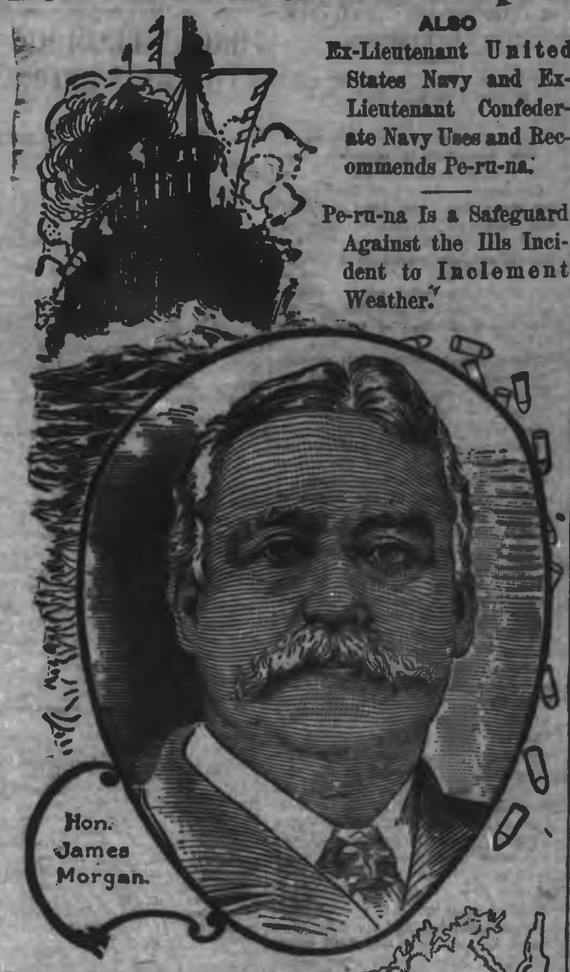
The average woman will give up everything for peace, which explains why the men usually have their way. —Atchison Globe.

The Ex-CONSUL GENERAL TO AUSTRALIA

ALSO

Ex-Lieutenant United States Navy and Ex-Lieutenant Confederate Navy Uses and Recommends Pe-ru-na.

Pe-ru-na Is a Safeguard Against the Ills Incident to Inclement Weather.



HON. JAMES M. MORGAN, 1735 Twentieth Street, Washington, D. C., Ex-Lieutenant U. S. Navy, Ex-Lieutenant Confederate Navy, and Ex-Consul General to Australia, writes:

Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio:

Gentlemen:—"The use of your Peruna as a remedy or cure for catarrh by many of my friends who have been benefited by the same, as well as my own experience as to its efficacy and good tonic properties causes me to recommend it to all persons, and you are at liberty to use this endorsement and my photograph if it will give any force to same."—James M. Morgan.

Catarrh of the Head Which Affected Hearing Cured by Pe-ru-na.

Mr. J. Emile Tanguay, No. 332 John St., Quebec, is Secretary of the Jacques Curling Club of Quebec, one of the leading sporting clubs in the city. Its members are composed of young men of the best families. He writes:

"Last winter I caught a severe cold which developed into a severe case of catarrh of the head, affecting my hearing especially. My eyes ran, my system seemed to be generally clogged up. I was advised by a club friend to try Peruna, and did so at once. To my delight I found a change set in for the better within three days, and in eight days I was entirely well."—J. Emile Tanguay.

Mr. Adolph Koehler, President of the North Side Turnverein, writes from Clark and Leland Ave., Chicago, Ill.:

"It is with pleasure that I endorse Peruna as a first-class medicine especially for catarrhal affections of the throat and lungs. I have used it with much benefit and several of my friends have been cured of catarrh entirely where Peruna was used."—Adolph Koehler.

"Nothing Better Than Pe-ru-na for Catarrhal Troubles," Says Congressman C. P. Dorr.

C. P. Dorr, Hotel Johnson, Washington, D. C., Ex-Congressman from West Virginia, writes:

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna to anyone who wants a safe and permanent cure for catarrh. For throat, lung and catarrhal trouble there is nothing better than Peruna."—C. P. Dorr.

Colds Lead to Chronic Catarrh.

A common cold is acute catarrh, which quickly becomes chronic catarrh if allowed to remain.

Every cold snap leaves in its trail thousands of cases of catarrh, many of whom for want of an effective remedy, will suffer from this disease the rest of their lives.

Is there anything that can be done to prevent all this?

In the first place, Peruna used at the proper time will prevent taking cold. In the second place, Peruna will cure a cold in from two to five days.

Again, Peruna will cure catarrh quickly in the first stages, and finally Peruna will also cure chronic catarrh, if used properly and persistently.

Peruna kept in the house and properly used will therefore not only act as a safeguard against the ailments which result from sudden cold waves, but will also prove a sure remedy for this class of ailments.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Peruna can be purchased at any first-class drug store for $1.00 per bottle.

Many Notables Give Governor-General Send-Off From London.

London, Dec. 2.—Earl Grey, who succeeds the Earl of Minto as Governor-General of Canada, started yesday morning for his post, accompanied by the Countess, their two daughters and two aides-de-camp. Among the many persons who gathered to bid them farewell at the railroad station were Foreign Secretary Lansdowne, the Earl and Countess of Minto, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Canadian High Commissioner; the Duke of Abercorn, Colonial Secretary Lyttelton, and the Amari-Charge d'Affaires, Henry White. The travelers will embark on the Allan Line steamer Parisian after an official reception by the Lord Mayor of Liverpool.

Canada and Australia.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 2.—Commercial Trade Agent Larke of Australia reports to the Department from Sydney on trade, and says that last year was one of the most successful that the colony ever experienced. Canada's share of the trade for 1903 was £68,329, which we sold, and £2,421, which we purchased. Canada bought less from New Zealand and sold more in 1903, compared with 1902. The principle item in Canada's sales is bicycles. In New South Wales trade is not brightening.

Superfluous Hair

Removed by the New Principle.

De Miracle

It is better than electricity, because it does not sear or produce a new growth. Better than X-ray, because it does not burn, sear or paralyze the tissues under the skin. Better than Depilatories, because it is not poisonous; therefore, it will not cause blood poisoning, or produce eczema, which is so common with depilatories, and does not break off the hair, thereby increasing its growth.

Electrolysis, X-ray or depilatories are offered you on the bare word of the operators and manufacturers. De MIRACLE is not. It is the only method which is indorsed by physicians, surgeons, dermatologists, medical journals and prominent chemists.

De MIRACLE will be mailed to any address, sealed, in plain wrapper, on receipt of $1.00. Your money back without question (no red tape) if it fails to do all that is claimed for it.

Booklet free—the most complete treatise on the subject of superfluous hair ever published. Tells all about the growth of hair, its habits and cause, and the various methods of removing it. Explains and exposes the fraud of "guaranteed cures"—will be sent free, in plain, sealed envelope, to any address. Write for it to-day in your own handwriting, as we can do nothing unless we receive it. Write to-day to

NEW DEPARTURE IN JOURNALISM

In Peterborough Inaugurated by The Examiner.

Commencing to-day Two Editions Will be Issued on Saturdays'—New Press Facilities.

The Examiner to-day inaugurated a new departure in newspaper achievement in Peterborough.

Commencing to-day and continuing every Saturday, the Examiner will issue two editions, the first of which will be on the streets at 3 o'clock, and the second at 4 o'clock. This will be continued until early in the year, when extra press facilities which will then be provided will enable the publication of two edition daily.

The 3 o'clock edition will contain all the news up to the hour that the forms go on the press, and the later edition will be featured with the latest news.

Peterborough has now attained the proportions of a city, and the Examiner is determined to keep abreast if not a little ahead of the march of progress, in providing its readers with whatever a modern city newspaper in a place of this size should provide, and the issuing of two editions daily is the result of this determination to remain in the lead.

Then early in the new year a new Cox Duplex Angle Bar Web Perfecting Press, the order for which was placed some little time ago, will be installed, and simultaneously with its installation the Examiner will issue two editions every day. The ever increasing circulation of this paper has demanded increased press facilities, although at the present time the press upon which the Examiner is printed is fully as modern as that upon which the ordinary small city daily is printed, but the Examiner recognises that it is essential to place the papers in its subscribers hands at the earliest possible moment after the news is in type, and the installation of the new press, which has a capacity of 6,000 copies per hour, of an eight page paper, printed, pasted, cut and folded, in one operation will enable the publisher to do this.

AN ESSAY ON 'BROTHER AZARIAS'

Regular Meeting of the Ladies Literary Association.

A Splendid Entertainment at the T.A.S. Rooms Last Night.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Literary Association of St. Peter's T.A.S., was held last evning, when an excellent paper on the life and works of "Brother Asarias," was read by Miss S. Kelly.

Miss Kelly gave a very interesting sketch of the life and career of the writer, later his life as a student, and finally his decision in becoming a member of the communnity of Christian Brothers. Special mention was made of his ardour and zeal in all the studies pursued by him, and reference also made to the same characteristics so marked in him in the community life which he had chosen. Miss Kelly outlined his literary work clearly and systematically, and brought out many beautiful features of his writing in dealing with his subject. She also gave particular attention to the literary and philosophical style of the writer's works, noting such as "Books and Reading," "Phases of Thought and Criticism," and showed them to have proceeded from the pen of a master hand. The essay was, in every respect, an excellent one, and was thoroughly appreciated by the audience.

Instrumental duet ... Misses Ruby Fitzgerald and M. Tromblay
Vocal solo... ... ...Miss R. Garvey
Instrumental duet — Misses Ruby Fitzgerald and M. Tromblay
Vocal sojo ... ...Master W. Allen

The next meeting of the association will be held on Friday, December 16th, when an essay will be read by Miss Deannard.

EXTRA EDITION

THROWN FROM RIG TWO RIBS BROKEN

Mr. John Cadigan of Ennismore Victim Of Runaway Accident.

Three Other Parties had Very Narrow Escape From Injury—Runaway at Noon To-day.

A very serious runaway accident occurred about noon to-day, on the Communication Road, near Mr. Wm. Milburn's residence. Mr. John Cadigan, of Ennismore, was driving to market with his daughter, and another party, when his team took fright and dashed down the road at a terrific pace. The wagon was over-turned into the ditch, and the three occupants were thrown out. Only one of the party, however, Mr. Cadigan, sustained any injuries, but he had two ribs on the right side of his body broken.

The injured man was conveyed to Mr. Milburn's residence, and Dr. Coughlin and the Dan Spence ambulance of town were sent for. Mr. Cadigan was conveyed to the St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is doing as well as can be expected. It is thought that the broken ribs were pressing against the right lung, as the injured man was expectorating blood.

The frightened team, after overturning the wagon, proceeded on their mad career, and overtook Rev. Mr. McKinnon of the Gilmour Memorial, who was driving to town. His carriage was struck and the top knocked off. Mr. McKinnon was thrown to the ground but escaped without injury. Mr. McKinnon's horse also took fright and ran away, but was captured near Mr. Milburn's.

The parties who escaped injury were very fortunate to do so under the circumstances. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Cadigan and a speedy recovery is hoped for.

COUNTY JAIL IN GOOD CONDITION.

Report of the Provincial Inspector on County Buildings.

No Insane in the Jail at Present Discipline and Management is Good.

It will be remembered that early in the week the Examiner stated that Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith was in town and inspected the County Buildings and other institutions under his charge. His report on the jail has been received by Sheriff Hall, and is as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH GAOL.

I made an official visit of inspection to Peterborough gaol November the 28th.

On that date there were 19 male prisoners confined for various offences; six of the prisoners were awaiting removal to the Central Prison, the remaining were for minor offences and awaiting trial. I found four old men who should be taken care of in a House of Refuge, not in a gaol. Houses of Refuge are for the old and destitute poor; gaols are for the criminal class. Old age is not a crime, and I trust every effort will be made to discourage the sending of these old people to gaol instead of to a House of Refuge. I was glad to find that there were no insane confined in this gaol.

I made a complete inspection of the whole building and premises, and found the beds and bedding, corridors and cells, yards, water closets, drainage, ventilation and water supply quite satisfactory. The dietary is according to gaol regulations and the quality of the food is good. The cost of rations about 12c. per day, and the food is supplied by contract. There were no complaints in regard to the food nor its quality. I found there were about thirty suits of clothing in a very fair condition of repair.

I suggested that the floor in corridor four and the ceiling in the same apartment should be repaired as soon as possible. I also suggested that the use of stoves might well be done away with and a more modern and safer heating appliance put in use. I examined the gaol register and the other books and found they were properly and correctly kept. The discipline and management of the gaol impressed me favourably.

Inspector.

NEW RAILWAY FOR PETERBORO'.

C. P. R. Asking for Power to Build More Lines.

Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway Wants Charter for Line to Pass Through Peterborough County.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has plans under way for the building of extensive branches in Ontario, according to notices in the Canada Gazette. A notice announces that incorporation will be sought for "The Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway Company," with power to construct and operate a railway from a point on Georgian Bay between Port Severn and Penetanguishene, in a southeasterly direction through the Counties of Simcoe, Ontario, Victoria, Peterborough, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, and Lanark, or any of them, to a point of connection with the Ontario and Quebec Railway between Cavanville and Maberly, with such powers as are usually given to railway companies incorporated by the Parliament of Canada, and that the said works be declared to be for the general advantage of Canada.

Annual Meeting Being Held This Afternoon in Toronto.

LARGE GATHERING.

Special to the Examiner.

Toronto, Dec. 3.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association commenced in the Temple Building this morning when Clubs from all over the province were represented by delegates, who came here to discuss the many important amendments and to elect officers for the year. This is the first time in 5 years that there has been a contest for the office of President and Wm. Wyndam, of Hamilton, was the opponent of Jno. Ross Robertson. The delegates were at the place of meeting long before the scheduled time, and when the meeting was called to order nearly a hundred Clubs were represented. The outlook for the season is bright and there is sure to be a large increase in the number of Clubs competing for championship honours, as several new ones were admitted this morning. The first business taken up was the reading of the reports. The President's address was a lengthy one, and contained a number of valuable ideas. At noon the meeting adjourned, when the delegates were entertained at luncheon by President Jno. Ross Robertson. At the afternoon session the amendments were discussed and many of them were passed.

When the President's report was adopted D. L. Darroch spoke to it, stating that he wished to contradict many statements made in the report. He said that he must take exception to the autocratic manner which President Robertson conducted matters, and that it was through a packed meeting that Harry Peel's reinstatement had been rescinded. He went on to show that it was done through Toronto men on the Executive Committee, as there were five of them. This caused some discussion by the delegates.

The following are delegates registered up to noon, owing to some of the trains being late:—Oliver Craig, H. Morgan, Barrie; H. Mahoney, Belleville; W. H. Lillie, Cornwall; P. W. Wilson, Galt; Geo. D. Hunt, Hortons; W. E. Paley, Hamilton; D. J. Montague, Ingersoll; E. Williams, Ingersoll; J. D. Sinclair, Marlboro; R. Burns, Peterborough; F. D. Woodsworth, Morrisburg; C. N. Colquhon, New Market; W. F. O'Halahan, Preston; A. H. Ostrem, Prescott; J. S. Robertson, St. Georges; Dr. Peacock, Uxbridge; Dr. GMillian, Port Perry; J. C. Dennistoun, Victoria Harbour; R. Waddie, Paris; J. M. Martin, Parry Sound; D. J. Surver, St. Johns, London; J. Fould, Varsity III; C. G. Heriod, Whitby; L. E. Marsh, Woodstock; E. W. Price, Welland; G. C. Camper, Waverleys; W. F. Oliver, Collingwood; J. A. Caslake, Port Hope; W. G. Wood, Argonauts; R. Parmenter.

MR. DAN WHETUNG CROSSED THE ICE

Repeats His Achievement of Being First to Cross Chemong Lake.

Mr. Dan Whetung this morning repeated a feat which for the last quarter of a century he has accomplished, viz., that of being the first to cross Chemong Lake each fall on the ice.

This morning for the first time this winter Mr. Whetung, on his way to town, crossed the ice from Chemong to the Bridgenorth side, and according to his evidence, and he should know, the ice is perfectly safe, and from now on, unless, of course, a thaw sets in, Mr. Whetung will each day make the trip which he inaugurated this morning.

Naturally, Mr. Whetung is rather proud of the record that he has made for himself in this respect, a record which no one seems to be very likely to supersede him in the possession of.

OPENING MEETING OF LIBERAL CAMPAIGN

Rousing Rally Held Last Night in the Simcoe Street Committee Rooms in the Interest of Mr. R. F. McWilliams---Splendid Address by Hon. J. R. Stratton---The Record of the Ross Government Reviewed ---Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Tells of The Wise and Careful Administration of Ontario Affairs--The Candidate Speaks---Campaign Opens Most Promisingly---A Clean Record of a Business-like Government.

Last night the first Liberal rally in the Provincial campaign, in the interests of Mr. R. F. McWilliams, was held in the Liberal Committee Rooms, on Simcoe street, and, taking into consideration the fact that the date of the elections has not yet been announced, and, consequently, it cannot be expected that the same degree of interest will be displayed, the meeting was well attended. There were present about 200 men, and the enthusiasm displayed by those present augurs well for the success of Mr. McWilliams when the eelction is held.

The organization work, and appointment of committees, is progressing very favourably, and Mr. McWilliams' promise at the convention that he would spend no idle hours, has so far at least been fulfilled, for, in addition to sending out six thousand circulars to the electors of the riding, he has already appointed a number of his workers and heads of committees, besides other equally necessary work.

The meeting last night was addressed by Hon. J. R. Stratton, Mr. R. R. Hall, M.P., Mr. F. D. Kerr, and the candidate, the last two speaking briefly but effectively.

The chairman of the meeting was Mr. Garrow, who, in a few words, expressed his pleasure at seeing so many present, and his confidence in the success of Mr. McWilliams' candidature. He first called upon Hon. J. R. Stratton, who was received with ringing cheers when he arose to address the meeting, and in a 45-minut speech he dealt with the claims o the Ross Government to support on the score of its excellent record, and gave good advice as to the necessity for thorough organization.

Hon. J. R. Stratton.

Mr. Stratton said that he had no doubt that a general election would take place in the province in the near future. It was not at all probable that any bye-elections would be held but that a general election would take place before very long, when the Ross Government would appeal to the people of the province for a renewal of that confidence which had been extended to the Liberal party of the province practically since confederation. He could not see any good reason why Mr. Ross should not be returned; his policy was progressive, his administration had been good, so good indeed that there was no discussion of it. The financial standing of the province was excellent. Economy had been practised but not parsimony. The expenditure had increased and properly so; the development of the province was necessary and expenditures were necessary to create development. The country had to be opened up and assistence had to be rendered to open it up, and it was very satisfactory to know that so little fault could be found with the expenditure necessary to accomplish this. It was idle to or t oise increase of expenditure without showing that such expenditures were not necessary and wisely made. Our educational system had received careful attention and it had been improved in the interests of the modern demands for advanced educational facilities. A new building for the School of Science was about completed in Toronto, to assist in the education of our young men in practical science, so that Canadian engineers and men of skill could be equipped to do their shars in the engineering, mining and other activities looking to the development of our unbounded mineral resources. A new Convocation Hall for the Provincial University had been provided for, and a new medical school had been erected and equipped. These large expenditures were, of course, an additional drain upon our financial resources, but they were all necessary, if we should be self contained, and equal to the work of building up, and developing our national resources. Our municipal system, as its importance demands, has received continuous attention; the main aim had been to strengthen the weak points where experience showed that such existed, and the policy adopted at the great Liberal convention in Toronto, would be applied to still further promote the interests of the municipalities, and to further protect them from the encroachments of corporations, which, naturally, were willing to accept and make use of all the facilities for their own enrichment and profit, that could be got out of compliant municipal corporations. Mr. Stratton referred to the features of the Liberal administration which affected the development of the newer portions of the province. This policy had been farseeing and progressive, not a policy for a day, or for an emergency, but one that would have a continuous effect for years to come. Our resources were useless without conditions being provided which would bring them into touch with conditions permitting practical work being done. These conditions were represented by transportation facilities. Transportation was the keynote of progress in development. The Ross Government had been fully alive to its importance, and had generously assisted and promoted railway construction, which was doing a splendid work in opening up our new country. In this connection, Mr. Stratton cited the Canadian Northern Railway, the Algoma Central, the Manitoulin and North Shore, the railway from Port Arthur to connect with the Grand Trunk Pacific, the railway from Toronto to Sudbury, the Nepigon and St. Joe. Railway, etc. These were all development — practically colonization — railways, some, perhaps, in advance of traffic, but all calculated to build up traffic by opening up and developing the country they served. But the Ross Government had done more than that. It had struck out in a new line, a progressive line. While others theorized about government-ownership of railways, the Government had acted. It had planned, and built, the Temiskaming Railway, which was doing, and would do, so much. The Government owned every foot of this line, which had been built without direct cash expenditure, but by the employment of the resources of the country through which it passed, and which its construction made more valuable. Last session provision had been made to extend this Government-owned railway to connect with another government-owned railway, the Grand Trunk Pacific, and at the Liberal convention the policy was adopted of extending this line to Hudson's Bay, to open up the intervening country to settlement, and to the enterprise of Canadian industry. The Government's railway policy had been public spirited, and so was their policy towards Ontario industries. When the great industries at the "Soo," which cost twenty million dollars, were tied up by the maturing of a five million dollar mortgage, the Government came to the rescue, and by guaranteeing a loan of $2,000,000 put these industries on their feet, and they were now running, employing about 4,000 hands, and paying out in wages $130,000 per month. The assistance given was wise and justified by events. Out of the earnings of the company, the first instalment of interest on the $2,000,000 loan was paid, and the first quarter of a million of the mortgage indebtedness was in the bank ready to be paid. The great industries at the "Soo" were in operation, thanks to the assistance given by the Government. The greatest result was the resumption of the steel rail mills, the first mills of the kind in Canada, which had a profitable future before them in supplying rails for the 4,000 miles of the Grand Trunk Pacific, and for all the railways of Canada.

Mr. Stratton went on to point out that on the score of its advance policy, and its grand administrative record, the Ross Government was amply entitled to support.

Mr. Stratton said that while he was out of town Mr. T. E. Bradburn had accepted the Conservative nomination. He had nothing to say against Mr. Bradburn and would not do so if he could. He had attended the same schools and was like himself a Peterborough boy. His candidature would not be treated, so far as he (Mr. Stratton) was concerned, on personal grounds. But his political relations were fair subjects of discussion and would be treated with the frankness their political importance deserved. Mr. McWilliams was also a Peterborough boy, born in Peterborough, educated in our home schools and a graduate of our great Provincial University. He was contesting the constituency and he wanted to say to this gathering and to the candidate that they must not underestimate the strength of the Conservative party in this riding. The majorities the speaker had received were no criterion of the strength of the Liberal party in West Peterborough. He had personally received the support of many who could not be called Liberals and who had supported him, some from personal, some from business and some from other reasons. He had never felt that the 1200 majority received at the last election was an expression of party opinion; it was very largely a vote of a personal character which he appreciated very highly and would not forget. Mr. McWilliams' friends must rally round him. He must see that he has from end to end of the riding energetic and thorough organization. His success would depend very largely upon the energy and activity of the personal and political

A GIFTED VIOLINIST

Miss Evelyn Street is Recieved Everywhere With Enthusiasm.

Miss Evelyn Street, solo violinist, who will appear in the Opera House on Friday, Dec. 9th, in connection with the 57th Band Concert, is a young Canadian artiste, who was educated in Germany and Great Britain under the well known masters, Sitt & Holland, and made her debut a few years ago, subsequently playing with Walter Damrosch and the New York Symphony Orchestra as soloist. She appeared with great success in some of the principal cities of the United States and Canada. Lately she spent one season in Boston under Martin Loeffer, furthering her musical studies and her career. Wherever she has appeared, she has aroused the utmost appreciation from the audiences and her violin numbers have always been most popular features of the programme. The Guelph Herald says: "Miss Street returned only to establish herself a stronger favourite. Her playing exhibits wonderful gifts."

WORLD'S FAIR CLOSES THIS EVENING.

Yesterday's Attendance was Very Large—Programme for To-night.

The World's Fair goes along merrily with increased attendance and a large sale. Yesterday afternoon and evening the opera house was well filled, the audience being especially large in the evening.

The programme presented last evening was somewhat changed from that of the previous evening and like that of Thursday the different numbers were splendidly rendered. The opening number was a selection by Mr. Halpany's orchestra which was well received. The Japanese Gentlemen's chorus, the Spanish dance, the trio, "Three Little Maids from Japan," the "Sunflower Chorus" and the duet "It was the Dutch" by Master Carl and Frank Halpany were repeated. Miss Ruth Dawson sang in a sweet soprano voice "River Constant" and was heartily received. Miss Helen Davies in costume sang a delightful number "Japanese love song" which was enthusiastically applauded.

The dining-room has been splendidly patronized during the fair. The room and tables have been prettily decorated and Mrs. Bubbins and Mrs. H. C. Hammond with their staff of twenty waiters have given excellent service. From 150 to 250 have been present at every meal and the ladies are worthy of every laudation for the excellent manner in which the needs of those at the tables were attended to.

The thanks of the management of the Fair is due to Mr. W. Hassett who so artistically designed four of the booths.

Programme for this evening's concert at the World's Fair, concert to commence at 8 o'clock p. m.

1.—Selection, Messrs. F. and C. Halpany.
2.—Song, "A Warrior Bold" Mr. F. A. Lounds.
3.—Song, "Heroes and Gentlemen" Mr. R. N. Jolliffe.
4.—Spanish Dance.
5.—Coster song, ...Mr. J. Laurence
6.—Selection... ... ...Mr. Halpany
7.—Chorus of Japanese Gentlemen.
8.—Three Little Maids.
9.—Song, ... Mr. J. Laurence
10.—Sunflower Chorus.

This programme is subject to change.

CHILD REPROVED LEAVES HOME

Experience of a Eight Year Old Youngster..

Ran Away to Avoid a Whipping—It's Return to The Parents.

A case of almost infantile rebellion is reported from the Smith-town Hill. It appears that a child about eight years of age was the other day chastised by its parent in a way that custom has made familiar to everyone who has passed through childhood's stages. This youngster, however, did not take at all kindly to the chastisement, which, needless to say, was administered by a loving hand, and only because it was sorely needed, and the recipient of the reproof unceremoniously left home.

The parents were naturally greatly alarmed when the child did not return at noon, and a search was instituted with the result that the unruly one was apprehended at the House of Providence, where it had gone upon leaving home. One of the priests from the Cathedral went to the home of the child and informed the only nearly distracted parents that their child was safe at the House of Providence, and it was eventually returned to its home, where, doubtless, the lesson taught it will have the desired effect in the improvement in its demeanour.

BUT DAYS OR WEEKS

Before Port Arthur Will Fall Recognized by Russians.

SEND THE BLACK SEA FLEET

Russians Repulsed With Heavy Loss in Attempt to Re-Take 203-Metre Hill—Gen. Rennenkampff Captures 600 Jap Rifles and Several Guns—Japs and Chinese Bandits to the Rescue.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—With the confirmation of the news that the Japanese have occupied 203 Metre Hill, and the report that the Russians unsuccessfully attempted its recapture, officials at the War Office are beginning to prepare themselves for the inevitable. Golden Hill and Liaon Hill are higher and dominate 203 Metre Hill, but the officials say that if the Japanese succeed in mounting heavy guns upon the latter it will probably be only a question of days or weeks before the fortress falls. Still there is not the slightest idea among Gen. Stoessel's friends that he will surrender, even if he should be ordered to do so.

The Black Sea Fleet.

London, Dec. 3.—A Sebastopol despatch to The Daily Graphic asserts that Admirals Alexieff and Grand Duke Alexander Michaelovitch (the latter the head of the Russian Mercantile Marine), both advocate sending out the Black Sea fleet.

In Constantinople, according to a despatch to The Standard, it is taken for granted that both Great Britain and Turkey would resolutely oppose the exit of the Russian Black Sea fleet.

Russians Driven Back.

Tokio, Dec. 3.—It is reported here that the Russians have attempted to re-take 203-Metre Hill. They assembled a strong force and assaulted the position, but were repulsed with heavy loss.

The Japanese finding sailors among the Russian dead, believe that if the men from the fleet are being employed in making sorties the complement of the forces must be falling short.

The fact that the Russians are fortifying the positions available between Liaoti and Mantai Mountains, increases the belief that they will make their last stand there.

Imperial headquarters makes the announcement that 17 officers have been killed and 64 wounded in the field, but does not mention the place. It is presumed that it was at Port Arthur.

The wounded leg of Gen. Nakamura has been amputated.

Drove Japs Out.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—Despatches received from Mukden yesterday say that Gen. Rennenkampff's forces on Nov. 30 drove the Japanese out of a new position southward of Tsinhkotchen, near Da Pass. The fighting was short and sharp. The Japanese burned their supply deposits in three villages and retreated pursued by Cossacks so far as the Teitse River. The Japanese losses were about 50 killed and one hundred wounded. The Cossacks destroyed a Japanese telegraph line, and occupied the village of Suidun (about seven and one-half miles southeast of Tsinhketchen).

Captured Jap Guns and Rifles.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 3.—A special despatch received here from Mukden, says: "It is reported that Gen. Rennenkampff has captured several Japanese guns and a convoy with 600 rifles, but that a force of 40,000, consisting of Chinese bandits and a reserve of 8,000 Japanese has started to turn Rennenkampff's flank."

DASTARDLY OUTRAGE AT WINNIPEG.

Brute Assaulted Well-Known Lady, Wife of Public Official.

Winnipeg, Man., Dec. 3.—A dastardly outrage was committed Thursday afternoon on the Government House grounds. The victim was a well known lady, the wife of a public official. Shortly before 6 o'clock the lady was hurrying to the Thursday afternoon reception at Government House. When she was on the walk midway between the street and the gubernatorial residence a man stepped behind her from the cover of some trees and catching her by the collar of her jacket knocked her to the ground. She screamed loudly for help, but her cries were not heard. She resisted successfully, and though she was finally overcome through exhaustion, the man became alarmed and made off. The lady then ran to Government House, where she collapsed and became hysterical. A search was made for the brute who assaulted her, but no trace of him was to be found. The police are now making an active search for him.

John Steen a Detective.

Toronto, Dec. 3.—The man John Steen, who is charged with being implicated in the Dentonia Park robbery, pleaded not guilty before the county magistrate yesterday and was remanded for a week. Steen denies that he had anything to do with the burglary. He claims that the private detective who gave the information against him is an ex-convict whom he met in the Central Prison, when they were both doing time.

Relic of a Tragedy.

"Do you see this," said James Beatty of Huron, as he placed a piece of flint on a Kincardine editor's desk. "There is a tragedy connected with that—a murder, probably."

Recently Mr. Beatty and George M. Chambers were walking along the plains south of Pine River, near the town plot of Alma, when they came across that piece of flint. Mr. Chambers went to pick it up when he found it imbedded in the hip bone of a human skeleton. The flint is about 1¼ inches long, and its widest point is about ¾ inches. It is pointed and was clearly an arrow head. The supposition is that the shaft was shot by an Indian, but whether the victim was an Indian or a pale face, Mr. Beatty cannot say. He has been here over fifty years and does not think it could have happened in that time.

The skeleton was buried face down, and the sand had recently blown off it. The skeleton was in a cramped position, as if the body had been hurriedly thrown into the grave.

ALLIANCE CASTS FAITH OVERBOARD

Doubts Government's Intention to Redeem Pledges.

WILL ACT FOR THEMSELVES

Manifesto Issued Friday Touching the Temperance Situation in Ontario—Executive Reviews Recent Votes and Pledges and Commends Strongly On Liberal Temperance Plank—Those Who Were Present.

Toronto, Dec. 3.—Keen disappointment at the Liberal temperance platform is the note of the manifesto issued yesterday by the Executive of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance. The document recites the recent temperance history of the Province, quotes the successive pledges of Sir Oliver Mowat, Hon. A. S. Hardy and Hon. Geo. W. Ross, and then deals with the recent Liberal convention. It is stated that clause three of the resolution, which the convention rejected, would have been accepted, having been reported by the Committee on Resolutions, but when two members of the Government stood up and opposed that, resulting in its defeat, the Executive are forced to the conclusion that they cannot depend on the present Administration to redeem their pledges. A call is made on all temperance men to nominate and support only candidates who will give effect to their views.

Yesterday's meeting was held in Secretary F. S. Spence's office in the Confederation Life Building, and was attended by a large number of members of the Executive. The list of those present as subsequently given out is as follows: Mr. G. F. Marter, President; Rev. Dr. Carman, Rev. Dr. Bates, Rev. Dr. Goodspeed, Rev. Dr. Chown, Rev. Dr. Frizzell, Henry Moyle, C. G. Scott, A. M. Featherston, D. R. Ross (Embro), J. A. Austin, L. C. Peake, Wm. Hamilton, Samuel Holland, Alex. Mills, W. H. Orr, Mayor Urquhart, Dr. Mackenzie, Rev. Dr. Courtice, Rev. Dr. M. L. Pearson, J. O. McCarthy and F. S. Spence.

The meeting was a lengthy one, not concluding until 6.30. The press were not admitted, but the official statement was that the manifesto, as handed out, had been unanimously agreed upon, after a thorough discussion of every clause. When the meeting met a draft manifesto was laid before them, but it was stated that some alterations had been made at yesterday's meeting. It was first agreed to prepare one at a meeting on November 25th, and since then the work of drafting it had been carried on by a special committee, composed as follows: Mr. G. F. Marter, Rev. Dr. Bates, Rev. Dr. Chown, Messrs. Alex. Mills, J. O. McCarthy and F. S. Spence.

MR. HILL HAS PROVED IT.

Toronto Man Explains How he Gained Thirty Pounds in a Few Weeks. Remarkable Statement.

At 89 Fuller street, Toronto, lives a man who claims to have proven beyond the shadow of a doubt that Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill is the most wonderful remedy ever introduced. His name is W. A. Hill, and he makes the following statement:—

"I was very much run down, and had a constant pain in my side, which made life a drag to me. I fully believed my days were numbered, but I was induced to try a treatment of Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill, and the results were marvellous.

"After a short time I found myself restored to perfect health and strength, which I am thankful to say I have enjoyed ever since.

"I have gained thirty pounds in weight since I commenced to use Anti-Pill."

Mr. Hill's statement is only one of many. No one has ever used Dr. Leonhardt's Anti-Pill without benefit.

Have You One of Those Can't Taste, Can't Smell Colds?

If you have you had better get rid of it immediately. If you don't, that terrible and disgusting malady, Catarrh, is sure to take hold of you and make you miserable, and an object of repugnance to your friends. The best and quickest cure for your cold is

DR. WOOD'S NORWAY PINE SYRUP.

It contains all the virtues of the Norway Pine Tree, combined with Wild Cherry Bark and the soothing and expectorant properties of other excellent herbs and barks.

Mr. Harry Mosher, Mosher's Island, N.S., writes:—"We have used Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup in our family for the past six years, and have always found it a reliable remedy for the cure of coughs and colds."

Many cases of substitution have been brought to our notice. Do not be humbugged into taking any other pine syrup which unscrupulous dealers say is just as good.

Dr. Wood's is the original, put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark, and the price 25 cents.

THE FIRST DIRECTORY.

It Was Issued in England in Queen Elizabeth's Reign.

The first directory dates from 1595, Queen Elizabeth's reign. A copy of it is in the British museum, entitled "The Names of All Such Gentlemen of Accompts as Were Residing Within the City of London."

The next does not seem to have appeared for nearly a hundred years. It was called "A Collection of the Names of Merchants Living In and About the City of London." This was printed for Lee, Lombard street, in 1677. The names were arranged alphabetically, 1,790 in number. In a separate list were the names of no fewer than forty-four bankers under this heading, "Goldsmiths who keep running cashes," twenty-three of them being then in Lombard street. This book contains the name of the father of Pope, the poet.

The first directory, expressly so called, was compiled by Brown in 1732, who soon issued it annually and realised through it a large fortune. The earliest postoffice directory appeared in 1800, and successive volumes have been brought out yearly ever since.—London Telegraph.

Railway Ties.

Metal ties, principally cast, have been used on various roads abroad for fifty years. They are not altogether a success, and most roads substitute timber again. Not only is cost an objection, but they make construction too light and fail to get a good hold in the ballast, thus rendering it difficult to keep the track in line.

New York as a City.

New York was the first city incorporated in the limits of the United States. Its charter was dated 1664.

For many years the Chinese have had an irrigating machine, consisting of a trough and an endless chain of buckets, which carry the water up an inclined plane.

Kidney Cells Destroyed

BY REPEATED ATTACKS OF DISEASE—SURPRISING RESULTS OBTAINED BY USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Because it is sometimes a slow and lingering malady, people are prone to overlook the destructive tendencies of kidney disease.

They forget that the wasting process brings about a change in the cellular tissue, which practically renders the kidneys useless as filtering organs.

Continued paleness and loss of flesh, pains in the back and loins, dry, harsh skin, severe headaches and backaches; scanty, highly coloured urination, stomach troubles and irregular bowels are among the symptoms of kidney disease.

As a means of downright suffering few diseases are to be compared with kidney disease, and the results are frequently, the end coming suddenly and unexpected.

By their direct and wonderfully prompt action on the kidneys, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills call a quick halt to the advance of kidney disease.

By their combined action on kidneys liver and bowels they prove effective in complicated cases, in which ordinary kidney medicines bring little or no relief.

Mrs. H. Trollope, 350 Water street, Peterborough, Ont., states: "I have used two boxes of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and found them an excellent medicine. I had very severe pains across the back which came same from my kidneys being out of order, and since using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for a time, I began to feel a wonderful improvement in my health.

"I have no more pains in my back now and am feeling as well as ever I did. Consequently, I am glad of an opportunity to recommend Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills have thoroughly proven their genuine and indisputable merit, and you can use them knowing of a certainty that you will receive all the benefit that would be derived from attention of the most skilful physician. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

"THE LADDER OF SWORDS."

Saturday Review's Criticism of Sir Gilbert Parker's New Book.

The following criticism in the Saturday Review of Sir Gilbert Parker's latest book, "The Ladder of Swords," called for the author's protest to that paper that "it is little likely to inspire gratitude or respect in the mind of its author."

The editor replied—"Our fault is that we do not take Sir Gilbert Parker at his own estimate. We take him rather at the estimate of his Canadian fellow-countrymen."

The reviewer compares Sir Gilbert's book with "The Queen's Quair," another historical romance, and says: One of these tales is written as though it happened, but yesterday, and yet goes back at once its three hundred years. There is about it scarcely a touch of the wilfully archaic; just a hint of place, and the rest the simplicity of all strong feeling. But this other, the "Ladder of Swords," uses every trick of diction, every device of antique coloring, to push its stage into the past, and succeeds in putting it no further from us than behind the footlights of a theatre. Theatrical it is in all its twistings; dramatic not a whit. We have ruffs, hose, jerkins, halberdiers, corselets, morions, Moorish pikes, birds from the Indies, jousts, tiltings, and so forth. Every bit of stale color from the age of Elizabeth is plastered on to the scene, but never for an instant do we get an impression of that age; never is the working of a single mind revealed that might not have been brought up on cheap science and the penny paper, and not once is there a hint of the moulding influences of a time so removed from ours. The men tilt and fight and drink canary, and the women sit upon rushes, wear ruffles and slashed sleeves, and use the time-honored phrases, but neither so much as suggested the ferment and roughness of their time. They belong, indeed, to an age, they are unpossessed of reality, they are of that great company of impossibles that people the stage.

Of the character of Queen Elizabeth, the writer says she sets a high standard of theatrical verbiage. "Her eyes," he tells us, "wore ever a determined look, were persistent and vigilant, with a lurking trouble, yet flooded, too, by a quiet melancholy, like a low insistent note that floats through an opera of passion, romance, and tragedy; like a tone of pathos giving deep character to some splendid pageant, which praises while it commemorates, proclaiming conquest while the grass has not yet grown on quiet houses of the children of the sword who no more wield the sword." That is a good deal to put into an eye, especially into a queen's eye, and the fact that all its piled-up descriptiveness produces no image makes it worth quoting here as significant of the entire effort and failure of the book. It is in construction and development hopelessly artificial; there is not anywhere in it a single direct human touch to make part to one of the characters a favour of reality.

A note appended to the story mentions that "there will be found a few anachronisms in this tale," but chronological displacements are a small matter, even in historical romance, compared with psychological. One does not complain that the facts and the people are out of keeping with a specified time, but that they are out of keeping with all time; that they not only misrepresent the Elizabethan age, they misrepresent humanity. One must suppose that that such a book is written in compliance with the market demand, for one cannot imagine its compilation proving of any interest to a man's intelligence.

Millions Go to Sunday School.

The report presented to the Sunday School Association of Ontario at the recent annual meeting by President Hamilton, though not altogether of a congratulatory character, was encouraging. He said the people of Ontario plumed themselves on the great resources of the province, on its advancement and increase in population, but he thought the Sunday schools had not been growing as they should have been. Less than one-fourth of the province was represented in the Sunday schools, and it was a question what was to be done with the remaining three-fourths. If the Dominion had ranked as high as Ontario, there would be about 416,000 more Sunday school members than at present. Of the 756,656 Sunday school members in Canada, Ontario's share was nearly 500,000, or about 225 to every 1,000 of population. That Canada's average, 147 to every 1,000 of population, was less than that of the United States, which country had over 18,000,000 Sunday school members, was due to the Province of Quebec. The total evangelical Sunday school enrollment of the world, teachers, officers and scholars, was 20,055,688.

CANADA AT ST. LOUIS

WHAT SHE SHOWS AT THE WORLD'S FAIR AND HOW SHE DOES IT.

Exhibits of the Dominion Are Excellent and They Are Properly Displayed—Many Grand Prizes, Gold, Silver and Bronze Medals Carried Off by the Products of the Northern Half of North America.

Canadians may well be proud of the showing made by their country in the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, writes the special correspondent of The Toronto Telegram. Not in the matter of prizes alone, although Canadian exhibits are carrying off grand prizes and gold, silver and bronze medals galore; but the displays made by the Dominion are a credit to the country, and no single American State or foreign country receives more prominence, taking the exhibits as a whole, than does Canada. This is due not so much to the favor of the Exposition Company as to the efforts of Mr. William Hutchinson, the Canadian Commissioner, and his staff. Canada has a building of her own on the grounds, and every one is made welcome there. The Canadian exhibits in the various departments are large, well selected, and prominently and skilfully displayed. Moreover, a frank campaign of education is carried on with immigration as the avowed object, and that it is not without fruit is shown by the fact that two hundred and fifty applications have already been made for farms at the Canadian Commissioner's office. The Canadian policy at St. Louis is to show people how good a place Canada is to live in; prize getting is a secondary consideration.

Canadian Gold.

The feature of Canada's mining exhibit—the feature at least which stops the crowd—is the vault with $50,000 worth of coarse gold in it; little trays of dully gleaming dust and nuggets, in the brilliantly lighted interior of a vault, or rather, model building, composed of glittering crystals and myriad samples of Canada's ores—gold, copper, iron, lead, nickel, graphite, manganese, petroleum, talc, brick clay, cement, limestone, cobalt, platinum, silver, zinc, asbestos, coal, corundum, gypsum, mica, salt, slate, granite, fire clay, felspar, chromite, and antimony.

The exhibit is an extensive one, covering 10,000 square feet. It is the largest made by any country in the Mines and Metallurgy building, which is quite appropriate, seeing that Canada supplies 85 per cent. of the world's production of corundum, 90 per cent. of the asbestos, and 50 per cent. of the world's nickel output.

The asbestos display is, next to that of gold, the most attractive in the exhibit, samples being brought together in the form of a dome, lighted from within.

In the mining exhibit Canada won two grand prizes, twenty-six gold medals, 29 silver medals and fourteen bronze medals.

Canada's mineral production last year was worth $63,226,510.

When It Comes to Pictures.

In art Canada does not shine conspicuously at the World's Fair. The statement is made candidly, and no offence need be taken. Canada's exhibition of paintings does her no discredit, and has received justly much favorable comment at the Exposition; but the exhibit does not proclaim Canada a leader of the nations in the art of picture-making. The pictures themselves are good; many of them are familiar to Torontonians from O.S.A. exhibitions, but, as might be expected, the young nation, busy in clearing her forests, getting population, making G. T. P. bargains, and opening up her territory has not had time to develop picture painters who outshine the masters of Great Britain or of Europe.

Canada's art exhibit is in the British section, in the art building. The pictures, therefore, cannot escape being measured by the highest standards, the British pictures being declared by some experts to be the finest in the building. The Canadian pictures occupy four rooms, the exhibit being comparatively small in this respect; nor is the wall space by any means crowded. Portraits are prominent in the selection. There are some typical landscapes and seascapes, and a few pure pictures of Canadian life, such as Mr. Cruickshanks' "Breaking the Road in Winter."

Splendid Forest Showing.

Canada's timber resources are emphasized in no uncertain manner at the World's Fair. There are two separate and complete exhibits, the one by itself in a special pavilion in the rear of the Canada building, the other in the Forestry, Fish and Game building, where it endures, and endures well, comparison with the similar exhibits of American States.

There is but one exhibit of woods which excells Canada's, and that is in the Philippine quarter. The magnificent Filipino furniture woods are there shown in all their splendor of size and fineness of grain, from the log state to the finished product—great polished tables worth (some) king's ransoms. This part of the Philippine forestry exhibit excells Canada, as it excells the rest of the world, simply because in the Philippines, and no place else in the world, do such furniture woods grow.

But Canada has pulp, pulp for the world for ages, pulp such as no other land can supply. The million and a half square miles of black spruce that form one of Canada's greatest assets are not to be forgotten. Canada has, in the display of commercial woods, an exhibit that is absolutely unique, a twenty-five foot pyramid of pulpwood, with panels showing the wood cut into strips, the wood shredded, and the sheets of the final product.

A Wonderful "Rustic Bridge."

There is also a "rustic bridge," fifty feet high and covering eighty feet in its double span. This is composed of samples of the 3,070 kinds of wood Canada produces. A Yankee schoolmarm queried this statement the other day, arguing that it could not be correct, since the United States, with greater variety of climate, has not that number of woods; but the catalogue of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, with every variety tabulated, convinced her.

The excellence of Canada's woods for furniture purposes—the oak, the birch, the cherry, the walnut, the ash—is shown by many beautifully grained and highly polished samples. In the pavilion in the rear of the Canadian building Canadian timber may be seen, from the log to the finished piece of furniture. Some good sections of big trees are shown here, and also planks, boards and timbers.

There Are Eleven Bears.

Closely associated with forestry are fish and game. The Canadian exhibit in this respect is excellent, the Government's own display being helped by that of the Grand Trunk, and the special exhibit of the Intercolonial, both railways bidding, and neither in vain, for a share of American hunting and tourist traffic. The fish shown are "whoppers," the birds splendid specimens, and the eleven Canadian bears—from Little Tiny to Old Rough Bruin, in all the varieties of black, brown, white and grizzly—are certainly the finest animals ever exhibited.

The Government gets a grand prize and a bronze medal for its forestry exhibit, and the grand prize, silver medal and bronze medal in its exhibit of fish and game. The Grand Trunk gets two gold medals, and the Intercolonial one.

Canada and Her Fruit.

It is perhaps as big a surprise to the average Canadian as it is to the average American to find Canada making a neck and neck race with California in the fruit exhibits; these two competitors leading all others. Some World's Fair visitors cannot comprehend how the Lady of the Snows can rival the southern State in fruit production; but Canada "is there with the goods." There are two odors that greet the nostrils when you enter the Horticultural building, the odor of apples and the odor of oranges. Canada is not very strong in the orange line, but she has all comers beaten in apples; and her peaches, pears, plums, grapes and small fruits are no mean companions for king apple.

There are some two hundred plates of apples on exhibition, and more than half of these are apples that were put in cold storage in 1902. When the Fair opened in May fresh Canadian apples were, of course, non-existent, so ninety-four varieties of 1902 cold storage apples were shown. As the season advanced this year's fruit began to come in. In October the exhibit had three hundred cases of 1903 apples in reserve, so that the display proves both the native excellence and the superior keeping qualities of Canadian fruit.

Products of the Farm.

Canada of course shines in her agricultural exhibit. The display in the Palace of Agriculture is one of which every Canadian may well be proud. Its chief feature is a huge pagoda of grain, adorned with paintings of Canadian live stock and flanked by pyramids showing exhibits of baking powder, tobacco, cheese, whisky, also honey, maple sugar, biscuits and butter. Maple sugar and maple syrup are very properly given great prominence, part of the exhibit being a model sugar bush, with trees, snow-covered ground, sugar camp, etc., all in miniature, showing on one side the old way and on the other the modern method of "sugaring." Every province in Canada produces maple sugar and maple syrup, and Quebec yields half the world's supply. Canada produces 18,000,000 pounds of sugar annually and the Canadian product gets the best price; and only ten per cent. of the maple sugar trees are tapped.

Such information as this is distributed generously by means of tablets; indeed vigorous advertising is manifest in all the Canadian exhibits, the policy of the Canadian Commissioner, Mr. Hutchinson, being in advance of that of all the American States in that respect.

Canada's great wheat belt, 1,800 miles long by 400 miles wide, with 171,000,000 acres for cultivation, is given due prominence. United Statesers also have their eyes opened by the Canadian tobacco exhibit, with the information that tobacco is grown in Canada 350 miles north of the American tobacco zone.

Magnificent specimens of potatoes, mangel wortzels, turnips, parsnips, beets, carrots, etc., are displayed on a central table in the Canadian section, after the manner of Canadian fall fairs.

THE ST. LAWRENCE PILOT.

Vivid Description of His Work in a River That Is Dangerous in the Black Night.

The tramp steamer plowed along through the lower reaches of the river, trailing behind her a wavering wake of foam, like a band of tapestry drawn through the sunlit, milky green wavelets. All round about white porpoises gambolled in the shining waters, their smooth round backs gleaming in the sun like ice hummocks, and on our port beam the mountains of Notre Dame turned dark green and desolate against the deep blue of the sky. As the day wore on the river narrowed, the country on our larboard hand gradually flattened out, scattered villages began to appear, and now and then we passed tall square-riggers lying in the lumber ports. At 6 o'clock we reached Rimouski, stopped, and took our pilot's aboard.

The old man expected orders, but the pilots had brought none. So the skipper, feeling aggrieved, worked himself into a rage. At any time he was an excitable old fellow, and up there on the bridge he raged aloud at his consignee, and with a sincerity in his fury that might have convinced Mr. Campbell of the C.P.R. line, if he had been there to hear, that in some way he had sinned against the harmony of the universe. After a time he exhausted his supply of explosive profanity, and came to a full stop, breathless and content.

"Well, it's no great matter," drawled the pilot in charge of the bridge. "You'll doubtless get your orders at Quebec. You've got to stop there anyway."

The ship plowed on up the shining river, and the pilot, with a Havana that had never passed the Customs, lounged idly in the bight of the bridge, puffing luxuriously. A nice, lazy lot, the pilots, you think.

As the sun goes down the sky becomes overcast, a thin drizzle begins to fall, and soon a mist rolls over the river, blotting out the banks on either hand. And when darkness falls the fog grows denser—so dense that, standing on the bridge, you cannot see the bows of the ship.

"Let them stand by in the engine room," orders the pilot.

The officer of the watch crosses the bridge, the telegraph bell jangles sharply, and the indicator rests at "Stand by." Again the telegraph jangles, as the engineer answers the signal. The pilot dons oil clothes, and moves ghost-like about the bridge, silent and alert. At intervals he comes to the binnacle, looks at his watch, glances at the compass, and says softly:

"Port a bit!"

"Steady now!"

And through the dense darkness, the fog and the rain, the steamer pushes full speed ahead, her whole fabric throbbing to the thrust of the screw. The mate shuffles athwart the bridge, and at intervals, as he grasps the whistle cord, the siren screams with frenzied sorrow upon the night. Now and then fog horns afar off bray dismally; you do not know whether they are the whistles of passing steamships or stations on the river banks; you can hardly distinguish the directions the sounds come from. But the pilot knows. The intermittent blasts speak to him through the blanketing fog like familiar friends, telling him where he is, and how to follow the winding channel. And so the ship plunges through the blind smother, trusting to the surety of the pilot's hearing, and his ability to read aright the ever-varying sounds along the river. And you watch the compass so fixedly that you become almost hypnotised, and you and the compass card seem to have become detached from the ship—seem to be floating through interminable realms of gloomy space. And as you strain your eyes upon the lubber point, the binnacle glass clouds with mist, and the compass card disappears in a blur. You drop the wheel, open the binnacle case, and wipe the mist from the glass. The pilot emerges like a ghost out of the gloom, and looks at the compass suspiciously. The mate comes and looks, too. But you are on your course, and you thank your stars.

The pilot looks at his watch. "Starboard a bit," he says.

"Starboard it is, sir."

"Steady now! As she goes."

"Steady, sor."

Suddenly, somewhere athwart our bows, a hoarse blast sounds through the fog.

"A steamer coming down," observes the pilot, and, shuffling athwart, he gives a blast upon the whistle behind us.

"Port two points."

The steamer answers with two blasts.

The pilot orders, "Port another point," and blows a long, hard blast. Two short blasts answer close at hand.

"Stop her!" orders the pilot suddenly, impetuously. "What does that fellow mean, anyway?" The mate jumps to the telegraph, and the engine room bell clangs viciously.

Suddenly the lookout forward shouts, "Light ahead, sir! Two points on port bow." And a dim blur of light appears in the gloom ahead.

"Hard a port!" says the pilot, coolly. Hard over." And, springing to the whistle cord, he gives a short, sharp blast.

The steamer ahead answers with a prolonged blast now; and in a minute or so a row of blurred lights passes by on our port beam—hardly a cable's length away. The captain, alarmed at the stopping of the engines, comes hastily on the bridge, and asks what's in the wind.

"Some fellows was trying to run us down," answers the mate. "I'd like to know why he didn't port when he was told. I thought he'd be into us, sure."

"A miss is as good as a mile," says the imperturbable pilot.—C. McKay in Montreal Herald.

DON'T BE HYPNOTISED,

Hoodwinked, hoodooed, or over-persuaded into accepting a substitute for Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription with its record of nearly 40 years, embracing hundreds of thousands of cures of woman's peculiar ailments. It's the only remedy for woman's ills sold by druggists, that is not full of "booze"—poor whisky, or bad alcohol.

A guarantee of 50cce is offered that "Favorite Prescription" contains no alcohol, opium or other harmful drug. Keeps in any climate.

"Favorite Prescription" is a powerful invigorating tonic, and imparts strength to the whole system and to the womb and its appendages in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," housekeepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an supporting cordial and restorative tonic.

It's an insult to your intelligence for a dealer to attempt to palm off upon you an alcoholic substitute for this world-famed medicine. You know what you want. It's his business to want that, too. When he urges some substitute he's thinking of the larger profit he'll make—not of your welfare.

$50,000 GIVEN AWAY, in copies of The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a book that sold to the extent of 680,000 copies a few years ago, at $1.50 per copy. Last year we gave away 54,000 worth of these invaluable books. This year we shall give away $50,000 worth of them. Will you share in this benefit? If so, send only 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, for book in stiff paper covers, or 31 stamps for cloth-bound. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

If out of health, write to old Dr. Pierce. He will send you good, fatherly, professional advice without charge.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the smallest, the easiest to take, and the easiest in the way they act. No griping, no sickness, no weakening after using. One "Pellet" is a gentle laxative, two a cathartic. Three are a dose. Sold by druggists. Don't you want to be well? Then get one of Dr. Pierce's Pellets. They're the cheapest. Only 25 cents a vial.

TOOK A SEVERE COLD.

It Settled In The Kidneys.

Pain In The Back The Result.

Catching cold and having it settle in the back is often the cause of Backache—the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches it is a warning that the kidneys are liable to become affected.

Heed the warning: check the Backache, and dispose of any chance of further trouble.

If you don't, serious complications are very apt to arise. Mrs. E. Williams, Hamilton, Ont., caught cold, and it settled in her kidneys. She used and is thankful for the immediate relief they gave her. She writes us as follows: "It is with pleasure that I add my testimony in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills. Some time ago I took a severe cold, which settled in my kidneys. The soreness and pain in the small of my back bothered me greatly. After suffering for some months, and finding numerous remedies fail, I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills, and received immediate relief from my sufferings.

Doan's Kidney Pills may be procured at all dealers, or will be sent direct by mail on receipt of price—

50 cents a box; or 3 for $1.25.

During the entire twenty days not a raindrop fell, the days being uniformly bright and sunny. These conditions were against successful hunting, since the dry ground made it almost impossible to follow trails, and there was a carpet of leaves everywhere several inches thick. Deer were so plentiful however that nearly every party got its complement. The deer were very small as a rule, and it is a question if the shooting of fawns should not be prohibited for a few years.

"STOCKING" SOCIAL WAS VERY ENJOYABLE

Girls' Guild of George St. Church Held Successful Affair.

The "Stocking Social" in the George Street Sunday School room last evening was a most successful affair. The attendance was large and the evening's proceedings provided much interest and pleasure for all present. The affair was under the auspices of the Girls' Guild, of the church. Invitations to the social were in the form of a miniature stocking which was deposited last evening, with the admission price, in a large red stocking placed at the door. The contributions were liberal and a handsome sum was realized.

The chairman was Rev. Dr. Crothers, the pastor. The programme was a most interesting one and the audience showed its appreciation by heartily encoring several of the numbers. The programme was as follows:—

Piano solo, ... Mr. Chas. E. Millner
Vocal solo, "A Dream" Miss Gertrude Kendry.
Recitation, selection from "The Last of the Barons"..... Miss Alberta White
Piano duet, Misses W. Gumpricht and E. Galley.
Violin solo, ... Miss Maud Crothers
Vocal solo, "The Bright Day" Miss C. Bellegheem
Violin obligato by Mr. Jones
Vocal solo, ... Mr. M. M. Wilson
Male quartette, "Juanita" Messrs. Mitchell, Brown, Herd, and Hooker.
Vocal solo, ...Mr. J. Bowes
Piano solo, ... Mr. C. E. Millner

The accompanists for the evening were Miss Clarry, Messrs. Millner and Schnelder.

After the programme a social hour was spent and refreshments served.

friends he could and would rally to his support. No two candidates had the same relations to the electorate, no two candidates could expect an organization of the same personnel as there are many who would be zealous for one man and lukewarm for another, so that in the end the individuality of a candidate and his individual activity stood out as prominent factors in bringing success, and it was necessary to see that the candidate's best friends should be enlisted in his interest in the most effective and systematic manner. Mr. Hall's organization was in many respects different from what the speaker's had been in his different contests, and necessarily so, for the personality was different. Many no doubt voted in the last election for the Laurier Government, who had not voted for him (Mr. Stratton), and it would, no doubt, be similar in the present contest. A candidate would have the best and most effective organisation who was backed by workers bound to him by the ties of both political and personal friendship. There was no time to be lost. He thought he would make no mistake in saying that the elections would take place before long. He hoped to see the chairmanships of the several wards and divisions filled by good men, and if this were done, and if the candidate could count upon the work dependent upon organization, being actively conducted in every part of the riding, while the candidate was doing his share of the fighting, the prospects of success should be bright. With active, energetic and united work, and with the combined support of the friends of good government, success was reasonably assured.

Mr. R. R. Hall, M. P.

The next speaker was the new member for the riding in the Dominion Parliament, Mr. R. R. Hall, who showed that he has not lost his ability to deliver a stirring campaign speech, and was received with enthusiasm by the audience. Without any preliminaries he plunged into a discussion of the merits of the Ross Government and showed the soundness of its claim for support in this election.

During the last 32 years in which the affairs of the province have been administered by the Liberal Government, the people have been well governed. He showed the senselessness of the cry raised by the Opposition that because the Government had been in power for 32 years they should be turned out. Would anyone consider it a good reason for discharge from a position because he had served his employer well for 32 years? He considered that the fact that during these years the Government had discharged its duty faithfully, was the strongest reason why it should be left in charge of the affairs of the province.

Every department of the Government had been carefully administered, and one particular case in point was that of the forestry conservation. Prior to the Boundary award, the Dominion Government under Sir John Macdonald had given away large blocks of valuable timber lands, but since that time the Ontario Government had carefully conserved this timber, until now the timber wealth of the province is one of its most valuable assets and as high as $32,000 per square mile is received from the sale of it, which is by public auction. Contrast this with the policy pursued in Quebec when sometimes as low as $200 per square mile, or even less is received.

Take every department of the Government and no single reason can be found why there should be a change. In the department until recently under the control of Hon. Mr. Stratton, the Opposition had been all well satisfied with the way that the money was being expended that the estimates were passed through the House in eleven minutes, Mr. Whitney and his followers offering not the slightest opposition to the estimates passing through unchallenged.

"Why should we not return a Government," asked Mr. Hall, "that has done so well for the province as the Liberal Government has done?"

Mr. Hall showed conclusively that in the Department of Justice and in the Department of Agriculture, the Ministers in charge of these affairs had administered them in a way which reflected credit on themselves and on the province. The Guelph Agricultural College had been pooh poohed at the time of its institution, but the ridicule with which it had been first received had been turned into an admiration for the service it had done the agricultural community of this province, and now its graduates are sought eagerly even by foreign governments who recognized the thorough education given by that college.

It is the duty of the Liberal party in this riding to send a supporter of the Ross Government to represent West Peterborough.

The speaker said that he had known the candidate, Mr. McWilliams, since boyhood, and he knew him to be a young man of good ability and a hard worker. He felt certain that if all the party in this riding stand shoulder to shoulder he will be elected in the coming contest.

The Candidate Speaks.

Mr. McWilliams was received with hearty cheers and gave a short but effective address. He said that he was exceedingly gratified at the large turn out on this, the first, meeting in his campaign. It was hard to get the interest worked up until the starting gun — the announcement of the date of the elections—is fired, and he was greatly pleased at the large number that he saw before him.

The time was not then for him to make a lengthy speech, but he would be heard later on in a discussion of the issues of the campaign, but he would like to say that he hoped that in this election there would be nothing of a personal character, and he hoped that after the election was over there would be the same personal friendship existing between Mr. Bradburn and himself that there was at the present time. He wanted a fair fight. It is all hypocrisy to say that all the corruption is in the one party. The facts had shown that in this province at the last provincial elections out of 96 seats, only six were vacated as a result of protests, and of these four were Conservatives. He did not think that the condition of the country was as bad as had been represented.

The great question now is, "Has the Ross Government deserved well of the people of this province?" and he believed that the people would answer that question in a way which would show that they considered it had.

The riding of West Peterborough had in 1886 elected a young man in the person of Hon. J. R. Stratton, to represent it, and he believed that no one regretted having done so. He hoped to so conduct himself, if he were elected, that he, like his predecessor, would be returned each time by a larger majority, and earn their support, not simply get it.

Mr. McWilliams announced that in all probability the Premier would be here during the campaign, and one, if not both, of the two new Cabinet Ministers.

Mr. F. D. Kerr followed with a short speech, in which he said that he wished to show which side he was on, but as the hour was late, he would not make a long speech, but would be heard from later.

The meeting then closed after the usual cheers.

A MUSICAL TREAT.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—I am a strong believer in the educative influence of good music and regret that we have not better hall facilities permitting of hearing such music. Our citizens should therefore take every opportunity that offers. The Meister Singers are coming here at an early date, I believe. Now, I have heard many good musical organizations, but I have never heard such perfection of concerted singing as that given by the Meister Singers at a recent concert I attended in Toronto, and I would ask the musical people of Peterborough to prepare themselves for such a musical treat as has never been offered before. I am a lover and, I believe, a pretty good judge of good music, and think I know what I am talking about. Though I have heard the Meister Singers only a short time ago, I shall hear them again when they come to Peterborough—if nothing prevents.

Yours, etc.

JAPANESE SAID TO BE PRESSED

Have to Bring Older Men Into Army Service.

Transferring the Sick and Wounded to Yin Kow—Many Hundreds of Men Sick.

Special to the Examiner.

Harbin, Dec. 5.—Chinese runners report the Japanese have recently transferred from Liao Yang to Yin Kow the sick and wounded from four divisions, amounting in all to many hundreds of men. The recent Japanese re-inforcements, it is declared, are much older than the men making up the divisions in the field, which is declared by the Russian officers to indicate that the Japanese Government is hard pressed to keep its field forces up to the requisite numerical strength.

DARING ROBBERY IN LINDSAY

P. J. Hurley's Boot and Shoe Store Robbed of Cash.

$240 was Taken While the Proprietor and Clerks Were in the Store.

Lindsay, December 4th. — Mr. P. J. Hurley, boot and shoe dealer of this town, was the victim of a daring and clever theirf who entered his store during the busy hours of business on Saturday evening and made away with about two hundred and forty dollars in bank bills. The cash desk stands at the rear end of the store, and piled in front of it from floor to ceiling, are a quantity of boxed boots and shoes, while at the end of the store, and within a few feet of the desk, is a door leading to the store. By this door the thief entered, unobserved by Mr. Hurley and his assistants, who were busily engaged with customers. The cash drawer being of ordinary make and not having a combination bolt, it was an easy matter to open it noiselessly and abstract the contents. When Mr. Hurley went to make some change the door was open, and the money gone. The case is in the hands of the police but as yet no arrests have been made.

SALVATION ARMY CHIEFTAIN HERE

Commissioner Coombes Will Visit Peterborough.

Adjt. Jennings, District Officer of the Salvation Army received a telephone message from Toronto this morning conveying the intelligence that Commissioner Coombs, the newly appointed Commandant of the Salvation Army in Canada will be in Peterborough next Sunday to conduct special services.

Peterborough is the first place outside of Toronto to be favoured with a visit from the new Canadian Chief, for he has been in Canada since his appointment only a few days.

Commissioner Coombs was in Canada a number of years ago attached to the Headquarters Staff, and was in Peterborough about 15 years ago, so that he will be remembered by many who were members of the army at that time. No details of the programme for Sunday have been announced as yet.

Fish for Advent.

LAST DAY AT WORLD'S FAIR

It was a Great Success From Every Standpoint.

Large Attendance on Saturday evening Ladies of St. John's Deserving of Congratulation.

It is a question in any of the great World's Fairs in history have been as successful as that which was brought to a close in the Opera House on Saturday evening. From every standpoint the Fair was a great success and the ladies who undertook and carried out the plan in such a creditable manner have every reason to feel gratified with the result of their efforts. There is an almost endless amount of work and worry in connection with an affair of this nature but nevertheless the proceedings were conducted in a business-like manner and in a manner reflecting much credit upon the management.

The attendance during the whole three days was large and the sale of goods was in proportion and by Saturday evening there remained but little to be disposed of by auction.

Saturday evening's programme was one of the most enjoyable of the series. Masters Carl and Frank Halpany opened the proceedings with a duet and were as usual heartily recalled. Mr. F. A. Lount sang in a very popular style, "The Mighty Deep," and in response to an encore sang "The Auld Plaid Shawl." Mr. R. N. Jolliffe sang "Heroes and Gentlemen." Mr. Jos. Halpany, the popular entertainer, sang a humourous song and responded to an encore with a recitation. Both numbers were effectively given. The Spanish dance was repeated and the young ladies received a recall, Mr. J. Laurence, of Toronto, sang a Scotch song in splendid voice, and for an encore recited "Mary had a Little Lamb." The Japanese gentlemen's chorus was in fine voice and their number was heartily encored. Mr. Legg, the soloist, sang his part in splendid fashion and as one of the ladies remarked, looked "just too cute for anything." The chorus was of the the most popular numbers presented throughout the Fair.

The "Three Little Maids" again scored a success in their trio and received prolonged applaudits and in response to which Messrs. Hughes-Charles, Halpany and Lount sang "Three Little Boys," in which, as far as possible, they imitated the actions of the maidens. This number was very ludicrous and simply brought down the house. Mr. Halpany's "pose" at the conclusion was very effective.

Mr. Laurence's second number was "Mary of Argyle" which he sang with expression and good taste.

The closing number was the "Sunflower Chorus" with solo by Master Fred Seymour. The boys sang well and an encore was demanded.

At the conclusion of the programme an auction sale was held, Mr. R. M. Dunnistoun making an ideal auctioneer.

The ladies are unable at present to give the amount of the proceeds, but this will be announced in a few days.

The Examiner extends congratulations to the ladies of St. John's Church, under whose auspices the Fair was held. It was a gigantic undertaking and the manner in which it was carried out was one deserving of every laudation.

THE CANAL FROM GEORGIAN BAY

Minister of Marine and Fisheries Says, It Will be Completed.

Detroit, December 5th. — The Canadian revenue cutter Vigilant, arrived here to-day to lay up for the winter. On her trip from Toronto, she carried Hon. Raymond Prefontaine, Canadian Minister of Marine and Fisheries, and several officials of the department. Minister Prefontaine expressed confidence that the Canadian Parliament of 1906 would take final action favourable to the beginning of work on the proposed canal from Georgian Bay.

CRESSMAN'S, PETERBORO'

INTEREST IN ELECTRIC SMELTING

Examiner's Report Interests Detroit Millionaire.

Writes for Maps of Iron Mines in Peterborough County.

The publication in the Examiner some weeks ago, of the fact that there was a probability of the Blairton iron mine being re-opened and worked in the near future, and also that the ore would in that event, be smelted here by the new electric process, has created considerable interest not confined to the immediate vicinity of Peterborough. The Dominion Department of Mines has written for further information and has in other ways shown an interest in the project.

To-day a communication was received from Detroit from a gentleman who saw the article in the Examiner, and who asked to be supplied with maps of the iron fields in Peterborough county, and represented a Detroit millionaire mine owner, who was interested in the iron mines in this county, and who wished to get in touch with the new movement as reported in the Examiner.

KALADAR MINES RAILWAY LINE.

A Spur of the C. P. R. Will be Built to This Mine.

Peterborough Capitalists Interested in Property—Sixty or Seventy Miles of Railway.

A despatch from Marmora says that during the past week or so a party of surveyors has been engaged surveying a new route for the proposed spur to be built by the C.P.R. to the mining properties in Kalaedar and Elsevir. According to the original survey the spur was to branch off from the main line of the C.P.R. at a point about two miles west of Kalaedar station and run in a north-westerly direction to the Smith property, lot 8 in the first concession of Kalaedar, now owned by the American Asbestos Co., of Buffalo. The terminus would be about seven miles north-west of Bridgewater. The line would also touch the Peebles property, owned by the Cumnings Cement Co., of Akron, N. Y., as well as some other valuable properties. It will be between sixty and seventy miles long.

—Mr. R. M. Roy has on exhibition some very fine pictures of the booths at the recent World's Fair.

WHERE CANADA LEADS.

The splendid success met with by Canadian Exhibitors of Live Stock at the World's Fair St. Louis, should be a source of gratification and pride and is unparalleled in the history of the Fair. In horses, cattle, sheep and swine the Canadian exhibit was exceptionally good, while in poultry they practically swept the boards. Throughout the fair the Canadian building, wherein was located the office of the superintendent of the Canadian exhibit, G. E. Cottrell, of Milton, Ont., was thronged with visitors. A happy feature was the number of the reception rooms for the comfort of the guests, a feature which was wanting in most of the buildings erected by other nations and states. Mr. Cottrell, with his assistants, was untiring in his efforts to promote the interests of the exhibitors. In his report to be submitted to the Dominion Department of Agriculture, Mr. Cottrell points out that in cattle and horses Canada won over half the total prize money offered. This triumph recalls the splendid record in the way of prize winning made by Canada at the World's Fair, Chicago. It is additional proof of the intelligence, enterprise and initiative of the farmers and stock breeders of Ontario—for it is to be noted that of the some score or more of successful exhibitors all but two are from this province.

The success referred to is also a high tribute to the excellence of the manner in which the Ontario Government has looked after interests affecting the breeding of improved stock, through the medium of the Agricultural College, and the allied associations specifically designed and specially provided to promote the same objects. Not only has the assistance been directly extended, but indirectly the higher level attained by the farming community generally has developed a spirit of pride in their calling and an ambition to advance in lines allied to purely agricultural operations.

In this connection it may be of interest to show what a wide spread educative influence is exercised by the Agricultural College. Mr. F. W. Broderick, a recent graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, has has been appointed to a position on the staff, of the Dominion Seed Department. There are now three of the college graduates on the staff of the Montana State Experimental Station, Messrs. F. S. Linfield, Director of Agriculture; [illegible] J. Elliott, in charge of the dairy work, and Alfred Atkinson, who has just been appointed agronomist. Mr. A. P. Ketchen, who graduated last year, has been appointed to the editorial staff of The North-west Farmer, published at Winnipeg.

It may be argued by some that it is unprofitable work to educate students at the college and then have them take positions in a foreign country. Apart from the evidence thus afforded of the solid educational work done at the Agricultural College, it is to be suggested that clever young Canadians taking such positions especially in the Western State can do much as immigration agents for Canada. Not only are they a proof that Canadians have the advantage of exceptionally good educational institutions, especially in agriculture, but they like all Canadians do not change their loyalty to home when they change their flag; and we may expect the story of the agricultural resources of Canada, of our boundless wheat fields and unexcelled facilities for offering homes to ambitious settlers to lose nothing in its telling. The pupils in American institutions whom these Canadians teach, will carry to the various places from which they come, impressions of Canada which may easily influence them to become productive citizens of the Dominion.

COLLECTING CABINET MATERIAL.

Conservative journals have been in the way of resenting very strongly any hint that Mr. Whitney, as leader of the Conservative party, was handicapped in his race for power by scarcity of Cabinet material in his following. Yet the Toronto News has the hardihood to report that a deputation of Conservatives waited upon Mr. Whitney, asking if he would be willing to take Sir William Ralph Meredith and Mr. John Ross Robertson into the Cabinet, he expected to be called upon to form after the elections — the only optimism, by the way which Mr. Whitney ever indulges. Mr. Whitney takes the matter into consideration, to that extent stealing the late Sir Oliver's clothes. It would be interesting to hear the remarks from some of Mr. Whitney's present followers, who have been nursing the idea of their being called into Mr. Whitney's Cabinet—in the distance.

A REVOLUTION IN BUILDING.

The decision of the Ottawa University authorities to construct of Portland cement the new building which is to replace the structure that was destroyed a year ago by fire, marks a novel and interesting departure in the architecture of the capital.

Tasteful aesthetic and charming as many of the public and private residences in the capital are, they are of stone—limestone, sandstone, and stone of other varieties—and the perishable character of the material is only too apparent already, although they have stood the test of less than half a century, in the evidences of decay, the crumbling cornices, the broken architraves, the blighted capitals, and mouldering arches.

Here we are to have a structure which, although faced with beautiful grey limestone, will consist of material that will be even more durable than the oldest forms of granitic boulders that are to be found in nature.

And what infinite possibilities does the dawn of a new building age, as typified in this new material, not hold out!

Instead of building for a few years, or at the most a few score years, as we are doing now, we have the prospect of raising structures that will defy time itself—structures that are absolutely fire proof, impervious to nature's processes of decay, and so economical in price that in point of cheapness alone the material is bound to supersede all other materials on the market.

And when we look a little further afield than our city structures, which may indeed, although we hope and believe otherwise, outlast the race, as have done the remains of the cities of Zululand and the old Aztec monuments in Central America, we can conceive to what use this cement or ferro-concrete may be put in giving a durability to railway structures—to stations, bridges, culverts and other works, that has been unknown before.

In the National Transcontinental Railway, for instance, there would seem that an admirable opening is afforded for the use of cement, and indeed one can hardly imagine a sphere of industrial activity in which it may not play a part in the future.

SOME CENSUS FIGURES.

The long expected second volume of the 1901 census report has just been issued from the Dominion printing bureau. The volume deals with the natural products, including agricultural, mining and fishing industries. The number of occupiers of farms holding less than one acre is 33,615, and the number holding from one acre to less than five acres, is 29,240, the average size of lots being 1.20 acres. Of the whole number of occupiers of lots 55,183 are owners; 13,736 are tenants, and 666 are owners and tenants; these of the last class being so described when part of the land is held in fee and part by lease. The occupiers of farms embrace 18,331 who hold five to ten acres; 81,243 who hold 11 to 50 acres; 156,826 who hold 101 to 200 acres; and 64,655 who hold 201 acres and over, the average size of the 471,823 farms being about 134 acres. The number of owners is 416,236, of tenants, 33,952, and of owners and tenants, 21,617. Taking 224,517,227 acres as the land area of the provinces and territories whose census of agriculture has been enumerated, the extent occupied as farms and lots is only 7.28 per cent of the whole. The land owned is 96.70 per cent., and the land leased or rented is 9.30 per cent., of the land occupied as farms and of the relatively small area occupied as lots 82.66 per cent. is owned, and 17.32 per cent. is leased or rented.

14TH BATTERY'S GREAT RECORD.

In Field Fire Effect Took Place Higher Than Permanent Batteries.

Officers are to be Congratulated—Warm Praise From Inspector of Artillery.

The announcement that the 14th Midland Field Battery had won the first price for general efficiency, is an occasion for a review of the record of the Battery, which was practically reorganized in 1901, in which year it was equipped with the old nine pound muzzle loaders, and was near the bottom of the list. In 1902 a local camp was held at Cobourg; as the Battery did not take part in the firing competition they were not eligible in efficiency competition. In 1903 they camped in Deseronto, and where they succeeded in taking first place in the firing competition, winning four Challenge Cups, and although they did not compete with A and B Batteries of the Permanent Force, they made higher scores than they did. This was quite phenomenal. The Inspector of Artillery in his report stated: "It is a matter for congratulation that the 14th Field Battery took such a high place in fire effect — higher even than the Permanent Batteries. This I consider due entirely to careful, systematic training in laying, fire discipline and ranging." The same year the Battery stood second in efficiency. In 1904 the Battery had their annual training at Cobourg. As arrangements could not be made by the Department of Militia, none of the Batteries competed for fire effect, so that the figures for the year's efficiency are entirely for practical work in camp. The results this year are more remarkable from the fact that four new officers were added to the Battery, and one section (one-third of the rank) and stationed at Campbellford, were entirely new to the work. The citizens of Peterborough should justly feel proud of their Field Battery, and every encouragement should be given to the officers and members of the corps. After the completion of the new armoury the guns and equipment will probably be stored here.

The officers of the Battery are: Lt.-Col. N. F. MacNachtan, in command; Capts. R. Cairns, W. C. Ackerman and E. A. MacNachtan; Lts. A. A. Mulholland, F. M. Gifford, and A. B. Colville; Vet. Capt. J. W. Fisher; Vet. Lt., H. C. S. Elliott.

BETTING IS ILLEGAL ACT.

Maker and Stakeholder Each Liable to a Fine of $1,000

Judge Mulvena, of Sherbrooke, Que. Makes an Interesting Declaration.

Those who are addicted to placing wagers on the result of election contests may save more money than they are likely to make by heeding the warning contained in the following item:

Gustave Richard, President of the Fisher Club in Sherbrooke, has been bound over for trial before the Court of King's Bench as the result of a bet in connection with the recent Federal election in Sherbrooke.

Richard bet with one Langis that a certain candidate would secure a majority of 800 in the city of Sherbrooke. He gave his cheque instead of cash to the stake-holder. He lost. When Langis presented the cheque it was refused, as Richard had no funds. Richard refused to make it good. Then followed an action on the charge of obtaining valuable security by false pretenses.

Judge Mulvena, in committing Richard to trial pointed out that the argument had been advanced that because this was an illegal transaction, and an illegal bet, that any fraudulent act committed by the accused in connection with that act, could not be punished. There was nothing in that argument. The law provided for the punishment of any one who makes a bet, as well as the stakeholder, in an election contest. Both were liable to a fine of $1,000. If anyone chose to take the matter up and lodge a complaint against them they were liable to be punished under that section of the law. That did not mean that while something illegal was done, if fraud was proven in the accomplishment of it, the party committing it could not be punished.

NEW LINE WILL BE CONSTRUCTED

C. P. R. Determined to Construct Railway Along the South.

In Accordance With Their Policy of Building Lines in This Province.

Additional information with reference to proposed extension to the C.P.R. in Ontario, is afforded in the following despatch from Ottawa:— It seemed that the portion of Ontario that is interesting the C. P. R. most in this respect is the strip that lies between Peterborough and Cobourg and Toronto and Belleville. The probability is that any addition made to tap this district will be in the form of a loop leaving the main line somewhere near Central Ontario Junction, taking in the towns along the lake shore between and including Belleville and Whitby, and regaining the main line again at a point near Toronto. It may be remembered that about a year ago a deputation composed of the Mayors of those towns waited on Sir Thomas Shaughnessy at Montreal and urged that the C. P. R. build a tributary line to serve their district in direct competition with the G. T. R. Sir Thomas told them at that time that the proposal would receive full consideration, and it was even understood that something would be done. It may be taken as granted that the C. P. R. will enter this particular field, but just where and when are questions that the management prefer not to speak positively about. Since the Grand Trunk Pacific project became a certainty the C. P. R. have secured the line that runs from Burkton to Bobcaygeon and another that runs from Port Burwell to Ingersoll. They have begun the Guelph-Godrich and Toronto-Sudbury branches, and it is morally certain that as soon as the time seems propitious they will increase their hold on Ontario in other sections.

WATER FILTER FOR LINDSAY

$20,000 Will Have to be Spent to Purify Water.

Drinking Fluid is at Present of Unsatisfactory Quality—A Live Question.

To the average visitor to Lindsay, it would seem that the mere fact of residence in Scugogville would drive the citizens to drink — strong drink — but when one adds to the funereal air that pervades that peacefully somnolent settlement, the reptilian character of the water provided for domestic and beverage purposes, the wonder is that every Lindsayite is not carrying a more or less substantial "jag," that is, if one accepts as correct the Lindsay Warder's description of the civic thirst-slaking element, which is as follows: The Warder says:

The time is drawing near when the citizens of Lindsay will be asked to vote $20,000 to put in a filtering plant to keep the weeds, bass bugs, water spiders, and those more ferocious specimens of reptile life, that infest the Scugog, the colons, the streptococci, rhomboids, and — these are bad actors, or at least the experts give them a hard name — to keep these and the extract of dead horse and some other objectionable flavourings, outside the tank from which we (or some of us) quench our thirst is the object for which the people of Lindsay are going to be asked to put up the $20,000.

Now, people of refined taste, such as our citizens are, do not like to absorb the aforementioned Scugog ingredients of one sort and another, when they take a drink; but neither do they like to hand out $20,000, under the inspiration of a thirty-mill rate and a deficit. But it is a difficult case — a case of being not exactly between the devil and the deep sea, so much as between the devil fish and the shallow river. The water is bad — so bad that a drop of it in a glass of whiskey will make a man drunk. To furnish a better supply is a task that has to be done. It MUST be done. How to do it—there's the rub.

From the above literary analysis of the civic water supply of our northern neighbour one can reasonably assume that if the Lindsay citizens do not drink whiskey or beer, they certainly absorb a good deal of bug-juice.

Paid the Interest.

Sault Ste. Marie, Dec. 5.—The best evidence of the prosperity and progress of the reorganized industries at Sault Ste. Marie is the fact that their financial liabilities are being met. The first half year's interest on the loan of $2,000,000, at five per cent., guaranteed by the Ontario Government by the act passed last session, and amounting to $50,000, was paid when it fell due in November. There is no sign that this gratifying progress will not continue. The various works are in full swing, the pay list for October showing 3,984 persons were busily employed, and the amount of wages paid aggregating $127,000.

BALLOT BOX MIX UP

Wrestler Hawkeye Returned the Wrong Box.

MARK TOM BENSON'S BALLOT

Byron O. Lott's Request to His Brother Philip—Also Tried to Induce Him to Omit Vital Portions of the Oath When Administering It to a Certain Voter—Case Adjourned Till Friday.

Belleville, Dec. 5.—Evidence was given before Magistrate Wood Saturday that the Chicago wrestler, Hawkeye, who was deputy at Ardoch, did not hand back to the returning officer after the election the same ballot-box that was issued to him. The question arises, What became of the original box? The substituted box is, however, an "innocent" one of the standard type. Philip Lott gave some new evidence against Byron O. Lott, his brother, who, he says, endeavored to induce him to mark the ballots of certain voters, so that he could identify them, and also tried to induce him to omit vital portions of the oath when administering it to a certain voter. Philip immediately posted Mr. Porter's scrutineer to demand that the full oath be administered. A large number of ballots, which were found to be spoiled when required for use, had been handled just before by Byron O. Lott.

Question of Telegrams.

William Forsyth, telegraph agent at Harrowsmith, was recalled, and asked to produce telegrams. He objected, stating that the telegraph company did not wish to disclose private information contained in telegrams. Col. William N. Ponton appeared for the Great North Western Telegraph Company. He said the subpoena did not call for specific telegrams which are germain to the issue. What had telegraph messages between Vance and Shibley to do with the libel case under investigation? The company claimed no special privilege, and if specific telegrams were called for they would be produced. The court might give an order protecting the company from the consequences of producing private telegrams in the custody of the company. Mr. DuVernet quoted the case of Dwight and Macklan, in which the judges had very strongly taken the view that the company was bound to produce telegrams called for. He was agreeable to the court giving an order protecting the telegraph company, and he would agree also to specify the telegrams he wanted.

The magistrate said it would be unseemly to limit the scope of the investigation now, as both sides had been given every facility. Mr. McCamon objected to this remark. He had endeavored to prevent the investigation wandering far afield in order to bring in persons to be smirched. The magistrate said he was not learned in the law, and if he had erred in his decision it was owing to his lack of knowledge, and not a desire to do an injustice. He gave an order protecting the telegraph company, and the telegrams were produced as follows:

Telegrams Produced.

"Aug. 2.—To James Vance, 200 Cottingham street, Toronto: Mr. Shibley will be in Kingston Friday or Saturday: (Sgd.) H. A. Cook."

"Aug. 3.—To H. A. Cook, Harrowsmith: Can you arrange for Shibley to meet me Kingston Friday or Saturday. Answer. (Sgd.) Jas. Vance."

"Aug. 3.—To James Vance, 200 Cottingham street, Toronto: Arranged for Shibley to meet you Kingston on Thursday. (Sgd.) H. A. Cook."

"Sept. 19.—To Alex. Smith, 48 Sparks street, Ottawa: Arrange meeting with Mr. Emmerson after 5 this evening if possible. (Sgd.) W. J. Shibley."

"Oct. 10.—To Geo. P. Graham, 48 Sparks street, Ottawa: Mulholland and Farley, Ottawa, to-morrow. Their representations must be heeded. (Sgd.) B. O. Lott."

"Ottawa, Oct. 31.—To B. O. Lott, Anson, Ont.: Grand Trunk have agreed. Hunters' excursion tickets will be good going on Nov. 4. They should be bought on or before this. Give this wide publicity. (Sgd.) Geo. P. Graham."

"Mountain Grove, Nov. 1.—To W. J. Shibley, Harrowsmith: Send rig to Verona to-night for me. (Sgd.) W. J. Woodruff."

"Toronto, Nov. 1.—To W. J. Shibley, Harrowsmith: Am surprised that you have not answered my letter. (Sgd.) James Vance."

"Anson, Nov. 2.—To Geo. P. Graham, 48 Sparks street, Ottawa: Is Carr coming? If so, must meet him. Ivanhoe; answer. (Sgd.) B. O. Lott."

Boxes Were Changed.

Daniel Ross, express agent at Bancroft, told of delivering a package, supposed to be the bogus ballot boxes, to Brenner, and then W. J. Franklin, returning officer for Frontenac, was called. He said that owing to the change in the boundaries of the riding it was necessary for him to order a number of extra boxes, which were made in Kingston. A sensation was created when Mr. Franklin said the box given to Deputy Hawkeye was a regulation galvanized iron box, and the one Hawkeye returned was made of ordinary tin. This is the box discovered by Councillor Tapping in the Kingston Court House with the label "Clarendon and Miller, No. 2," on it.

Mr. O'Flynn asked Mr. Franklin if he had examined the material of all the boxes given out. Witness said he did not; but he would swear that the box produced was not the one given to Hawkeye.

P. Forsyth, Mr. Franklin's election clerk, said on Nov. 8 he noticed that the wrong box had been returned by Hawkeye. He had no doubt that the box was not the one given out. The letters "E. R." were on the new boxes given out, and "V.R." on the old ones.

To Mr. DuVernet he said he did not disclose to the authorities what the professional wrestler had done. He did not return the tin box to the custody of the court house, but put a label on a proper box.

Avery Was Suspicious.

Meissar Avery, member-elect for Frontenac, said he received notice from the returning officer that Hawkeye and others who were not legal voters were to act as deputies, and he made objections to the returning officer. He told Franklin that these men were evidently being sent out to do something crooked.

James Parkinson, Dominion Government detective, narrated the circumstances of the finding of the "drowned" ballot boxes in Lake Loberridge on Monday last. He found nine boxes, but search for the tenth was unsuccessful. While at Bancroft he saw Paddy Moore and asked him if he had any boxes. Paddy said: "No, he would not keep any of those things around." Moore did not deny knowing anything about the boxes. Mr. Parkinson saw Moore again in the evening and he denied knowing anything about the boxes. Weese had seen Moore in the meantime.

Moore Exonerates Weese.

Paddy Moore was recalled. He said in the interval between two meetings with Mr. Parkinson he saw Weese, but County Constable Duffins was present at the time. He did not think the constable had asked him fair and square in the morning if he knew anything about the boxes. He swore positively that he had not talked over his evidence with Weese. Weese had not spoken to him about kissing his thumb. He had not heard that Byron Lott said it was not necessary to give Paddy Moore a box, as he knew how to do the trick without one. He did not boast in a barroom in Bancroft that he and Weese were going to put it all over Brenner.

Phil Lott was called. He knew Weese but had never seen Moore before. He had had several talks with Byron about Moore and Weese. Byron said Moore was pretty good at the job. He could do good work and nobody could catch him at it. He said almost the same about Weese. Byron said Moore did not need a bogus ballot box as he "could steal 'em blind without it." Byron said Harryett would have to have four or five bogus boxes in his district.

Told to Mark the Ballots.

Phil then said he was deputy at Springbrook on election day, and when the poll opened he threw a bunch of ballots to the Conservative scrutineer to count them, and one bunch to the Liberal scrutineer. One bunch had 100 ballots and one had 99. The ballots were recounted and it was found that one ballot, No. 1,754, was missing from the middle of one bunch. There were also punches on the ballots and a mark on the edge. This would spoil the ballots. Byron Lott came to the poll to act as scrutineer, and while the vote was being taken Byron passed a note over the table to Phil. The note, which he handed to the court, read:

Byron handed the note to him early in the morning, before the bogus boxes in the barn were missed. At that time Byron thought Phil intended to perjure himself. Byron wanted Phil to strike out a clause of the oath to enable his brother-in-law, Will Brown, to vote. Byron marked the clause in the book. Phil informed the Conservative scrutineer, Thompson, of the scheme, and advised him to see that the whole oath was administered. Brown swallowed the whole oath. At this poll Mr. Porter got a majority of 59. The poll was legally conducted.

Butler Called.

Dr. Butler of Marmora was called. He said one day last week Dan Neill told him there were two of the bogus boxes in Marmora at the Royal Hotel, and he saw them. Dr. Butler was a deputy in the election.

Charles Forestall of Rawdon, said he saw Rendol Snell a couple of days after the election, but he denied that Snell had told him anything about the boxes. Snell is the license inspector for North Hastings.

Only one witness was heard at the afternoon session.

Rendol Snell, License Commissioner, in reply to a question, said he had not told Forestall that he knew of a "scheme on" in the elections. He could not have told him so for he knew of no such scheme. He was talking with Phil Lott the day before the election, when he asked Phil if it was safe to bet on the election. Phil hinted that he was going to make the votes count at his poll. He denied that he had made a bet, and when he found the extra ballots could be secured called it off. He might have told Forestall something about Phil Lott, but he could not remember what it was.

Court then adjourned till Friday next.

Indigestion and Headache.

Mr. Duncan McPherson, Content, Alta., writes: "I was for many years troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, and derived no relief from the many remedies that I used. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after taking four boxes the result is that I am once more in the full enjoyment of the blessings of good health."

Commuted to Life Sentence.

Ottawa, Dec. 5.—At a meeting of the Cabinet on Saturday, Sir Richard Cartwright presiding, it was decided to commute the sentence of death of Slaughter, the Windsor negro, to penal servitude for life.

JAPS RENEW FIGHT

Bombard Russians on Port Arthur's Western Hills.

FIGHTING WAS HAND TO HAND

Japanese Must Take Fortified Cliffs That Are Really the Northwesterly Walls of the City—Ready For the Baltic Fleet—More Russian Boats—Russians Seize On Steamship Japs.

Tokio, Dec. 5.—Fighting was resumed at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon for the possession of the hills on the westerly side of Port Arthur proper. The Russian batteries on these crests were bombarded from Shungshoo Mountain and 203-Metre Hill, and at dark Gen. Nogi's infantry seized the lower slopes.

Hand to hand fighting immediately began for possession of the crests and when the last bulletin was received at midnight a desperate engagement was going on for possession of the fortified cliffs that are really the northwesterly walls of the city.

Until these are taken the Japanese infantry cannot proceed from Pali Mountain toward Golden Hill, nor can the trenches be continued south from Keekwan Mountain. Four battalions of infantry from the trenches of Shungshoo and three battalions from the crests of Metre Hill took part in this assault.

It is believed here there will be at least two days of continuous fighting before the last of the Russian redoubts can be taken, but as the enemy has not more than 3,000 men able to take the field there is no doubt whatever of success in the battle now on.

Ready For Baltic Fleet.

Tokio, Dec. 5.—Most interesting news developed in the Navy Department yesterday and proves that the Russian fleet in Port Arthur harbor must be so disabled that it is no longer a menace to the Japanese cruisers lying outside the harbor. For three weeks there has not been a single Japanese battleship in the Bay of Corea.

When it became certain that the Baltic fleet was really bound for the Yellow Sea Admiral Togo silently took the battleships to Sasebo, where they went into dry dock, received all necessary repairs and were reapainted. The news was made known Saturday afternoon, but only after the last of the first-class battleships, the Asahi, had proceeded toward the Gulf of Corea. Admiral Togo's flagship, the Mikado, sailed from Sasebo on Thursday, and was followed by the Shikishima and Fuji. It is evidently the purpose of the Japanese admiral to meet the Baltic fleet where the Sea of Japan and the Yellow Sea meet.

There the battle must take place. The Russians cannot go around Japan, as the northern sea is frozen over hundreds of miles from Valdivostock. As Port Arthur will have fallen before the Baltic fleet can arrive near Japan, the Japanese admiral will have, besides his battleships, nine armoured cruisers and 11 protected cruisers to engage the Russian fleet.

Russians At Jibutil.

Jibutil, French Somaliland, Dec. 5.—A Russian fleet, consisting of thirteen warships and nine transports, in command of Rear-Admiral Voellersam, is anchored outside the harbor, coaling.

More Russian Boats.

Brest, Dec. 5.—The Russian torpedo boat destroyer Prousseitelny sailed yesterday for Tangier. The Russian cruisers Olog and Launrud and the transport Okean have arrived here. The cruiser Rion and two torpedo boat destroyers have sailed for Algiers.

Shots On Japs Who Slept.

Mukden, Dec. 5.—All day Friday Russian siege guns bombarded villages occupied by the Japanese to the east of the railroad, and early yesterday morning to the west of the railroad, Don Cossacks routed the Japanese south of Lidatoun and captured eight guns.

When volunteers were called for from two infantry regiments every man stepped forward, and the Cossacks, in chorus, asked not to be left behind. At 2 a.m. the men advanced, sometimes crawling and sometimes running.

The party divided and attacked the Japanese position from two sides. The Japanese were sound asleep and did not even have time to raise a cry before all was over.

The Russians then advanced upon a battery, at which all the Japanese were asleep except the sentinels. The Russians encircled the battery and attacked from the rear.

The Japanese rushed half dressed from their tents, only to be received by spears and bayonets. The fight lasted only a few minutes, when the whole camp broke and fled in a wild panic leaving eight guns.

One Captain Forbidden.

Cardiff, Dec. 5.—It is stated that the captain of the German collier Captain W. Menzell has been forbidden by the Government to ship another cargo of coal from here.

Panama and Uncle Sam.

Panama, Dec. 5.—The differences between the United States and Panama, which made necessary the visit of United States Secretary of War Taft to the isthmus was settled yesterday by the issuance of an executive order signed by Secretary Taft for President Roosevelt and assented to in a letter by President Amador of Panama.

Body Lies in State.

Cape Town, Dec. 5.—The body of the late Paul Kruger is lying in state in the Huguenot Memorial Building, where it is daily visited by great crowds.

We Paid $100,000

For Liquozone, Yet We Give You a 50c. Bottle Free.

We paid $100,000 for the American rights to Liquozone; the highest price ever paid for similar rights on any scientific discovery. We did this after testing the product for two years, through physicians and hospitals, in this country and others. We cured all kinds of germ diseases with it—thousands of the most difficult cases obtainable. We proved that in germ troubles it always accomplishes what medicine cannot do. Now we ask you to try it—try it at our expense. Test it as we did; see what it does. Then you will use it always, as we do, and as millions of others do. You will use it, not only to get well, but to keep well. And it will save nearly all of your sickness.

Kills Inside Germs.

Liquozone is not made by compounding drugs, nor is there alcohol in it. Its virtues are derived solely from gas—largely oxygen gas—by a process requiring immense apparatus and 14 days' time. This process has, for more than 20 years, been the constant subject of scientific and chemical research.

The result is a liquid that does what oxygen does. It is a nerve food and blood food—the most helpful thing in the world to you. Its effects are exhilarating, vitalising, purifying. Yet it is a germicide so certain that we publish on every bottle an offer of $1,000 for a disease germ that it cannot kill. The reason is that germs are vegetables; and Liquozone—like an excess of oxygen—is deadly to vegetal matter.

There lies the great value of Liquozone. It is the only way known to kill germs in the body without killing the tissues, too. Any drug that kills germs is a poison, and it cannot be taken internally. Medicine is almost helpless in any germ disease. It is this fact that gives Liquozone its worth to humanity. And that worth is so great that we have spent over one million dollars to supply the first bottle free to each sick one we learned of.

Germ Diseases.

These are the known germ diseases. All that medicine can do for these troubles is to help Nature overcome the germs, and such results are indirect and uncertain. Liquozone attacks the germs, wherever they are. And when the germs which cause a disease are destroyed, the disease must end, and forever. That is inevitable.

Asthma, Abscess—Anæmia, Acute Pain, Bronchitis, Bright's Disease, Bowel Troubles, Boils—Colds, Consumption, Chronic Ailments, Cancer—Cancer, Dysentery—Diarrhœa, Dandruff—Dumpy, Dyspepsia, Eczema—Erysipelas, Hay Fever—Influenza, Kidney Diseases, La Grippe, Liver Troubles, Lung Troubles, Malarial Neuralgia, Many Blood Troubles, Nose—Pneumonia, Quinsy—Quinsy, Rheumatism, Scrofula—Syphilis, Sore Throat, Throat Troubles, Tuberculosis.

50c. Bottle Free.

If you need Liquozone, and have never tried it, please send us this coupon. We will then mail you an order on a local druggist for a full-size bottle, and we will pay the druggist ourselves for it. This is our free gift, made to introduce you; for shows you what Liquozone is, and what it can do. In justice to yourself, please accept it to-day, for the places you under no obligation whatever.

Liquozone costs 50c. and $1.

REPORT AT TO-NIGHT'S MEETING

Mr. H. P. Kennedy Will Report a Recent Trip.

Important Meeting of Board of Education Will be Held To-night.

The meeting of the Board of Education to-night promises to be one of peculiar interest. The architect who was called in to look at the painting in the schools done during the summer vacation will be present and tell the Board the facts in connection with it. The committees which visited the towns in Western Ontario and Michigan recently on a tour of inspection of the Collegiate Institutes, will report through Mr. H. P. Kennedy, who, it is understood will present a full and complete report conveying the whole details of the plan to erect the Collegiate Institute and Armouries on the Separate School property between Murray and McDonel streets.

PETERBORO' GETS THE FACTORY

New Shovel and Tool Factory to be Built Here.

Directors of Company Meet the Manufacturers' Committee—Will Probably Take Site Intended for Lock Works

The site for the factory of the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, a limited stock company composed of local capitalists, is now practically assured for this town.

On Saturday afternoon the Directors of the company met the Manufacturers Committee of the Town Council regarding the securing of a site for the company's works in this town.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, president of the Shovel and Tool Company, and also president of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, addressed the committee, and informed the members that if arrangements could be completed in a few days with the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, and the Grand Trunk Railway System, the Lock Company intended to build their new works in the north end of the town, instead of on the site secured from the town at the junction of the C.P.R. and G. T. R. tracks, and if these arrangements were completed, the Lock Company, of which he was president, would release the town from the agreement entered into some time ago, by which the Lock Company was given the site on certain conditions being complied with.

As president of the Shovel and Tool Company, Mr. Stratton then applied for the site which the town had agreed to give the Lock Company, and which the latter would not require in the event of arrangements being made with the railway companies. He stated that the Shovel Company desired at once to proceed with the erection of its buildings, the first of which would be 65 by 224 feet in size, and it is expected that at first about 25 men will be given employment, and one hundred shovels, solid back and hollow, will be manufactured daily.

It was agreed by the committee on Saturday, and the Council will be so recommended, to grant the request of the deputation, and the site, which was some little time ago given to the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, under certain conditions, will, upon the release of the town from the agreement being given by the company, be given to the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company, upon the same terms as those provided in the bylaw passed by the Council giving the site to the old Peterborough Shovel Company, which did not materialize.

It is expected that the Mayor will shortly call a special meeting of the Council to consider the passing of a bylaw in accordance with the facts as stated.

If the arrangements between the Lock Company and the Street Railway, and the G.T.R., are completed satisfactorily, the new works of the Lock Company will be erected upon the Auburn property on the south side of the railway, along the Otonabee river, and the Shovel Company's works in the south end of the town, upon what is known as the Kennedy stock yards.

These two new iron-working factories will be erected in Peterborough in the near future, and assist in the combination of circumstances which will make Peterborough the greatest iron-working town in the province.

BOARD OF TRADE REGULAR MEETING

Will Discuss Municipal Matters To-morrow Night.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Trade will be held to-morrow night in the council chamber. The evening will be taken up with a discussion of municipal questions, made timely by the near approach of the municipal elections.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance of members of the Board at this meeting, as a number of very important questions will come up for discussion.

Friends at a Distance.

The Christmas card, calendar and booklet afford special pleasure to friends at a distance. They take the place of a personal greeting; and, when they are beautiful and artistic in design with delicate colouring, like those on view at stratton's bookshop, the pleasure is enhanced. Our display is in a section by itself, out of the crowds that throng the bookshop, where time and pleasure is afforded for thoughtful selection. A. H. Stratton & Co.

REV. MR. KETCHEN IN ST. PAUL'S

A Promising Young Divine Preached There Yesterday

A Probable Successor to Rev. J. A. Wilson as The Assistant Pastor

"The saddest thing in the world is complete happiness." "Perfect happiness is not possible, except through suffering."

These are two striking sentences taken from the sermon preached in St. Paul's church yesterday morning by Rev. H. B. A. Ketchen, who preached at both services in that church yesterday, and who may be the successor of Rev. J. A. Wilson in the assistant pastorate of the church, when the latter goes to St. Andrew's church, Hamilton.

Large congregations gathered at both services yesterday, and the sermons preached by the young man, who is a candidate for the position about to be vacated, were much appreciated by those who attended.

The text at the morning service was from Leviticus 23, 40: "And ye shall take you on the first day the boughs of goodly trees, branches of palm trees, and the boughs of thick trees, and willows of the brook, and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God seven days."

Rev. Mr. Ketchen is a fluent speaker, preaches entirely without notes, and does not confine himself to one particular spot on the platform, but walks from one side to the other, and frequently uses gestures to drive home his arguments. His language is pleasing, and the subject matter of his sermons is orthodox. The Christianity preached by him is of the practical kind, and finds its expression in Christian service. He said that the two trees mentioned in the text, palms and willows, represented the two controlling institutions of the human race, joy and suffering, and those were never far separated in the human life, and in fact, according to his argument, joy is only possible through sorrow.

The blessings of life were, he thought, accepted by the generality of people, as a matter of fact, and too little attention given to returning thanks.

And thus the things which are not pleasant, and which sometimes bring sorrow, should be received gladly, as we should thank God for sending them.

It is a very easy matter to return thanks for the things that give pleasure, but another matter when it comes to those which hurt, but which help the recipient into a larger Christian experience.

The speaker said that we should be thankful for the opportunity of passing through great perils.

Then the proof of our Christianity should be in the service rendered. The speaker pointed out the beauty of a life of service for others, who represent Christ in this world, and recalled the experience of men like the Earl of Shaftesbury and John Ruskin, who spent their time in loving service for their fellow-men, which, after all, was the true mark of a Christian.

Rev. H. B. A. Ketchem, who preached in St. Paul's church yesterday, and who will probably succeed Rev. J. A. Wilson in the assistant pastorate of that church, was born in Brucefield, Huron county, and was educated in Clinton Public School and Collegiate Institute. Later he went to Toronto where he attended Toronto University and took a course in Theology in Knox College from which he graduated. Interspersed with his university work he took commercial and stenographic courses.

In the spring he was offered assistantships at Woodstock and Winnipeg, Man. During last summer he supplied at St. Andrew's church, Chatham, and has had considerable experience in pulpit work, in which labours he has been successful.

He is a young man of good appearance and possesses decided ability, as was evidenced by his sermons yesterday.

A Young Man to Young Men.

Rev. Freeman J. Scott, B.A., the new pastor of the Murray street Baptist church, was greeted with a large attendance of men at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday. Mr. Williamson, in introducing the speaker, welcomed him most heartily to the association, and expressed the wish of all that his ministry might be of special help to the men of the town."

The address was on "Wisdom's Excellence," Mr. Scott dealing with the subject in a very helpful and impressive way. Before the song service Mr. E. S. McCoy played a sacred instrumental selection and Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe sang "Under His Wings," in his usual acceptable manner. Mr. Herd led the song service in which the men heartily participated.

The Bank of Toronto Corner Sold for About $75,000

May be an Indication of Peterboro's Future Prosperity—A Significant Purchase

A most important real estate sale was put through recently when Hon. Senator Cox purchased from the Bank of Montreal the property known as the Bank of Toronto corner, the rear of Mr. H. LeBrun's store, on Hunter street including the store premises of Mr. H. LeBrun, the Bank of Toronto offices, and the store of E. Brown & Co.

It is understood that the price paid for the property was in the neighbourhood of $75,000, which is an evidence of the fact that Peterborough real estate is increasing in value at a rapid rate.

There are those in Peterborough to-day who remember the time when the identical property which Senator Cox just purchased at the figure mentioned, could have been bought for a few tens of dollars.

The corner is one of the best in Peterborough, and the Bank of Toronto will continue to occupy their present premises at least until the present lease expires, which will not be for some years yet.

The purchase of this property by the Senator has another significance which should not, and no doubt will not be lost sight of and that is the fact that he has again in a very practical way shown his faith in the future of Peterborough. He is a man who is not going to tie up that amount of money in a property in a town where values are not going to increase, and this is a tangible proof that he is sanguine as to the future of Peterborough.

If the plans which the Cereal Company have under consideration, and which the Senator, as a director is familiar with, are carried out, Peterborough real estate will increase in value tremendously, and his purchase of this property, while it is not proof positive, is an indication which has some meaning, that the Senator is fairly well satisfied that the plans mentioned will materialize.

The property recently sold to Senator Cox has an historical past. There are those living here to-day who can recall the time when the property, which has just been sold for nearly three-quarters of a hundred thousand dollars, was a cedar swamp, and was considered as being of practically no value.

The Examiner is informed that in the early days, when Peterborough real estate was not as valuable as it is to-day, this identical corner changed hands for the modest sum of $10, and the seller considered that he had made a pretty good bargain.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson was the owner of the property prior to its purchase by the bank of Montreal, and it was he who built practically the whole of the buildings on it at the present time.

On George street instead of the building now occupied by H. LeBrun, there was a small building, but it was considerably enlarged, practically rebuilt, and the corner building erected.

The property extends 92 feet on George street, and 114 feet on Hunter street.

UNIVERSAL CHURCH SUFFERS A LOSS

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt's Reference to the Late Rev. Principal Caven.

Last night preceeding the sermon "The Last Judgment," Rev. E. A. Langfeldt made the following reference to the death of the Rev. Principal Caven, D.D.: "I should certainly come short of my duties as a minister in the Church of Christ, were I to lose this opportunity of giving expression of my sincere grief at the loss the universal church has suffered in the death of the Venerable Principal of Knox College, Rev. Dr. Caven. As has been said by many through the press, he belonged to the whole church, and every communion has lost by his death a true friend, who was broad-minded enough to appreciate and to credit the good everywhere. He was a great Canadian, a man of broad sympathies and views, a godly leader of men and his influence was always felt. A great scholar, yet a humble follower of Christ, whose example he endeavoured to imprint upon his walk and his life. We owe him a great debt for his unswerving loyalty to the integrity of the inspired word of God which he always masterly defended against destructive, higher criticism. With our Presbyterian friends we unite in mourning the loss of a truly great and noble man."

EASTERN MAN'S DEATH IN MANITOBA

Mr. Thomas Barrie, of Roseneath Died in Melita, Man.

Information comes from Melita, Manitoba, that on Friday, Nov. 18th, Mr. Thomas Barrie passed quietly away to the great beyond, after a brief illness of two weeks. Mr. Barrie went west two years ago from Roseneath, Ont., and during the past summer had been on the farm of Mr. Geo. Anderson. Mr. Barrie was of a quiet unassuming disposition and had made quite a number of friends during the short period of time he has been here. The funeral took place on Sunday to Melita Cemetery and was largely attended. The deceased was aged 38 and leaves a wife, one son and one daughter. He was a Presbyterian in faith and in politics a staunch Liberal.

ANNIVERSARY OF SUNDAY SCHOOL

Interesting Day in the Salvation Army Barracks.

Yesterday was Children's Day in the Salvation Army Barracks, and the annual anniversary of the Sunday school in connection with the Army was held.

In the afternoon the children of the school were out in full force, almost the whole membership of the school, about 125, being represented. The superintendent of the Sunday school, Mr. R. C. Braund, presided, and gave an address on Sunday school work, and the members of the school sang a number of solos, and other musical selections were given.

At night some of the nineteen workers in the school spoke on the work of the school.

To'night a good programme will be given in the barracks, when the anniversary will be continued.

The numbers on the programme will be as follows:

Opening songe ... ...Full brass band

ALD. BEST IS IN THE FIELD

Will Run for Mayor of Peterborough for 1905

DECIDED TO-DAY.

A Petition Signed by Nearly 600 Electors Presented to Him—He Decided to Run.

Ald. Best will be in the field for Mayor! This was decided this afternoon when at the Albany Club a petition signed by nearly 600 electors asking him to run for that office was presented to him by Mr. Adam Hall, and Ald. Best in response to this request consented to accept the nomination and stand for the office.

In a short address Mr. Best expressed his appreciation of the confidence shown in him by such a large number of electors and consented to the request.

He said that at a later date he would announce his platform, but was not prepared at the present time to go into details.

He was in favour of municipal ownership of as many of the public utilities as could be economically operated by the municipality, and recalled his record in the council in which that position has always been taken.

Ald. Best has been a member of the council practically ever since 1892 when he was first elected to represent the ward in which he lived. In 1893 he was out, but has been a member ever since, and he never sought the office of Mayor, although frequently asked to do so.

In 1901 he was made chairman of the special committee to arrange for the purchase of the water works, and the town ratified this agreement in the elections which took place in January, 1902. He has for some years been chairman of the Board of Works, and is familiar with that branch of the council's work.

Alderman Morrison was interviewed this afternoon, but would not say whether he would stand or not. He will probably make a statement later.

DANIEL FLYNN'S SUDDEN CALL

Heart Failure Caused Death at Clunan House This Morning.

Was Taken Sick Yesterday Quincy—Was Visiting His Brother.

A very sudden death occurred this morning at the Clunan House, when Mr. Daniel Flynn fell dead after a very brief illness.

The deceased was visiting his brother, Mr. Jas. Flynn, who has an interest in the business, and until yesterday morning was apparently in perfect health. He complained of a very sore throat yesterday, and upon examination it was found that he was suffering from quinsy. He retired last night, his condition not being considered serious, but this morning he experienced great difficulty in breathing and Dr. Coughlin was summoned. Before his arrival, however, the man was dead.

Dr. Coughlin attributed his death to heart failure and quinsy.

The late Mr. Flynn was well known in these parts. For fourteen years he and his brother James, were engaged in the hotel business at Havelock. About 18 months ago he went to the Northwest where he had a large ranch. He returned in September, since which time he has been visiting his brother in town.

The late Mr. Flynn was 36 years of age and was unmarried. He leaves two brothers, John of Vancouver, and James of town; and three sisters, Mrs. Robert Rice, of Medicine Hat, and Misses Annie and Lizzie of town.

The funeral arrangements had not been made upon going to press.

The Meister Glee Singers.

Exchange.—"It may be stated without exaggeration that the Canadian public have never yet heard anything in the art of singing to equal the delightful work of the Meister Glee Singers. It is due to them that the lost art of glee singing has been revived in England. They have had their imitators but never their equals. Their repertoire is a most comprehensive one, and includes specimens of the old English classical glee, quartettes, both grave and humorous, folk songs, harmonised airs and plantation melodies, with bouche fermee and imitation banjo accompaniments." They are assisted by Miss Ethel Henry and Mr. Roland Henry in musical sketches.

The Meister Quartette appears in the Opera House here on Monday evening next. Reserved seats 75c. and 50c. Plan opens Wednesday at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Tickets on sale at the Examiner office and Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

FROM SATURDAY'S LAST EDITION

THROWN FROM RIG TWO RIBS BROKEN

Mr. John Cadigan of Ennismore Victim Of Runaway Accident.

Three Other Parties had Very Narrow Escape From Injury—Runaway at Noon To-day.

A very serious runaway accident occurred about noon to-day, on the Communication Road, near Mr. Wm. Milburn's residence. Mr. John Cadigan, of Ennismore, was driving to market with his daughter, and another party, when his team took fright and dashed down the road at a terrific pace. The wagon was over-turned into the ditch, and the three occupants were thrown out. Only one of the party, however, Mr. Cadigan, sustained any injuries, but he had two ribs on the right side of his body broken.

The injured man was conveyed to Mr. Milburn's residence, and Dr. Coughlin and the Dan Spence ambulance of town were sent for. Mr. Cadigan was conveyed to the St. Joseph's Hospital, where he is doing as well as can be expected. It is thought that the broken ribs were pressing against the right lung, as the injured man was expectorating blood.

The frightened team, after overturning the wagon, proceeded on their mad career, and overtook Rev. Mr. McKinnon of the Gilmour Memorial, who was driving to town. His carriage was struck and the top knocked off. Mr. McKinnon was thrown to the ground but escaped without injury. Mr. McKinnon's horse also took fright and ran away, but was captured near Mr. Milburn's.

The parties who escaped injury were very fortunate to do so under the circumstances. Much sympathy is felt for Mr. Cadigan and a speedy recovery is hoped for.

COUNTY JAIL IN GOOD CONDITION.

Report of the Provincial Inspector on County Buildings.

No Insane in the Jail at Present Discipline and Management is Good.

It will be remembered that early in the week the Examiner stated that Dr. R. W. Bruce Smith was in town and inspected the County Buildings and other Institutions under his charge. His report on the jail has been received by Sheriff Hall, and is as follows:—

PETERBOROUGH GAOL.

I made an official visit of inspection to Peterborough gaol November the 28th.

On that date there were 19 male prisoners confined for various offences; six of the prisoners were awaiting removal to the Central Prison, the remaining were for minor offences and awaiting trial. I found four old men who should be taken care of in a House of Refuge, not in a gaol. Houses of Refuge are for the old and destitute poor; gaols are for the criminal class. Old age is not a crime, and I trust every effort will be made to discourage the sending of these old people to gaol instead of to a House of Refuge. I was glad to find that there were no insane confined in this gaol.

I made a complete inspection of the whole building and premises, and found the beds and bedding, corridors and cells, yards, water closets, drainage, ventilation and water supply quite satisfactory. The dietary is according to gaol regulations and the quality of the food is good. The cost of rations about 12c. per day, and the food is supplied by contract. There were no complaints in regard to the food nor its quality. I found there were about thirty suits of clothing in a very fair condition of repair.

I suggested that the floor in corridor four and the ceiling in the same apartment should be repaired as soon as possible. I also suggested that the use of stoves might well be done away with and a more modern and safer heating appliance put in use. I examined the gaol register and the other books and found they were properly and correctly kept. The discipline and management of the gaol impressed me favourably.

MR. DAN WHETUNG CROSSED THE ICE

Repeats His Achievement of Being First to Cross Chemong Lake.

Mr. Dan Whetung on Saturday repeated a feat which for the last quarter of a century he has accomplished, viz., that of being the first to cross Chemong Lake each fall on the ice.

This morning for the first time this winter Mr. Whetung, on his way to town, crossed the ice from Chemong to the Bridgenorth side, and according to his evidence, and he should know, the ice is perfectly safe, and from now on, unless, of course, a thaw sets in, Mr. Whetung will each day make the trip which he inaugurated this morning.

Naturally, Mr. Whetung is rather proud of the record that he has made for himself in this respect, a record which no one seems to be very likely to supersede him in the possession of.

O.H.A. NOW IN SESSION.

Annual Meeting Was Held on Saturday in Toronto.

LARGE GATHERING.

Special to the Examiner.

Toronto, Dec. 3.—The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association commenced in the Temple Building this morning when Clubs from all over the province were represented by delegates, who came here to discuss the many important amendments and to elect officers for the year. This is the first time in 5 years that there has been a contest for the office of President and Wm. Wyndam, of Hamilton, was the opponent of Jno. Ross Robertson. The delegates were at the place of meeting long before the scheduled time, and when the meeting was called to order nearly a hundred Clubs were represented. The outlook for the season is bright and there is sure to be a large increase in the number of Clubs competiting for championship honours, as several new ones were admitted this morning. The first business taken up was the reading of the reports. The President's address was a lengthy one, and contained a number of valuable ideas. At noon the meeting adjourned, when the delegates were entertained at luncheon by President Jno. Ross Robertson. At the afternoon session the amendments were discussed and many of them were passed.

When the President's report was adopted D. L. Derrrah spoke to it, stating that he wished to contradict many statements made in the report. He said that he must take exception to the autocratic manner which President Robertson conducted matters, and that it was through a packed meeting that Harry Peel's reinstatement had been rescinded. He went on to show that it was done through Toronto men on the Executive Committee, as there were five of them. This caused some discussion by the delegates.

The following are delegates registered up to noon, owing to some of the trains being late:—Oliver Craig, H. Morgan, Berrie; H. Mahoney, Belleville; W. H. Lillie, Cornwall; F. W. Wilson, Galt; Geo. D. Hunt, Hortons; W. E. Faley, Hamilton; D. J. Montague, Ingersoll; R. Williams, Ingersoll; J. D. Sinclair, Merlboree; H. Burns, Peterborough; F. D. Woodsworth, Morrisburg; O. N. Colquhoun, New Market; W. F. O'Hallahan, Preston; A. H. Outram, Prescott; J. S. Robertson, St. Georges; Dr. Peacock, Uxbridge; Dr. Gilmilan, Port Perry; J. C. Dennistoun, Victoria Harbour; R. Waldie, Paris; J. M. Martin, Parry Sound; D. J. Survor, St. Johns, London; J. Found, Varsity III; C. G. Herlod, Whitby; L. E. Marah, Woodstock; E. W. Price, Welland; G. C. Cooper, Waverleys; W. F. Oliver, Collingwood; J. A. Uselake, Port Hope; W. G. Wood, Argonauts; R. Parmenter.

TUG-OF-WAR.

The undersigned team will accept a challenge for tug-of-war during the month of December, from any team in town and would be particularly pleased to meet a team from the Cordage Co., the Wm. Hamilton Co., or the American Cereal Co., the stake to be twenty-five dollars and the Turf Club Cup provided the president of the Turf Club will consent to the cup being competed for. Doctors Said That Lumps and External Swellings Would Turn to Running Sores.

Mrs. Jacob Kachler, Zurich, Ont., says that

Burdock Blood Bitters

Saved Her from Many Years of Suffering.

She writes:—"How imagine how joyous and great was my surprise when a friend of mine told me that Burdock Blood Bitters would cure me, so that the lumps and external swellings, which the doctors told me would turn to running sores, would disappear. I took her advice, and can say that I have no doubt but that Burdock Blood Bitters has saved me from years of suffering. It is with the greatest of pleasure and with a thankful heart that I give this testimonial, knowing that Burdock Blood Bitters has done so much for me, and you are at perfect liberty to use this for the benefit of others similarly afflicted."

Burdock Blood Bitters is the best blood medicine on the market to-day, and is composed entirely of roots, herbs, barks and berries.

Sunlight Soap is recommended, by those who have investigated the different kind of soaps, as being the best and purest on the market. Those who have gone still further and tried the different methods state that the Sunlight way of washing is greatly superior to ordinary methods because it requires much less work and makes the clothes whiter and cleaner. Because Sunlight Soap is quite pure and free from adulteration it will not injure delicate fabrics or the user's hands.

NEW RAILWAY FOR PETERBORO'.

C. P. R. Asking for Power to Build More Lines.

"Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway" Wants Charter for Line to Pass Through Peterborough County.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has plans under way for the building of extensive branches in Ontario, according to notices in the Canada Gazette. A notice announces that incorporation will be sought for "The Georgian Bay and Seaboard Railway Company," with power to construct and operate a railway from a point on Georgian Bay between Port Severn and Penetanguishene, in a southeasterly direction through the Counties of Simcoe, Ontario, Victoria, Peterborough, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, and Lanark, or any of them, to a point of connection with the Ontario and Quebec Railway between Cavanville and Maberly, with such powers as are usually given to railway companies incorporated by the Parliament of Canada, and that the said works be declared to be for the general advantage of Canada.

MARKET PRICES

Plenty of Fowl for Sale on Saturday—What was Asked.

There was another large market on Saturday, with prices about the same as those of last week. There was a plentitude of fowl of all descriptions. The prices were:—Turkeys, from $1 to $2; geese, 90c to $1.25; chickens, 35c to 75c; ducks, 75c to $1.10; butter 17c to 20c; eggs, 22½c to 25c; potatoes, per bag, 75c; apples, per bag, 40c to 50c; dressed hogs, $5; live weight hogs, $4.85; beef, 5c and 6c; pork, 8c and 9c; mutton, 7c and 8c.

A Curious Elm Tree.

In South Brewer, Me., there is a curious elm tree. The tree is but twelve feet high, with large spreading branches reaching very near to the ground, and the most remarkable part are the great leaves, measuring 6½ by 10½ inches, which is considered to be of a remarkable size.

First American Carriage.

In Albany, N. Y., about 1814, the first American carriage was made, all previously used having been imported from England.

A Refined Compliment.

At the instant Queen Elizabeth of England alighted at Kenilworth, on a visit to Leicester, all the clocks in the castle were stopped, and by a delicate attention the hands continued to point toward the moment of her arrival, since no one was to take note of time during the royal sojourn there.

Hornets.

Hornets were the first users of wood pulp for paper manufacture. They make it from wood and leaf fiber, and there are both forethought and economy in tearing out the insides of their nest to make room for larger tiers of cells in which to raise their young and in using the material to enlarge the nursery.

Equestional.

Penelope—In Boston we saw the nicest thing. Pauline—What was it? Penelope—Oh, a slot machine. Now thing of a word, put in a penny, and out drops the correct pronunciation.

His Impudence.

Nell—Yes, he actually had the impudence to kiss me. Bell—The idea! Of course you were indignant. Nell—Oh, yes. Every time.

Moving Music.

A—Were you moved by her music? B—Yes. It amounted to that. I think we should have kept the flat for another year if it hadn't been for her.

THE CURFEW BELL.

Originally Rung Morning and Evening to Give the Time of Day.

The story of the curfew was but the unsupported assertion of one historian of the sixteenth century, which was repeated in prose and poetry till it was woven into the language. Like many other legends, there is just a grain of truth in it, but its suggested origin is false, the derivation of curfew is erroneous, and the scuttle shaped instruments which supported the theory were quite different articles of household use.

Probably the word is derived not from couvre feu, cover fire, but from carrefour, in old French spelling carfou, from the Latin for crossroads, and is the name of the morning and evening bell, which originally sounded from the crossroads or market places both in France and England simply to give the time of day. It was and is rung at 4 or 6 o'clock in the morning and at 8 o'clock in the evening. One inscription on an old bell runs thus:

I am called ye Curfue bell,
I ringers at VIII or more,
To send ye alle to bedde,
And wake ye up at IV.

Take no Risk With a Cold.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS MAY PROVE FATAL. THERE IS CURE FOR YOU IN

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

If you could depend on a cold passing off of its own accord it would be all very well to let it run its course. The risk is too great.

Consumption and pneumonia always have their beginnings in a cold.

If you take prompt means of curing every cold you will never be a victim of these or other fatal lung troubles.

Did you ever stop to think of it that way?

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is best known on account of its extraordinary control over croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and severe chest colds.

As a means of overcoming ordinary coughs and colds, throat irritation and the many diseases of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, it has made an enviable reputation for reliability.

Pleasant to take, thorough and far-reaching in action, and certain in its beneficial results, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should have a place in every house as a safeguard against consumption and other fatal lung diseases.

Mrs. L. Provost, Renfrew, Ont., states: "My fourteen-year-old boy had a very severe cold in the chest last winter, and I really though he was going to die. He coughed nearly all the time and sometimes would spit up blood. We had about given up all hope of his recovery, when I heard of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. After using one bottle there was a great change in his condition and I can positively say that he was completely cured by two bottles, and he has not been troubled since. I never saw medicine take such quick effect, and I can sincerely recommend it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box.

SOUTH AFRICA'S AUTOCRAT.

Lord Milner's Holiday Trip to Europe—His Position Does Not Bear Analytical Contemplation.

In a few weeks Lord Milner starts from Johannesburg on his holiday trip to Europe. The people do not know upon what date, and, strangely enough, the people do not seem to care.

Lord Milner's position is one which does not seem to bear analytical contemplation. It has become a habit almost of the loyalists of other days to shrink from any attempt at analysis of Lord Milner's policy. The men who a few years ago shouted themselves hoarse in their praises of the great Pro-Consul, the men whose support it was that strengthened the High Commissioner's hand in the troublous times when it needed support most—these men, representing the great political, and financial forces of South Africa, show a natural hesitation in bringing forward either argument or influence against the retention of His Excellency any longer in the sphere in which he has worked so much good for the Empire.

A Keen Opportunist.

That Lord Milner has accomplished much; that he has shown himself in the best sense a keen opportunist; that he has displayed to a remarkable degree the power to assimilate immediately the conditions which to former Ministers were merely vague and shadowy, and to grasp at once popular feeling—particularly when that feeling was one of aggression toward an ancient enemy—there can be no question.

Now Lord Milner is regarded by a section of the Colonists—and a section largely composed of your Rule-Britannia-Uitlander-Colonists of pre-war days—in very much the same manner as Mr. Chamberlain is regarded by the ultra-Tory set at St. Stephen's. They were with him—up to a certain point. Up to that point their interests coincided. They had one cause and a common shibboleth—if anything they shouted loudest. But that point has been reached and passed. Lord Milner's gallant company of encouraging loyalists recovering from their delirium recognized—as they might have done before—that their officers, the men who had led the cheering, and who had told them through recognized media what they thought and how, thinking as they did, they should act—these men were men of money.

So a large section repudiated their officers and stepped aside, confident that the Governor would follow suit. Lord Milner probably finds the same difficulty confronting him as his supporters of other days find. You cannot repudiate the capitalists of to-day who were the supporters of yesterday any more than you can brand as "autocratic" the qualities you were once pleased to applaud as "unswerving firmness." The malcontents note the absence of condition and fail to appreciate the absence of change in men and qualities—and of their failure is born a grievance which promises to make Lord Milner a most unpopular Governor and incidentally a casus belli in the threatened revolt of the democracy against the power of the omnipotent capitalist.

The fact that a great man's previous good works must go for nothing; that the wearing labors which rescued South Africa for the Empire should be lost sight of in a bitter controversy which has its origin in the question of Asiatic immigration; that popularity gained by firmness in advocating "pro" should be extinguished by an equally firm advocacy of "con," all this is very pitiable—and very natural.

Public opinion is a "fickle beastie," and such is Lord Milner's position that I can see no way by which he can regain the confidence of erstwhile supporters without forfeiting the trust reposed in him by an influential minority—and unfortunately in the country it is the moneyed minority that counts. If in the years to come, when I am a dithering old man, I am asked by my great-grandchildren who was the most honorable public man I have ever met I shall, I am sure, answer without hesitation, "Lord Milner, some time High Commissioner of South Africa."

The Strong Man.

I do not think I have ever met a man whose absolute integrity, whose fine logical mind and noble principles have appealed to me as do Lord Milner's. He is a strong man rather than a safe man, for in his strength lies the weakness that renders him less safe than sure. He is an autocrat. His best lovers must allow that. He is amenable to argument, but not in essentials. He is an architect of Empire, who will, on advice, after the front elevation of his edifice, but whom the very gods would not persuade to deviate from the ground plan he has decided upon. Personally a man of charming manners, suggesting the aristocratic public servant or the dilettante litterateur rather than the statesman, the High Commissioner, while accessible to anybody who has reasonable excuse for interviewing him, is at the same time unapproachable to those with whom his convictions clash.

And now he goes home on his holiday, and Johannesburg, unstirred but respectful, stands hat in hand watching with curious eyes the man they all but worshiped a few years ago.

Do they wish him to return?

I half think not.

There is no open rupture between the Governor and the people; crowds still cheer him in the street, for I think they love the man even as they are suspicious of the master. They do not want to fight him; they would rather fight another man carrying out his policy.

If he does not return Johannesburg will sigh regretfully but thankfully, as the man sighs who has sent his loved ones over sea before the first shot is fired. If he returns—but that, as somebody else would say, is another story.—Edgar Wallace in London Mail.

IT ALWAYS HELPS

An ailment like consumption that has been months and years getting a foothold cannot be relieved in a week or day. Scott's Emulsion will always afford relief and often cure, but not over night. The consistent use of Scott's Emulsion will positively help the consumptive at any stage of the disease. We guarantee nothing beyond this, but we know that right living and Scott's Emulsion have done more to cure consumption than anything else.

WEEPING WILLOWS.

The Curious Manner of Their Introduction Into England.

The Salix Babylonica or Willow of Babylon, the English weeping willow, is a native of the Levant, the coast of Persia and other places in the east. The manner of its introduction into England is curious and has been described:

Pope, the poet, having received a present of Turkey figs, observed that a twig of the basket in which they had been packed was putting out a young green shoot. This he planted in his garden where it grew into a fine tree, and from this original stock all our weeping willows have descended.

This species of willow is generally planted by a still pool, to which it is an appropriate ornament, and when, in misty weather, drops of water are seen distilling from the extremities of its branches nothing could be more descriptive than the title it has obtained of the "weeping willow."

It is sometimes called Pope's willow, and the name Napoleon's willow has also been given to it, because a tree of this species overshadowed the emperor's tomb at St. Helena.—London Globe.

THE MINIATURE.

How the Term Came to Mean a Very Small Portrait.

Miniature painting originated in the practice of illuminating manuscript books, when small pictures were introduced with the initial letters or upon the borders. These initial letters were usually painted in red, Latin minium; hence these small pictures were termed miniatura.

After the invention of printing and engraving this art entered upon a new phase. Copies in small of celebrated pictures were made, and the demand was particularly great for portraits, and so the term miniature came to mean a very small portrait. One of the most famous miniature painters was Holbein, and Samuel Cooper, a Londoner, was also an expert. Milton sat to him, and it is said that Louis XIV. offered £150 for his picture of Oliver Cromwell.

Photography checked miniature painting for a time, but of late there has been a notable revival of the art. In olden times miniatures were often painted on vellum or on copper or silver plates. Now ivory is the medium commonly employed.

Rather Clever Birds.

An agriculturists' paper tells this yarn: A poultry fancier who kept some fowls in a field beside a railway line fed the fowls on wheat, but the sparrows would come by the score and steal it from them. The fancier did not know what to do to stop them. At last he decided to feed the fowls on Indian maize, thinking that it would be too large for the sparrows to swallow. He went again next day, and to his surprise there were just as many sparrows as before. They were taking their corn in their beaks and laying it on the rails, waiting for a train to go over it and crush it so that they could eat it.

The Basket Shop.

"Dad," said little Reginald, "what is a basket shop?"

"A bucket shop, my boy," said the father feelingly; "a bucket shop is a modern cooperage establishment to which a man takes a barrel and brings back the bunghole."

A NIGHTMARE

Gives point to the fact that excessive or irregular eating disturbs the digestion. Nightmare or night hag has its day time correspondence in the undue fullness after eating, with the belchings and sour or bitter rising so often experienced after too hasty or too hearty eating.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures dyspepsia or bad stomach. Puts the weak stomach in strengthened and invigorated the whole body shares in the increased strength derived from food properly digested and perfectly assimilated.

"I was a victim of sleeplessness and extreme nervousness induced by chronic indigestion and I felt heavy, tired and worn out all the while," writes Miss Mary Smith, of Box 208, Colorado Springs, Colorado County, Texas. "Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery was the only medicine which relieved me. Within a week after I began using it that heavy tired feeling after meals had left me, and I found that I was able to sleep better than for months previously. My appetite was gradually restored, general improvement was rapid and I have now been in perfect health for over nine months."

Sometimes a selfish dealer tempted by the little more profit paid on the sale of his meritorious medicines will offer the customer a substitute as being "just as good" as the "Discovery." It may be better for him because it pays better, but it is not as good for you. If you want the medicine that has cured others, and which you believe will cure you.

THE USE OF TOBACCO.

How a Man May Tell If He Is Smoking Too Much.

A correspondent wishes to know what constitutes the excessive use of tobacco. It sounds a very simple question, but it is nevertheless distinctly hard to answer. In the case of alcohol it is easy to define the point where excess begins. But there is this difference, as the writer points out, between the abuse of alcohol and the abuse of tobacco—that a man often drinks to excess because the more he takes the more he wants, the sensation becoming more attractive with every glass. With tobacco, on the other hand, the effects of a pipe too many are so painful to the tongue and so unpleasant generally that the smoker stops as a rule just before that point. The smoker thinks he is smoking to excess when he finds the process physically unpleasant. Doctors look more deeply into the matter. Like most other affairs of health, the matter resolves itself probably into a question of how much each individual constitution can endure. What would be excessive in one man is harmless in another. These things are best left to common sense. There is, however, one test which is as nearly as possible infallible. If the smoker can leave off smoking—say, for a day or two days—at will he may comfort himself with the reflection that he is not too greatly devoted to his pipe.—London Globe.

Doctors as Book Buyers.

"The largest part of a doctor's equipment is his books," said a dealer. "Physicians usually keep more closely up with the procession from the viewpoint of books than lawyers. The doctors have to do it, because much of their reputation among their associates depends upon the accuracy and the modern finish of their knowledge.

"A lawyer can more easily dispense with new law books than a doctor with the late medical books. An up to date doctor has a much more expensive library, as a rule, than a minister, and it is almost as expensive, I judge, as a lawyer's, the difference being that a lawyer's whole equipment is books, while a doctor must have laboratory and a full complement of instruments."

Kaffir Ingenuity.

The following ingenious mode of crossing a river was once displayed by a kaffir, who had for some time stood watching the vain attempts of a party of soldiers to cross the stream at a time when to ford it was attended by considerable danger. After smiling at their efforts with that sarcastic expression remarkable among these savages he quietly raised a heavy stone, placed it on his head and then walked with perfect ease through the torrent to the opposite side.

A weather beaten tombstone in an old Virginia cemetery bears this inscription:

Perfectly Satisfied.

"Every man I've told that I had rheumatism has offered me a cure except Jepson."

"What did Jepson say?"

"I told him I had it, and he said he was glad to hear it."

How many women are troubled with a weak heart? How many lie, night after night, trying to sleep, and can't? Perhaps you are one of them? If so, read what Mrs. Herkimer says. It may save you years of suffering if you take her advice:—

"I am now enjoying the best of health, after having used Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I was troubled with a weak heart, and was afraid to draw a long breath, for the pain it would cause me. I could not sleep at night, and it was impossible for me to walk ten yards without resting myself. I cannot speak too highly of your Heart and Nerve Pills; they are the greatest pill I have ever used, and can recommend them to all sufferers."

DEEP SEA LEVEL.

Its Changes Illustrated in the Case of the Mediterranean.

Changes in the level of the sea are well shown in the case of the Mediterranean. M. Ph. Negris in a brochure presented to the Academy of Science furnishes interesting information on this point, it being apparent that the sea has greatly increased in depth as compared to ancient times. Formerly a bridge 2,000 feet long united Lemnos to the continent. Today it is submerged, but the foundations of the work were discovered eleven feet beneath the surface. It may therefore be concluded that since the construction of the bridge the sea has risen at this point over nine feet.

In the bay of Amphissa, Greece, there has been observed a mole that is over nine feet beneath the surface. At Rhenea there has been found a completely submerged dock, evidently of Roman construction, the depth of the sea above the dock at places being fully nine feet.

From all of these facts one may conclude that there has taken place an important increase in the depth of the sea since the Roman period, the Mediterranean having risen at least nine feet in about 2,000 years.

Ground That Burns.

In the great wheatfields of California a boy, whose part in the process does not at first appear to the outsider, skirmishes along near the reapers with a wet sack, pounding madly here and there. He is the fire tender. Once set off, this grain, baked as it is by a rainless summer, would burn like a flash. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have gone up in an hour on these delta lands, for here even the ground burns. The soil is made of matted tule reeds, laid down in successive rotting strata by the river. When once uncovered and dried in the sun, it smolders with a slow persistence, like a sawdust fire. The harvesters work above a potential volcano.—Everybody's Magazine.

No National Russian Drama.

It is curious that in a country so overflowing with loyalty, despite the nihilists, very few of the stage performances have any national flavor, but so it is. An American resident of some time in Moscow says that during all his stay there did he see but one play with Russian characters, nor did he hear one stage song appeal to Russian sentiment as the "Bowery Girl" or "Dixie Land" appeal to popular sentiment in this country.

LATEST NEWS OF SPORT.

MR. ROBERTSON STILL PRESIDENT

Was Re-Elected at the Annual Meeting of the O.H.A.

A Number of Amendments to the Rules—Players from Other Leagues not Barred.

O. H. A. OFFICERS.

President, John Ross Robertson.
1st Vice-Pres., Francis Nelson.
2nd Vice-Pres., W. L. Darroch.
Secretary, W. A. Hewitt.
Treasurer, A. W. McPherson.
Executive Committee, J. A. Washburn, D. J. Turner, Dr. J. J. Sinclair, F. D. Woodworth.

The annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association was held in the assembly room of the Temple building, Toronto, Saturday morning and afternoon. The morning session was taken up by the presentation of the reports and the president's address. The election between Messrs. Robertson and Wyndham was warm though one-sided, the president being elected by 43 to 26. The final action of the committe on the Fee case was endorsed, 43 to 27, and the rule, once a professional always a professional. Power was taken away from the goal umpires and a penalty time-keeper provided for.

President, J. Ross Robertson, delivered an eloquent and inspiring address to the many delegates present, and was given a magnificent reception—a tribute and it may truly be said, a well-deserved tribute, to his untiring and persevering energy in encouraging the game of hockey the province over. W. A. Hewitt presented the executive report and A. W. McPherson the treasurer's statement for the past year.

At the conclusion of the morning session all the delegates and the representatives of the press were entertained in the Masonic dining room in the temple building by the president, J. Ross Robertson. The King was toasted and the health of the president was heartily drunk. A most enjoyable time was spent and at once the delegates resumed their work, taking up the many amendments proposed.

Francis Nelson's amendment of clause 24, making suspension of clubs or players automatic, in case of refusal to accept and obey the rulings and decisions of the executive, was carried. The club or player shall at once forfeit their membership in the association. The club offends and then suspends itself.

Mr. Robertson moved, seconded by J. C. Merrick, that the annual meeting of the O.H.A. be held on the second Saturday of November. This was carried.

J. M. Martin, of Barrie proposed to take away the president's power of appointment of two of the executive committee of six. No doubt was expressed regarding the wisdom of the appointments made by the present president, but it was suggested that in the future a president might be elected who would attempt to use this power of appointment in order to control the executive. No sound reason was given to the convention for dragging the rule and it was decided to leave the rule as it was.

Mr. Merrick's amendment to rule 5, that each club shall file with the secretary of the O.H.A. a sworn declaration of amateurism. This is only a case of suspicious circumstances. This rule would put each club on an enquiry as to the status of its players. This was lost.

Mr. Nelson's amendment to fix the size of rinks at 60 feet in width and 100 feet in length, was not discussed. Mr. Robertson read a memo giving the size of the ice in many of the rinks of the O.H.A. Mr. Nelson stated that he had no intention of forcing rinks to be this size at present. This rule might be made operative say next year, if carried. The rinks at present in use vary in size materially. Mr. Nelson stated that this amendment should not be applied to rinks at present constructed or being built, but only to rinks to be built. This was carried.

The motion of J. W. Chowen to commonsense referees was carried. The result will be that no referees will be out of pocket.

REFEREE RULES THE GOALS.

W. A. Hewitt's amendment, to place all the time-keepers in the control of the referee, was carried. The amendment allowing a professional referee was opposed on the ground that a fundamental principle of the O.H.A. was amateurism in all its parts. There seems to have been in the past a dearth of good amateur referees, especially in the east, and the motion was carried.

The amendment taking away the power of the goal umpires to award the goal was carried. Henceforth the goal umpire only reports to the referee and the referee shall decide finally.

Mr. Burns of the Marlboros spoke to F. G. Waghorne's amendment, to legalize the practice of starting play by dropping in the puck. This was carried.

Mr. Nelson's additions to the rules of the game, providing for a goal crease, was withdrawn.

Henceforth each goal will be announced as scored.

On a vote at an executive meeting called the yeas and nays may be taken. J. G. Merrick consented to some amendment to this proposal to require each player to secure a registration card but it was voted against and lost almost unanimously.

The next matter taken up was the Peel case. Mr. Nelson moved in support of the action of the O.H.A. executive of Nov. 26, in professionalizing Harry Peel. John F. Faulds of London spoke in reply. He claimed that no notice had been given Peel that the question of his status in the O.H.A. was to come up at the meeting which decided his rights. He claimed that the constitution required that notice be given of the exact business to be transacted.

QUESTION VS. PRINCIPLE.

President Robertson stated that the decision was not a personal matter with him, but was a question of principle. He stood for the principle of amateurism, but was prepared to resign his office if the O. H. A. decided to allow professionals in. The vote was 43 in favour and 27 against, the convention thus stood by the decision of the executive and Peel stays out.

The motion regarding the Peel case, moved by Francis Nelson and seconded by A. W. McPherson, and which carried, was as follows:—"Whereas the executive of the O.H.A. has always acted upon the principle that a question once decided, a decision once rendered, cannot be re-opened, reconsidered or reversed (the same season) without fresh evidence, be it resolved that this association hereby endorse the decision of the executive on Thursday, Dec. 10, 1903, refusing the application of the late A. F. Cox, for the reinstatement of Harry Peel, and that this annual meeting of the O.H.A. declares that all proposals or resolutions purporting to vary, reverse or in any way alter the said decisions of December 10, 1903, are illegal, void and of no effect and contrary to the fundamental law of the O.H.A. and that this association declares that the said Harry Peel is still a professional, according to the rules of the O.H.A. and to the first and only legal decision of the executive, and directs the incoming executive to enter this resolution in its minute book."

Mr. Oliver's amendment allowing all players in O.H.A. towns to play in the O.H.A. was carried unanimously. This does not apply to the Western Hockey Association. It does apply to the Toronto Commercial League and to the Toronto Bank League, and henceforth these teams may play in the O.H.A. This was an important change, and President Robertson stated that the result would be to increase the membership of the O.H.A. over 30 per cent.

ONCE A PRO. ALWAYS A PRO.

The amendment of J. M. Martin of Barrie, providing that a player professionalized shall not be eligible for reinstatement into the O.H.A. upon any ground whatever, and that the executive of the association shall not have even power to entertain an application for the reinstatement of any such player, was carried. The convention thus stood by its worthy president and hard-working executive.

D. L. Darroch moved and the Cornwall representative seconded, that a honorarium of $350 be voted to W. A. Hewitt for his untiring efforts as secretary.

Mr. Washburn moved, seconded by Mr. Agar, that $100 be voted A. W. McPherson for his work as treasurer."

Both motions carried unanimously. It is probable that next year some permanent provision will be made for the salaries of these officials.

D. L. Darroch was elected second vice-president, the vote being 45 for him and 26 for J. W. Chown.

The vote for the executive committee was:—Mr. Washburn, 58; Mr. Turner, 57; Dr. Sinclair, 49; and Mr. Woodworth, 39.

Secretary Hewitt's annual report of the O.H.A. deals with the now famous McMillan case, and his report says:—"On February 27th, after an investigation, which commenced in the previous December, Aeneas McMillan, a player of the Belleville Club, was suspended for a violation of the residence rule, and the games in which he played for Belleville were cancelled. Your committee ordered the Peterborough Club to take Belleville's place, but were subsequently restrained by the court from allowing Peterborough to participate, and the semi-final games with Midland were declared off. The legal proceedings instituted against the Association by McMillan fizzled out, the case being dismissed with costs against the plaintiff.

The president in his address comes out strongly against professionalism and says:—

"For self-preservation the stand of the O. H. A. against the professionalism of Pittsburg, Houghton and the Soo must be uncompromisingly antagonistic. There can be no half measures. Any player who figures on any of these teams must be banished from Ontario hockey. These clubs have this year formed a professional league, with a Pittsburg team, a Houghton team, one from the American Soo, and one from a new town in the West, Calumet, and the Canadian Soo, as a circuit. Whether they will succeed is another matter.

"The question that concerns the O.H.A. at the present moment is that these teams are under salary, and are under the ban of the O.H.A., and that any teams playing against them are out of the fold. It is to be noted with pleasure that the teams in New York not only refused to join this professional league, but, as with this Association, would not play even exhibition games with any of them."

T.A.S. HOCKEY CLUB ELECT OFFICERS.

Bright Prospects for Two Fast Teams This Winter.

A very enthusiastic meeting to discuss the prospects of hockey was held at the T. A. S. rooms last Friday evening. There was a large attendance and everyone was delighted with the meeting. The question of placing teams in the Trent Valley and City Leagues was discussed and though no definite decision was reached it is altogether likely that a team will be placed in the former league and also in the City League should it materialize.

The following officers were elected:—
Hon. Pres.—Rev. Dr. O'Brien.
President—J. A. Sharpe.
Secretary-Treasurer—D. Holland.
Executive Committee—W. Crowley, F. Dereche, A. Derris.

There is splendid material in the society for two strong teams.

A meeting will be held on Tuesday evening for the purpose of definitely deciding upon what course will be pursued.

HOCKEY.

We'll all miss Reddy McMillan this year.

It is difficult to state just what teams will comprise this district this winter. Belleville is out, so 'tis said, and Port Hope is very doubtful. If neither of these materialize, the locals will likely be grouped with Lindsay, Souffville, Markham, and the other teams in the district adjoining this one.

• • • •

Everybody is talking hockey. Keep it up.

• • • •

The T. A. S. will be there with the goods again this winter. The red and black have twice captured the Trent Valley League championship. If they Prepeat the dose this year the cup will be their's for keeps.

• • • •

It is expected that the majority of last year's Trent Valley League teams will be in line again this year.

• • •

What about the "Cult" this year? It would break A. W. McPherson's heart to see this aggregation of world beaters drop into oblivion.

• • • •

Midland has a great string of players from which to pick their team. The northern team will be stronger than last year.

• • • •

A couple of fast teams will play exhibition games here during the holiday week.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

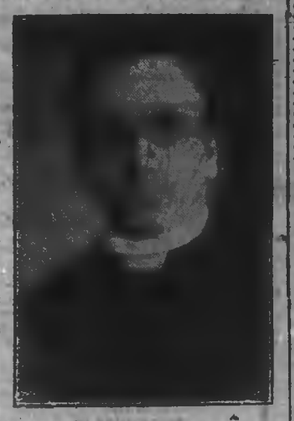
RESOLUTION OF APPRECIATION PASSED

Services of Rev. J. A. Wilson Were Highly Regarded by Fellow Clergymen

The Ministerial Association met this morning when there were present Rev. Messrs. J. U. Davidson, Dr. Torrance, W. J. Jolliffe, J. A. Wilson, J. G. Potter, F. J. Scott, A. J. Brace, Dr. Crothers, J. G. Lewis and H. B. A. Ketchem.

The following resolution was moved by Rev. W. J. Jolliffe, seconded by Rev. J. G. Potter, and unanimously adopted:

Resolved,—"That, whereas the Rev. J. A. Wilson, B.A., is about to leave our town, we, the members of the Ministerial Association desire to assure Rev. Mr. Wilson of our deep appreciation of him and his work during his residence ion Peterborough.



REV. J. A. WILSON.

For two years he has performed with much efficiency the duties of secretary. Always energetic and devoted, he has rendered very valuable service to us, his brethren. While on personal grounds we regret his departure, at the same time, we most heartily congratulate him on the call he has received to an important charge in Hamilton. We earnestly pray that he may see the work of the Lord prosper and that through his labours many may be won for Christ."

A full report of the meeting will appear in to-morrow's edition.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

THE DOUGLAS SHOE STORE

SOUTH OF R. HALL & SON'S.

GALWAY.

At a recent meeting of the Board of School Section No. 7, Snowdon, and No. 5, Galway, a resolution was passed conveying to the Hon. J. R. Stratton the thanks of the board for his generosity and kindness in supplying the school section with twenty new desks. When Mr. Stratton was in the locality recently he found the school desks were anything but what should be desirable for the convenience and comfort of the children in the school, and without any intimation to the Board, he sent the desks, which are fully appreciated by the teacher and children, as well as the ratepayers of the section. The old fashioned home-made desks are now removed, and comfortable modern iron desks take their place.

REV. MR. KETCHEN IS UNDECIDED

Has not yet Accepted the Invitation, but may yet do so

Board of Managers of St. Pauls Anxious to Secure Him for Assistant Pastor.

Rev. H. B. A. Ketchem, who preached in St. Paul's church Sunday, may be the successor to Rev. J. A. Wilson as the assistant pastor of that church. At any rate he will if the Board of Managers can prevail upon him to accept the offer they have made him.

His sermons Sunday so impressed them that at the close of the service Sunday evening the meeting which was held decided to ask him to accept the invitation. They waited upon him and tendered him the call, but the young man declined to accept at that time, his reason being that he did not feel that he was the man the congregation needed, and said that feeling as he did he could not accept.

Yesterday morning, however, he was again waited on, and representations again made to him, and these he considered more favourably, and he has promised to think the matter over and write the Board in the course of a few days.

Mr. Ketchem carries in his pocket an invitation to accept a charge which in some respects would be more advantageous to him than that offered him here, but it is hoped by the Board of Managers of St. Paul's church as well as by those who heard his sermons that he will decide to accept the invitation to come to Peterborough.

MISS CRANE MARRIED IN VANCOUVER, B.C.

Interesting Social Event in Which Principal was well-known Lady.

A despatch from Vancouver, B.C., tells of the wedding in that city on Nov. 23rd, of Miss Emily Crane, the only sister of Mr. John Crane, and a lady well known in Peterborough, where she lived prior to her removal to Vancouver 12 years ago.

The wedding took place in St. Andrew's church, and the officiating clergyman was Rev. R. J. Wilson. Miss Crane was made the wife of Mr. John Ware, of Vancouver, and the bride, who was attended by Miss Tupper, was dressed in a becoming fawn gown, trimmed with brown, while the groomsman was Mr. Robt. Cosgrove. Mr. and Mrs. Ware will live at 329 Hastings street, east, Vancouver. The many friends in Peterborough of Mrs. Ware will be interested in the news of her wedding.

Millinery Clearance at Miss Delaney's.

Smart ready-to-wear and dress hats of recent New York designs are selling every day at nearly half the prices of a month ago. The reason for this unusual reduction in price is accounted for by the necessity of cleaning the store to make way for the workmen who are to make the improvements and changes in our store. The Band Concert.

Speaking of the song, "Bid me to love," to be given by Mrs. Eardley Wilmot at the band concert on Friday evening, the Toronto World says:

"Mrs. Eardley Wilmot displayed excellent training, her cultured voice delighting the audience to such an extent that her number won a well deserved encore."

The Hamilton Spectator has this to say of Mrs. Eardley Wilmot's singing at a band concert given by teh band of the Thirteenth Regiment: "The three-fold attraction of the 13th band, Mrs. Eardley Wilmot and Fred Jenkins, caused over two thousand people to wend their way to the armoury last night. Mrs. Eardley Wilmot made an instantaneous hit, having just the right kind of a voice to fill the immense hall — a soprano of much brilliancy and power — which she used most effectively in all her songs, her second number bringing a double encore. Mrs. Eardley Wilmot was also presented with two beautiful bouquets."

ALD. MORRISON HAS WITHDRAWN.

Will not Enter the Mayoralty Contest.

Cannot Give the Time Necessary—His Reasons.

Ald. Morrison has withdrawn from the Mayoralty contest! To-day he issues a letter to the electors in which he gives his reasons for withdrawing from the contest. The letter explains the situation, fully.

Ald. Morrison states also that he will not be a candidate for Alderman. He has served three years in the council, and feels that he has given his share of time to the public office and has a wish to retire into private life.

His letter of withdrawal is as follows:

To the Electors of Peterborough:—

Ladies and Gentlemen,—When a few days ago I announced myself a candidate for the Mayoralty for 1905, in response to a large requisition and the repeated solicitations of many of my personal friends, I did so having been assured by my friends that I would meet with no opposition from my fellow Aldermen. Particularly I refused to enter a campaign with Ald. Best, recognising his preferred claim to the office. Now that he has seen fit to enter the field; I must, in justice to myself and my private interests, withdraw from the contest. I was prepared to give my time to the discharge of the duties pertaining to the office of Mayor, but consider the sacrifice too great to have to neglect my practice for three or four weeks in order to canvas the town and thus insure my election.

Thanking my many friends who signed the requisition and who offered me their support and especially thanking those gentlemen who interested themselves in getting up the petition on my behalf, I withdraw from the field.

Yours truly,
M. A. MORRISON.

HOW TO DEAL WITH THE BOYS

A Writer's Warm Championship of the Boys.

Should be Taught by Those Who Understand Their Emotions and Characteristics—Some Plain Truths

Written for The Examiner.

So much has been written of late about the boys of our town, that one would judge that we were burdened with a class of them quite different from that with which other towns are blessed. After some consideration it seems to me these criticisms are to say the least unjust and the result of hasty conclusions.

The boys under discussion are those between the age of fourteen and eighteen who are drifting about in the home harbour awaiting for the skipper to come aboard before they set sail on the voyage of life. They are under the influence of different elements and it is little wonder if they sometimes drag their anchor and drift aimlessly to sea.

The writers who censure these boys take for granted that their motives are wholly bad, which is just as erroneous as to assume that any boy's motives are wholly good.

A great many men and women have objects of interest aside from their real business of life; such are called "hobbies". Now a hobby may be chickens, plants, butterflies, bees, or bugs; but how rarely it is "boys". Why? It seems to me the only true reason can be that few people really know them sufficiently well to be interested in them. The great educationalist Spencer tells us that men and women are specially trained for every business in life save one; that of bringing up children, and that that training is wholly neglected. What wonder, then, that our boys are complained of when brought up by such amateur parents, or rather brought up by themselves as best they know how.

A boy, to me, and I have come into direct contact with more than a thousand of them, is something to be admired. In him you have an open book, which sooner or later will close of itself. The boy has desires, ideas, ambitions, schemes, plans, striving within him and it is these last that cause him so much blame.

But let us see; his desires are not directed, his ideas are made little of, his ambitions are ignored, his schemes are belittled, and last and worst of all his sympathies are not responded to, and this calls into play all his animal activities, and we blame him.

It is a shock to me that any writer should suggest police supervision for any rational boy. Understand now that I am writing of the normal type, not one whose mental faculties are, however slightly, at fault. Were I a boy again I would rebel at any undue interference with me or at any attempt to force me to observe a rule or form, the right of which I could not be made to understand. The policeman that boy needs is a little of the father, or mother, reasoning, from an early age to manhood, instead of pleading "no time" or enforcing despotic rules that make boys rebel. When a boy is controlled by force he is placed in the same plane as the brute creation and he feels the degradation. All the bad of his nature is called into play to resent the indignity and we are cultivating the undesirable side of his character and crushing the better side.

No. Let us rule by reason, kindness, firmness and by example; not spasmodically or intermittingly or at a certain age, but from the first and at all times. Stand by the boy. His clothes may be shabby or his face may be dirty, but no matter, he is the embryo of a man. If you find him when his animal activities are running in a wrong channel, your time will not be lost if you reason it to the right. Do not think your boy is the only boy. There are hundreds just as good. If your boy is good, consider why he is so, and deal likewise with all boys.

FUNERAL OF REV. DR. CAVEN.

Last Tribute of Reverence and Respect to the Late Principal of Knox College.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Reverence and sorrow inspired the final tributes of esteem and affection paid to the remains of Principal Caven yesterday. Simple almost to severity, unassuming as his life, dignified with the voluntary honor rendered by appreciative compeers in the public life of the nation, mingling for a brief season in common worship, those he labored to bring together in enduring union, the obsequies were fitting to the Christian scholar and the gentle, honest man. The province, the city, the university, the church, surrounded the bier in the persons of their most eminent representatives, and a great throng of the people of all ranks stood within sound of the voices of honor and farewell.

At 11 o'clock a private service was held at the late principal's residence, conducted by Rev. Alfred Gandier. Afterwards the plain black coffin was borne to Knox College, and for two hours a constant stream of people passed through the convocation hall, where the remains lay in state.

At 2.10 Rev. Mr. Gandier entered through the dense crowd. Rev. Dr. Milligan, Principal Sheraton and Rev. Dr. Maclaren. The faculty of Knox College followed, and representatives of other colleges. His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, Premier Ross and other dignitaries of the colleges and the city. Mr. Gandier opened with an invocation.

The psalm was sung, "God is Our Refuge and Our Strength."

Rev. Dr. Milligan read the verses from I Cor. xv., "But now is Christ risen from the dead," and from the Apocalypse ending, "And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." He continued in prayer for blessing in the example set by the life ended.

Rev. Dr. Maclaren spoke of the loss to Knox College and to the community.

Principal Sheraton spoke of Dr. Caven's personal qualities.

"O God of Bethel" was the hymn that followed, and Rev. Dr. Warden closed the service with prayer and the benediction.

At the grave the college students who preceded the hearse divided into two sections and formed a circle. The honorary pallbearers, the mourners, His Honor Lieut.-Governor Mortimer Clark and members of the Toronto Presbytery then approached the grave, and the casket, placed into an oak shell, was lowered, during which Rev. Mr. Gandier read the impressive funeral service of the church.

Men's Underwear at Lebrun's.

Of good cheap underwear there is no end at LeBrun's—and there wouldn't need to be to meet the demand, tastes and wishes of the well dressed men who come here for it. Every customer has a favourite quality, and we're in the business to supply it. Fleece-lined, all wool with Scotch finish, natural wool, soft delicate Merino wool, hygeine and unshrinkable silk and wool—whatever your fancy. Come and select at LeBrun's. Quality clear through. Price begins at 25c each for shirts or drawers and goes up to $2.50 per garment. Truly we are great on winter underwear! We also want the attention of workmen to our heavy outside working shirts at 50c, and to our overalls and smocks at the same price. H. LeBrun & Co's.

Miss Rose Hennessy, well-known as a poetess and elocutionist, of Lexington, Ky., tells how she was cured of uterine inflammation and ovaritis by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—For years I enjoyed the best of health and thought that I would always do so. I attended parties and receptions thinly clad, and would be suddenly chilled, but I did not think of the results. I caught a bad cold eighteen months ago while menstruating, and this caused inflammation of the womb and congested ovaries. I suffered excruciating pains and kept getting worse. My attention was called to your Vegetable Compound and the wonderful cures it had performed, and I made up my mind to try it for two months and see what it would do for me. Within one month I felt much better, and at the close of the second I was entirely well.

"I have advised a number of my lady friends to use it, and all express themselves as well satisfied with the results as I was."—MISS ROSE NONA HENNESSY, 410 S. Broadway, Lexington, Ky.—$5000 forfeit if original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be produced.

WHICH IS IT?

The Ontario Conservatives in authority have definitely decided not to enter a single protest against the return of a member in the Dominion elections held on November 3rd. And has it come to this, that no practical a confession is made that the persistent and loud-mouthed charges of Liberal corruption are practically declared to have been so much buncombe? The Conservative party in Ontario claims that it is not only politically pure itself, but has a special mission to unearth, expose and uproot "Grit" political wickedness. If the broad-cast charges made in respect of the recent elections had any foundation, is not the Conservative party bound, as a matter of principle, to follow up these charges? The decision arrived at is tantamount to a confession that the charges made are without foundation. Either this, or conclusion is to be drawn that the Conservatives shrunk from investigation for fear that their own political methods will be exposed. Which explanation is the true?

Our New York neighbours seem to be in earnest in regard to the construction of the 1000-ton barge canal to replace the Erie ditch. Tenders are being invited to cover six contracts. There are many Canadian firms applying for information upon which to base tenders and there seems to be nothing to prevent Canadians from entering into competition with the Yankees. This is satisfactory, for Canada is far ahead of the United States in the matter of canal construction for transportation, and can afford to give Uncle Sam some valuable pointers.

Croup Absolutely Cured.

"There is no remedy in my opinion that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup absolutely in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face with choking. It gave him instant relief and cure." — Mr. Wm. Always Remember the Full Name Laxative Bromo Quinine E. W. Grove on every box. 25c

Fire, Water and Light.

Ald. Edgecumb presented the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Fire, Water & Light Committee begs leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That the Town Engineer order the electric companies to make such changes in their wires on Elm street as he may find necessary.

2. That the matter of changing the position of a street lamp at the corner of Aylmer street and Manning avenue on the pole so as to give better light on Aylmer street be referred to the Town Engineer.

3. That the Chairman of this Committee and the Chairman of the Property Committee be authorized to have such work done in the Fire Hall stable as they may deem necessary to make the stable comfortable.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted.

Property.

Ald. Batten presented the report of the Property Committee:

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee begs leave to report and recommend that E. Linder be paid $71.25 for numbering houses in Ward 5, and new houses in other wards of the Town and also for tins for house numbers purchased from him by the Town.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted.

Board of Works.

Ald. Best presented the following report:—

Gentlemen,—Your Board of Works begs leave to report as follows:—

1. We have examined a petition from D. W. Dumble and J. Nevin for the construction of a sewer as a local improvement on London street from Reid street 85 feet east and as it is sufficiently signed we recommend that it be granted and that J. Robson, who has a contract for a sewer on part of London street, be authorized to do this work at the same price.

2. We recommend that the Waterworks Superintendent be asked to make an estimate of the cost of putting proper valves on the standpipes below the frost line so that the standpipes can be kept open in the spring and fall.

3. We recommend that the request of James Goodwin for a crossing on Sherbrooke street and of F. J. Might and others for a crossing on Stewart street at Dublin street be granted.

4. We recommend that James Graham be paid $3.00 for gravel in accordance with a certificate of the Town Engineer.

5. We recommend that the Otonabee Power Co. be given permission to place one pole on the south side of Simcoe street near the market lane and four poles on the west side of Reid street between Murray and McDonnell streets, subject to the approval of the Town Engineer, and subject to any rules and regulations that may be made by the council respecting poles on the streets.

6. We recommend that the application of the Peterborough Light & Power Co. for permission to place a pole at the north-east corner of Stewart and Simcoe streets and two poles on Downie street be referred to the Engineer with power to act.

7. We recommend that the Town Treasurer credit the Lakefield Portland Cement Co. with $1,044.67 received from them on account of sacks returned, and charge them with 81 sacks returned on August 28th and acknowledged in their letter of October 27th and not credited to the Town.

8. We recommend that Mrs. Cahill's request for a short extension of the sidewalk on the south side of Gilmour street be granted.

9. We recommend that this Board be given authority to let the contracts for snow ploughing and to rearrange the districts if deemed advisable.

FRANCHISE BY-LAW CAUSES DISCUSSION

Mr. Adam Hall Asks That it be Laid Over Until a Later Meeting.

Mr. Adam Hall addressed the council, saying that he had just learned that the Franchise bylaw was to be brought up to-night, and asked in view of the fact that it was understood that all the companies affected would be notified when the bylaw was coming up for settlement, the council should not pass the bylaw until the companies interested would have had an opportunity of being represented at the council and seeing the bylaw before it was passed. He suggested that it would be only fair to the companies interested to defer action in the matter until the companies would have an opportunity of looking into the proposed bylaw.

Ald. Morrison explained the situation of the council with reference to the bylaw, and said that at the present time the companies had no franchise and the council prepared a bylaw, and notified all the companies that had poles on the streets, and representatives of the different companies had seen drafts of the proposed bylaws and several amendments in answer to their requests had been made. It was only Saturday night that these changes had been incorporated in the present bylaw and it was necessary to act as soon as possible, in order to protect the interests of the town. It had been understood that amalgamation between two companies was contemplated and such amalgamation might prejudice the interests of the town, and unless the companies would guarantee not to take any action leading to an amalgamation until the bylaw had been passed, he would be in favour of putting the bylaw through in the interests of the town.

The Mayor said that the companies had had the matter before them for some months and should be fully conversant with the provisions of the bylaw.

Mr. Hall said that as far as his company was concerned the bylaw would be no change until the bylaw was passed.

Ald. Best supported Mr. Hall's contention, and said that he was perfectly right, and that the companies had been told that they would be notified of any changes before they were put through the council.

It was understood that only the first reading of the bylaw would be made at this meeting.

SNOW PLOUGHING UNDER CONSIDERATION

Aldermen Suggest Changes Which Might be Made in Method.

Ald. Johnston referred to the matter of snow ploughing, and said that the ploughing should be better attended to and more properly done. He recalled the fact that frequently slush accumulated on the streets and was not properly cleaned off.

Ald. Best said that the fault was with the town officers who were appointed to carry out the work, and not the committees.

Ald. Morrison said that the system of awarding the contracts for snow-ploughing was at fault, and he thought that the snow should be removed by day labour, not by contract, with an extra rate of pay, for work done early in the morning and late at night. He thought arrangements should be made so that as soon as a fall of snow occurred it would be removed. In the outlying parts of the town the snow was not removed properly.

Ald. Best said that this year the Engineer had been instructed to make the contracts more stringent than usual, and he anticipated that no trouble would be experienced this year.

PLUMBING INSPECTOR FOR PETERBOROUGH

Ald. Mason Makes a Stand for the Immediate Appointment of one.

Ald. Mason moved the first reading of a bylaw providing for the appointment of a plumbing inspector. He stated, in moving the first reading, that the need of a plumbing inspector was very badly felt. The present bylaw did not provide for any inspection on plumbing already done, but only for new work. At present the only provision made for inspecting plumbing already done, is by the order of a physician.

Ald. Best thought that the bylaw did not go far enough, and that a sewer inspection should also be provided for, which was equally important, and moved that the matter be left to a committee to deal with, and provide also for the appointment of a sewer inspector.

The Mayor thought that the matter was a very important one, and for that reason he thought it should not be dealt with by this council in its dying hours. At the present time there was in reality a plumbing inspector for the Town Engineer's duties included that of inspection of plumbing, and some legal difficulties might be encountered with. He thought that the question was one which demanded serious consideration and for that reason the bylaw should be given more time in which to look into the matter more thoroughly.

Ald. Mason pressed for immediate action being taken.

Ald. Johnston said that the matter was one in which he was deeply interested, and he was heartily in favour of the proposal, but thought that as the season was so nearly ended it would be better to refer the matter to a committee, which could work on it during the winter, and have a bylaw ready by next spring.

Ald. McWilliams thought that the time had come to deal with the matter. It had dilly dallied along for years, and if half of the complaints he had heard were true there was certainly some need of acting at once.

Ald. Mason said that the council should take some action in the matter, either adopt it or throw it out. During the last year there were more than 300 plumbing jobs done in Peterborough and if all these jobs were sanitary it was a strange thing.

Ald. Adams agreed that the condition of the plumbing in town was such that a plumbing inspector was needed. He would support the motion to deal with this matter either by the council or by a committee as soon as possible.

Ald. Johnston said that there were other important matters which will have to be dealt with in the near future and one of these was the extending of the fire limit and persons who intend to build houses should have to submit plans to some person appointed to supervise the plans for the construction of the building.

Ald. Morrison agreed with Ald. Mason that the matter was an important one and if it was to be referred to a committee to report on at some specific time, he would support the motion.

Ald. Mason moved that the matter be referred to the Legal Committee to report on at the next meeting, which was carried.

A Local Plumber.

A local plumber, who was present said that there were a number of plumbing contracts on hand in town at present, and he understood that some of these contractors intended to "skin" the work. He stated that in Toronto there were four inspectors and the shop license fee was only $1.00.

The Mayor suggested that the matter be left to the Legal Committee to report on at the next meeting, which was adopted.

PAY FOR SIDEWALKS BY GENERAL TAX.

A Bylaw Providing for a Vote on the Question to be Submitted

A bylaw providing that the vote of the ratepayers on the advisability of changing the method of paying for granolithic sidewalks from that of frontage to general tax, was introduced by Ald. Adams, but was left over until the next meeting to be dealt with.

Bylaws.

Ald. Batten moved the first reading of a bylaw to appoint C. S. McClelland, caretaker of the town clock at a salary of $60 per year. The clock shall be cleaned once in every four years.

Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of the bylaw to regulate the placing of poles on the streets. The provisions of the bylaw are published in another column. It was given its first reading only last night, the other readings being deferred until a later date.

Ald. Best took the position that it was no use passing a bylaw unless the companies which were parties to it were agreeable, to which the Mayor replied, that it all came back to the question as to whether the companies ran the town or the council had control.

It was finally decided that the matter should be laid over until a later date, when the council will meet in committee with the companies interested.

Ald. Morrison moved the first reading of a bylaw consenting to the construction of the Meldrum siding by the C. P. R. Company, to serve the new mill of Mr. W. H. Meldrum, on Simcoe street, the siding to run from the railway to the American Cereal Company's Works. The bylaw was given its several readings.

A bylaw to divide Ward No. 5 into polling sub-divisions was introduced by Ald. Adams. The ward is to be divided into two divisions, the dividing line being Hunter street. The bylaw was passed.

Ald. Adams moved the first reading of the bylaw to authorise the borrowing of $10,000 and $20,000, the former to pay for the extensions made to the waterworks system during the year 1904, and the second to pay for certain improvements and extension to the same system. The bylaws passed their second readings.

A bylaw was also introduced by Ald. Adams providing that the votes of the ratepayers be taken on the proposal to raise $12,600 to pay for the repairing and rebuilding bridges and purchase of land to open streets, which was read a second time. A bylaw to authorise a change in the rules of procedure of the town council, providing that accounts shall be referred to the Finance Committee before reference to the council, was introduced by Ald. Adams, and passed.

Ald. Best moved the first reading of a bylaw to provide for a sewer on London street, and Ald. Mason introduced a bylaw providing for the deciding of the place for the holding of the municipal elections in January next, and the appointing of deputy returning officers. Both of these bylaws were passed.

Ald. Morrison referring to his notice of motion made at the last meeting of the council, to provide for the submitting to the electors at the coming elections of the question of applying for city incorporation, said that since there were so many bylaws to be voted on by the electors at the election it might be advisable to drop the matter and leave it to the new council to deal with. At any rate he would not press the motion at that meeting, and it was left over.

Ald. Adams moved, seconded by Ald. Scott, that the Town Treasurer be instructed to pay B. True the sum of $75, in settlement of his claim for injuries received on McDonel street. The motion was carried.

The Council then adjourned to meet on Friday night.

PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS—1904.

ADDRESS

To the Electors of the West Riding of Peterborough.

Gentlemen,—Having received, at the hands of a duly constituted convention of the Liberal-Conservatives of the West Riding of Peterborough, the nomination for election to the Legislative Assembly of the Province, I have the honour to submit for your consideration my views respecting some of the important questions which may be expected to influence the Electorate at an early date.

SECRECY OF THE BALLOT.

This is a matter of paramount interest to every elector. It has from time to time been a boast, whether rightly or wrongly, that certain Conservatives have supported the Government candidate, it being openly asserted that this boast was born of actual knowledge. The form of ballot now in use makes this possible, and leaves it open for unscrupulous political agents to coerce voters over whom they are supposed to have some power. It has always been, and still is the policy of the Conservative party to render the ballot absolutely secret.

POLITICAL CORRUPTION.

To assert that the party now in power is as free from corrupt practices as the Opposition, is so idle, and so opposed to the evidence that it requires no answer. The Government cannot escape the responsibility of the many atrocious acts which have come to light; the names of the recognized agents have appeared so often in connection with these transactions, and though the perpetrators have so flagrantly gone "unwhipped of Justice," no sane person will fail to condemn the authorities who have wilfully became accessories.

ADMINISTRATION.

The affairs of the Province have been so conducted that the expenditure has increased enormously out of proportion to the current revenue. Extravagance has been rampant, contracts for supplies for the public institutions have been awarded without competition; orders without number have been given to party friends, and for the purpose of securing the support of political opponents. The business of the Province has been under a management which, in the case of any large corporation, would not be tolerated. This Government, by virtue of its long lease of power, has become imbued with the idea that the people's money is to be spent for the pleasure and aggrandisement of the party in power. It is time that this state of things should be changed.

OPPOSITION POLICY.

It has been untruthfully stated that Mr. Whitney and his followers are unable to, or have failed to, pronounce a definite policy. No statement could be farther from the truth. On the contrary, Mr. Whitney's policy is well defined with regard to the following among other matters:—

1st. The Educational Department; the appointment of an advisory council from among the expert educationalists of the province.

2nd. The administration of the liquor law free from political influence.

3rd. The reservation of the timber, (except pine) for the settler.

4th. A secret ballot for the protection of the voter.

5th. Breaking up the School Book monopoly.

6th. Localization of the mining offices.

7th. Public ownership of revenue-bearing franchises for the benefit of the province.

8th. Branch agricultural colleges.

9th. Better inspection of factories, and labelling of prison-made goods, as prison-made.

10th. To enact proper labour legislation for the prompt settlement of disputes.

11th. Encouragement of systems of sewerage in towns and villages.

The Liberal-Conservative party confidently appeal to the electorate at this time in the history of the Province, in the firm belief that the great heart of the people is with them in the determination to place in power men untainted by such debased associates as have brought the fair name of this province into undeserved disrepute.

Gentlemen, if the principles which I have attempted to briefly outline commend themselves to your judgment, I ask your support and influence in favour of myself as the Liberal-Conservative candidate. In my humble way, if elected, I will to the extent of my skill and power, assist in giving effect to these principles.

I have the honour to be,
Yours respectfully,

T. E. BRADBURN.

McMILLAN CASE UNDER REVIEW.

President J. Ross Robertson Deals With it in his Address.

Clearly Proven that he Broke the Residence Rule of the Association.

J. ROss Robertson, President of the O. H. A. in his annual report refers to the McMillan case as follows:—

"This was a case where the residence rule was violated, in that every player must be a bona-fide resident of the place to which his club belongs prior to the 1st of October next preceeding the date of the match (Regulations, cl. 5, p. 35).

Aeneas McMillan had played with Cornwall in the season of 1902-3, and went to Smith's Falls in February, 1903. He resided there during the spring and summer and turned up at Belleville on the 29th Setember, 1903, one day before the expiry of the limit. Thinking he had qualified to hold a stick at Belleville, he returned to Smith's Falls, was there for several weeks, and then journeyed back to Belleville.

"I received information that McMillan's residence at Belleville was not bona fide, and that he did not leave Smith's Falls until a late date in October. I directed the secretary to write to Belleville for an explanation, but the club ignored the letter, and McMillan commenced playing with that club.

"Before the Peterborough-Belleville game in February, 1904, Peterborough enquired into McMillan's standing. The sub-committee of the Executive decided that McMillan should not play till Belleville explained.

"This they gave in a declaration from McMillan and J. Trunish, the manager of the club, to the effect that McMillan was a bona-fide resident of Belleville from the 29th September, 1903, that he had removed from Smith's Falls on that date, and had been a continuous resident. On the strength of these declarations McMillan was allowed to continue to play with Belleville, so that no permit was necessary.

"The case was, however, re-opened on the ground that McMillan did not leave Smith's Falls to take up residence at Belleville till a much later date. The Belleville club was again asked to explain. They replied with declarations to the effect that McMillan had arrived in Belleville on the 29th September, but that he went to Smith's Falls to get his wife, and finding her ill, had to wait till the 15th of October before he could return to Belleville.

"A meeting of the Executive was held on the 18th of February, with Mr. E. Gus Porter in the chair in my absence from Toronto, and the First Vice-President having resigned. Mr. McMillan and Mr. Trunish were present and repeated to the Executive the statements in their declaration.

"A declaration was, however, read from a Smith's Falls grocer that he had supplied McMillan and his wife with provisions as late as the 28th October but McMillan denied this statement, although it was shown by the entries in the grocer's books.

"A motion of Mr. McPherson, seconded by Mr. Hewitt, that McMillan be suspended for violation of the residence rule, and that the Belleville Club be suspended for playing him, was lost, and a motion to dismiss the objection to McMillan was carried, Messrs. Porter, Wyndham, Cox, Jamieson, and Adams, voting for, and Messrs. McPherson and Hewitt against the motion.

At another meeting on the 22nd of February further evidence against McMillan was produced by Mr. McPherson, and Messrs. Nelson and Hewitt were instructed to visit Smith's Falls and investigate. They did so and were told by McMillan's landlord that McMillan occupied his house till the last week of October, and from another person that a hackman drove McMillan and his wife to the railway station about the 28th or 30th of October, and from Mr. Washburn of the O.H.A. Executive to the effect that he had seen McMillan in Smith's Falls during the last week of October.

"On the 27th of February the Executive decided on the motion of Mr. Nelson, seconded by Mr. Hewitt, that Aeneas McMillan be suspended and that the championship games in which he played for Belleville be cancelled. This was carried.

It was then moved that as the other clubs in the district had disbanded, Peterborough be allowed to take Belleville's place in the schedule. Messrs. Nelson, Wyndham, Cox, McPherson, and Hewitt voted for this motion, and Messrs. Porter, Adams, Darroch, and Jamieson against it. Mr. Washburn declined to vote.

On this action being taken Mr. Porter resigned, stating that he had been retained as counsel to sue the Association on behalf of the Belleville Club, but he afterwards withdrew his resignation and petitioned for a re-consideration of the Belleville case, which on motion was refused.

Suit was then entered by Messrs. Porter and Carnew, solicitors, on behalf of McMillan as nominal plaintiff, asking damages from the O. H. A. because he was not allowed to play in the games of the O.H.A., and also for an injunction to prevent the Association continuing the season with Belleville out, and with Peterborough as a substitute. The injunction was granted, and under advice of counsel the O. H. A. was prevented from allowing Peterborough to continue in the series.

The suit never proceeded further and was dismissed in September last, with costs against the plaintiff. The members of the Association can form their own opinion as to motives that prompted the suit. This case is important as showing clearly that any laxity in the enforcement of the residence rule is most detrimental to the work of the Association.

There can be no doubt that the evidence submitted against McMillan was absolutely conclusive, and that a barefaced attempt was made to violate one of the essential regulations that go to make the work of the Association a success.

There was a strong feeling in the committee that not only was McMillan's status under the residence rule a matter for investigation, but that the manner of his going to Belleville suggested that his removal to that place was deliberately for a reward, and for the purpose of playing hockey for the Belleville Club.

"This case of Belleville may bring forth good results. It is proposed to introduce at this meeting an amendment to the constitution which shall provide that all clubs refusing to obey the rulings and restrictions of the O. H. A. or its Executive, such refusal shall act as a suspension, coming into immediate effect.

PASSED NIGHT OUT OF DOORS

Mr. Ira Cochrane of Baltimore Nearly Frozen.

An Unpleasant Experience Which Almost Resulted Fatally.

Mr. Ira Cochrane Baltimore, passed through a very unpleasant experience on Sunday night, while suffering from nervous prostration, and one which has affected his physical condition very seriously, leaving him in a very critical state. Mr. Cochrane had been in a poor state of health for several days previous and seemed to be suffering greatly. Towards night on Sunday he left the house to go to look after some sheep. His daughter, fearing that all was not well, accompanied him. Mr. Cochrane appeared to be watching for an opportunity to get away unseen. Upon the daughter making an attempt to prevent this, he attacked her and hurt her cruelly. Mr. Cochrane then made off towards the woods. The neighbours were notified of the occurrence and turned out with the family to hunt for him, but the unfortunate man, who was suffering no several from dementia, could not be found, and remained outside all through the night with the mercury at zero, while his family and friends hunted for him. To make matters worse, he was without an overcoat. The searchers at times came upon his footprints, which showed that he had been running. On Monday he voluntarily returned to his home. He was then unable to speak, and in a deplorable physical condition. A physician was summoned to attend him, and at present he is lying critically ill, and refuses to take either food or medicine. Much sympathy is felt for the family under the sad circumstances. — Cobourg World.

Baby Eczema.

"My daughter was afflicted with eczema from three weeks old. Her entire face and head was raw and she was in an awful state. MISS MABEL SPEER MADE A BRIDE

Former Peterborough Lady Married in Sault Ste. Marie.

The many friends in Peterborough of the bride's family will be interested in the account of a wedding which took place in Sault Ste. Marie, this week. It is described in a despatch to the Examiner as follows:

A very happy event took place on Wellington street, Sault Ste. Marie, on Nov. 23th, 1904, at the home of W. W. Speer, Esq., when his only daughter Mabel, was united in marriage to Rev. Ernest Bennett, of Sutton's Bay, Mich. The nuptial knot was tied by Rev. A. N. St. John, B.A., pastor of the Methodist Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. McEachren, pastor of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. The bride was attended by Miss Pearl Hunt, of the Soo, Mich., while Mr. Louis Speer acted as groomsman. During her residence here of about three years, Miss Speer has made a host of friends and they unite in their good wishes for her happiness and prosperity. The young couple will take up their residence in Sutton's Bay, Mich., after a tour to the East.

FABRICATED STORY

Hon. A. G. Blair Denies World's Tale in Every Particular.

HIS PLANS DID NOT MISCARRY

Purpose For Which He Resigned Remains Unchanged—If Anybody Knows of Any Secret Affecting His Honor He Is Urged to Come Forward and Make It Public—Criminal Libel Suits.

Montreal, Dec. 6.—Hon. A. G. Blair gave out to the newspapers yesterday the following statement anent the story about him in The Toronto World:

Mr. Blair's Statement.

"Since my return from the Maritime Provinces, I have seen the full text with scare headlines of a flaring political statement in which my name is freely used, and in which I am referred to as not having been frank with the public as to the reason of my resignation of the chief commissionership of the railway commission—with having conspired with two important railways and other parties to damage the government—with having plotted to make an attack upon the administration of the interior department—with having co-operated with others to expose scandals against the government on the eve of the election—with being privy to an arrangement whereby several of the government candidates in the Province of Quebec, in consideration of $10,000 each, were to withdraw from the field on the eve of the contest—with failing to take the platform against the G.T.P. scheme—with having been sandbagged into silence, lest some secret which I feared to have come out should be exposed—and with having arranged that I should receive $100,000 as soon as the scheme outlined should be carried out.

Tissue of Falsehoods.

"Let me deal with these statements seriatim, first, however, giving to the public the assurance that these allegations constitute a tissue of falsehoods from beginning to end.

"FIRST—That I was not frank with the public as to the real reason for my resignation. What I stated at the time was, and still remains true. I said I intended taking up more congenial employment, and so I do intend, and I more than hinted at that time that I had found my position on the board more uncomfortable than I feared I should when I accepted the appointment. I could enter fully into details on this subject, but do not think it necessary, at least at present.

"SECOND—As to my co-operating in hostility to the government with two of the great railways—my answer is that I took no part whatever except by voting in the election, from the beginning to the end of the contest. It is true I resigned the office between two and three weeks prior to election day, but I was not of the opinion that my resignation would cause more than a few days' comment, and the result showed that my judgment in this respect was sound. I hear now for the first time that two of the great railways in Canada had anything to do with my resignation, and speaking for myself I do not know, and have no information which would lead me to believe, that the railways in question were antagonizing the government.

THIRD — That I conspired with others to make an attack upon the administration of the department of the interior. I pronounce this statement wholly devoid of truth. I never heard from any source whatever that such a movement was in contemplation by anyone. I most assuredly had no such thought in my own mind. No one ever mentioned the subject to me, nor did I to anyone.

The Conspiracy Charge.

FOURTH—As to my having conspired with anyone to expose scandals against the government on the eve of the election. The statement is wholly void of truth, such an intention on anyone's part I hear for the first time from The World's publication.

FIFTH—What is alleged as to the intended withdrawal of the Quebec candidates is, so far as I am concerned, or am aware, an entire fable. The statement is the creation of a very disordered, or a very malicious mind, and, indeed, the same may be said with almost the whole publication.

SIXTH—As having failed to take the platform after my resignation from the board—I did not state at any time that I intended doing so. The telegram announcing my resignation said, in effect, that beyond reaffirming my objection to the railway scheme I intended to take no part in the campaign. I had not the slightest thought when I resigned of going into the fight, and my telegram contained all the reaffirmance of my views on the railway question I had at any time in contemplation.

Nothing to Be Hidden.

SEVENTH—It is said the fear of the disclosure of some secret compelled me to silence, and that Sir Wilfrid Laurier was able to force me to pursue this course. If anyone either in or outside the government is in possession of a secret of the nature described I hereby not only give him permission to disclose it, but invite him to do so.

I MAKE THE STATEMENT IN THE MOST EXPLICIT TERMS, THAT NO LIVING MAN, EITHER SIR WILFRID OR ANY OTHER PERSON EVER MADE ANY THREAT TO ME OR BY ANY OTHER MEANS SOUGHT TO COMPEL ME TO SILENCE.

"I will say this for Sir Wilfrid, and he will bear me out in what I have said, and also in what I am now about to say, that he did not even suggest to me that I should not take part in the campaign, nor did any one on his behalf do so. I understand that a member of the government made a statement in Montreal that Blair dare not speak, that the government had the papers which shut his mouth. If there is any member of the government from whom this street report emanated he will do me a favor if he will produce the papers and let the public know what the nature of these potential documents may be.

No Money in the Case.

"EIGHTH—As to the last allegation that I was to receive $100,000 cash when the scheme as laid out had materialized, I gave this and the connected statements an emphatic denial. No such arrangement nor understanding was had by me with any person. I did not receive $20,000, as alleged, nor any other sum on account. No question of $95,000, nor any amount whatever, nor any dispute of any kind involving such a question has arisen between Mr. Russell and myself. The statement in its entirety is absolutely untrue in every respect. Let me add that I recently saw in a government newspaper that my expectations and plans at the time of my resignation from the railway board as to my own future had not been realized, and would need to be revised. This is a very interesting statement, and I confess I am indebted to the newspaper for the information. I had not made the discovery, and except that the public press had so stated, I still remain in blissful ignorance of the same.

"Yours faithfully
("Signed) Andrew G. Blair."

Criminal Proceedings Taken.

Mr. David Russell made the following statement last night: "Hon. A. G. Blair and myself have instructed our lawyers to at once commence criminal proceedings against The Montreal Herald, the only responsible journal which has copied the malicious attacks upon us. It is only fair to Mr. Blair for me to state that when I persuaded him to resign his position as Chairman of the Railway Commission there was no understanding that he would take the stump. I assumed that when he was attacked he would take the stump, and, so believing, I wired the editor of The St. John Telegraph that he would do so inside of forty-eight hours. I admit that I assumed too much, but I can assure the public that neither Sir Wilfrid Laurier nor anybody else ever sandbagged him into silence. He defies any member of the Liberal party to make the charge."

MRS. WILMOT'S SERVICES GRACEFULLY RECOGNIZED

In Connection with the Inception and Management of the Successful "World's Fair.

On Saturday evening, at the conclusion of the World's Fair, a graceful act of recognition took place. On behalf of those who had been connected with its management, a beautiful bouquet of white chrysanthemums was presented to Mrs. Wilmot, the actual presentation being done by Miss Edith Lount.

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, in a few happy remarks, conveyed, on behalf of those interested, their hearty appreciation of the services of Mrs. Wilmot, who originated the idea, and did such zealous and effective work contributing to the gratifying success achieved. He hoped the little gift presented would serve as a slight expression of the gratitude of those those who had been associated in the work, so happily concluded.

Mrs. K. Eardley Wilmot, on behalf of Mrs. Wilmot, expressed her gratitude at the appreciation so gracefully expressed. It had given her only pleasure to co-operate with others, whose assistance was heartily recognized, and she was amply repaid by the success which had attended the undertaking.

FRANCHISE BY-LAW WAS NOT PASSED

Council had Intended to Enact By-Law Governing Erection of Poles on the Streets, but Mr. Adam Hall, representing the Otonabee Power Company, had the Matter Deferred—A Plumbing Inspector Causes Considerable Discussion---Ald. Mason Presses for the Passing of a By-law Appointing an Inspector---The Matter Will be Dealt With Later—Manufacturers Committee Recommends Granting of a Site to the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company—Snow Ploughing Causes Some Discussion—Money By-laws to be Voted on—City Incorporation to be Dealt With by the New Council.

Last night the Town Council held a session lasting until twelve o'clock, and during the four hours of the session a considerable quantity of business was transacted, and the transaction of some proposed business was deferred.

It had been the intention of the Council to pass a Franchise Bylaw last night, governing the placing of poles on the streets of the town, and the matter had been under consideration for some time, the companies affected by it having conferred with the Council, and at last the Council thought they had a bylaw which was fairly acceptable to all parties, and proposed passing it last night, but Mr. Adam Hall, representing the Otonabee Power Company, was present, and asked that action be deferred until the companies had been given an opportunity of seeing the amended bylaw before it was passed. This was agreed to, upon Mr. Hall guaranteeing that no action that would prejudice the town's position, would be taken by his company in the meantime.

Ald. Mason introduced last night his first bylaw in the Council. It was one to appoint a plumbing inspector for the town, and to define his duties. Ald. Mason in introducing the bylaw, called attention to the fact that there was great need of a plumbing inspector for the town, and he thought that this was the proper time to appoint one. The salary he proposed paying was $850 per year, and he had a good man in mind who could be induced to accept the position.

The majority of the Aldermen disagreed from the introducer of the bylaw, not in the necessity for an inspector, but in the opportuneness of the time for his appointment, the majority thinking that the closing days of a council's life was not the proper time to make such an important appointment. Then there are some legal difficulties in the way, which, perhaps, was the chief reason why the bylaw was not passed, and it will be referred to the Legal Committee, with Ald. Mason in the chair. Ald. Mason pressed strongly for the immediate passage of the bylaw, but was not sustained in this position.

The Manufacturers' Committee reported, recommending the granting to the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Company of the site known as the town lot, formerly given to the Lock Company, and the report was adopted by the Council. The assessmentof the company is fixed at $4,000 for ten years.

The snow-ploughing on the streets was the subject of some discussion, in which the department which has the work in hand, came in for some criticism. Ald. Johnston said that the work in some parts of the town was not done properly, and in some of the outlying portions the snow was lying on the sidewalks so long after it fell that the plough simply went over the top of it, and it was not removed at all. Ald. Morrison criticized the system of removing snow by contract, and thought that it would be more satisfactorily done by day work, with an extra inducement to the men to get out early in the morning after a snow-fall.

The bylaw to provide for $12,000 to repair and reconstruct the Hunter, Simcoe, Charlotte and George street bridges, will be re-submitted to the ratepayers on January 2nd, and $20,000 asked for by the Water Commissioners for the extension of the system, laying new mains, and improving the service, will also be voted on then.

There were present at the council meeting last night Mayor Roger in the chair and Ald. Johnston, Edgcumbe, Morrison, Mason, Hicks, Scott, Adams, Batten, Best, Clinkscale, McWilliams.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

WANT DICKSON BRIDGE OPEN FOR TRAFFIC

A Deputation Waits on the Council in Reference to the Matter.

The following communications were read and dealt with in the manner indicated:

From a large number of ratepayers, asking that the old Dickson Company's bridge near the dam at the river which the Cereal Company closed, be re-opened, as it is a great convenience to a number of persons.

Mr. Robert Pollock, representing the ratepayers who signed the petition, asking that the Dickson dam bridge be re-opened, addressed the council, and said that the bridge was a great convenience to the people in that part of the town.

Ald. Adams also spoke on the question and supported the views expressed by the former speaker. He moved that the matter be referred to the Board of Works and that the latter be empowered to obtain permission to maintain the bridge for foot passengers. He understood that the Cereal Company was willing to leave the bridge open if the town would be willing to put it in repair and maintain it.

Ald. Johnston seconded the motion made by Ald. Adams, and said that he had lived in that part of the town for a number of years and sympathised with the position taken by the ratepayers who had signed the petition.

Ald. Edgcumbe also spoke on the question and said that it was a great pity that steps had not been taken to repair the bridge and fit it up for ordinary traffic. It was an important highway, and its maintenance for traffic would confer a favour upon the persons who lived in that part of the town.

The Mayor thought definite action should not be taken committing the council to maintain the bridge, because he understood that some arrangement had been made by the past giving the town the right of way over the bridge, and suggested that the matter should be referred to the Board of Works, which was agreed to.

From ratepayers, asking that a light be placed at the corner of Mcrkine and Rwolid streets, in the East Ward.—Board of Works.

From Thos. McKee, asking that the sewer on London street be extended to his property.—Board of Works.

MELDRUM'S SIDING SUBJECT OF LETTER.

Mr. Meldrum States the Conditions of Giving up Right of Way.

From W. H. Meldrum, in reference to his right of way to the river, under the C. P. R. bridge at the back part of his lot, lying immediately west of the C.P.R. track. Mr. Meldrum agreed to the C. P. R. filling up this right of way on the understanding that they do not encroach on his land, and that they protect the whole eastern side of his lot by cribwork or wall, so as to prevent gravel washing on to his land, and doing such damage as has been done in the past, and that the washings now on the lot shall be removed back on to the track, and present cribwork removed so as to prevent a recurrence of the trouble; and that a good road shall be made from back of his lot to Simcoe street, parallel to the C. P. R. track, and on a level with his lots to enable him to get to and from said lot without trouble. This whole work must be done to the satisfaction of the Town Engineer.—Received.

Re Railway Switches.

From the Peterborough Radial Railway Company, applying for two connections to be made between their deralling switches and the sewer on Lock street.—Board of Works.

From W. Aldridge and W. H. Thompson, assessors of the fifth ward, asking to be paid the same rate for their work as that allowed for the other town wards, as the method of assessment which has been followed in Ashburnham prior to the amalgamation had to be changed very greatly to correspond with that adopted in the other four wards in the town.—Received.

From Tax Collector, W. J. Green, giving the amount of taxes collected up to and including November 15th, as $19,922.84, and the amount collected since that date as $388.89, making a total of taxes collected during the current year of $20,311.73.—Received.

$20,000 FOR THE WATER COMMISSIONERS

Ratepayers Will be Asked to Vote on Bylaw to Extend System

From S. R. Armstrong, secretary of the Water Commissioners, enclosing the following resolution passed by that body: "That the town council be asked to submit a bylaw to the electors to authorize the borrowing of $20,000 to pay for laying a twelve inch main from Auburn to Smith street, putting in additional hydrants on existing mains, laying larger mains on certain streets to increase the pressure and improve the fire protection, and other work for the betterment of the water works system."—Received.

From the Canadian Machine Telephone Co., asking permission to hang their cable on the iron floor beams of the Hunter street bridge so as to avoid doing any aerial work at that point.—Received.

From Ahearn and Soper Co., Limited, asking if there is any probability of the matter of the fire alarm system being revived.—Received.

From property owners on Antrim street, calling attention to the unprotected state of the buildings on said street, the nearest hydrants being too far away to be of much service in case of fire.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From Henry Sourey & Co., Barrie, enclosing a circular re their improved snow plough.—Received.

The Ambulance Again.

From Dennistoun, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson, on behalf of Mr. Comstock, who claims that the town's entering into a contract with Mr. D. Belleghem, in which he is permitted to use the Dan Spence ambulance in certain cases to his own benefit is illegal, in having the effect of authorizing Mr. Belleghem to enter into competition with their client, Mr. Comstock.—Received.

From owners of rear property, asking that a pipe sewer be constructed on London street, from the intersection of Reid street one hundred feet east on London street.—Received.

From the Peterborough Cheese Board, enclosing a resolution of thanks to the town for the use of the council chambers for the Board's meetings.—Received.

From Henry Seymour, asking that a new sidewalk be laid from Charlotte to Simcoe streets on the east side of Reid street, the old walk being in a wretched condition.—Board of Works.

COUNCIL GRANTS SITE FOR SHOVEL FACTORY

Will be Given Lots Originally Given to Lock Company.

Ald. Morrison presented the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Manufacturers Committee begs leave to report as follows:—

1. That we received a proposition from the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Co., to establish a factory here. The company will have an authorized capital of $50,000 and a paid up capital of $40,000 and will erect a building 200 feet by 65 feet at once for the manufacture of shovels and other buildings will be added later to extend the business and to manufacture handles. They will employ to begin with 20 to 25 hands. They ask that the town give the site known as the town lot, if the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co., do not wish to use it.

We recommend that provided the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Co. release to the town these lots, being lots number 10 and 11 north of Parry and west of George streets, and lot number 10 and part of 11 south of Rink and west of George street, they be given to the Peterborough Shovel and Tool Co., on conditions similar to those contained in the by-law granting them to Robert Davidson and Albert Loch for a similar purpose and that the assessment be fixed at $4,000 for ten years.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted.

Committee on the Whole.

Ald. Hicks presented the report of the Committee of the Whole as follows:—

Gentlemen,—Your Committee of the Whole begs leave to report and recommend that the Canadian Machine Telephone Company be granted permission to carry their cables across the Hunter street bridge as requested by them, subject to the approval and supervision of the Town Engineer.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The report was adopted.

Finance.

Ald. Adams presented the following report of the Finance Committee:

Gentlemen,—Your Finance Committee begs leave to report and recommend as follows:—

1. That accounts from the County to Peterborough with respect to bridges, as corrected by the Chairman and Treasurer, amounting to $1,297.67, be paid when the County is prepared to pay the amounts it owes the town, and that the corrections made in the accounts as rendered by the County be explained to the County.

2. That in pursuance of the suggestion of the Auditors and the advice of the Town Solicitor, application be made to the next session of the Legislature for an amendment to the law to authorize the collection of all dog taxes by license without placing them on the Collector's Roll.

3. That the Selectors of Jurors be paid $5.00 each.

4. That the ratepayers of that portion of the Township of Smith annexed to the Town of Peterborough who have paid statute labour to the Township for the year 1904, and have paid or pay their taxes for this year to the Town, be refunded the amount paid for statute labour to the Township this year on assessed lands so annexed and also sums paid by them to the Town schools for this year as non-resident fees.

5. That Andrew Brown be refunded $31.60 deposited by him for a sewer.

And Now For Christmas

CHRISTMAS is now less than three weeks away, and naturally the question of the hour is: What will I give for Christmas? Here you will find many suggestions to help you. There is no place that can offer you greater scope for choosing something useful than a first-class Dry Goods Store. This Store stands pre-eminent as the leading Dry Goods Store in this district.

THIS STORE IS FULL OF SUGGESTIONS.
Handkerchiefs, Collars, Belts, Hand Bags, Kid Gloves, Hosiery, Silks, Linens, Quilts, Blankets, Comforters, Curtains, Jackets, Dress Goods,
And hundreds of Other Things that are bound to be appreciated.

HANDKERCHIEFS
One of the most popular presents for either Ladies or Gentlemen. Here you will find an assortment covering all qualities and prices. We make a specialty of real Irish Linen Handkerchiefs for both Ladies and Gentlemen, in both Hemstitch and Tape Borders, and real Irish Hand Embroidered. Ask to see our SHAMROCK BRAND, they are the best made in Ireland.

KID GLOVES
We have an abundant assortment of thoroughly good Kid Gloves for both Ladies and Gentlemen, and at popular prices too. We have PERRIN FRERES real Kid, made in France in all popular shades and sizes. Prices are $1.00 and $1.25 per pair, and are guaranteed.
You might just as well buy the best when the prices are the same as inferior makes, and then you can depend on them giving satisfaction.

UMBRELLAS AND PARASOLS
We have just received an elegant assortment of these desirable goods for Xmas boxes. Lovely Dainty Handles, beautifully mounted with Pearl, Silver and Gold Trimmings, and Cloths that we are quite safe in recommending. If you think you would like one—better come early and get first choice.

LADIES' LEATHER BAGS
Are bound to be a popular present this year. We have a lovely assortment of the latest New York Styles in these goods, and Values are simply grand.

LINENS
We are Sole Agents for Peterborough for SHAMROCK BRAND LINENS, that means the best Linens made in Ireland. They are manufactured by John S. Brown & Sons, Belfast, Manufacturers of Damask Table Linens, Towels, Glass Cloths, Pillow and Household Linens, Diapers, Handkerchiefs, etc.—Ask for it.

PROPERTY COMMITTEE.

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:—

Gentlemen,—Your Property Committee begs leave to report having sold 19 old desks for the sum of $27.00.

We beg to ask that this Committee be given instructions to advertise for tenders for the supply of green hardwood for season 1905-6.

Re Communication from Secretary of Board of Health we would explain that West Ward School has supply of city water outside of the building and on the grounds convenient to the building and consequently have no sewerage requirements but that in the spring it is intended to have water carried into the building and sewer connected. We recommend that electric light be put in the Kindergarten room, Fifth Ward and in the basement of Central School, Tenders to be asked for same.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

V. EASTWOOD, Chairman.

The report was received and adopted.

COMMITTEE ON APPOINTMENTS.

The Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:—

Gentlemen,—Your Committee on Appointments begs leave to report that they have appointed Mr. J. E. Hodgson, of Orillia, to fill the vacancy on the Collegiate Institute staff caused by Mr. McPherson resigning, salary to be according to schedule, and duties to start after the Christmas holidays.

Your Committee spent a good deal of time thinking over the matter. We advertised and after making thorough enquiry we have selected Mr. Hodgson, who is well qualified for the position and who, we trust, will give entire satisfaction.

Your Committee would also report that the Institute teacher, Miss Howson, has been filling the vacancy caused by Miss Fralick's resignation and we have now advertised for a teacher whose duties are to commence after the Christmas holidays, and we should ask that the Committee be empowered to make the appointment.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. HILL, Chairman.

The report was received and adopted.

SPECIAL REPORT.

Mr. H. P. Kennedy presented the report of the Committee appointed to inspect a number of the most up-to-date schools in the west. The report was an exhaustive one and was received by the Board. It will be published in tomorrow's issue.

ACCOUNTS PRESENTED.

The following statement of accounts paid was presented:—

W. J. Cooper, repairing organ	$ 3 50
W. Bradley	3 15
D. Hobbins	4 00
M. Kylie	50
T. H. Sheppard, rent	100 00
A. H. Stratton & Co.	222 63
Thos. Williams, cleaning closets	7 00

It was moved by Mr. Morgan, seconded by Mr. Fair, that the payments of the accounts be confirmed.

RESOLUTIONS.

It was moved by Mr. Hill, seconded by Dr. Burnham, that the Secretary, Messrs. Hayes, Crane, and Kennedy be a Committee to draft letters of appreciation to be sent to the different School Boards which had so kindly entertained the members of the Building Committee on their visit to Detroit, Windsor and London.

It was moved by Mr. Eastwood, seconded by Mr. Crane, that the Property Committee be instructed to advertise for tenders for putting in electric light in the basements of the Central and 5th Ward Schools.—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Hayes, seconded by Mr. Fair, that the expenses of those comprising the deputation to Ottawa, and to Detroit and other Western cities, be paid.—Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

A number of items of news have been crowded out of today's issue owing to the length of several reports which appear. Among other items left over until to-morrow is the report of the delegation which recently visited several Western cities in the interests of the Board of Education.

A Splendid Programme.

Have You Seen it?

The finest display of rich cut-glass ever shown in Peterborough is now on exhibition at China Hall, and is well worth inspection. It is from the celebrated Bergen factory, and is the first ever imported into Peterborough. This will be sold at prices even lower than those asked for inferior goods, while for brilliancy and quality it is far superior. Berry and salad bowls, water bottles and jugs, decanters and wine glasses, bon bons, olives, sugar and cream sets, flower centres, salt and peppers, celery trays, etc. Visit China Hall and see this display, also the heavy stock of other new goods suitable for Christmas and wedding presents. Store open evenings during December. 2d1w

THE CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE.

The address to the electors of Mr. Bradburn, the Conservative candidate appears in another column, and it sets forth the relations of himself and his party to the electorate in a manner demanding some little attention. As was to be expected, reference is made to political corruption, and, as was to be expected, the Conservative party is held to be free and pure and the Liberal party alone culpable. It is the veriest hypocricy for a candidate to take this position. It is too true that there is political corruption but it is confined to no one party and no real reform in this regard is possible so long as the existence of the evil is denied by the party, in the party which has most persistently practiced it. Mr. Bradburn, after generalising, commits himself to the support of a platform of eleven planks. The merit and value of this platform are doubtful. Those parts which have not already been applied by the Liberal Government, are a part of its declared policy or are so are so indefinite as to be practically meaningless. An "Advisory Council" for the Education Department is advocated. This is practically in existence at the present time. The Educational Council acts as a consultative council to confer with the Minister. The Liquor Law is to be administered "free from political influence." That is being done, or has been done under recent administration. The only way the license law can be effectively divorced from political influence is to restore it to the municipalities—a condition which no sane man would advocate. The "reservation of the timber for the settler." That is the Liberal policy adopted specifically—that policy being that the patent for lands shall include a grant to the settler of all minerals and timber under and above ground. "A secret ballot"—the secret" ballot as represented by the Dominion ballot, permitted the Conservatives to originate and perfect the iniquitous practice of stuffing and switching ballots. "Breaking up of the school book monopoly." No such monopoly exists. Mr. Bradburn himself is free, if he chooses, to publish school books on equal terms with anybody else. "Public ownership of revenue-bearing franchises" is vague. Does it mean that the Government is to operate telephone, gas, waterworks, electric light and radial railway industries? "Branch Agricultural Colleges." This is nothing new. "Branches" of the Agricultural College, in various forms, are now, and have been for some years, in existence, and their extension is only limited by the degree to which the present policy of the Liberal Government is further applied. "Better inspection of factories." A mere matter of detail; factories are inspected now, and efficiently inspected. "To enact proper labour legislation." This is death-bed repentance with a vengeance. Where has the Conservative party shown any concern for the interests of labour, except when votes are wanted? Legislation in the interests of labour is an outstanding feature of the Liberal policy; the statute books of the province are filled with legislation in the interests of labour. The Liberals have established a bureau of labour, and has declared for elevating this bureau into a department — not a mere branch — under a Minister of Labour. "Encouragement of systems of sewerage in towns and villages." What does this mean? Is it a practicable proposition, or a mere vote-catcher? The present Health Department gives all the assistance which it seems should be given municipalities in this direction. Mr. Bradburn appeals for support on a platform composed of planks proposing to deal with conditions that do not exist — to do something that has been done, or is being done, or stolen from the policy of the Liberal party. He concludes his address by appealing for the support of his party on the ground of purifying politics. Are the Conservatives qualified to lead a crusade for the purification of politics? Has their party not been guilty of political corruption — of originating it? Yes. Has that party repented? No. The primary conditions of absolution are confession and repentance. An impenitent sinner is not a good evangelist. Is Mr. Bradburn's party in earnest, is it sincere? It was declared that East and West Peterborough Dominion elections were carried for the Liberals by unblushing bribery. Why was no protest made? Protests were deliberately refrained from. Here was a neglected chance for exposing "corruption." The Liberal policy on that point, declared at the Convention, was "the continuation of contested elections until every offender is duly convicted and punished, and no political consideration to stand in the way of the fullest vindication of the sanctity of the ballot." The salient points in Mr. Bradburn's address, thus cursorily referred to, are sufficient to show the paucity of the claims upon which he demands election as a supporter of the Ontario Opposition.

Friends at a Distance.

The Christmas card, calendar and booklet afford special pleasure to friends at a distance. They take the place of a personal greeting; and, when they are beautiful and artistic in design with delicate colouring, like those on view at stratton's bookshop, the pleasure is enhanced. Our display is in a section by itself, out of the crowds that throng the bookshop, where time and pleasure is afforded for thoughtful selection. About 20 gross of dainty calendars at 5c and 10c each. PREMIER'S QUERIES

Seeks Information As to the Alliance Manifesto.

REPLIES BY MR. F. S. SPENCE

Hon. Mr. Ross Will Reply to Manifesto in the Course of Few Days—The Temperance Plank of the Liberal Convention — Conservative Conference Asked to Take Action—Interesting Interviews.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Premier Ross was asked yesterday morning if he had read the manifesto of the executive of the Ontario branch of the Dominion Alliance, and, if so, did he intend to make any reply thereto.

"Yes," he answered, "I have read it and I propose replying to it at considerable length in the course of a day or two. In the meantime I would like somebody to answer the following questions for the executive of the Alliance:

(1) "Did they send a written request to the Conservative conference asking them to adopt resolutions closing the bars and abolishing the treating system, etc.? In their manifesto they said such a resolution was sent to the Liberal convention, which, I believe, was the case, and was referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

(2) "Did they ask the Conservative conference to pass resolutions of any kind for advanced temperance legislation?

(3) "When they found that the particular clause which they favored (i.e., clause three) in the resolutions adopted by the Liberal convention was rejected on Thursday, did they on Friday, by a deputation or in any other way, submit such a resolution to the Conservative conference for its approval, and, if not, why not?

(4) "How many members of the Alliance—as the invitation was a general one to the public—attended the Conservative conference in order to impress its views on the Conservative party and secure their assent to advanced legislation?

(5) "How many members of the Alliance spoke on the colorless resolution moved by Mr. George at the Conservative conference and demanded advanced legislation?

(6) "Was the executive of the Alliance authorized at a regular meeting of the membership of the Alliance to start a new political party as being in the best interests of temperance and prohibition, or did they act without authority?

"The answer to these questions," the Premier concluded, "might help me in the reply which I propose making to the manifesto."

F. S. Spence Replies.

F. S. Spence, when shown the questions last night, readily volunteered answers to them, which he did as follows:

(1.) A. Yes. Exactly the same.

(2.) A. The communication and request was sent to both conventions.

(3.) A. They did not ask either Liberal or Conservative conventions for what was contained in clause 3. They asked both conferences for legislation to abolish the bars and treating system, and for legislation carrying out generally the policy of the alliance. Both conventions took action, but the alliance as such had no part in either.

(4.) A. There were members of the alliance at both conventions, members of the different parties, but the alliance, as such, had no representatives.

(5.) A. This question is answered by the answer to No. 4.

(6.) The Alliance Executive has not proposed the starting of a new party, but has simply reiterated, almost in exact terms, the policy adopted by different conventions of the Alliance, at some of which the Premier himself, I think, was present. To this policy certainly there has been no objection made by even strong politicians who are friendly to the temperance cause. It is the basis upon which voters' leagues have been organized by the Alliance. It calls for the support of candidates who, in relation to the temperance question, will put principles before partisanship.

Mr. Spence closed the interview by remarking that the views expressed were purely personal, and were not advanced as the reply of the Executive, as that body had not, of course, had time to meet to consider the questions raised by the Premier.

MONDAY'S NOMINATIONS.

East Wellington—Hon. J. M. Gibson, Liberal.

South Oxford—D. Sutherland, M. P.P., Conservative.

Death By Morphine.

Hamilton, Dec. 6.—Robert Gimblett, shoemaker, 285 East King street, went to a drug store Sunday night and got some morphine to make him sleep, as he had been ill and could get no rest. It is supposed that he took an overdose of the drug, for he was soon violently ill. He was taken to the City Hospital, but died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, after the doctors and nurses had been working over him all night.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One 25 cent bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This is one of the most staple medicines in use. Thousands have testified to its excellence. It not only cures a cold quickly and effectually, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is equally valuable for children and may be given to them with implicit confidence. It always cures and is pleasant to take. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

CONSERVATIVE LEADERSHIP.

Forty Conservative M.P.'s Will Get Mr Borden's Answer Shortly.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 6.—Some forty Conservative M.P.'s and defeated candidates from Quebec and Ontario met last night at the Windsor, and after discussing the situation an unanimous request was made to Mr. R. L. Borden to continue in public life as leader of the Conservative party. The ex-M.P. for Halifax said he would like time to consult his lower province friends, consequently he would defer a final answer till the opening of Parliament.

The only inharmonious note in the meeting, if there was any, was supplied by Mr. W. F. Maclean. Mr. Maclean came down as if to attend the conference. He shook hands heartily with all and sundry, but his heartiness was somewhat frigidly returned. His services in uncovering the Conservative plot during the past few days scarcely tended to endear him to the Conservative heart. "How they love me!" he was overheard to say, after one of his fellow-members had treated him to a cool handshake and a wintry smile. His was the only jarring note, however, although the absence of Messrs. E. F. Clarke, Geo. E. Foster and Samuel Hughes was noted.

"Tim O'Day" Dead.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—W. H. Higgins, nearly 50 years ago the premier weekly newspaper editor in Ontario, died suddenly last night, at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Ridout, this city. Mr. Higgins was in his 75th year. The deceased was known personally to every prominent public man in Ontario 20 years ago. He had achieved no little fame as the writer of books and pamphlets. In 1883 he was sent by the Ontario Government to Ireland, as special immigration agent. There he remained about two years. On his return he was appointed inspector of division courts. He wrote under the non de plume of "Tim O'Day," as editor of The Weekly Chronicle. He leaves to mourn him three sons and seven daughters.

Recovered $1,664 in Cash.

Toronto, Dec. 6.—Mrs. Catharine McArthur, 66 Ann street, was locked up last night as being one of the chatelaine thieves who have recently infested the city. The detective arresting her found, crammed into a pillow slip, $1,664 in $1, $2, $5, $10 and $20 Dominion and bank notes, which had taken him nearly three hours to count. The police consider the capture an important one.

Killed By a Train.

London, Dec. 6.—William Wilson, 719 Yorke street, this city, a Grand Trunk yardman, was instantly killed about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was standing on top of his train, which was passing some of the tall buildings near the cold storage when he was struck by one of the projecting verandahs, and died immediately from the effects of the blow.

Killed By Fly Wheel.

Woodstock, Dec. 6.—Richard Clendenning was killed while operating a cutting box on the farm of James Clendenning in North Oxford yesterday afternoon. The fly wheel broke and one of the flying pieces struck him on the head. He was one of Oxford's most prominent farmers.

Contracted Bad Cold. Doctor Said, Serious!

Wanted To Send Him Three Hundred Miles To The Winnipeg Hospital.

Bottle and a Half of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

Cured.

Read what Mrs. A. G. Wheeler, Waseswa, Man., has to say about it:—"Please let me thank you for the great good that both my husband and my children have received from Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. One night when my husband came home from work he had contracted a very bad cold. He became so bad that he had to go to bed and send for the doctor. When the doctor came he pronounced it a very serious case, and wanted me to send him to the Winnipeg Hospital. This, I would not do, as it is about 300 miles to Winnipeg. I decided to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and got four bottles of it. He only took one-and-a-half bottles before he was all right again and only lost a few days' work. I always keep it in the house for the children. Even the baby, seven months old, takes it and seems to like it, and as for myself I do not know what I would do without it. I think that every good housekeeper should keep a bottle on hand, for I know it will save many a doctor bill."

Take no Risk With a Cold.

FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS MAY PROVE FATAL. THERE IS CURE FOR YOU IN

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE.

If you could depend on a cold passing off of its own accord it would be all very well to let it run its course. The risk is too great.

Consumption and pneumonia always have their beginnings in a cold.

If you take prompt means of curing every cold you will never be a victim of these or other fatal lung troubles.

Did you ever stop to think of it that way?

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is best known on account of its extraordinary control over croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, asthma and severe chest colds.

As a means of overcoming ordinary coughs and colds, throat irritation and the many diseases of the throat, bronchial tubes and lungs, it has made an enviable reputation for reliability.

Pleasant to take, thorough and far-reaching in action, and certain in its beneficial results, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should have a place in every house as a safeguard against consumption and other fatal lung diseases.

Mrs. J. Provost, Renfrew, Ont., states: "My fourteen-year-old boy had a very severe cold in the chest last winter, and I really though he was going to die. He coughed nearly all the time and sometimes would spit up blood. We had about given up all hope of his recovery, when I heard of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. After using one bottle there was a great change in his condition and I can positively say that he was completely cured by two bottles, and he has not been troubled since. I never saw medicine take such quick effect, and I can sincerely recommend it."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Company, Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 9

BLOOD DISEASE CURED.

If you ever contracted any Blood or Private Disease, you are never safe until the virus or poison has been eradicated from the system. Don't be satisfied with a "patch up" by some family doctor. Our New Method is Guaranteed to Cure or No Pay. 25c. Reference Used without Written consent.

Cured When all Else Failed

"Could I live my early life over, this testimonial would not be necessary, though I was no more sinful than thousands of other young men. Early indiscretions, later excesses, exposure to contagious diseases all helped to break down my system. When I commenced to realize my condition I was almost frantic. Doctor after doctor treated me but only gave me relief—not a cure. Hot Springs helped me, but did not cure me. The symptoms always returned. Mercury and Potash drove the poison into my system instead of driving it out. I bless the day your New Method Treatment was recommended to me. I investigated what you were doing, and finding you had over 20 years' experience and responsible financiality, I gave you my case under a guarantee. You cured me permanently, and in six years there has not been a sore, pain, ulcer or any other symptom of the blood disease."

DEAD IN THE HOUSE

Bodies of Mother and Son Discovered in Galt.

DIED FROM GAS AT DUNDAS

Two Farm Laborers Thought to Have Turned On the Gas in Lieu of Turning out the Electric Light, Both Being Attached to Same Fixtures—Boy Shoots Brother—Other Accidents.

Galt, Dec. 5.—Chief of Police Gorman made a gruesome find when he broke into the home of Mrs. James Barber on Spruce street between 8 and 9 o'clock Saturday night. Mrs. Barber and her son George Cathraw were both quite dead. There is only one bed in the house and the woman lay on it. On the floor and partly under it was her son. Coroner Vardon was at once summoned and, after a close examination, he concluded that death was due to one of two causes, suffocation or poisoning. An autopsy to be performed to-day, will probably reveal what it is. Cathraw was a man of 35 or 40, and he lived alone with his mother, a woman of 70. He was last seen alive

Two Farm Laborers Found Dead.

Dundas, Dec. 5.—John McDonald, Waterdown, and Wilmer Laurence, Burlington, were found dead at noon yesterday in a bedroom at the Melbourne House, here. They arrived in Dundas on the last car from Hamilton at 11.45 Saturday night, and went to the hotel. They were shown to a room by the proprietor, Mr. Merrifield. The room was lighted by electricity, the wires being strung along the gas fixtures. Merrified says he showed them how to turn out the electric light and left them. They told him not to disturb them in the morning, as they wished to sleep in.

About noon yesterday there was a strong smell of gas about the hotel, and Merrified traced it to the room occupied by the two men. He could not rouse them and was forced to break open the door. Both the inmates were quite dead. Neither had undressed, and both had gone to bed with nearly all their clothing on. One of them had not even taken the trouble to remove his boots. McDonald was lying on the bed, but Laurence had apparently struggled out and rolled under the bed.

The police say that both men were very much under the influence of liquor when they went to the hotel, but the proprietor does not say so. In fact, he refused to give out any information last evening. They were both about 30 years of age, and were employed as farm hands. Laurence leaves a widow and a family.

Boy Shoots Brother.

London, Dec. 5.—The residents of the northeastern section of the old fourth ward were somewhat agitated Saturday over the shooting of a boy named Doyle, who lives with his parents on North William street. The injured boy, it appears, has been in delicate health, practically an invalid, and Saturday about noon was playing at home with his brother when a quarrel arose. The brother grew very angry, and producing a small calibre revolver he pointed it at the other member of the family and pulled the trigger. There was a cartridge in the weapon, and the bullet entered the boy's cheek, taking a forward course and lodging behind the frontal bone.

Blew Out the Gas.

Saratoga, N. Y., Dec. 5.—Charles Gravelle of Albany and Maurice Champagne, of Sorel, Que., were found overcome by gas in their room at a hotel here yesterday, and were with difficulty resuscitated. The gas had been blown out.

Broke His Neck.

Brockville, Dec. 5.—A fatality occurred Friday near Kemptville, through which William Mills came to his death in a sudden and peculiar manner. He had ascended a tree for the purpose of trimming the branches and, losing his balance, fell to the ground, a distance of 15 feet. Mills had the misfortune to dislocate his neck and when found a few minutes later life was extinct. He leaves a widow and two children.

Loses Sight of One Eye.

Brockville, Dec. 5.—A machinist named Lewis Lemieux, employed at Cossitt's Foundry, suffered a serious injury Saturday. Working on a large drill, boring a piece of steel, a chip flew off, striking him in the ball of one eye, permanently destroying the sight.

Lost One Leg.

Guelph, Dec. 5.—Donald Gordon, a resident of Moffatt, was run over in the C. P. R. yards here Saturday evening and got his left leg badly crushed from the knee down. He was removed to the General Hospital where the injured limb was amputated.

Broken Rail Sends Five Coaches Over 20 Foot Embankment.

Holden, Mo., Dec. 5.—Missouri Pacific passenger train No. 1, westbound, from St. Louis to Kansas City, due at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon, was wrecked at the waterworks bridge, two miles east of here, resulting in the injury of forty-five passengers, many of whom were seriously injured.

The accident was caused by a broken rail, which projected from the track, catching the coach behind the mail car, throwing it from the truck down a 20-foot embankment, causing two other coaches, a Pullman and the diner, to follow it.

Fell 700 Feet to Awful Death.

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 5.—The breaking of a cable at the Loop River Mines at Tuloquon, near Welch, Saturday, dashed three miners on the

WILL IT CURE ME?

That's the personal question a woman asks herself when she reads of the cures of womanly diseases by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Why shouldn't it cure her?

Is it a complicated case? Thousands of such cases have been cured by "Favorite Prescription." Is it a condition which local doctors have declared incurable? Among the hundreds of thousands of sick women cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription there are a great many who were pronounced incurable by local doctors. Wonders have been worked by "Favorite Prescription" in the cure of irregularity, weakening drains, inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It always helps. It almost always cures.

"I commenced taking your medicine, 'Favorite Prescription,' nearly a year ago for chronic inflammation of womb, and can truly say it is the only thing that ever did me any good," writes Mrs. L. G. Wagner, of 18 Edwin Street, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. "I could not walk my distance before using it. After taking six bottles of your 'Favorite Prescription' I find I can work without difficulty and am greatly benefited in general health. Would advise all suffering women to use Dr. Pierce's medicine."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. These Are the Original Little Liver Pills, sold by me for over 40 years ago, by old Dr. R. V. Pierce. They've been much imitated but never equalled. Smallest, easiest to take and best. They're tiny, sugar-coated, anti-bilious granules, a compound of refined and concentrated vegetable extracts. Cure Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Bad Breath, Dizziness, Coated Tongue, Pain in the Side, Torpid Liver, Constipation and all derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels are prevented, relieved and permanently cured. Purely vegetable, mild, yet perfect in their operation on every one of your mild and natural action, these little "Pellets" do their work. Don't gripe like pills. Don't weaken like cathartics. Act on nature's plan. Cure to stay cured. Little wonders. Little prices. 25 cents a vial, at druggists.

Nurses Flee Through Flames.

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 5.—Miss Frankie Reynolds of Toronto was among a number of nurses who escaped without serious injury yesterday morning from the Missouri Baptist Sanitarium dormitory, which was almost completely destroyed by fire. Four nurses were seriously injured and twlove others, including Miss Reynolds, saved themselves by running downstairs through the flames. John Roberts, watchman, a would-be rescuer, was killed.

Fire Hose Ran Amuck.

Philadelphia, Dec. 5.—A section of big hose, which was torn out of a coupling during the weekly test of the fire-main system at Delaware avenue and Race street, Saturday afternoon, went amuck and in its wild gyrations under terrific water pressure bowled over a dozen brawny firemen, five of whom were injured so badly as to require treatment at the Jefferson Hospital. Before the pressure had been shut off the horses of Fire Main Wagon No. 1 were swept off their feet by the force of the water, belgian blocks were torn out of the street pavement, and one fireman was tossed, unconscious, a half square back to Water street.

CARNEGIE TO THE RESCUE.

Mrs. Chadwick's Affairs to Be Settled Through An Unknown Source.

Cleveland, Dec. 5.—While arrests growing out of the Chadwick case are now threatened and are likely to be made to-day by officers of the Federal Court, the plans for a settlement of all claims have been made and will be carried out unless the unforseen happens. The plans for such a settlement were made in the New York office of Andrew Carnegie's attorneys, and lawyers representing Banker Newton and Mrs. Chadwick were there. It is now the open conviction of all concerned, backed by authority that cannot be questioned, that the money for such a settlement will come from persons who long have been associated with Andrew Carnegie. Mr. Carnegie's hand, however, will not appear openly, it is thought, in the transaction. The necessary money will be furnished from an unseen source.

Warrrats For Arrest.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 5.—United States Marshal Chandler, with several deputies, has gone to Oberlin with warrants for the arrest of President Beckwith and Cashier Shear of the failed Citizen's National Bank.

Two Arrests Made.

Oberlin, O., Dec. 5.—President Beckwith and Cashier Shear of the suspended Citizens' National Bank, have been arrested.

Big Fire At Wingham.

Wingham, Ont., Dec. 5.—A disastrous fire occurred here Saturday night, almost completely wiping out the egg and produce warehouses owned by the Gunn Bros., Limited, of Toronto. The frame buildings used for cold storage purposes and filled with large quantities of eggs, were burned beyond hope of salvation. The large brick building which forms the offices was not destroyed. The loss to the buildings is estimated at $10,000 and to produce at between $10,000 and $15,000.

SHOT AT EVERYBODY.

Detroit Man Shoots Two Women and Policeman Who Arrests Him.

Detroit, Dec. 5.—Enraged by his wife, who is suing him for divorce, refusing to allow him to accompany her home from work, Louis Haxer, aged about 35 years, Saturday night, drew a revolver and began shooting at everyone in the bakery where she was employed. Mrs. Adolph Schneider was shot through the chin, wrist and shoulder. Miss Tina Weber was shot through the chin.

Within half an hour Patrolman Peter Redmond, in attempting to arrest Haxer, was shot through the chest and Harvey Tremblay was shot in the side, though not dangerously, when he ran to the wounded officer's assistance. Notwithstanding his wound, which is likely to prove fatal, Redmond, assisted by another patrolman, succeeded in placing Haxer under arrest.

SEAT FOR MR. BORDEN.

May Be Asked to Represent Carleton—The Conservative Caucus.

Montreal, Dec. 5.—It is quite probable that Mr. R. L. Borden will be asked to represent Carleton in the Commons, the constituency now represented by Mr. Kidd, and if accepted by the electors, to again assume the leadership of the Conservative party. A private caucus of prominent Conservatives will be held at the Windsor Hotel here tonight and from what can be learned a formal tender of this seat will be made. Mr. Borden arrived in Montreal yesterday and since then others of the party have registered, among them being: A. E. Kemp, M. P., Toronto; Dr. Sproule, M.P., Markdale; Dr. Barr, M.P., Dufferin; Rufus Pope, ex-M.P., Cooksville; S. Barker, M.P., Hamilton; Andrew Broder, M.P., Dundas, and H. S. Clements, Chatham. Mr. W. F. Maclean, M.P. of Toronto, and others, are expected to-day.

Principal Caven's Obsequies.

Toronto, Dec. 5.—In all the Presbyterian Churches throughout the city yesterday, and, in fact, throughout the country, and in many of the pulpits of other denominations, feeling references were made to the death of Principal Caven. At St. James' Square Presbyterian, where deceased had attended during the past 38 years, the service were of a memorial character and were largely attended. The funeral this afternoon will probably be attended by the most widely representative gathering of public, professional, educational and theological bodies ever seen in Toronto. After a private service at the residence, 76 Spadina road, at 11 o'clock, the remains will be removed to Knox College, where they will lie in state from 12.45 to 1.45. At 2 o'clock there will be a public service at the college, after which the cortege will proceed to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Railway Collision.

London, Dec. 6.—Pere Marquette passenger train, Conductor Pierce, leaving Chotham for Sarnia at 5.43 p.m., ran into a box car standing on the siding, but foul of the main line, badly injuring. Fireman J. Gough, Port Stanley, and Engineer D. Burwell. None of the cars left the track, the passengers receiving nothing worse than a shaking up and minor injuries.

Sir William Was There.

Mexico City, Dec. 6.—Among the distinguished northern visitors at the brilliant inauguration of President Diaz yesterday was Sir William Mulock, Postmaster-General of Canada and party.

Fire At St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Dec. 6.—Fire did several thousand dollars' worth of damage yesterday afternoon in the drug store of Ald. Theo. Sweet.

Municipal Ownership.

Montreal, Dec. 5.—The town of Westmount Saturday decided by a vote of 446 to 111 in favar of municipal ownership of their electric light and incineration plant and power. The vote of 446 represented property to the value of $4,250,490, and the 111 to the value of $1,780,510.

Many Women Suffer Untold Agony From Kidney Trouble.

Very often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backache, sleeplessness, nervousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, few women will ever have "female disorders." The kidneys are so closely connected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take at stated intervals.

Miss Nellie Clark, Lambeth, Ont., tells of her cure in the following words:—"I suffered for about two years with kidney trouble. I ached all over, especially in the small of my back; not being able to sleep well, no appetite, menstruation irregular, nervous irritability, and brick-dust deposit in urine, were some of my symptoms. I took Doan's Kidney Pills. The pain in my back gradually left me, my appetite returned, I sleep well, and am effectually cured. I can highly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from kidney trouble."

WHERE WILL FRED WHITCROFT PLAY?

Report Says he Has Signed With the Canadian Soo Team.

A despatch from Midland says:—"Manager J. P. Mooney of the Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., professional team claims to have cover point Schaeffer of last year's Barrie team and forward Fred. Whitcroft of Peterborough under contract.

Mr. Mooney's agent went the other day to Midland, where the two are located, to take the players to the Soo, but they declined to go.

To-day Mr. Mooney wired here, notifying Manager Turner of the Midland club that Schaeffer and Whitcroft belonged to the Soo. Mr. Turner wired back laconically:—

"If they're under contract to you, take them. We don't want them."

Belleville, Cobourg and Port Hope will very likely be seen in the junior series of the O.H.A. again this winter. Peterborough will have to be in line also in this series.

• • • •

The question of a City League will be thoroughly discussed at Wednesday evening's meeting in the Y.M.C.A. According to the amendment passed at Saturday's annual meeting of the O. H. A., City League players can figure on an O. H. A. team and consequently there is all the more reason to advocate a City League, for players will be developed, which can figure on the O. H. A. teams if needed. This amendment to the O.H.A. rules will also apply to the Trent Valley League and this will overcome the difficulty of the T. A. S. in entering a team in the T. V. and City Leagues. If ice accommodation for practice and matches can be secured there is no reason why the proposed league should not be a reality.

By a handsome majority of 27 votes J. Ross Robertson was re-elected president of the O.H.A. at Saturday's annual meeting, the vote standing 49-22. The election is quite popular in Peterborough where the sporting element favours the action of the O.H.A. in having at its head one who takes a stand to promote pure amateurism in hockey. The amendments to the rules of the game are also received with favour here, especially that of allowing City League players to figure on O.H.A. teams. This change will probably result in the proposed City League in town becoming a reality. The unanimous choice of Mr. A. W. McPherson as treasurer of the Association is of course gratifying to the local club and is equivalent to saying that the interests of the Peterboroughs will be well looked after.

A writer from Fenelon Falls says:—"The rink is being engaged and our hockey team is getting into shape. Barring accident we will have a strong team this season. Quite a number of the old players, will be in it, and it is confidently expected that the lost laurels will be restored and the Stratton Cup returned to Fenelon Falls, where it should now be, stationary, had the old team kept together.

Walls the Lindsay Post:—"Why isn't that rink flooded? Peterborough has started ice-making."

That's not strange, old man. Only the usual course of events, Peterborough first, Lindsay second, (and not always that).

"Toronto's Favorite Hotel"

The years as they pass but add to the popularity of the Queen's Hotel, Toronto. The Hotel has been practically redecorated and refurnished. Every room contains hot and cold water, steam heating and Long Distance Telephone. Rates are from $2.50 per day and up, and with Bath from $3.00 up. 100 Rooms with Baths.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING STORE for you.

REV. J. W. MACMILLAN'S PRESENTATION

Clergyman Well Known Here Honoured in Winnipeg.

The many friends in Peterborough of Rev. J. W. Macmillan, who was recently married in Lindsay will be glad to learn of the honour which was done him in Winnipeg, where he is preaching. The Free Press thus describes it:—"St. Andrew's Church Sunday School room was a scene of brilliancy and rejoicing last evening, the occasion being the welcome home by the congregation of their pastor, Rev. J. W. Macmillan and his bride. The room was tastefully decorated in green and white colours, with evergreens and flowers. Some eight hundred people were present during the evening, and the proceedings were made lively with music by Barrowclough's orchestra. An interesting feature was the presentation to the bride and groom of a beautiful and costly cabinet of silver, of the new Versailles pattern, bearing the inscription, "Presented to Rev. J. W. and Mrs. Macmillan on the occasion of their marriage, by the congregation of St. Andrew's Church November, 1904." The cabinet represented an expenditure of $300. On a centre table which was nicely spread with the bride's cake to which due honour was given. Rev. Mr. Macmillan took opportunity during the evening of making a short address, thanking the congregation for their present to Mrs. Macmillan and himself. The ladies who took an active part in making the occasion so great a success, had a long buffet table spread; and from this they served light refreshments."

HAD DYSPEPSIA BUT HASN'T NOW

Miss Mary Brown used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets and her Stomach Troubles departed once and for all.

"I can say I had Dyspepsia for some time, and tried many medicines, but never met with anything to help me till I used Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets. It is over a year a year now since I used them and I have never had Dyspepsia since."

This is the plain unvarnished statement of Miss Mary Brown, of Birchtown, Shelburne Co., N.S. It shows that Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets not only relieve the pains and discomforts of Dyspepsia but clear the disease out of the system once and for all.

Nor is Miss Brown's case an isolated one. From all over Canada come stories of pains relieved and health restored by Dood's Dyspepsia Tablets. They live on the record of their cures and that is why the Canadian public use more of them every year.

The Meister Glee Singers.

Exchange.—"It may be stated without exaggeration that the Canadian public have never yet heard anything in the art of singing to equal the delightful work of the Meister Glee Singers. It is due to them that the lost art of glee singing has been revived in England. They have had their imitators but never their equals. Their repertoire is a most comprehensive one, and includes specimens of the old English classical glee, quartettes, both grave and humorous, folk songs, harmonized airs and plantation melodies, with bouche fermee and imitation banjo accompaniments." They are assisted by Miss Ethel Henry and Mr. Roland Henry in musical sketches.

The Meister Quartette appears in the Opera House here on Monday evening next. Reserved seats 75c. and 50c. Plan opens Wednesday at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Tickets on sale at the Examiner office and Ormond & Walsh's drug store.

THE JAPANESE FLED

Russians at Poutiloff Met Them With Withering Volleys.

DESPERATE AT PORT ARTHUR

Circumstantial Story Concerning Condition of Gen. Stoessel and His Garrison. Which Confirms Japanese Estimate of the Probable Fall of Port Arthur—Japs Drove Russians North.

Mukden, Dec. 6.—The night of Dec. 2 the Japanese began heavy artillery fire on Poutiloff (Lone Tree) Hill, paving the way for an infantry attack. The Russian artillery answered vigorously for several hours and then slackened. The Japanese flung themselves in masses against the trenches, where they were met with withering volleys and a counter charge with the bayonet. The Japanese fled with enormous losses.

Desperate At Port Arthur.

Che Foo, Dec. 6.—Details of a desperate attack by the Port Arthur garrison on the recently taken position on 203 Metre Hill was received here yesterday morning shortly after midnight through the captain of a small mail steamboat arriving after a dash from the Gulf of Corea. They show that the Russians evidently realize the great value to the Japs of that fort, and that the garrison's only hope of avoiding annihilation lay in recapture of the position. The attack, however, was unsuccessful. Hundreds of Gen. Stoessel's troops were killed in the mountains east of the hill, and several battalions were shelled severely while advancing along the Newtown road from the icy east of Sungshoo and Etse Mountains to make the assault. It is said the Japanese loss was slight, in spite of the fact that 203 Metre Hill is commanded, in a degree, by the guns of Liaothie Promontory and the forts on the Tiger's Tail.

Attack From the East.

Several thousand Russians on Thursday crossed the cove from the Tiger's Tail to the northeast slopes of White Wolf Mountain and moved westward over the mountain paths on their way to Metre Hill. Their advance met with no opposition until they debouched on a table land under the guns of the fort and attempted to scale the steep declivity on the eastern side of the fortification. The Japanese guns swept the plateau and mowed down the Russians by scores. High angle firing was attempted by the Russians, but it apparently had no effect on the defenders of the fort, for all the Japanese guns were in action continuously. When the assault was at its height a sortie from the southern gate of the fort was directed against Russian left. The Russian flank was split and fell back in disorder with heavy loss. A counter charge was made by four Russian infantry companies, but they were shelled so unmercifully that they were compelled to retreat before they could engage the sortie column, which returned to the fort in good order.

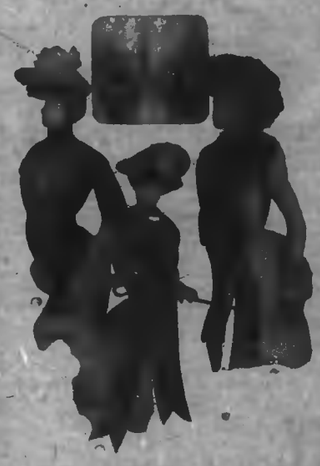
THEN "YULE" Remember Me

XMAS TIDE is on and the season of gift giving has arrived in earnest. Every one expects, and every gives presents at Xmas—The only trouble is in selecting sensibly.

An Old Adage says:—"Presents speak louder than words"—they certainly do and in a very special manner—good judgment, good taste and good form are at stake—Presents stipify all these and express better than words the "good feeling" of one to another. Then select wisely:—



FURS

Nothing can please, nothing can show, nothing can last, noth ng displays as good judgment, nothing as beautiful as a Fur gift; be it Scarf, Muff, Collarette, Gauntlets, Jacket, Fur-lined Coat or Cape—Every time it's worn will bring kindly, warm thoughts of the donor.

Very select, large and beautiful collection of Fur requirements for Children, Ladies and Men—all specials for Xmas Trade—both the costly and the inexpensive kind. If you want to spend $1.00 or $100.00 on a Xmas Gift we can show you the very best for your money.

Alaska Sable Scarfs $7.50 to $30.00 | Columbia Sable Scarfs $5 to $12.50 | Mink Scarfs $15 to $30 | Thibet Scarfs $3 to 15 | Mink Opossum Scarfs $5 to 10 00 | Black Martin Scarfs $5 to 20 | Alaska Sable Muffs $7.50 to 30 | Columbia Sable Muffs $5 to 8.50 | Jap Bear Muffs $4 to 8 | Mountain Bear Muffs $3 to 8 | Mink Muffs $15 to 50 | Thibet Muffs $6.50 to 10 | Black Coney Gauntlets $2.50 to 3.50 | Grey Lamb Gauntlets $3.50 to 6 | Persian Lamb Gauntlets $5 to 12 | Beaver Gauntlets $6 to 10 | Mink Gauntlets $15 to 30 | Electric Seal Gauntlets $3 to 5 | Astrachan Gauntlets $4 to 6.

If its to be Furs of any kind, see that it comes from Barrie's, for there's a quality in our Furs that counts for satisfaction and gives you sterling value for every dollar you invest.

DR. PIGEON'S SUDDEN DEATH

A Prominent Local Physician Passes Away.

Slight Illness From Cold Affects the Heart With Fatal Results.

Doctor Pigeon is dead! The painful intelligence was made known shortly after one o'clock this afternoon, and came as a terrible shock to the townspeople generally, as it was known to but a few that he had been ill at all. He died quite suddenly about one o'clock from heart failure. He was taken ill on Saturday, being troubled with a severe cold, and was unable to attend to his customary duties. On Saturday he complained of a severe cold in the chest, and Dr. Halliday was summoned. Yesterday he appeared better, and this morning his condition seemed still further improved, and he was able to leave his bed. After a conversation with his wife about noon he expressed a desire to go to sleep, and shortly afterwards he breathed his last. His death was due to heart failure.

The late Dr. Henry Pigeon was a native of Devonshire, Eng., and came Peterborough 21 years ago. He has carried on a successful practice in town ever since. He was regarded as a skilful man in his profession, with a special aptitude for surgery. He enjoyed an extensive practice, and is credited with doing a large aomunt of charitable work.

The late Dr. Pigeon was twice married, and is survived by a widow and two small children. Other children by his first wife are also living. Deep sympathy is felt for the bereaved family.

The deceased was a member of Corinthian Lodge A. F. and A. M., and of the Sons of England.

Upon going to press the funeral arrangements had not been made.

The cake your mother made can be made again if you get the ingredients at White & Gillespie's. Everything you need for the Christmas plum pudding in stock at the same modest prices as all the year round. We're under the Opera House, George street.

A LOCKET FOR REV. J. A. WILSON.

Members of St. Paul's Young Men's Guild Remmeber Him

On Eve of Departure They Show Their Appreciation of his Services—The Regular Meeting of the Guild.

Last night the regular meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Paul's Church was held and was of more than a usually interesting character.

There was a good attendance of the members and a very pleasant evening was spent. Rev. J. A. Wilson, the retiring assistant pastor of the church, and the founder of the Guild, was present and gave a very enjoyable address on his recent trip to the World's Fair at St. Louis, and in a spicy address, sparkling with the recital of humourous incidents and replete with interesting information, he delighted the young men.

Mr. A. P. McLean, the president of the Guild was in the chair and at the close of the address by Mr. Wilson expressed on behalf of the Guild its thanks for and its appreciation of the address, as much as of the services that Mr. Wilson has given the Guild since its inception An address was then read to Rev. Mr. Wilson by Mr. R. Thompson, treasurer of the Guild, and Mr. C. R. Cameron, the secretary, on behalf of the members presented him with a handsome gold locket suitably engraved.

The address was as follows:—

Rev. J. A. Wilson, B. A.,

Revd and Dear Sir,—If we had addressed you as "Father", this would be an occasion in religious life, when the term would be most appropriate, for we look upon you as the Father of our Guild, and it is with feelings akin to parting with a loving and devoted Parent, that we now, address you on the eve of your departure to a larger and more responsible field.

Words entirely fail us in expressing our appreciation of the earnest and devoted interest you have always taken in our welfare, and success. We have always realized that these qualities coupled with your pulpit abilities and genial humanity would claim outside attention, and that the time must come when you would be called to assume the responsibilities of a charge of your own, and we rejoice with you that the Master has seen fit to honour you with such a desirable field with such ever increasing possibilities as we understand it is likely to possess.

As a memento of our pleasant and helpful intercourse, for we trust your your experience with us has been helpful even to you, we beg you to accept this locket with the hope that it will long remind you of the donors, who will retain such a vivid recollection of your elevating life, while among them.

We recognize that we are inseparable from the Joys and Sorrows, the Meetings and Partings of this fleeting world. We regret that your present parting from us is so near, but, when your own interests and the Master's service demand it, it would be selfish in us to attempt to prevent you. This we will not do, but join in the prayer that your efforts in your new home will be as greatly blessed to those with whom you come in contact, as they have been here.

Signed on behalf of St. Paul's Young Men's Guild,

C. R. CAMERON, Secretary. A. P. McLEAN, President.

Rev. Mr. Wilson in accepting the gift expressed his deep gratitude to the young men for the kindness shown him during his stay here, and for the culminating of this kind treatment in the gift and expressions of the address.

It has been a distinct pleasure to him to have been associated with the young men of the Guild and he was greatly pleased if this work among them had been of any service to them.

He would leave Peterborough carrying many pleasant memories of his associations with the members of St. Paul's Young Men's Guild, which society he wished continued success.

The Guild discussed entering a team in the Guild Hockey League, and Mr. Rosenberg was appointed to represent the Guild at the next meeting of the Executive of the League.

MISS LOUGH HAS RESIGNED

Efficient Secretary of Y.W.C.A. to Withdraw From Her Position.

Last Board Meeting of the Year—The Treasurer Reports Finances in Good Shape.

At the last Board meeting of the Y.W.C.A., Miss Lough, who has for the past year and a half most efficiently filled the position of General Secretary, handed in her resignation much to the regret of the members of the Board. Miss Lough has done so much for the society in every way that it will be difficult to find anyone so capable to fill her place. The treasurer reported the finances in better shape than in October. The new building is progressing rapidly towards completion, and already a fund has been started by Dr. Davies toward the furnishings. This is most encouraging and the ladies of the Board feel greatful for the help and interest of the people of the town.

GRATUITOUS SLANDER

The role of the Mail and Empire seems to be to conduct political discussion by a policy and practice of slander. Hon. G. P. Graham, Provincial Secretary, is singled out for its most vicious attacks. He was summoned as a witness in the bogus ballot case at Belleville, and because he would and could not testify that he knew all about it or anything about it, he is made the subject of the most virulent abuse. Having charge of the organization of the Eastern part of the province in the Dominion elections, Mr. Graham naturally came into contact with the candidates in the field, and amongst them with Mr. B. O. Lett. His relation to the management of the campaign would account for Mr. Graham being consulted upon perfectly legitimate arrangements, and because he did not do anything wrong or have any sinister relations with anybody, he is as much abused as if he were deeply implicated. In fact the disappointment of the Mail and Empire and kindred sheets, is made an excuse for abuse of the most vicious character. He is assailed with all sorts of insinuations and implied charges which have no foundation in fact and a systematic attempt is made to discredit every act, however innocent, that can be tortured by malice into a subject for slander. In the eyes of the organ and those of its kidney, Hon. Mr. Graham's crime consists in his not being guilty of any wrong-doing, and the less cause for connecting him with any wrong-doing, the greater the necessity from a party point of view of a slanderous outcry. Lubel a public man a Liberal, invest him with influence and ability, place him in a position of trust and responsibility and you at once furnish a cue to certain discreditable Conservative organs for a full course of slander and abuse and the less cause the greater the malicious industry of detraction and false charges.

ONLY ONE CASE TO DISPOSE OF

Case of Father vs. Son at the Non-Jury Sittings

Father Claimed Son had not Lived up to an Agreement—How Settlement Was Made.

There was only one case on the list for trial at the Non-Jury Sittings which opened Monday afternoon at one o'clock before Hon. Mr. Justice Britton.

The complainant was Stephen Boyce, a farmer, resident in Smith township, and the defendant William George Wellington Boyce, the plaintiff's son. The plaintiff's farm containing 100 acres of land was conveyed to the defendant by conveyances dated May 8, 1899, May 13, 1899 and April 20, 1904, on condition that defendant would provide for the maintenance of the plaintiff and of his two daughters, Ada Rosetta and Ethel Isabel and would also pay certain annuities then mentioned to the plaintiff's daughters. It was alleged in the plaintiff's statement of claim that the annuities are in arrears, that the payments had not been made to the daughters and that he had not been provided with a suitable maintenance. He asked to have the conveyances set aside and that the lands be reconveyed to him.

The defendant claimed that the annuities had been paid regularly and that it was impossible for him and his family to associate with the plaintiff and his family because of differences which had arisen between them. He stated that he was willing and always had been willing to carry out the contract to the extent possible under the circumstances.

Settlement was arrived at between the parties by which judgment was entered for the plaintiff with costs and a reference ordered to the Master at Peterborough to propound a scheme whereby the plaintiff and his daughters may occupy the homestead farm and defendant and his family may occupy the other farm and the annuities and charges mentioned in the agreement be redistributed by the Master as he may think just and equitable.

Donnelgious, Peck, Kerr and Stevenson for plaintiff and A. P. Poussette for defendants.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

LITERARY SOCIETY OF COLLEGIATE

Splendid Meeting was Held Monday Afternoon.

Interesting Programme including an Oratorical Contest on "War"—A Flourishing Society

The second regular meeting of the Collegiate Institute Literary Society, was held on Monday afternoon. The society met in the Y.M.C.A., where the meetings will be held in future, as it has been found that the Collegiate does not afford sufficient accommodation, on account of the lack of an assembly room and a piano.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. There was then a discussion on the question of ordering society pins and colours. These will probably be ready for the next meeting. The question of admitting the Second Form to the Literary Society was considered, and it was unanimously decided to invite them to join it. A piano solo was then rendered by Miss M. Robertson. The selection was Godard's Valse, and was much enjoyed.

The principal feature of the programme was an oratorical contest on "War." The speakers were Mr. L. Brace and Mr. M. Fife, both being members of the Third Form, Mr. Brace speaking first. He began by defining war and mentioning some of the motives which lead to it. He then spoke of its tremendous cost, both in the loss of life and the great financial loss which it causes. He stated that in the present war more than 15,000 Japanese were killed in one day, and that the cost of the wars of the last century had been estimated at one billion dollars. He mentioned as other evil consequences of war the neglect of industry, and the return after the war of so many men who are rendered unfit for industrial or commercial pursuits.

The speaker said that the results of war were not all evil. He mentioned the cultivation of courage and self-denial as some of its good effects. Mr. Brace concluded by stating that arbitration was the ideal way of settling disputes between nations, but at present there seemed little hope of this method being adopted universally.

In Mr. Fife's address much the same order was followed. After defining war, he enumerated several different kinds, giving examples from history. Among the results of war he mentioned loss of life, destruction of property, the misery among the wives and children of the soldiers, and the expense to the nations involved. In speaking of the latter he said that in the Russo-Japanese war twenty millions of dollars were expended monthly. He then spoke of the wages of war, contrasting them with peace. To illustrate this point he said that in war a man was considered to have a right to the life and property of the enemy. The speaker then referred to the customs in connection with a declaration of war. He finally summed up the points of his speech, recalling very clearly the various topics on which he had spoken.

A very striking feature of both addresses was the amount of care that had evidently been taken in their preparation and the accuracy of the statistics which the speakers gave. Mr. Fewsepden, the hon. president of the society, had consented to act as judge of the contest. He first congratulated the contestants on the excellence of their addresses, and expressed himself as being very much pleased with both. He said that in point of merit they were so nearly equal that he found it very difficult, almost impossible, to decide between them. Finally, however, he gave the decision in favour of Mr. M. Fife.

The next item on the programme was a reading by Miss A. Champbell. The selection chosen was a chapter from Barrie's popular novel, "Margaret Ogilvie," which proved interesting and amusing. One of the most popular numbers was a chorus by the Society Glee Club, who sang the German song, "Die Lorelei." The club has been organized since the last meeting, and this was its first appearance on the platform. The students have taken considerable interest in it, and it is hoped that before the next meeting they will secure the services of a capable instructor, and that the club may prove a great addition to the pleasure and interest of the meetings.

The reading and discussion of the constitution of the Society was to have formed part of the programme, but on account of the lateness of the hour it was postponed until the next meeting. It was decided, however, that the name of the society should be the "Philomathean Literary Society of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute."

Mr. Kenner was critic for the evening but he did not think it wise to continue the meeting beyond the usual hour, and decided to withhold his criticism until the next meeting. — Com.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION MET.

Some Important Resolutions Were Passed Yesterday Morning.

More Attention Should be Paid to Training the Boys—Resolution re Rev. J. A. Wilson's Departure

The regular monthly meeting of the Ministerial Association was held Monday morning. There were present, Rev. Messrs. J. C. Davidson in the chair, Dr. Torrance, J. G. Potter, W. J. Joliffe, A. H. Brace, J. G. Lewis, Dr. Crothers, F. J. Scott, J. A. Wilson and H. B. A. Ketchen.

The minutes were read and confirmed.

Rev. F. J. Scott was admitted as a member.

Police Magistrate Dumble was present upon invitation and he addressed the meeting on the striking lack of obedience to authority and the disrespect prevalent among boys of the town. This was largely due to home environment and lack of parental control. He thought that public corporal punishment would be advisable. There was a great lack of proper teaching of the boys in the home. Girls were trained in the factories, but not in the homes. These matters should be discussed from the pulpits of the town.

The Association gave its general approval to the remarks made and the Magistrate was assured of a resolution and through the President of its approval and support of his useful work in his important office.

The following resolution was then unanimously passed in reference to the departure of Rev. J. A. Wilson, of whom many kind words were said:—

Whereas, the Rev. J. A. Wilson, B.A., will shortly leave our town it is moved by W. J. Joliffe and seconded by J. G. Potter, and resolved:—That we, the members of this Ministerial Association desire to assure Mr. Wilson of our appreciation of him, and of his work during his residence in Peterborough. For two years he performed with much efficiency the duties of Secretary—always energetic and devoted, he has rendered very valuable service to us, his brethren.

While on personal grounds we regret his departure, at the same time we most heartily congratulate him on the call he has received to an important charge in Hamilton. We earnestly pray that he may see the work of the Lord prosper, and that through his labours many may be won for Christ.

Rev. Dr. Crothers was chosen to preach in St. Paul's on Jan. 15th, on municipal affairs, when attendance of Mayor and Council will be invited.

A resolution re local option in the ship of Smith was then passed as follows:—

Moved by Rev. J. P. Potter and seconded by Rev. A. H. Brace, That this Ministerial Association having learned of the effort that is being made to banish the bars in the Township of Smith, desires to express its hearty sympathy with the movement. We recognize with deep interest and thanksgiving the successful work of the clergy in Douro and Emismore in banishing the sale of liquor and hope that our brethren throughout the Township of Smith will be likewise successful, and we would encourage the people to express themselves accordingly.

The Hospital Committee for the month was arranged, the clergymen appointed being, Rev. Messrs. A. H. Brace, F. J. Scott, Dr. Crothers and Dr. Torrance.

According to previous arrangement the subject of "Pulpit Notices in the Press" was then taken up, Rev. J. C. Davidson being requested to introduce the subject. A most interesting, frank and harmonious discussion followed, participated in by all. A perceptible enlargement of such notices has taken place in recent years, which, while in some ways, unobjectionable, yet, open the door to certain abuses, such as undue prominence given to music so as to emphasize what is merely designed to help. The preaching of the Gospel, the lifting up of the crucified and worship in the beauty of holiness were the PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS—1904.

ADDRESS

To the Electors of the West Riding of Peterborough.

Gentlemen,—Having received, at the hands of a duly constituted convention of the Liberal-Conservatives of the West Riding of Peterborough, the nomination for election to the Legislative Assembly of the Province, I have the honour to submit for your consideration my views respecting some of the important questions which may be expected to influence the Electorate at an early date.

SECRECY OF THE BALLOT.

This is a matter of paramount interest to every elector. It has from time to time been a boast, whether rightly or wrongly, that certain Conservatives have supported the Government candidate, it being openly asserted that this boast was born of actual knowledge. The form of ballot now in use makes this possible, and leaves it open for unscrupulous politicians to coerce voters over whom they are supposed to have some power. It has always been, and still is the policy of the Conservative party to render the ballot absolutely secret.

POLITICAL CORRUPTION.

To assert that the party now in power is as free from corrupt practices as the Opposition, is so idle, and so opposed to the evidence that it requires no answer. The Government cannot escape the responsibility of the many atrocious acts which have come to light; the names of the recognized agents have appeared so often in connection with these transactions, and though the perpetrators have so flagrantly gone "unwhipped of Justice," no same person will fail to condemn the authorities who have wilfully become accessories.

ADMINISTRATION.

The affairs of the Province have been so conducted that the expenditure has increased enormously out of proportion to the current revenue. Extravagance has been rampant, contracts for supplies for the public institutions have been awarded without competition; orders without number have been given to party friends, and for the purpose of securing the support of political opponents. The business of the Province has been under a management which, in the case of any large corporation, would not be tolerated. This Government, by virtue of its long lease of power, has become imbued with the idea that the people's money is to be spent for the pleasure and aggrandisement of the party in power. It is time that this state of things should be changed.

OPPOSITION POLICY.

It has been untruthfully stated that Mr. Whitney and his followers are unable to, or have failed to, pronounce a definite policy. No statement could be farther from the truth. On the contrary, Mr. Whitney's policy is well defined with regard to the following among other matters:—

1st. The Educational Department; the appointment of an advisory council from among the expert educationalists of the province.

2nd. The administration of the Liquor law free from political influence.

3rd. The reservation of the timber, (except pine) for the settler.

4th. A secret ballot for the protection of the voter.

5th. Breaking up the School Book monopoly.

6th. Localization of the mining offices.

7th. Public ownership of revenue-bearing franchises for the benefit of the province.

8th. Branch agricultural colleges.

9th. Better inspection of factories, and labelling of prison-made goods, as prison-made.

10th. To enact proper labour legislation for the prompt settlement of disputes.

11th. Encouragement of systems of sewerage in towns and villages.

The Liberal-Conservative party confidently appeal to the electorate at this time in the history of the Province, in the firm belief that the great heart of the people is with them in the determination to place in power men untainted by such debased associates as have brought the fair name of this province into undeserved disrepute.

Gentlemen, if the principles which I have attempted to briefly outline commend themselves to your judgment, I ask your support and influence in favour of myself as the Liberal-Conservative candidate. In my humble way, if elected, I will to the extent of my skill and power, assist in giving effect to these principles.

I have the honour to be,

Yours respectfully,

T. E. BRADBURN.

Ladies' and Gentlemen's Leather Hand Bags, Purses and Pocket Books, Wrist Bags, Trunks and Valises.

Church's treasures, which should still be relied on to subsist upon.

Reasons were adduced for the form of certain announcements and it was pointed out that the clergy were not always consulted in regard to them. Sensational forms of subjects merely designed to attract were strongly deprecated.

Reports of sermons, or extracts therefrom dealing with matters affecting the community were often useful, but sometimes reports appeared which seemed to direct more attention to the mere name to the discourse.

Many other aspects of the subject were brought forward and discussed with perfect unanimity and a deeply interesting meeting came to an end.

THE DAYLIGHT STORE

WHERE DO YOU BUY YOUR CLOTHES?

This is a very important matter, and still many men appear to think it of no consequence. They buy just anywhere they happen to see something that strikes their fancy.

But there's a difference in stores, as well as in clothes.

Some stores go in for "cheapness," others for quality.

Which do you prefer?

"You pay your money and take your choice."

If it is smartness of style, perfection of fit, thorough reliability—at a fair price—you are after, then this is the CLOTHING-STORE for you.

GOOD CITIZENS COMING TO TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. George Young Leaving North Monaghan

Their Friends There Monday Night Presented Them With Address and Remembrances.

Mr. and Mrs. George Young, of North Monaghan, have decided to remove to Peterborough, and retire from farming, and on Monday night about fifty of their neighbours and friends gathered at their home on the Boundary Road to bid them farewell and to express their regret at their departure from the neighbourhood in which they are so widely known and highly respected.

The gathering and the events incidental to it were complete surprises to Mr. and Mrs. Young, but they soon made their unbidden but welcome guests at home, and a delightful evening was spent, during the course of which Mr. James Middleton, after he had called the company to order, read the following address to Mr. and Mrs. Young, and Mrs. J. Campbell and Mr. Wm. Swinton presented the host and hostess with a beautiful silver cake dish and a pair of handsome fur gauntlets, on behalf of those who had gathered together on the occasion:—

To Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Young, North Monaghan:

Dear Friends,—We are gathered here to-night on the eve of your removal from amongst us to bid you a fond farewell. The close relations between us, as neighbors and friends cannot now be broken without feelings of sadness, but we hope that you may be long spared and that we may see your kindly faces quite often in our neighborhood.

In your home in town you will find new friends and while it may seem difficult to adapt yourself to your new surroundings yet we trust that your life there may be happy and that well earned retirement, after years of daily toil, should prove all the more delightful.

We cannot let you leave us without in some way other than words conveying to you our deep appreciation of your many kindly acts and neighborly disposition, ever willing to lend a helping hand in the hour of need and your ready help to all within your district. We ask you to accept these gauntlets and this silver cake dish, not as a reward, but as a remembrance that your long and useful lives have left a strong bond, between you and your many friends. May that trust in Divine Providence, which has kept you through the years bring you to that rich reward, and prove to your closing years, a source of comfort. Wishing you the fullest compliments of the coming season, and a safe removal to your new home, signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends,

WM. SWINTON,
J. CAMPBELL.

Mr. Young was completely surprised at the turn of events, and in a few well chosen words expressed his high appreciation of the kindness shown his estimable wife and himself by their numerous friends, not only in the expressions of the address and the presentation, but also during the years in which they have been residents of the community.

He regretted leaving the neighbourhood in which he and his wife and family were shown so many kindnesses, but assured them that he would never forget his associations with the good people of the neighbourhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Young have, during their residence in Monaghan of a number of years, enjoyed the esteem of the community. They are now removing to Peterborough and will reside on Park street.

Nervous Dyspepsia

Mr. George Belen, Spry, Bruce Co., writes:—"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia for some years, and after using nine boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I felt better than I had for years. Toronto Buys Gas Stock.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—At the auction sale of stock in the Consumers' Gas Company yesterday the city bought 200 shares half at 210½ and half at 210¾, the aggregate being $42,075. At $50 per this gives the city $10,000 stock in the company, thus securing a directorship on the board to the executive officer of Toronto. About 5,000 shares were sold, the price at the close being 214.

MR. BORDEN'S DENIAL

Had No Knowledge of Mr. Blair's Resignation.

WAS GREAT SURPRISE TO HIM

Explicit Denial of Certain Press Statements—Was Never Spoken to and Had No Idea Whatever of the Matters Set Forth in the World's Story Until He Read It.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 7.—In an interview yesterday R. L. Borden made the following statement with regard to Mr. Blair's resignation of the Chairmanship of the Railway Commission, dealing entirely that he had any connection with that resignation:

"With reference to certain press statements respecting Mr. Blair's resignation as Chairman of the Railway Commission I wish to say that that resignation came as a great surprise to me. I did not, directly or indirectly suggest to him or ask him to resign. I held out no inducement to him to resign. I had no interview with him upon the subject, nor did any one on my behalf approach him upon the subject. In short I had nothing whatever to do with his resignation, and I was thoroughly surprised when I heard of it.

"I had no connection with and I know nothing of any negotiations respecting the alleged change of ownership of La Presse, and I had nothing to do with such change, if it took place. I never had any interview or communication with any English or American capitalists, or with any other person, with respect to any proposed contracts for the building of the Grand Trunk Railway. I never even heard of the alleged construction syndicate. No one approached me with any personal request respecting the construction of that railway, and any statement or suggestion to the contrary is utterly without foundation.

"I never received any contribution for any purpose from Mr. Russell or Mr. Greenshields or any gentleman connected with them, or from any English or American capitalist, nor did the Conservative party, so far as I am aware. Until the article in The Toronto World appeared I had never even heard of any attempt by Conservatives to induce the withdrawal of Libera' candidates in the Province of Quebec. It would astonish me beyond measure to learn that any such attempt was made or proposed."

ADVICE OF PREMIER ROSS.

Believes Temperance Electors to Remake the Legislature to Suit Them.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—The feature of the fifty-sixth annual session of the Ontario Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance, held at Victoria Hall yesterday, was the open meeting last night, when greetings were received from the various kindred organizations. Mr. F. S. Spence congratulated the parent organization in the temperance movement upon the splendid progress made, and the glorious harvest reaped from the work of the past sixty years, but voiced dissatisfaction at the failure of the Legislature to give effect in legislation to the sentiment of the Province expressed at the polls.

Bro. Hon. Geo. W. Ross, a Past Grand Patriarch, whose membership in the order dates back to 1849, in a vigorous speech which was well received, reaffirmed his fidelity to temperance principles, pointed out to the delegates that the Legislature was what the people made it, that it could only go as far as the people who elected it desired it to go; assured them he intended shortly to again give them a chance to remake the Legislature; invited them to send as many temperance men and Prohibitionists as they chose to the Legislature, as country must come before party. He pointed out the unreliability of the vote on the academic question of temperance as an indication of what the electors would do in a political election, and the impossibility of obtaining temperance legislation unless men were sent to the Legislature to support it.

"Give me my compass and Peruna and I will steer clear of wrecks of all kinds and land in port safe and well with vessel and men."—Capt. L. T. Carter, 122 10th Avenue, Pensacola, Florida.

Capt. E. A. Watson, M. R., 49 Elizabeth street, Ottawa, Ont., writes:

"Peruna has my heartiest endorsement. If there is any place that you are helpless when ill it is on board a steamer, at sea, miles away from any assistance. Sometimes two or three of my men would be sick at one time and seriously cripple the force, but since we have learned of the value of Peruna, by taking a few doses they recuperate very quickly. We use it for colds, lung trouble and kidney diseases, and have also found it very fine for la grippe.

Kuroki's Desperate Flight.

Gen. Stoessel's position now is so desperate that even Russians in this city admit the fortress must fall in a few days. The Japanese occupy a line extending from Rihlung Mountain northeast of the city westward and southwestward through Antze, Sungshoo and Etse Mountains to 203 Metre Hill. There is a small part of the Russian garrison in the fort on Liaothie Promontory, but it is valueless, as it is cut off from the main body of the defenders by the newest position Gen. Nogi has taken. The Russians on the Tiger's Tail cannot get to White Wolf Mountain's highest part, as the upper slopes are commanded by the Japanese guns. The hill enables Nogi's men to sweep the harbor from the west as well as from Rihlung Mountain on the northeast and Orlung on the east. It is manifest the Russian fleet is out of commission, as all its guns and most of its men are on shore, and there remains no part of the harbor in which a single ship can be safe from Japanese shells. All the Russians on the Tiger's Tail can do apparently, is to retire to the city proper, and even there they are likely soon to be shelled from Golden Hill and Electric Cliff.

Japs Drove Russians North.

Tokio, Dec. 6.—The following announcement was made at Imperial headquarters last evening:

"The situation at the front with the Manchurian army is as follows: At about 2 o'clock in the morning on Saturday our infantry occupied Kushiatsu, driving the enemy northward. The village had been firmly held by the enemy's infantry with machine guns. Our casualties were twelve men wounded and not one killed. The enemy lost over thirty men. During the evening of Dec. 3 the enemy's artillery shelled Waitao Mountain. Two or three companies of his infantry advancing toward the mountain were repulsed."

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AND HANDSOME ARMORY

The Report of the Special Committee Which Visited the Schools in Western Cities Presented by Mr. H. P. Kennedy---The Plan for the Erecting of the Collegiate Institute and Armouries on the Central Park and Separate School Property Outlined---The Visit of the Deputation has Given Them Many new Ideas as to the Equipment of Collegiate Institutes---Peterborough's Educational Facilities as far as Buildings and Equipment are Concerned are Much Inferior to Those of Other Cities---A Magnificent Property in the Central Part of the Town Proposed---Illustrations of the New Collegiate Institute and Armouries.

The Examiner is able to-day to present to its readers the report of the Special Committee representing the Peterborough Board of Education which some weeks ago visited some of the towns in Western Ontario, and also Detroit, the object of their visit being to inspect the various school buildings in the different cities visited with a view of incorporating any idea which they might consider worthy of imitation in the new Collegiate Institute which the ratepayers of the town have sanctioned them to erect in Peterborough.

The Board took the position that since the amount to be expended was quite large, $50,000, and the building which the Board proposed erecting was one which would have to serve the needs of the town for a number of years, it should only be built after a thorough inspection of the most modern schools had been made, and the best features found in them, both in the building and equipment, should be incorporated in the Institute which would be erected here.

A Handsome Building.

It will be remembered that at the time the vote was taken on the by-law to raise the $50,000 to provide for the construction of the Institute Mr. J. E. Belcher, the Board's architect, prepared a plan of a building, and a beautiful drawing in colours representing this building was for some days shown in McDonald's window. This drawing was admired greatly by all who saw it, and the general impression was that the building as represented then would prove a decided ornament to the town, and would be a fitting representation of the progressive spirit of the citizens.

A HANDSOME BUILDING.

The plan of the building as shown in the accompanying illustration, is one which will be a credit to the town, and will provide the much-needed accommodation for Collegiate Institute students. The interior plans have been very materially changed from those at first contemplated by reason of the equipments seen in the schools visited by the committee.

A half-tone cut of this building is shown accompanying this article, and with a few minor details of construction this is the building which will be erected and which will be then known as the Peterborough Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Belcher's architectural ideas embodied in the plan as shown, are certainly worthy the importance of the structure, in regard to the purpose of its construction, and after having seen the other schools and institutes there will be practically no change made in the outside structure, although the visit has opened the eyes of the committee with respect to the equipment and interior arrangement of the Institute. As a result, the plans which were at first suggested by the members of the Board formed from their own opinions as to certain improvements which experience in the present Institute had suggested, and which suggestions were acted upon by the architect in the preparation of the first plan, have been almost entirely changed, and the Institute as far as the interior is concerned, is vastly different from that at first planned, and with which many are fairly familiar.

Ideas From Modern Schools.

That the new plans will be superior to those at first contemplated goes without saying, for on the recent trip the committee saw the very best school buildings in the country, and while no one of them was absolutely perfect, the suggestions which the members received from a visit to them will enable them to plan a school embodying the very best ideas in each, and the result should be that the Peterborough school will be as nearly perfect as it is possible to make it.

As a perusal of the report will show, the committee has made a thorough investigation and the suggestions, and recommendations are made only after the most careful consideration.

The importance that the places visited attach to the question of education is evidenced by the amount of money spent in the erection, equipment and maintenance of their schools, and in this respect it must be admitted that Peterborough is far behind her progressive sisters in the western part of the province. In industrial activity, and commercial enterprise, no city of moderate size, even though it may be larger than Peterborough, can surpass, and very few of them can equal, this town, but in this one particular there is no denying the fact that Peterborough is far behind.

Peterborough's Need of Educational Facilities.

The deputation which some months ago went to learn something with reference to the free school book plan found out the same thing, and other towns with a population no larger than that of Peterborough, possessed schools and collegiate institutes far superior to those of this town.

Of course, all these cost money, and a comparison of the rate of taxation in other cities will give a denial of the statement that even with poorer schools, Peterborough's tax rate is as high. In Windsor, for instance, the tax rate is 27 mills on the dollar, and the school rate 12 1-2 mills. In London the rate is 23 mills and the school rate 10 1-2, while in Peterborough the rate last year was 19 1-2 mills, the school rate being only 6 9-10. This is the total school rate, made up as follows:—Public school rate, 4 9-10; school debenture rate, 1 76-100; Collegiate Institute, 1 24-100. It will thus be seen that the cry that taxes are high here is one which, when the rates in other places are considered, is not wholly justified.

A COMPREHENSIVE PLAN.

The representations made to the Government by the deputation which waited upon it some time ago, with reference to the erection of an armouries building, were successful, and the present proposal, which has the sanction of the Government and the School Board is to erect the two buildings on the Central Park and the Separate School grounds, making a beautiful property in the centre of the town.

The recommendations of the committee, made in the report of Mr. H. P. Kennedy, the chairman, and which will be adopted by the Board, provide for the erection of a most modern building, and one of which the town might well be proud.

The details of the scheme which the School Board, the town, and the Government, intend to carry out, are known to the majority of Examiner readers, but a brief review may be made. The plan at present is one, the carrying out of which will make in the centre of the town a property which will be a credit to it, and to those who worked out the details, and to whose energetic efforts the success is due.

The Scheme is Brief.

The town, the School Board and the Government, have decided to purchase from the Separate School Board the property lying between Murray and McDonnel streets, and immediately west of the Central Park, and upon this property, with a portion of the Central Park, donated for the purpose by the town and county, who are joint owners of it, the Collegiate Institute shown in the accompanying cut, will be erected, as well as the new armouries, which, largely through the efforts of Mr. R. H. Hall, M.P., the Government will erect here.

These armouries, upon which from $100,000 to $100,000 will be spent, will be similar to those in London, a cut of which is published elsewhere on this page, and a glance will show the reader the magnitude and beauty of the building.

The armouries will face on Murray street, and will occupy lots three and four, which will include a portion of the park, and also a part of the Separate school grounds. Of course the present drill shed will have to be removed. The Collegiate Institute will be on the other side of the lots, on McDonnel street, and the space between and at the rear of the buildings, will be used for parade and play grounds, while the front will be kept as a park. With the erection of such handsome and costly buildings in the centre of the town its appearance will be greatly improved, and the efforts of those who have been instrumental in effecting the consummation of the plan as outlined briefly, deserve the highest commendation of the citizens of Peterborough.

The New Collegiate Institute Which Will be Erected in Peterborough.

The Committee's Report.

The report of the committee, as presented by Mr. H. P. Kennedy, at the meeting of the Board of Education, is as follows:—

In accordance with the resolution passed at the last regular meeting of your Board, the chairman of the Building Committee accompanied by the architect, Mr. Belcher, visited Toronto for the purpose of obtaining all the information possible that will enable the committee to provide a Collegiate Institute, modern in all its appointments and in every way in keeping with our up-to-date and progressive town.

At Toronto, Inspector Hughes, who has so often given your Board valuable advice on school matters, was waited upon. He frankly admitted that the school buildings in Toronto could not compare with those of Detroit and strongly recommended a visit to that city whose school building and equipment he considered second to none in the country.

Acting on his suggestion the Building Committee decided to send a deputation consisting of the following members of the Board to Detroit at once: Mr. Hartley, Chairman of the Board; Mr. Pringle, Chairman of the Supervision Committee; Mr. Ferguson, of the Building Committee; the Chairman of the Building Committee and Mr. J. E. Belcher, C.E., the Board's Architect.

A WISE COURSE.

The Board of Education before deciding definitely on the plans took the wise course of sending a deputation to visit the most modern schools in the cities in Western Ontario and also Detroit to get ideas and suggestions from those buildings and their equipments in those cities. The report of the committee published here is ample justification of the wisdom of this course.

Leaving Peterborough on Wednesday evening the deputation reached Detroit early on Thursday morning. According to previous arrangements they were met by the Superintendent of Schools, representatives of the Board and Principal of the High Schools.

The Detroit Schools.

The first school visited was the Central High School. This building cost $200,000 and from an architectural standpoint was the finest school visited. It is built in the form of the letter "H" unfinished—it being the intention to enlarge in the near future. The main corridor is 40 feet wide with polished marble pillars, wainscoting and tiled floor. The halls were 20 feet wide throughout the building and the ceilings 18 feet in height. Besides having stairways from one floor to the other, four elevators connect with the different flats. This building accommodated 1,700 pupils, and has a lecture hall with galleries, which has a seating accommodation for 1700. On each floor there is a large assembly class room and from this each class goes to the recitation room. In this room, the teacher in charge, in many cases, has no classes his work being merely to look after the pupils and to assist in any work they have in hand. The best teachers are required for these rooms.

A Paid Librarian.

A common play room was provided for the boys and girls, and we found this idea prevailed in all the schools in Detroit. The school was dismissed while the deputation was in the building, and we saw for ourselves that the corridors and halls were freely used by both during recreation. We found on the first floor a well equipped library for the use of teachers and pupils. The librarian is a paid official of the Board, and the library is maintained by a yearly appropriation of $300. The tables and chairs were provided for those who wished to spend some time in reading or studying in the library.

The Chemical and Physical laboratories were on the ground floor, and were well arranged and equipped for carrying on the work of those departments.

Botany and Zoology.

The Botanical and Zoological rooms were on the third flat, and off the botany room was a small conservatory, in the south-east corner of the building. Off the workrooms of each of these science departments, separate class rooms were provided as well as store rooms. Special seats with a book rest were found in each class. The manual training department was also on this floor and was provided with all the necessary equipment.

The commercial department was in the basement, and as the Principal said was not in keeping with the other departments.

PERFECT VENTILATION.

Some new ideas in the arrangement of the rooms and the value of large airy halls were learned in the committee's visit to Detroit and the Bradford Smith school was almost an ideal building in this respect. The ventilation also was given special attention to and was described as being nearly perfect. A lady principal controlled this school and the teachers were all ladies.

In the afternoon the deputation visited Bradford Smith School, which is considered the best public school in Detroit. The building is comparatively new, and is complete in its arrangements. It has 15 rooms for classes besides the principal's room. Large airy halls run the length of the building, the class rooms being on either side. One feature particularly noticeable in connection with this building, is the abundance of light for each room, the windows being extremely large. The school has for its principal a young lady, and, in fact, all the teachers are ladies.

The ventilation in this building appeared to be perfect, as well as the heating. The system used is the American Blower System. The engineer in charge gave your committee a very full description of the working of the system.

Schools Which Cost $250,000.

Leaving this school the committee next visited the Eastern High School, where we were received by Professor Bishop, the principal, the arrangements having been made by the superintendent for our reception. This school is generally conceded to be a model in every respect. It is a four story building, the material used is pressed brick, and brown-stone for foundations and facings, with a slate roof artistically arranged. Its outward appearance does not compare with the Central School, but on entering a person is at once impressed with its appearance, and completeness of arrangement. The building cost about one half—$250,000—of that of the Central, but is, from a teacher's stand-point, a much superior building. The woodwork is finished in oak throughout, the greater part of which is quarter-cut. The corridors and halls are large, well lighted and perfectly ventilated.

Beauty and Efficienty Combined.

The doors opening into the corridors and halls have large bevel bevel plate glass glass panels, extending nearly their whole length, and besides providing light for the corridors, has a most beautiful effect on the general appearance of the room. Another improvement is the matter of hat and cloak accommodation. Around these halls and corridors are lockers, one for each of the pupils, which are made of oak,

MANUAL TRAINING.

Chemical and physical laboratories were features of the Eastern High School in Detroit, which impressed the deputation with their completeness and practical value. Manual training also occupies an important place in the curriculum of this school. The work rooms were provided with the most modern equipment that money could buy.

and at first sight appear to be the wainscotting of the building. The principal strongly recommended this plan for several reasons. It does away with separate cloak rooms, and is much to be preferred from a sanitary standpoint. The lockers are connected with the ventilating system, and if the wraps are wet when placed in the locker they are dry when required again. It also does away with over crowding in small cloak rooms, and enables a member of the staff to be constantly in attendance. Your committee was very favourably impressed with this idea, and would strongly recommend its adoption in our new building.

The principal then took us to the basement of this building, which is practically on a level with the ground, the room for engine and the boiler being about six feet below. On the ground floor we found the chemical and physical laboratories, manual training room, and play-room for boys and girls. The arrangement and equipment of the chemical and physical laboratories was most complete, the equipment being the best that money could buy. Each of these departments has a general work room.

Complete Equipment.

The tops of the tables were slate in most cases; in one or two places we found glass. Each of the work rooms was provided with an operating shelf, running from one side of the room, while up the centre were seven large tables, each to accommodate four pupils, and each one provided with two sinks, and each having two flues to carry off noxious gases. These flues opened into a duct running across the top of the room, which was operated by an electric fan, causing a current of air continually to be circulating through it. On account of this the air in these rooms is as pure as in any other room in the building. Hot water was provided by means of a gas-heating apparatus; it was a small arrangement, but would heat water in two or three minutes.

Off the chemical laboratory was a class room with a large operating table covered with slate, and having a sink at one end. The seats for the pupils were provided with book rests, to enable the students to take notes. In this room we found two large cabinets, in which were kept balances, microscopes, etc. Off the class room were two rooms, a general store room and a large teacher's room, which had every facility for making experiments and preparing work for the classes.

Physical Work.

In the physical laboratory the arrangement was similar to that in the chemical department, having a large work room, well fitted up with appliances, including forge, anvil, and electric motor. The work shelf was around one side of the room, and had tables along the centre provided with sinks, escape flues and two concrete piers, which were sunk ten feet under ground. Off this room is a large class room. The windows of this room were arranged with wooden roller shutters inside, which were closed when it was necessary to use the lantern. Off this room was

LECTURE HALL AND LIBRARY.

A lecture hall to accommodate 900 persons was found in one of the most modern Detroit schools, and the uses which such a hall could be put to are very numerous, and would be appreciated here. A paid Librarian was on the staff and $250 was granted by the Board for the maintenance of the Library, to provide new books, etc.

a dark room in which were no windows, and in a corner of this was a developing room for photographic work. A lantern similar to the one recently purchased by your board, was in use in this department. In addition these lantern was fitted with a projection, which enabled the operator to throw opaque pictures on the canvass.

The manual training department was most complete, having a large number of carpenters' benches, with a full complement of tools, turning lathes, scroll saws, etc.

On the second floor, in addition to the class rooms, was the principal's rooms, a waiting room and a library. These were most conveniently arranged, being directly under the eye of the principal. The library was in charge of a librarian appointed by the board, and a yearly grant of $250 was made to keep up library. There is a lecture hall to seat 900 also on this floor.

On the third floor, in addition to the class rooms, was the botanical room, with its class room, store-rooms and conservatory. The latter was most attractive with its glass walls and roofs banked with plants of different varieties. It must indeed be an inspiration to the pupils who are privileged to study amid such surroundings.

A Fine Gymnasium.

On the fourth floor was the gymnasium. The ceiling and walls were not finished; the floor was of oak and deadened to prevent any sound being heard below. Each pupil was supplied with a locker, and every convenience for gymnastic work. This plan was found in both high schools in Detroit, and was strongly recommended from an economic point. No elevator is used in this building, each floor being reached by a wide and easy stairway, beautifully finished in oak. This building from basement to attic was well planned, tastefully arranged and beautifully finished. Great care had been exercised in all the materials used—even the hardware was of a superior class—and the same throughout. When it is considered that this expensive building, with its costly furnishings, was to provide accommodation for less than 500 pupils, one realizes the interest our neighbours across the line take in education.

Windsor Schools.

The next place visited was Windsor. A deputation of the school board of that place showed us first the Collegiate Institute. This building was built a few years ago, and was considered quite modern at the time. The members of the Board, however, expressed their regret that more money had not been spent on the building, as at the present time it is not, nor can it be made into a modern school. The science rooms are not arranged as they would like to have them, and in some other respects, they consider the building not equal to present needs. There is quite a large piece of ground already belonging to the school, and the Board is now negotiating for the purchase of more land.

The public schools of Windsor are equal if not superior to those in any place we visited. A new building is nearing completion and is a very fine structure. It is finished with the best material throughout, and the class rooms sufficiently large and well ventilated and with splendid light. One room in particular was

THE EXPERIENCE OF WINDSOR.

Windsor Public Schools were, in the opinion of the committee, superior to those in any place visited. The Collegiate Institute however, is not as modern as it should be, and regret was expressed that more money was not spent on it. Particular attention is paid to the Kindergarten work in Windsor and in the new public school. Special provision is made for this department.

most noticeable. This room is intended for the Kindergarten and is situated on the south side of the building. It is built in the form of a half circle and certainly would make an ideal Kindergarten.

The last place visited was London. About 9 o'clock we were met by the representatives of the Board of Education and driven to the principal schools in the city. The first school visited was one of the largest Public Schools. This school was well arranged and had every convenience that could be required.

London's Educational Facilities.

The Collegiate Institute of London is a large building. The original structure was comparatively small to the present building, additions having been made to it at different times. Notwithstanding this the accommodations are not sufficient even after erecting a separate building for Commercial purposes. In order to carry on the work, the American plan is adopted, that is of having a large central class room from which classes are taken to the different recitation rooms. A Domestic Science department is maintained in connection with this Institute and the boys attend the Normal School for manual training. The school grounds are much too small, a fact regretted by the present Board.

The best building we visited in Ontario was the Normal School. It was built at a cost of $70,000 exclusive of grounds and is most complete in its appointments. Dr. Merchant, the Principal, conducted the committe through the school. He was most interested in our mission and gave valuable hints and suggestions regarding our new building.

Domestic Science.

The Manual training and Domestic Science departments were fitted with all the modern conveniences and received the attention in this Provincial Institution that their importance deserves. The science department is IMPORTANT QUESTIONS UNDER DISCUSSION

At Last Night's Meeting of Board of Trade. Resolution Endorsing Water Works Extension By-law. Increased Fire Protection and Better Service to Consumers Deemed Advisable—Extension of Mains—Small Industries Should be Encouraged to Locate Here—Proposed C. P. R. Branch Line to Midland—Necessity for Early Completion of Trent Valley Canal. Should Peterboro' be Made a City? Resolution re Corporation Employees who are old and Indigent. The Approaching Municipal Elections and Prospects for Aldermanic Candidates. Other Questions of Interest.

The regular quarterly meeting of the Board of Trade was held last evening in the Town Council Chamber when many subjects of public interest were discussed. One of the most important subjects under discussion was that of whether, or not, there should be a special tax upon property fronting on streets upon which water mains were laid, but which properties do not contribute to the water rates. This situation of affairs is prevalent in Peterborough, and it is the opinion of many that as the value of a property is increased by having the water main fronting it, whether or not there are connections with the buildings on the property, the property holders should not reap the benefit of being so situated at the expense of those contributing to the water rates. A resolution was passed dealing with the question, but voting on it was deferred. The question of having Peterborough incorporated as a city was discussed pro and con, the advisability of encouraging small and large industries to locate here, the need for the early completion of the Trent Canal, and other live topics, were discussed, and resolutions passed pertaining to them. The board supported the proposed bylaw to raise $20,000 for water works extension, and passed a resolution to that effect.

There were present Messrs. D. Hughes-Charles, president; D. W. Dumble, B. F. Ackerman, J. Nugent, R. E. Wood, E. G. Patterson, W. H. Moore, T. E. Bradburn, Mayor Roger, G. B. VanBlaricom, A. H. Stratton, T. F. Matthews, Ald. Adams.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and after one correction were confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received:—

From R. Q. Dench, president Lakefield, Smith and Ennismore Agricultural Society, re improvement in breed of stock.

From S. R. Armstrong, town clerk, re the use of council chamber.

From T. A. Dans, general manager Columbia and Okanagan Steamboat Co., Wenatchee, Wash., re lift lock, and Trent Canal.

From C. H. Mills, president Berlin Board of Trade, re Machine Telephone Co.

From W. F. Cockshutt, Brantford, Ont., re lecture to the Board of Trade.

RESOLUTION.

It was moved by B. F. Ackerman, seconded by W. H. Moore:—

"That in the opinion of this Board the proposed bylaw to raise $20,000 for water works extensions, should be endorsed and carried by the ratepayers, especially as the Commissioners assert that the interest and sinking fund to meet the debt will be met by revenue, and will not cause any increase in taxation. This board especially approves the proposed bylaw as the extensions will give better fire and domestic service."—Carried.

After a brief discussion it was moved by Mr. R. E. Wood, seconded by Mr. E. G. Patterson, "That the Town Council be requested to incorporate in the prospective Act of the Legislative Assembly a provision for levying a special rate upon property fronting on streets upon which water mains are laid, but which properties do not contribute to the water rates"

Mr. Dumble said that the Government would not make special provisions, which practically amended municipal laws for any one town.

Mr. Matthews preferred to charge by a general tax under an assessment system, according to the assessed value of the property, instead of by frontage tax. This was preferable to other plans proposed, he thought.

Mr. Moore said that a way out of the difficulty was to increase the price for the use of the hydrants, and other public services.

The resolution was not voted upon and the discussion was deferred until the next meeting.

REGARDING SMALL INDUSTRIES.

It was moved by Mr. T. E. Bradburn, seconded by Mr. J. Nugent:

"That in the opinion of this Board the energies of the council should be directed to induce the location of small industries, which growing into larger ones become established on some basis of experience and growing trade."—Carried.

The President thought that several small concerns were better than one large one and he favoured the resolution.

The Mayor said that the council had received letters from many small concerns, and it was difficult to know just what to do. These companies generally wanted as much assistance as did larger concerns, and had generally little or no capital. The ratepayers would not vote in favour of these concerns employing but a few hands. No doubt small manufacturies counted, but if the large ones were secured the smaller ones would be drawn. He would be glad to receive suggestions as to what should be done.

Mr. Dumble said the town council could not afford to treat lightly any of the propositions they received from concerns desiring location. He referred to a case in Hamilton where the council had not felt inclined to consider a proposition submitted, and the people had taken it in hand and secured a large concern which proved a great benefit to that city. He thought the council might co-operate with the Board of Trade in considering any new scheme along these lines. They had not done so to his knowledge.

"They did so recently once," remarked the President.

Mr. Dumble was glad to know that the council was improving in this regard. The two bodies could well afford to work together. Regarding big concerns locating here, Mr. Dumble said that there was a big freight rate and we had to compete with places having water routes. Our greatest difficulty was being an inland town, while the Trent Canal was not completed. It was safer to secure several smaller concerns when the freight charges would be light, for the freight difficulty would always be experienced with larger concerns. We should aim for what is within our reach because our growth depended on our manufactories. He heartily endorsed the resolution.

The President thought it would be well if the Manufacturers Committee of the Council would confer with that of the Board. He thought something should be done to induce manufacturers to locate here.

The Mayor said he had been in correspondence with over 100 concerns during the past year, but no arrangements could be arrived at.

The report of the Board of Trade meeting will be continued in tomorrow's issue.

THE NEW COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

The supreme importance of the educational interests of the town very fully justify the proposal of the Board of Education to provide a new Collegiate Institute building. It also justifies the use of the space devoted in this issue to presenting the public with all the essential information bearing upon the subject. In the illustrated article on this page is set forth, very fully, both in the introductory article and the special report the reasons making a new building a necessity. We have the primarily important elements of a first-rate Collegiate Institute — a thoroughly competent teaching staff and a constant supply of pupils, but without adequate equipment the ability and energies of these are largely neutralised and rendered ineffective in proportion to the inferiority of buildings and equipment. The good name of the town demands that we should be at least on a par with our neighbours in educational regards, as we should be—and even far in advance—if, in the matter of educational equipment we should occupy as prominent a position as the town does in respect of its industrial and commercial importance.

We can better afford to construct and equip a suitable and adequate Collegiate Institute building than we can afford to do without it. In the first place the public-spirited arrangements made with the Dominion Government are equivalent to a gift of $10,000 to the ratepayers and a proportionate reduction of the financial responsibility the new building will represent. Figures presented elsewhere show that Peterborough's past and present contribution to education is far less than that of other places of far less ability to pay. We can afford the expense; we cannot afford the disgrace—not too strong a word under the circumstances — of being behind other, and comparatively unimportant towns. Peterborough is a great industrial centre, it will before long become an important military centre; the new Collegiate Institute building will be a large advance in making it a very important educational centre, and the two latter considerats will enter upon realisation when the two imposing structures, symbolising Minerva and Mars, rising in stately solidity side by side, shall serve the aspirations of mental culture and practical patriotism.

RIDDLE RUSS SHIPS

Japs on Metre Hill Dominate Port Arthur.

SINKING OF THE ADSUMA

Japanese Cruiser Struck a Mine and Was Destroyed—St. Petersburg Has No Direct News From Port Arthur, But Doubts the Reports of Jap Successes—Attempt On the Life of Kuropatkin.

Tokio, Dec. 7.—The effective bombardment of the Russian battleships in Port Arthur, which began on Saturday last, was one of the results of the capture of 203-Metre Hill. Up to that time the warships had been able to seek shelter from the Japanese fire under Peiyu Mountain, but the capture of 203-Metre Hill, November 29 and 30, enabled the Japanese to train their guns on the Russian vessels, with the result that a number of them have been set on fire, and the others must either put to sea or suffer irreparable damage.

The Official Report.

The Port Arthur besiegers report as follows:

"On Saturday, December 3, our naval guns bombarded the enemy's ships. The Pobieda (battleship), was struck six times, a vessel of the Retvizan (battleship) type was hit eight times, and on other ships 16 shells took effect.

"On Monday, following the same plan, the Pobieda was hit seven times, the Poltava (battleship), eleven times. At about three in the afternoon one of our shells struck a magazine south of Pei Yu Mountain, causing a heavy explosion. The conflagration which followed was not extinguished for two hours.

"The same day our heavy (army) guns were directed at the enemy's ships. The Peresviet (battleship) was struck twice and two more shells were lodged in other ships. A vessel of the Poltava type was observed to be on fire for one hour, sending up a great volume of smoke.

"The attacking operations against the Sung Shu Mountain forts eastward are carried on day and night. Two 36 millimetre quick-firers were captured Sunday in a half-moon fort defending a countercamp on Rihlung Mountain."

Japs Kill 3,000 Russians.

Tokio, Dec. 7.—The Russians are nightly attacking 203-Metre Hill in a determined endeavor to re-take the summit of the ground in contention.

The Japanese are increasing their defence on the position and have succeeded so far in repelling all the assaults. The Russians have suffered the heaviest losses and it is estimated that they have sacrificed 3,000 men in an effort to recapture the ground which the Japanese are confident in their ability to hold.

Observations indicate that the garrison is feeling the shortage of men.

The works against Sung-Shu Mountain and the forts to eastward are progressing speedily and all indications point to an early general assault, although the date when it will begin is kept secret.

It is expected that the next general assault will prove successful.

Russians Still Hope.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 7.—Although the War Office and the Admiralty are still without direct news from Port Arthur, confidence in the ability of the fortress to hold out continues to be expressed. The reports from Tokio of the shelling of battleships, and of heavy losses by the Russians in an ineffective attempt to recapture 203-Metre Hill are considered to be misleading.

The Tokio estimate, that the Russians lost 3,000 men in the attempt to recapture 203-Metre Hill, is declared to be absurd, and it is pointed out that such a loss would imply the virtual crippling of the resistance, yet the reports from Tokio admit that Gen. Stoessel continues to make counter-attacks.

Kuropatkin's Life Attempted.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 7.—A very curious despatch has been received from a correspondent at Gen. Kuropatkin's headquarters, about the arrest of a Chinaman who was found in possession of 500 feet of fuse used in detonating high explosives. The telegram speaks of the necessity of providing a larger body-guard for Gen. Kuropatkin. The wording of the despatch generally leads to the inference that an attempt made upon the commander-in-chief's life has been foiled. No confirmation of the report is obtainable here.

An Unconfirmed Jap Defeat.

Mukden, Dec. 7.—The report that Gen. Rennenkampff has administered a heavy defeat to the Japanese continues to circulate among the Russian troops, but has not yet been officially confirmed. To the earlier rumor mentioned above there is added the report that the Russians have succeeded in carrying off twenty-four guns, which they captured in the rout of the Japanese, but were at first unable to remove, owing to a cross-fire from the Japanese forces.

No Immediate Fight.

Everything now indicates that the prospect of an immediate encounter on a large scale has passed. During the fighting below Tsinkhetchen (near Da Pass), the Russian loss was twenty-five men killed and 128 wounded, including two officers. Seventeen Japanese prisoners were taken, one of whom committed suicide.

Jap Cruiser Sunk.

Moscow, Dec. 7.—A special despatch from Vladivostock says that a steamer which has just arrived there from Shanghai reports that the Japanese armored cruiser Adzuma had been blown up and sunk by a mine.

Garibaldi Dying.

Rome, Dec. 7.—General Ricciotti Garibaldi, the last surviving son of the Italian hero and his first wife, Anita, is dying from nephritis.

Death's Sudden Call.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—Mr. J. E. Barkley Smith, for twenty-seven years the capable Bursar of the University of Toronto, and for fifty years a servant of the university, died suddenly at his office desk yesterday morning at about 10.30. He had just arrived at his office in the university, and was going over his mail, when, without warning, he lurched forward in his chair, falling over his desk. His assistant, Mr. F. A. Moure, immediately ran to his side and sent for medical aid. Dr. Silverthorne, who happened to be in the buildings, arrived within ten minutes, but Mr. Smith was already dead. For some time he had suffered from angina pectoris. He was 70 years of age, and the news of his death was received with great regret by the officials and students of the university.

Can Eat Anything Now.

How many Dyspeptics can say that?
Or perhaps you are dyspeptic and don't know it.

Have you any of these symptoms?

Variable appetite, a faint gnawing feeling at the pit of the stomach, unsatisfied hunger, a loathing of food, rising and coming of food, a painful load at the pit of the stomach, constipation, or are you gloomy and miserable? Then you are a dyspeptic. The cure is careful diet; avoid stimulants and narcotics, do not drink at meals, keep regular habits, and regulate the stomach and bowels with

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS,

Nature's specific for Dyspepsia.

Miss Laura Chicoine, Belle Anse, Que., says of its wonderful curative powers—"Last winter I was very thin, and was fast losing flesh owing to the run-down state of my system. I suffered from Dyspepsia, loss of appetite and bad blood. I tried everything I could get, but to no purpose; then finally started to use Burdock Blood Bitters. From the first day I felt the good effect of the medicine, and am now feeling strong and well again. I can eat anything now without any ill after-effects. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Burdock Blood Bitters, for I feel it saved my life."

STATEMENT BY ADMIRAL.

Five Shells Came Aboard a Cruiser During Dogger Affair.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 6.—The following official statement issued from naval headquarters gives Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's latest account of the Dogger Bank affair, and explains how the second Pacific fleet fired on its own ships:

"According to supplementary information from Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky concerning the North Sea incident of Oct. 21, after the Knas Souvaroff ceased firing, two searchlights of the Dmitri Donskoi and Aurora suddenly appeared on the left of the ironclad division. The Dmitri Donskoi showed night signals, whereupon, fearing projectiles from the hindmost ships of our division should hit our own vessels, either direct or by ricochet, a general signal to cease firing was made from the Souvaroff. The order was at once obeyed. The whole firing lasted less than 10 minutes. Communication by wireless stated that five projectiles struck the Aurora, some ricocheting and others hitting direct. Three were 75-millimetre and two 47-millimetre shells. The chaplain of the Aurora was seriously injured and a petty officer was slightly wounded. The chaplain subsequently succumbed at Tangiers."

The foregoing statement is the first official confirmation of the fact previously published in these despatches, that during the North Sea affair five shells came aboard the cruiser Aurora, injuring a priest, who subsequently died at Algiers.

War Would Benefit Socialism.

Berlin, Dec. 6.—Replying to Herr Bebel, the Socialist leader and the keenest critic of the Government, in the Reichstag yesterday, Chancellor von Buelow expressed his agreement with Herr Bebel in the statement that if a great European war breaks out the Socialists will profit thereby, adding: "That is further reason why the Governments of the great powers are maintaining their present peace policy."

To Double Track a Railway.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 6.—It is announced that the work of double-tracking the Siberian Railroad has begun.

To Afghan Frontier.

London, Dec. 6.—The Standard asserts than an entire Russian army division, which has been stationed in the Caucasus, has been ordered to the Afghan frontier.

Are Your Nerves on Edge?

ARE YOU SENSITIVE TO LIGHT, SOUND AND MOTION? YOU NEED

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

Twitching of the nerves, sudden starting, tenderness of the scalp or spine, headache at top or back of head, noises in the ears, sparks before the eyes, sleeplessness, dyspepsia, pains and cramps, neuralgia, timidity, irritability, melancholy, physical weakness and general debility are among the symptoms of nervous exhaustion.

You may look well enough and still be a victim of nervous prostration, but can do little with either mind or body without becoming greatly fatigued.

Good food, pure air, suitable rest, and the regular and persistent use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will thoroughly overcome the most extreme cases of nervous exhaustion and prostration.

We need only to refer you to such extreme cases as those of Mrs. James Miles, Sr., of South Woodslee, Ont.; Mrs. R. W. Edwards, 13 Murray street, Brantford, Ont., or Mr. S. Cloutier at 110 Laguenetiere street, Montreal, cases in which regular physicians were entirely unable to render assistance.

Use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food regularly, and it will not be long before the wasting process will be overcome and the work of reconstruction begun. Note your increase in weight as strength and vigour are being restored.

Mrs. J. Hatcher, 324 Sherbrooke street, Peterborough, Ont., and whose husband is a moulder at the Hamilton Foundry, states:—

"I had an attack of inflammatory rheumatism which left me in a very run down state of health, and in fact my whole nervous system seemed exhausted and worn out. I could not sleep, and at times the pains in my head were almost unbearable. As a result of these symptoms I was unable to attend to my housework, and I felt miserable most of the time. On the advice of a friend I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and can say that it has proved of very great benefit to me. I am able to do my own work now, and feel healthier and stronger than I have for years. I can truthfully state that this is due to the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which I consider a great health builder."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every box. 10

Queen Cophetua And the Beggar Maid

By KEITH GORDON

Copyright, 1904, by Keith Gordon

"Oh, no," concluded Askew, regarding his hostess intently with just that touch of cool mastery in his glance which always made her wonder if the telltale blood were rising in her cheeks and which, at the present moment, caused her somewhat haughty eyes to avert him, like quivering, cornered animals. "A man's manhood is a greater thing even than his love! And the poor man who asks a rich woman to marry him is like the chap who sold his birthright for a mess of pottage."

"You place a high value upon love!" she remembered, and despite her efforts there was a little catch in her breath.

"Yes, I think I do," he resumed imperturbably, "so high a value, in fact, that I would place it above all suspicion—above even the suspicion of suspicion!" he ended in an emphatic tone.

Conscious that the two were platonic friends of several years' standing, the air of the drawing room seemed curiously surcharged with meaning. Though they sat in silence with their eyes fixed upon the open fire for some time after Askew's last remark, each was fully aware of the other's thoughts, and each listened to the regular ticking of the clock with a vague impression that the sound was ominous with love and heartbreak.

Askew was a man of thirty, with a square jaw, strongly cut features and that pronounced air of masculinity that caused Miss Vance to realize with a thrill that to such a man his manhood, as he had said, must be first! It could not possibly be otherwise. Deep down in his heart of hearts a woman might reign—loved with the passion that only such natures can feel, but never really dominating his life.

Always he would be complete master of himself—and of her! He would love her with a tenderness strong and deep. In her own domain she would be supreme, but that domain would never be coextensive with his own larger life. And yet, to the tips of her fingers, she felt that she would rather be loved by him than by any other man in the world!

Moreover, she was loved by him! She knew it, though he had never by so much as a word admitted it. She was as sure of it as she was of her own love for him, and at the mere thought the blood danced riotously through her veins and her head involuntarily went up. No queen could be prouder, no mere woman more humble, than that thought made her.

Few of her associates would have recognized the expression that softened and glorified the face of the "haughty Miss Vance," as she was called behind her back, as she turned more fully toward Donald Askew and demanded softly:

"Do you mean to say that if you happened to fall in love with a rich woman—and—and"—

"And?" he interrogated.

"And she loved you—or you had reason to think that she did"—

For the second time she paused with a confused impression that the air of the room was suddenly exhausted and that breathing was by no means the simple, natural matter it had always seemed.

"Do you mean to say," she blurted out, with schoolgirlish impetuosity, "that you would not tell her that you loved her?"

"Never in the world!" was the deliberate reply. "Never!" Then he added coolly, "But I should be careful not to do anything so asinine as to fall in love with a rich girl in the first place, knowing, as I do, that the money making talent is not one to which I can lay claim."

For a moment her heart turned to ice. Then the blood flowed back warm and strong, and she understood. He was taking this stand in the hope of throwing her off the track, because his fantastic sense of honor put him out of the running, and he wished to divest himself even of the interest that an undeclared love might arouse in her. She could have laughed for very joy at his dissembling.

"What would you do assuming that in spite of yourself you should fall in love with an heiress?" she persisted.

He fenced manfully. "Well, I think I should clear out. It would be the best thing to do in a case like that."

Miss Vance, the haughty Miss Vance, the heiress of the Vance millions, regarded him demurely. She was a person who was accustomed to having her wishes complied with. She wondered vaguely what it was about the man before her that made her ready, eager even, to step down from the regal position she had always occupied and sue for his favor; why in her eyes he should seem the king! And when at last she spoke her voice was almost wistful.

"But what about the woman—the poor rich woman? Perhaps—perhaps she might hate her riches—she might just loathe them. But what could she do? Perhaps they came to her and she could not get rid of them any more than she could change the color of her eyes or the shape of her nose! And what if, in spite of it all, she loved you? Shouldn't you consider her at all?"

"Great Scott!" exclaimed Askew, with mock dismay. "How did we ever get into such a sentimental discussion—two good comrades like you and me? By the way," he went on quickly, "have I happened to mention to you that I'm going off for awhile—possibly for good?

"It's an excellent business offer, but it takes me to the other side of the continent. I have not actually decided, but I shall doubtless accept it. Indeed, I can scarcely afford not to for several reasons."

He did not look at her, and she was thankful for even that small sign of perturbation on his part. A quick resolution seized her. It was leap year—blessed thought—and why should not a woman, once in a thousand years or so, stand up and demand her own as fearlessly and directly as a man would do? Had she not, by every wile that a woman may use, tried to make him acknowledge his love for her? Never—never—never would he ask her to marry him because of her millions. Well, then, she would ask him!

The first tumult of her resolution over, she felt a strange exhilaration. Even the thought that intruded itself like a specter between them—the possibility that she might have mistaken his feeling toward her—did not deter her.

If she were rejected? Well, she had rejected a number of men in her day, and there would be a certain poetical justice in his meting out to her what she had meted out to them!

While these thoughts were racing through her mind she had touched the bell.

"Remember, Smithson, I am not to be disturbed," she threw over her shoulder to the butler.

"You might light a cigar if you have one about you," she suggested whimsically. "It would be a favor to me if you would. Men are always more approachable when they're smoking, aren't they?"

Askew smiled assent and complied with her request. Then he paused with the lighted cigar between his fingers and gave her a long look, which she returned unflinchingly. With an effort she began to speak.

"Duncan," she said bravely, "I have something to tell you. Perhaps not another woman in the world would do it, and perhaps you'll hate me for it"—

"Hate you!" he interrupted in a voice whose derisive incredulity was music to her ears. "Hate you! I can imagine a good many things, but not that."

"Well"—her voice was slightly uncertain, but her eyes looked into his without wavering—"you see, there is a poor rich girl—a girl who has loads of money and who just hates it because it is always cutting her off from all the things and people she cares for"—

"Poor thing!" sighed Askew mockingly. "What a pity she can't divide with me!"

"That's just what she wants to do," leaped from her lips. "She wants to give it all to you. You see—I—I'm speaking for her. She isn't in the habit of saying things like this to men, and she doesn't know exactly how to do it. But she wants you to know that she thinks you the one man in the world; that her faith in you is so great that she even dares to tell you that—she—loves—you—Donald—because she knows that if she has made a mistake and you do not care for her you will be as truthful with her as she has been with you."

Donald Askew sat as if stupefied, while the struggle between pride and love went on within him. To be pointed out as the man who married the rich Miss Vance, to have it said of him that he had feathered his nest well—these and kindred possibilities rose up in his mind and galled his spirit beyond endurance.

Then his vision cleared, and he saw nothing, was conscious of nothing in the world but a proud, sensitive face covered with womanly shame. Before that vision his pride went down, and, leaning forward, he buried his face in her lap. A moment later her lips touched his hair.

"I'm a brute, a perfect brute," he groaned, "to have made you do it!"

"You're the brute I love, though," was the whispered answer.

Where They Missed It.

It was their first baby.

The mother was in a perfect rapture.

It was an ugly baby, but she did not know it.

Happy young mother!

All of them are like her.

But the father had dark misgivings.

His salary was only $12.50 a week, and babies are expensive luxuries.

Her father was rich, but he had frowned upon their union and had heterodox and heretical notions as to supporting a son-in-law besides.

Cruel old man!

One day when the baby was about a month old the father came home from his office in the city and found his wife radiant.

She was not happy when the baby was out of her sight.

"What is it, Jennie?" asked her husband, for he was yet uncertain as to the blessings conferred by the baby.

He was also sleepy.

"Oh, Charlie," she chirruped, "I heard from papa today!"

Charlie looked gloomier than ever.

"Don't say anything, dear," she pleaded, for she knew her husband's opinion of her father. "He has heard of our baby, and, though he has not yet determined to forgive us, he has sent us a check for $200 for dear baby's sake."

At first the young husband's face lit up with pleasure, then it shadowed again.

"Are you glad, Charlie?" she asked, with a quivering lip.

Then he smiled joyfully.

"Yes, darling," he whispered, "but what a pity it wasn't twins!"—Illustrated Bits.

It Sometimes Is.

"How's the earth divided?" asked a pompous examiner who had already worn out the patience of the class.

"By earthquakes," replied one boy. After which the examiner found that he had had enough of that class.

The Upper Amazon Basin.

The whole upper Amazon basin is subject to annual overflows which make it impossible to build homes on the rivers, as we are accustomed to do on our American rivers. There are only a few points in all the great stretch of river country that are above the flooding point, and these are commonly composed of rock or clay, quite unfit for cultivation.

City Visitor's Overnight.

Uncle Josh (after seeing urban guest take the train)—That feller may know a heap about city ettyket, but he wouldn't pass for no Chesterfield in these parts. Uncle Lish—Wouldn't, hey? Uncle Josh—No, sir. W'y, he stayed with me three days an' never once proposed t' go out an' look at my hawgs.

Why He Kicked.

Mrs. Newlywed—How dare you object to my bills? Papa pays them all. Mr. Newlywed—Yes; hang it! But I haven't the nerve to ask him to pay any of mine while you are touching him up all the time.

Suffered Intense Pain Around The Heart For Four Years.

Was Very Dizzy.

Four Boxes of

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills

Effected a Complete Cure.

They are a specific for all troubles arising from a weak condition of the heart or from the nervous system. For troubles such as Palpitation of the Heart, Sleeplessness, Nervousness, Faint or Dizzy Spells, Shortness of Breath, Starting in the Sleep; Cold, Clammy Hands or Feet, Brain Fag, etc., we would strongly advise the early use of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, as this remedy, taken in time, has been the means of saving many a life, and restoring strength to those who were weak, nervous, health-shattered invalids.

Mrs. E. Kilmer, Humberstone, Ont., writes:—"Allow me to tell you of the great results I have derived from Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. For four years I suffered intense pain around the heart, and was very dizzy. After using four boxes of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, I was completely cured."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, 50 cents per box, or 3 for $1.25.

INSULT THEIR TEETH.

What's What People Do Who Do Not Masticate Their Food.

People who swallow their food whole are insulting their teeth. The teeth are there to perform their duty, and the one who fails to aid them in inspiring their duty are not fit for the duty assigned them. Again, he is letting them get rusty by disuse.

Don't favor the teeth until it is necessary. Give them plenty of work to do. Eat crusts, and when eating meat spare not the work of the teeth.

Few people will eat food from dirty fingers, yet hosts of men, women and children eat food with putrid kept teeth. What kind of case of the stomach is this?

Dressing tables and vest pockets are filled with nail files, but the silk thread or the rubber band for removing particles of food from between the teeth is more essential. If the person who neglects his teeth would look often in the glass and smile broadly he would know how his greetings affect his friends. This is not vanity. It would remove from many every particle of conceit. Any smile is spoiled by ilfy kept teeth.

Brush the teeth before and after eating. Carry the brush in a pocket or handbag.

Use the silk thread or rubber band after meals. It can be carried with the brush.

Obeyed Orders Strictly.

The sentinels at Pompeii who died at their posts during the eruption because they had received no orders to leave them are held up as types of perfect obedience, but then the punishments in the Roman army were brutal, and they knew it. Different was the case of an individual who, being ordered to take a hot bath by his doctor, complied with the order and remained in it until the learned man paid his next visit. The doctor exclaimed when he heard, "Why, it is enough to kill you by parboiling or chill!" "It was all your fault," said the bather sulkily. "You only told me to get into a hot bath. You ought to have told me when to get out as well."

The Monks of Tibet.

A traveler in Tibet says that the peasant women of that country are cheery and, when washed, buxom and comely. The monks are the blot on the landscape. They bear no resemblance to the women of the country. One would think they belonged to a different type, and yet they are the sons and brothers of these women. The reason probably is the low, degraded life led by the ordinary monk, a life without interest, without work, devoid of any pursuit, intellectual or otherwise, and passed in the drowsing of chants and the performance of ritual, the meaning of which they neither know nor care about.

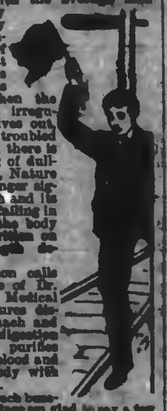
DANGER SIGNALS.



No engineer would be mad enough to run by the flag which signaled danger. It is different with the average man or woman. They attempt constantly to run by the danger signals of nature and that attempt costs thousands of lives every year. When the appetite becomes irregular or entirely gives out, when sleep is troubled and broken, when there is a constant feeling of dullness and languor, Nature is hoisting the danger signal. The stomach and its allied organs are failing in their work and the body is losing the nutrition on which its strength depends.

Such a condition calls for a prompt use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies and enriches the blood and builds up the body with sound, solid flesh.

"I have had so much benefit from your medicines am glad to say a few words which may help some one," writes Miss Mrs. J. R. Dowson, Crystal Lake, Oman. "I have troubled with a combination of diseases for over two years, but Kidneys and liver suffered me most. Some of my worst symptoms were headache, pains in my back, sides and limbs, and I had a terrible sinking feeling at the pit of my stomach, and I felt more quite weak at times, and I had such a poor appetite that I could eat very little without suffering afterwards. I had been under the doctor's care for some time, but got no relief. I was induced to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, after which I got a bottle of his 'Favorite Prescription,' and after using both I felt so much better that I got a few more bottles of each, and after taking them I felt like a new woman. I am now in good health, and can highly recommend Dr. Pierce's medicines to all suffering women."

MEETING WAS WELL ATTENDED

St. John's Young People Met Monday Evening.

A very successful meeting of St. John's Anglican Young People's Association was held Monday evening in the school room. The president, Mr. Pette, was in the chair. The regular business of the Society was put through in good order. It was was the last regular meeting to be held till after New Years, so the evening was put in the form of a thimble social, and the young men to entertain the young ladies. There was a big attendance and the young ladies brought their fancy work all right. A very interesting programme was put on. Mr. Arnot was on hand with his gramaphone and rendered several selections. A vocal solo by Mr. S. Broad was greatly enjoyed. Mr. Goodsore gave a very instructive reading. Instrumental solos were rendered by Miss K. Graham and Mrs. A. McIntyre. Both were heartily encored. Refreshments were then served by the young men and the evening was brought to a close. Everyone present enjoyed themselves immensley especially the young ladies, as you could easily tell by their pleasing countenances as they said good night. —Com.

NOTHING TO EQUAL

The Part Songs of the Meister Glee Singers has Ever Been Heard Here.

The Meister Glee Singers of London, Eng., have been making a splendid impression wherever they have appeared by their magnificent singing. Nothing to approach it has ever been heard in this country as far as part songs and quartettes are concerned. The Halifax Chronicle says:—

"The Meister Glee Singers appeared at the Empire Theatre last night. The house was large, and it is safe to say that no vocal quartette as ever heard in Halifax whose work was so finished and whose voices blended so perfectly as did those of the Meister Glee Singers while in solo work the bass, the tenor and the baritone all gave infinite satisfaction. Every number was encored."

Opera House, Monday evening next, December 12th. Plan at Ormond & Walsh's. Reserved seats 75 and 50 cents. Tickets from W. Stocker, M. M. Glover and Ormond & Walsh.

CITY LEAGUE TO BE DISCUSSED TO-NIGHT

COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE AND NEW ARMOURY

well arranged and provided with all necessary equipment. We found the Gymnasium in the attic of this building the same as in the Detroit Schools. The finest room in this building is the Assembly Hall. It is generally considered one of the best in the Province. It is 54 feet long by 40 feet wide with a 30 foot ceiling. The Preston seats are used and certainly was the most appropriate seating arrangement we had seen.

Your committee also had an opportunity while in London of visiting the new Armouries and were thus enabled to form some idea of those which are to occupy the grounds adjoining our Collegiate Institute.

Your deputation would like to place on record their appreciation of the kindness shown and the information given by the school authorities in each city visited, and we would especially ask our Board to recognise the kindness shown your Committee in the royal reception accorded us by the London Board of Education who spared neither time nor expense in making our visit to their city most enjoyable as well as profitable. Your Committee as well as our Architect, Mr. Belcher, feel that the knowledge gained by our visit to above schools has amply repaid this Board for expense incurred.

Original Plans Altered.

From this report it will be seen that we have altered our original plans to secure better sanitary arrangements, a better system of lighting, heating and ventilation, larger halls, brighter and more convenient class rooms and, on the whole, a building as complete in all its appointments as modern architecture can make it.

In submitting the foregoing recommendations for the careful consideration of the Board, your Committee cannot too strongly impress upon you the necessity of keeping in view our future as well as our present requirements and we are anxious only that the Town of Peterborough may attain the same enviable reputation educationally that it now enjoys industrially and commercially, and with our excellent staff of teachers and a building such as we here propose we are confident that Peterborough will stand second to none among the High School centres of the Province.

Your Committee, before finally deciding upon the foregoing recommendations, submitted them to a meeting of the Collegiate Institute staff who have given their unqualified approval of the suggested changes.

THE ARMOURIES VISITED

The committee took a trip to London and while there saw the new armouries, similar to those which will be erected here, and their appearance greatly pleased the deputation, and intensified the desire that the scheme might be carried through as it had been planned, and the carrying out of which would make the property a decided credit to the town and the Board.

MR. HARTLEY INTERVIEWED.

Mr. J. J. Hartley, the chairman of the Board of Education, was interviewed to-day by the Examiner with reference to the new Collegiate Institute, and said:

"The need of a new Collegiate Institute in the town of Peterborough, I think is apparent to every person, and the question is, 'What kind of a building shall we erect?' The town of Peterborough is, without doubt, the finest town in the province of Ontario, and, I think I would be safe in saying, the best in the Dominion—that is from a business-point of view. But we must confess that we are behind as far as public buildings are concerned. Few towns in Ontario have as poor school buildings as Peterborough, and now that we are about to erect a Collegiate Institute I think we ought to put up a building that will be a credit to the town, and one that will answer for many years to come. The town is growing rapidly, and I have no doubt it will continue to grow, and we must look to the future. Some towns have made a mistake in this respect in being too economical, and were sorry for it afterwards. Windsor, for instance, built a Collegiate Institute, costing $35,000, but they now regret very much that they did not spend more, and make a more modern building. But once a building is erected it will be hard to rectify mistakes. I feel confident that the people of Peterborough are anxious that the Board should build a first class school, even though it may cost a little more than the proposition asked for. In Windsor they built a public school this past summer at a cost of $30,000, and they have several other schools that cost even more than that, and Windsor is a place not to be compared to Peterbourgh. The Board has taken pains to get all the information possible, in order to have a school that will be second to none in the province, as far as convenience is concerned. Our architect, Mr. Belcher, has endeavoured to modify and make such changes in the plans, so that we may have a beautiful building in appearance, as well as every convenience to meet the wants of the teachers and pupils in the interior, at as little cost as possible, and I feel sure that when the building is finished the citizens of the town will have no reason to regret that such a Collegiate Institute was erected in the town of Peterborough."

Men's Underwear at Lebruns.

Of good cheap underwear there is no end at LeBrun's—and there wouldn't need to be to meet the demand, tastes and wishes of the well dressed men who come here for it. Every customer has a favourite quality, and we're in the business to supply it. Fleece-lined, all wool with Scotch finish, natural wool, soft delicate Merino wool, hygeine and unshrinkable silk and wool—whatever your fancy. Come and select at LeBrun's.

And Now For Christmas

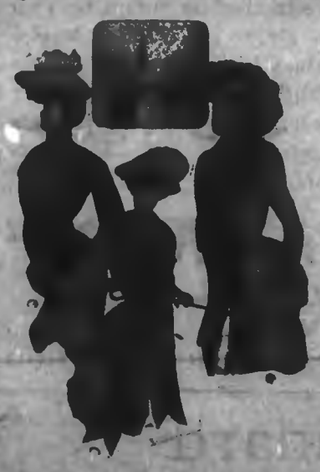
THEN "YULE" Remember Me

XMAS TIDE is on and the season of gift giving has arrived in earnest. Every one expects, and every gives presents at Xmas—The only trouble is in selecting sensibly.

An Old Adage says:—"Presents speak louder than words"—they certainly do and in a very special manner—good judgment, good taste and good form are at stake—Presents typify all these and express better than words the "good feeling" of one to another. Then select wisely:—



FURS

Nothing can please, nothing can show, nothing can last, nothing displays as good judgment, nothing as beautiful as a Fur gift; be it Scarf, Muff, Collarette, Gauntlets, Jacket, Fur-lined Coat or Cape—Every time it's worn will bring kindly, warm thoughts of the donor.

Very select, large and beautiful collection of Fur requirements for Children, Ladies and Men—all specials for Xmas Trade—both the costly and the inexpensive kind. If you want to spend $1.00 or $100.00 on a Xmas Gift we can show you the very best for your money.

Alaska Sable Scarfs $7.50 to $60.00 | Columbia Sable Scarfs $6 to $12.50 | Mink Scarfs $12 to $60 | Talbot Scarfs $8 to 15 | Mink Opossum Scarfs $6 to 10.00 | Black Martin Scarfs $6 to 20 | Alaska Sable Muffs $7.50 to 20 | Columbia Sable Muffs $6 to 8.50 | Jap Bear Muffs $4 to 5 | Mountain Bear Muffs $3 to 5 | Mink Muffs $13 to 30 | Talbot Muffs $6.50 to 10 | Black Coney Gauntlets $2.50 to 3.50 | Grey Lamb Gauntlets $2.50 to 6 | Persian Lamb Gauntlets $6 to 12 | Beaver Gauntlets $6 to 10 | Mink Gauntlets $15 to 20 | Electric Seal Gauntlets $3 to 5 | Astrachan Gauntlets $4 to 6.

If its to be Furs of any kind, see that it comes from Barrie's, for there's a quality in our Furs that counts for satisfaction and gives you sterling value for every dollar you invest.

THE TRANSFER OF NORTHERN WATERS

The Subject Under Consideration in Toronto To-day.

Transfer From Provincial to Dominion Jurisdiction Practically Settled.

Special to the Examiner

Toronto, December 7th. — Superintending Engineer Rogers of the Trent Valley Canal, with representatives of the Department of Railways and Canals, Ottawa, is in conference to-day with the Provincial Department of Public Works with regard to the transfer to the Dominion Government of the 56 dams at the headwaters of the canal now maintained at the expense of the province. It is understood that the two Governments have practically come to a decision respecting the transfer.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAM WAS PRESENTED

At George Street Young Men's Bible Class Concert Last Night.

The concert in the George Street Sunday School room last evening under the auspices of the Young Men's Bible Class was a successful affair. There was a fairly large attendance and a programme of more than ordinary merit was presented. The audience manifested its appreciation by encoring several of the members while all the performers were warmly received. The proceeds were donated towards improvement of the Sunday School.

Rev. Dr. Crothers was in the chair and congratulated the young men upon the success of their class and the work which was being done.

The following programme was presented:—

NEW COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE BUILDING.

"Taxpayer" Makes Plea for a More Ornamental Exterior.

To the Editor of the Examiner:—

Dear Sir,—Judging from your description and illustrations of the new Collegiate building and Armouries, printed yesterday, they will be important structures. While it is desirable and more than that, imperative, to have the interior arrangement of the school building of the most advanced character, yet, considering the environment, the adjacent beautiful park, the imposing facade of the armouries, and the towering mass of the Y.M.C.A. building and the fine residential buildings in the vicinity, there should be some aim to give a beautiful exterior, a dominating character to the outside of the Collegiate Institute building. The cut you print shows, I admit, a solid substantial structure, but it seems to my eye to be too long and low for true architectural symmetry. It may look better in stone and brick, but as shown by the drawing, it is disappointingly plain. Why could not the somewhat barn-like expanse be broken and the monotonous stretch of wall and roof relieved by tower or wing or something answering the purpose? This need not mean a very large addition to the cost and would give a building which we could have better reason to admire, would be more of a public ornament and one which we could show visitors with pride.

Yours, etc,
TAXPAYER.

The Secretary was instructed to make the necessary arrangements for the election of Trustees.

The Board then adjourned.

Big Value For Your Money.

If there is a good dollar's worth offered to the Canadian people this season it is that of the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal, with its exquisitely pretty premium picture "The Princess at Work." The public have been tempted by dollar dailies and trashy weeklies at give-away prices, but when it comes down to value for your money the Family Herald and Weekly Star has no competitor. The publishers report an enormous increase in new business and are earnestly beseeching their old readers to renew now and save them from confusion in the great rush at Christmas.

LATE GABRIEL C. VINETTE

His Death Occured Yesterday Afternoon After Lingering Illness.

Yesterday afternoon the death occurred of Gabriel Charles Vinette at the residence of his brother, Mr. L. Vinette, 550 Reid street. The deceased who was 67 years of age had been ailing for some time previous to his death, which was due to general debility. He was born in Cobourg, and came to Peterborough when quite young and has lived here ever since, with the exception of a few years. About two years ago he took up residence in Toronto, but returned to Peterborough last April, in poor health. His condition has gradually weakened since then, until death finally ensued. He leaves a wife and family of several children who are living in Toronto.

The funeral will take place from 550 Reid street to-morrow morning and proceed to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to the Roman Catholic Cemetery.

INFECTIOUS WARD MUST BE CLOSED.

Hospital Inspector and Medical Staff Recommended.

Meeting of Nicholls Hospital Board of Directors—Report of the Inspector.

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Nicholls' Hospital took place on Monday afternoon in the regular place of meeting. The report of R. W. Bruce Smith, M.D., Inspector of Hospitals, was read, which expressed satisfaction with the manner in which the hospital work was being carried on. The policy of treating infectious diseases cases under the same roof as other diseases, was strongly condemned, it being even contrary to the Act.

It was a rather significant fact, that at the same meeting at which the report of the inspector condemning the treatment of infectious diseases in the hospital was received a deputation from the hospital medical staff was present, strongly urging the necessity of closing the infectious diseases ward. It will be seen that the danger of having this ward in connection with the hospital, is serious, and some steps will have to be taken in connection with the matter in the near future.

The Inspector's report was as follows:

INSPECTION NICHOLLS HOSPITAL.

I made an official visit of inspection to this Hospital November 28th and found 3 male, 9 female and two infants, total of 19 patients under treatment therein.

Accompanied by the Lady Superintendent I made a complete inspection of the whole building and premises. The beds and bedding, and all the wards were found in a very fair condition. The water supply is good and the dietary quite satisfactory. This hospital has a record of good work and there is no apparent reason why it should not continue, and from what I saw during my inspection I had every reason to be satisfied that the hospital work is being carried on in a proper spirit and under satisfactory management and discipline.

There are a few changes and additions to which I called attention. A new sterilizer is needed, for the one now in use is altogether too small and is very much out of date. I would suggest that when a new sterilizer is procured it should be of modern pattern. There should be a separate washroom convenient to the operating room for the surgeons' use. There should be a part of the building set aside for a maternity, for I find that there has been thirteen confinements in the hospital during the past year. The isolation ward in the hospital is cold and cheerless and not well adapted for that purpose. I told the Lady Superintendent that I was sorry to find that cases of infectious diseases contrary to the Act are treated in this hospital, and I pointed out that treating infectious diseases under the same roof is dangerous, as every case is extremely hazardous, and I urged that it would be much better to have all infectious diseases treated distinctly separate from the ordinary hospital cases and in another building.

I sincerely trust that my recommendation in this particular will bear fruit. On enquiry I found that the consumption of coal heating the hospital was very much larger than it should be for a building of the size, and I am inclined to urge careful investigation in regard to heating appliances, for I think that some changes in that particular might be a great saving in the expenditure now made for coal. For some reason this hospital does not receive the municipal grant paid in other places by the municipalities for the care of the sick poor.

I examined the books and records of the hospital and found they were correctly and neatly kept. The grounds and premises surrounding the hospital I found neat and in order, and was very favourably impressed with the manner in which I found the hospital being conducted with the exception of the matters to which I have drawn attention.

ANNUAL RE-UNION OF THE Y. M. C. A.

Will be Held on the Evening of Dec. 13th.

All active members of the Y.M.C.A., are asked to reserve Tuesday evening, December 13th, for the annual re-union to be held in the Y.M.C.A. Building, at 6.45, tea being served by the Ladies' Auxiliary.

After tea some very interesting business will be presented. A good social time is expected.

Active members are asked to notify the secretary as to their intentions to be present. A list of such is now at the secretary's office.

PETERBOROUGH LADY GUEST OF HONOUR

Miss Ada Meagher Visiting Friends in Bay City Michigan.

The Times, of Bay City, Michigan, tells of an interesting social event in that city as follows:—The home of J. C. Wackerley, of 607 Broadway, was the scene of a very pretty and happy event last night from 6 to 10 o'clock, it being the fifteenth birthday anniversary of his daughter, Irene. Friends were invited from the west side, Essexville, Grand Rapids and Canada to the number of forty. The house was decorated in the national colours, the dining table being especially attractive, with streamers reaching from the chandelier to six sections of the table. The scene was charming as the guests were all assembled there. Miss Ada Meagher, of Peterborough, Canada, cousin of the hostess, was guest of honour. Miss Laura Savage and Miss Anna Savage assisted in entertaining.

MRS. STAUNTON'S SISTER DECEASED

Mrs. Jas. Elliott Died in Lindsay Yesterday.

Mrs. W. A. Staunton, of town, received word to-day of the death in Lindsay of her sister, Mrs. James Elliott, whose death occurred there yesterday. The deceased had no other relatives in town.

ST. JOHN'S GUILD ELECTS OFFICERS

A Team Will be Entered in the Guild Hockey League.

A meeting of St. John's Young Men's Guild for the purpose of re-organisation was held last evening. There was a large attendance of members present. The election of officers resulted as follows:

Hon. President—Rev. J. U. Davidson.
President—Chris G. Graham.
Vice-President—J. R. Bell.
Secretary—Mr. Hagerman.
Committee—Messrs. Bell, Comstock and Graham.

It was decided to enter a team in the Guild Hockey League. Mr. Graham was appointed manager of the team. The hockey executive is Messrs. A. Roy, Stone and Morphet.

The Guild will take charge of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew work.

The prospects for another successful year's work are quite bright.

THE BAND CONCERT

An Organization That Deserves Well of the Public.

The concert to be held in the opera house under the auspices of the 57th Band will, quite apart from its large musical merit, demand the the liberal patronage of the public. The band has been liberal in its supply of free public music of the highest order, and it is only common gratitude if the public should respond to the band's invitation, in a correspondingly liberal manner. This would be only fair play and a decent recognition of favours received.

This recognition will be all the easier in view of the fact that the intrinsic merit of the concert appeals strongly to the lovers of good music. The officers of the Rangers will be present in uniform, and the programme presented will be of a high order — the band itself in new numbers, Mr. Edouard Barton, the brilliant English baritone, and Miss Evelyn de Latre Street, a violinist of very high rank.

BOY'S DEPARTMENT RE-ORGANIZED

Y. Y. C. A. Boys Dept. Elects Officers for the Year.

The Boys' Executive met on Monday evening and re-organized the work for the next six months. The following officers were appointed:—

President, Ford. Turner.
1st Vice-President, Ed. Maine.
2nd Vice-President, Max Pyle.
3rd Vice-President, Max Dobbin.
Secretary, Ross Stewart.
Treasurer, Fred. Reid.
Librarians, Ray Scott, A. Dawe.

The Vice-Presidents are convenors of the religious work, membership and social committees respectively.

The committee and officers will hold their organization meeting in this building on Thursday evening at a quarter to six.

The store which is able to serve you best at other times throughout the year will be found to be the place where Christmas buying may be done most satisfactorily.

In times of peace, prepare for war. By the same token it is the part of wisdom to make preparations early for the coming holiday festival. The best plan is to go over the situation carefully at your leisure, make a list of things needed, and then buy before the hurry and rush comes "jest 'fore Christmas."

KEENE VISITED BY BAD FIRE

Residence Occupied by Families of Mrs. Roach and Mr. J. Dickson Destroyed.

Interesting Social Event—County Councillors' Nomination on Dec. 19th—Other News

From our Own Correspondent.

Keene, Dec. 7.—Mr. Marshall Weir, who has spent the past two months at Gooderham, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Jos. Kenneally spent a few days with Peterborough friends this week.

The dance given by Mr. H. Barry, on Wednesday evening last, was not very well patronized by the young folks of the village.

Rev. D. D. McDonald exchanged pulpits with Rev. Mr. Thompson, of Hastings, on Sunday.

The Endeavour Society of the Presbyterian church are arranging for a concert to be held during the Christmas holidays.

The electors of the First County Council Division of the County of Peterborough, comprising the Township of Otonabee, are called to meet in the town hall, Keene, on the 19th of Dec., to nominate candidates for the office of County Councillor for for that Division.

On Wednesday morning, Nov. 30th, the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Scriver, was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when their daughter Janet Blanch, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John H. Stubbs, of Bracebridge. Rev. Mr. Seccombe tied the nuptial knot. The bride was very becomingly attired in a handsome dress of white silk. Miss M. Vanvolkenburg, of Folmont, cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid. She wore a handsome dress of white and brown silk. Mr. T. E. Scriver, editor of the Hastings Star, brother of the bride, was best man. After the ceremony the guests, who were only the personal friends of Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs, sat down to a very sumptuous wedding dinner. A large number of valuable and useful presents testified to the high esteem in which the bride was held. Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs left on the afternoon train for Toronto, followed by the good wishes of all. After visiting friends in the city they will take up their residence in Bracebridge.

On Saturday morning the double house occupied by Mrs. Roach and Mr. James Dixon, was totally destroyed by fire. The cause of the fire is unknown, as Mr. Dixon, in whose apartments it started, was out at the time. When discovered it had gained such headway as to make it impossible to save any of his furniture. His loss will be quite heavy as he carried no insurance. Mrs. A. Campbell owned the house she occupied. Her loss will be about $300. The large number of willing workers, who were attracted to the scene by the fire alarm, toiled bravely to save Mrs. Roach's household furniture, until the terrible heat drove them back. A large amount of wearing apparel and bedding was destroyed. A quantity of firewood in the shed was gotten out in time to save it. Then the shed was torn down to prevent the fire spreading. Mrs. Roach had no insurance on her house, but had a small amount on the contents. It was one of the oldest houses in the village, having been built over 70 years ago. It has had two narrow escapes from fire in the past. Mrs. Roach has rented Miss Lane's house, and will live there during the winter.

Mr. George Brown received word on Friday of the death of his sister, Amelia, which occurred at Mimico on Thursday.

Mr. James Lang, of Peterborough, was in the village on Saturday.

The young people of Lang intend holding a dance in the town hall on Friday evening. The committee in charge of it is Messrs. R. Humphries, A. Spiers and J. Brough.

Mr. P. Doris was calling on friends in the village on Tuesday.

Mrs. Soucie spent a few days with friends in Asphodel during the week.

Miss Aggie McCrea is visiting Peterborough friends this week.

Mr. G. H. Hewson, of Peterborough, was in the village on Tuesday.

Miss Mabel McCann is the guest of Hastings friends this week.

Mr. W. Wedlock shipped a carload of lumber to Mr. Rogers, of Peterborough, on Tuesday.

We regret to report that Miss Annie McIntyre, who was ill with appendicitis some time ago, is not recovering from it as well as might be expected, and it is thought that she will have to undergo an operation.

Mr. Sam. Mathers, who spent two weeks in the village, left for his home in Toronto on Wednesday.

LINGERING COLD.

Withstood Other Treatment But Quickly Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

"Last winter I caught a very severe cold which lingered for weeks," says J. Urquhart, of Zephyr, Ontario. "My cough was very dry and harsh. The local dealer recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and guaranteed it, so I gave it a trial. One 25 cent bottle of it cured me. I believe Chamberlain's Cough Remedy to be the best I have ever used." This is one of the most staple medicines in use. Thousands have testified to its excellence. It not only cures a cold quickly and effectually, but counteracts any tendency toward pneumonia. It is equally valuable for children and may be given to them with implicit confidence. It always cures and is pleasant to take. There is no danger in giving it to children for it contains no opium or other harmful drug. Sold by all druggists.

Jap Ruse Foiled.

Mukden, Saturday, Dec. 3, via Pekin, Dec. 6.—The Japanese did not reply to the heavy cannonade of their works by the Russian siege guns south of Suchiantun yesterday, though they had previously shelled the vicinity of Suchiantun with the ammunition and Russian guns captured on board the Russian steamer Manchuria last spring. Last night what appeared to be a Japanese attempt to place mines under the Shakhe River Railroad bridge for use in case of a Russian advance was resisted and a sharp rifle fire followed. Simultaneously the Japanese who were shelling Poutiloff Hill were surprised by Cossacks who, after an unsuccessful attempt to capture the battery retired. After two days cautious pursuit of the Japanese, whose recent attack he repulsed, Gen. Rennenkampff has suspended his offensive movement east.

PROMINENT MEN DEAD IN NORWOOD

A Number of Well-known Residents Passing Away.

A Mock Parliament Proves Great Success—Latest News From Norwood

From Our Own Correspondent.

Norwood, Dec. 6th.

Miss Blanche Pearce went to Toronto to hear Madame Melba in Massey Hall on Monday.

Miss Vida Nerin of Elora, is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. A. Richardson.

Mr. J. Pace of Toronto, paid a short visit to his sister, Mrs. J. F. Squire, last week. Mr. Pace will sail on Dec. 10th for Wednesfield, near Wolverhampton, England.

Mr. Jas. Spence, the eldest son of Mr. Wm. Spence, died of pneumonia, at Los Angeles, California, on Saturday after an illness of twelve days. Mr. Spence was at the time of his death a druggist at Los Angeles. He was born in Dummer, was a pupil of the High School here and learned the drug business in Norwood. The remains will be brought here for burial.

Miss Bridget McCarthy, formerly of this place, died at Englewood, a suburb of Chicago, on Dec. 6th, of pneumonia. Miss McCarthy was born in Asphodel, 35 years ago, and was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCarthy. She leaves three brothers, Mr. Chas. M. McCarthy of Norwood, Mr. John McCarthy of Peterborough, and Rev. Father McCarthy of Chicago.

The death of Mr. Alex. Nicholl occurred at St. Paul's on November 27th. The late Mr. Alex. Nicholls was born in Scotland about 1824, came to Canada with his parents in 1831, and settled on lot 1, in the 7th concession of Dummer. He went to the United States about 1859, settled in Louisiana, then Missouri, and last in Minnesota, where he resided about 40 years. He was the second eldest of a family of seven sons and two daughters, the only survivors of which are Mr. Jas. Nicholl Dummer Road, and two half brothers, Mr. M. Nicholl, and Mr. Richard Nicholl, both of Norwood. The funeral took place on Friday, December 2nd, from the residence of Mr. Jas. Nicholl, of the Dummer Road. Rev. George A. McLennan, the Presbyterian Minister, conducted the funeral services. Interment took place at Norwood.

Mr. J. O. Brown, P.S.I., visited the public school here on Monday.

A mock parliament was the form of entertainment given by the Young People's Society of the Methodist church on Monday evening. The bill introduced was the National Ownership of Railways and Municipal Ownership of Telegraph and Telephone Lines. The Government was sustained by one, a very narrow majority. The House was made up as follows:

Speaker of the House — Mr. T. J. Drain.
Clerk of the House — Mr. George Duffield.
Chaplain — Mr. P. W. Stevenson.
Sergeant at arms — Mr. I. Tucker.
Official reporter — Mr. F. Buck.
Premier—Mr. L. H. Leighton.
Leader of Opposition — Rev. C. Parker.
Solicitor General — Mr. E. Squire.
Minister of Trade and Commerce —Mr. L. H. Kirkpatrick.
Secretary of State — Mr. W. A. Johnson.
Minister of Justice — Mr. Andrew Knox.
Minister of Marine and Fisheries —Mr. Alex. Fraser.
Minister of Militia — Mr. D. McLean.
Postmaster General — Mr. D. Cumming.
Minister of Agriculture — Mr. L. Brown.
Minister of Public Works — Mr. G. Mills.
Minister of Finance — Mr. B. W. Squire.
Minister of Railways and Canals —Mr. John F. Elliott.
Minister of Customs — Mr. W. H. Tucker.
Minister of the Interior — Mr. G. J. Keefer.
Minister of Inland Revenue — Mr. D. A. Fraser.
Messenger boys — Masters Roy Richardson and Willie Duffield.

There were three speakers on each side, Mr. L. H. Kirkpatrick, introducing the bill. The speakers on the Government side were Mr. Leighton, Mr. Squire, and Mr. Keefer, and for the Opposition Rev. Mr. Parker, Mr. Thos. Fraser and Mr. Lang. The basement of the church were very prettily decorated with flags and bunting.

Rev. Mr. Steele, the Methodist minister of Hastings, conducted both services in the Methodist church on Sunday in the absence of Rev. C. Parker, who was preaching in Hastings, it being missionary Sunday.

Mr. W. H. Mullins, son of one of Norwood's first settlers, passed away at his home in Hamilton on Friday. Mr. Mullins and family left Norwood about ten years ago, entering into business in Brooklyn, N.Y., but owing to ill health he was compelled to give up business, and leave for California. The climate not agreeing with him there he came back and resided in Hamilton, on the Mountain, where he died. Mr. Mullins was at one time one of the largest property owners in Norwood. The deceased leaves a wife and a large family.

Miss Olive Ray met with what might have terminated in a serious accident on Tuesday. While drying a pair of gloves, which had been cleaned with gasoline over the stove the gasoline ignited, burning her hands and arms. Her mother came to her timely rescue by putting her hand in a basin of water.

There passed away on Wednesday afternoon last one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of the Township of Asphodel in the person of Mr. Adam Beavis, aged 81 years and eight months. About 46 years ago Mr. Beavis with his wife, the late Janet Nelson, deceased Jan. 1st, 1903, moved to the farm, lot 8 in the 9th concession of Asphodel then almost in its virgin state and together began to clear the ground and in the winter of 1858 erected a log house which was replaced by a very comfortable and commodious brick dwelling in 1865, in connection with the raising of the first house Mr. Beavis often referred with pardonable pride of the stand he took in regard to the then universal habit of having a well filled jug at such functions. When asking the hands for the "raising" he was asked if he would have plenty of "good stuff," he answered there would be none of that as it was strictly against his principles and the men threatened to stay away. But the house went up without a hitch and in so short a time that as he said, he "broke the ice" and from then on the habit soon died out. Deceased has always taken a very active part in church work and for a great many years held prominent offices in the Hastings Methodist Church. He has often been spoken of as a man with very strong conviction and having the courage to act. He never aspired to municipal honours. His sphere was in the home and as a lay worker in the church and those most intimately connected with him regarded him as a very conscientious man. The surviving members of the family of deceased are Mr. John Beavis, of Asphodel; Rev. B. B. Beavis, of Dakota; Mr. Nelson Beavis, who occupies the homestead; Albert, of Percy, and Henry, Edward and William, of Vancouver; Mrs. M. J. Christie, of Peterborough; Miss Ellen T., who attended her father during his illness, and Mrs. E. J. Laing, of Norwood. The remains were interred on Friday afternoon in the Fife Cemetery, Otonabee. The funeral service was conducted at the home at 1 o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Steele, of Hastings, who based his remarks on the 6th and 8th verses of the 4th chapter of II Timothy, and referred to the life of the departed as one well worthy of imitation and he thought that deceased could say with Paul, "For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing."

THE PAST WEEK IN RAILROAD TOWN

Interesting Column of News From Havelock.

A Railway Accident—Personal Mention and Social Events.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Havelock, Dec. 6.—A very pretty wedding was celebrated in the Anglican Church on Wednesday last when Miss E. Seabrooks was married to Mr. B. Anderson by the Rev. Tandy. A large number of useful and costly presents were received by the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on the afternoon train for a trip to the west and showers of rice and well-wishes of their numerous friends.

Mr. E. White has made an extension to his barber shop by putting a new up-to-date pipe and tobacco show case with bevelled glass mountings. He also has got in a large assortment of up-to-date pipes and cigarettes cases, tobaccoes and cigarettes.

We are all surprised to hear of the death of one of our former citizens, Mr. Dan Flynn, of Peterborough. Mr. Flynn was a resident of this place for a great number of years and the west end west a couple or three years ago and had only returned but a short time, when he passed away in Peterborough on Monday.

A very bad accident happened on the station platform last Friday when Mr. Geo. Lee, who is Mr. S. Jackson's train master's chief clerk, fell and broke his leg in two places. He was in the act of helping the freight man to unload some stuff from a freight car and slipped while pulling a bale of material from the car, the bale falling across his leg and a clear break was sustained. It will likely be a couple of months before he is able to be at work again.

Mr. Arthur Higgs, of Toronto, has accepted the position of night storekeeper at this point for the C. P. R., in the place of Mr. A. McIntyre, who tendered his resignation a few days ago.

Mr. J. O'Sullivan, who was formerly Mr. Maharg's train master's clerk, and who went to Brandon to take a position some time ago is filling the position as Mr. Jackson's, chief clerk on account of the accident to Mr. G. Lee a few days ago.

Miss Nellie McAllister has been very ill for the past few days with a slight touch of appendicitis. We all hope she will be able to be around again in the near future.

Mr. R. E. White and Mr. Ward Barlow, spent Sunday in Belleville, renewing old acquaintenance.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. William Covernton teller in the Sovereign Bank at this point is leaving for Toronto on Wednesday to take a similar position in the head office in the Queen City. Mr. Covernton has been here now for something over a year and has made a lot of friends in that time who will be sorry to lose him but such is the case.

Miss I. Putter, of Hastings, is the guest of Miss Eva Lancaster, of town.

Mr. A. Carey left on Saturday for a short visit to his home in Toronto.

Mr. C. B. King, of Montreal, has accepted the position as teller for the Sovereign Bank at this point on account of Mr. W. Covernon being transferred to Toronto.

Mr. W. Webb seems to be going into the shooting match business extensively. He gave a shooting match on Friday last for a number of choice turkeys and on Tuesday one for a lot of fine ducks that he secured at a bargain down the road.

Mr. R. J. Graham spent Tuesday in Peterborough on business.

Mr. Harry R. Nickerson spent Sunday in Campbellford visiting friends.

A number of our horse sports are talking about putting in a winter race course on the Aleck Mathison Marsh. This will be a good site for one and it is thought that they will be able to get a couple of days races pulled off here this coming winter. The boys are only hoping that some one will get enough ambition to start a rink. As Norwood has none now, and Marmora and Campbellford have only open ones, it is thought that it would be a paying investment for some one to put up a good covered rink here as it would be the centre of the bunch of towns and would be patronized well as everyone knows that many leave here regularly every night for some other town to have a skate when if some one would build one here they would have the other people coming in and it would be a good thing for everybody. A good hockey team could be pulled together and enter some of the leagues. The gate receipts from the matches would pay for the rink alone. The question of lighting is now done away with on account of the installation of the electric light plant. And the boys are very anxious to see one go up even if an outsider has to do the trick to open the eyes of the town people with the cash.

Miss Helen McWilliams is visiting her friends Mr. and Mrs. Spencer north of Marmora.

Mr. Aleck Bruce and Mr. H. Cook spent Sunday in Marmora.

We are glad to hear that Mr. Robt. Chambers who left here some time ago has secured a position as brakesman on the Grand Trunk out of Allendale.

Mr. Geo. Hart is the guest of his mother in town.

Mr. H. Simons, of Marmora, spent Tuesday in town.

Mr. Wm. Gibbs and Mr. F. Barlow, spent Sunday in Marmora.

Mr. Geo. Green, of Toronto Junction, spent Monday and Tuesday in Town.

Mr. Thos. Bennet left for Peterborough to attend the funeral of the late Mr. D. Flynn.

We are pleased to learn that Mr. Albert Brinkman who has been running the switch engine at Perth for the past couple of years has returned to take the position as engineer permanently on the yard engine at the place.

Mr. Richard Chiles who has been running the Havelock switch engine for the past few years has accepted a similar position in Peterborough, and Mr. Thos. Wright, who is running the Peterborough yard engine will take his place again on the main line out of here.

Was Cured of Ashma.

"I first used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with my daughter who suffered from a severe form of asthma. The least exposure to cold would lay her up and she would nearly suffocate for want of breath. I must say I found it to be, a most satisfactory treatment and it has entirely cured her."—Mrs. A. A. VanBuskirk, Robinson street, Moncton, N.B.

To Be Taken to Jail.

Toronto, Dec. 7.—Police Magistrate Harrycett of Bancroft, who is mixed up in the bogus ballot box case at Belleville, will be taken to the jail hospital to-day. He has been in St. Michael's Hospital for the past two weeks. Yesterday he was examined by Dr. Spragge, medical adviser to the police department, who pronounced him well enough to be moved. Harrycett is able to move around on crutches. He was in charge of an officer last night.

ESCAPED IN NIGHT CLOTHES.

A Fire in Fenlon Falls Which Almost Proved Fatal.

Residence of J. R. Graham Destroyed by Fire Monday Morning.

The Lindsay Post Monday had a special despatch from Fenelon Falls giving the information that yesterday morning between 2 and 3 o'clock the residence of Mr. J. R. Graham, situated nearly opposite the Brooks House, was discovered by a passer-by to be on fire. The flames spread with such rapidity that by the time the inmates had been aroused their escape was almost cut off, but they managed to escape in their night clothes. There being about eight inches of snow on the ground, and the night being cold, all suffered considerably in making their way to nearby dwellings.

The house was completely consumed, with all contents. Among the inmates were Mr. W. McCarthy, of the Bathhurst Company, Mrs. McCarthy and child. They lost all their clothing and a sum of money.

WATER WORKS BY-LAW FAVOURED

By the Board of Trade at Tuesday's Meeting.

Continuation of Report—Further Resolutions and Discussion.

The following is the conclusion of the report of the Board of Trade meeting of Tuesday evening a portion of which appeared yesterday:—

CIVIC HOLIDAY.

Mr. Bradburn opened the evening discussion by bringing up the question of what should be the date of the local Civic Holiday. He did not deem it advisable to have it on the same day as Toronto as when our citizens go out of town, as they do on that day, many of them to Toronto, it was not to their pleasure to have the stores closed.

Mr. Charles said that the council had not definitely fixed any date for the Civic Holiday. If our holiday were on the same day as that of Toronto our people would not go out of town to do their shopping.

WATER RATES.

Mr. Wood took exception to a phrase in the minutes where it stated that he had said "the Mayor and Council had instructed the Water Commissioners to raise the rates." The idea he wished to convey was that he had heard that they "tried to influence them to raise the rates."

Mayor Roger took exception to this statement. He said that he, himself, or the Aldermen had never tried to influence the Commissioners to raise the rates, either directly or indirectly, and as far as he knew the Commissioners had not been approached along this line.

Mr. Matthews agreed with Mayor Rogers on this point. The Commissioners had had no instructions from the Mayor to keep up or raise the rates. It was of course only natural that the rates should be maintained in the intersts of the town, but no undue influence had been brought to bear.

THE MAYOR EXPLAINS.

The Mayor said he was not anxious to raise the rates, but that they should be maintained on a fair basis to the consumers, and so that a revenue would be provided to meet the liabilities which the town assumed by taking over the water works system, and still make allowances for any extensions and improvements which might be deemed necessary from time to time. There was no doubt but that the value of property was enhanced by having the water main fronting it, but still there would be objections to paying a tax if the water were not used. He believed the Commissioners had been acting wisely in reducing the rates to as low a minimum as at present. At the time the town assumed the system of water works, it was understood that there would be no additional cost to the consumer. This policy, he thought, had been maintained. The policy of placing a frontage tax on properties fronting the mains was one which would bear a good deal of discussion. The council had approached the Commissioners with an object in view of bettering our present system of fire protection which had at the present not reached a high standard of efficiency. The insurance rates would thus be decreased. It was agreed that there should be more hydrants and a decrease proportionately in the towns rates for public service. As soon as it was practicable twenty or thirty new hydrants would be installed in different quarters of the town.

Mr. Dumble was of the opinion that the Mayor had missed the point of Mr. Wood's resolution. No one was finding fault with the work of the Commissioners. Mr. Dumble believed that if a rate were put on the consumers which paid the entire interest and sinking fund, and if the consumers met the entire cost of the water works, the non-consumer should not get any financial benefit from this. Either reduce the rate and have no surplus or have a fund for extending the system and not hand back to the council a surplus to help pay taxes of both consumer and non-consumer.

Mr. Charles said the whole town was not assessed for the water works system, but only the consumer, and consequently the whole town did not assume the system. Those who did not use the water should reap no benefit. The fairest way would be to let the whole town assume the liability of the system, and the water service be free to all.

RE MAIN EXTENSION.

Mr. Matthews spoke upon the proposed bylaw to give authority to the town to borrow $20,000 to extend the water works system. The ratepayers would be asked to vote on this in January, and it was well to understand the proposition. There was at present a 16-inch supply main from the new pumping station to Hilliard's Mills, which was met by a twelve inch main, running down Water street to Smith street, and a five inch main extending down George street, from Water, via Argyle street, to Smith street. These were not adequate to meet the capabilities of the pumping house, and the proposition is to lay another 12-inch main, in place of the five inch main, down George street to Smith street, and along Smith street, and have the eight inch main extended along George to Smith street. At present there are eight, five and six inch mains along George street; the five and six inch ones will be replaced, and there will be an eight inch main throughout. There was a three inch main on Simcoe street, which would be replaced by a six inch one. The present water rates were as low as any town in Canada with the possible exception of two places. The rates will decrease in proportion as the service grows. The present system of rates met with his approval, and he was not in favour of imposing a frontage tax. The work to be done which was not revenue producing would be paid for by the surplus from the present rates, which he thought should be maintained.

The Mayor said it was not a matter only of convenience, but of vital importance to our fire protection. Two distributing mains in place of one, with several additional hydrants, would greatly improve our present fire protection system, besides securing for the town a better rate with the Underwriters' Association.

Mr. Ackerman agreed with what Mr. Dumble had said, regarding non-consumers. He approved of the proposition of the Commissioners to enlarge the water mains, and thought they were doing the work well.

Mr. Moore said that the Commissioners had come to the conclusion to make enlargements in the system in order to afford better protection to the town. It was not fair to say that the town at large had purchased the water works. It was the consumers who had purchased and maintain them. The non-consumers paid nothing but received a benefit from two sources: 1. The lowering of taxes, and in the second place, the service in front of the property increased its value very materially. Real estate agents would say that these properties always had the call in the market. He believed that there should be a tax on these properties. The greatest difficulty the Commissioners were experiencing at present was that they could not supply the demand. The whole surplus income should be left in the hands of the council, who should provide for a construction service and a contingent fund as against accident, and the rates should then be reduced as low as possible. A new dam may not be necessary for some time yet but it is certain that one must be constructed before very long at a cost of from $60,000 to $70,000, and it was their duty to make the works so efficient and substantial as to make an accident, which would prove so disatrous to the town were the water supply cut off, impossible.

COMPLETE THE CANAL.

It was moved by Mr. E. G. Patterson, seconded by Mr. T. F. Matthews:—

"That the increasing number of railways converging at Fort William insures an increased carrying trade on the lakes between Fort William and Georgian Bay, and makes more than ever necessary the early completion of the Trent Valley Canal, and this Board urges upon the Senators and members of Parliament representing Central Ontario the necessity of the early completion of the unfinished portion of the canal."

Speaking on this subject, Mr. Dumble said that upon enquiry he had learned that the Canal Company had in mind an undertaking that would utilize all the available power provided the Canal were completed. The completion of the canal would mean a much further inducement to manufacturers to locate here.

CORPORATION WORK.

The following resolution was moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Nugent:—

"That the policy of the town in giving employment on public works, to indigent old and other than able bodied men is commendable, but this Board urges that such men should be paid only according to merit, thus encouraging good men to do a full day's work and avoiding the injustice of paying all alike—a system which makes corporation work and consequently taxes higher than needful."

Mr. Dumble said that too many old men who could not possibly work as well as a younger man were getting the same wages as those better fitted for work. This was unfair to the latter class and though many of the unions favoured the principle of equal wages, he thought it was a wrong idea.

Mr. Moore passed the remark that Peterborough was the dirtiest town in Canada. The President agreed that the streets were not what they should be.

Mr. Matthews took exception to this. He said he had visited the principal towns in the province and Peterborough compared favourably with any of them and the streets were much better kept as a rule.

Mr. Moore said he referred more to the lanes and some of the side streets which were in a very bad kept condition and which gave visitors an unfavourable impression.

CITY OR TOWN?

Mr. Moore brought up the question of having the town become a city. We desired the character of a city and should get it in form as well as substance. One trouble at present was that we had not an effective police force for a place of our importance. If we were a city, a change would be made, and the police would be in the hands, not of the Council, but of a Committee formed of the Judge, Police Magistrate and the Mayor, which would make a more suitable body. The fact that we were a city, would be a means towards inducing manufacturing concerns to locate here, especially those from across the line. It would be compulsory to become a city when the population reached 15,000 and as we were near that at present, Mr. Moore thought the step might as well be taken before we were compelled to do so. There would be no extra expense worth considering.

The Mayor did not see any particular advantage in being a city. He thought it would be somewhat unique to grow into a city and not be made one. He had conversed with prominent men in Windsor and other such places which had recently become cities and regret had been expressed at the action taken because being a city meant keeping up to the pace of cities which would call for a different style of expenditure.

RAILWAY CONNECTIONS.

Mr. Bradburn spoke of the contemplated branch line which the C. P. R. would run out to Midland in order to get the trade from the Georgian Bay district. There was some talk of the Grand Trunk building a double track on the Midland Division, and allowing the C. P. R. to use one of the tracks. He said the junction of the two C. P. R. lines should be at Peterborough, as it would greatly benefit the town, and he deemed it advisable for the Board of Trade to consider the matter and see what could be done.

Mr. Dumble said at present the Grand Trunk was getting the trade from Fort William and the Georgian Bay, and that sooner or later the C. P. R. must build a branch road to get their share of the trade. A route that was the shortest and had the lowest grade would be considered. The railway would want an ideal grain route, and they would not come to Peterborough, because it was difficult to get into our town. He did not think the G.T.R. would build a double track. He thought a line might be built to the west of us but the route would be settled by an engineering staff on economical grounds. He hoped the junction of the two lines would be here but he did not think that that would be the case.

Regarding the question of the town becoming a city, Mr. Dumble said that he had been told that in the United States any place having over 10,000 population, was a city, and consequently if any proposition were submitted to the American capitalists regarding our town, they would presume that the population was less than ten thousand, or else we would be called a city.

A CITY CALLED FOR.

After further discussion it was moved by Mr. Moore seconded by Mr. Ackerman, "That in the opinion of this Board the Council should at an early day favourably consider the erection of the town into a city, as the prestige of being a city would probably influence considerations of manufacturers looking for locations in important cities."

Mr. Wood said that in reference to the approaching municipal elections the town was in a somewhat unique position from the fact that, as he had been told, many of the aldermen who had been in the council for two years or more, were going to retire and none of the new council, would, with a few exceptions, have had more than two years experience at the most. He thought that the Board might well take steps to influence some of the town's best men to run. There were many who for years had been reaping the benefits of the work of others who had given their time and energy for the administration of the affairs of the town, and others should be willing to take their turn. He thought it would be well to call a meeting to consider the question.

Mr. Charles said that the Municipal Committee would be called together next week, and consider the question.

The Board then adjourned.

Then Jos. Boone Found Health in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

He was Unable to Work for Seven Years Before he Used the Great Canadian Kidney Remedy.

Cottel's Cove, Nfld., December 7.—(Special.) — The days of miracles are past but the cure of Jos. Boone of this place almost ranks with the sensational cures of the earlier ages.

Mr. Boone had been ailing for eight years, seven of which he had been unable to work, from the effects of backache and Kidney Trouble. He was all aches and pains.

He was treated by several doctors, and after seven months in the hospital he was sent home as incurable. It was there that reading of cures in the newspapers led him to use Dodd's Kidney Pills. It took twenty one boxes to cure him but to-day he is strong and well, and hard at work lobster fishing.

People here have learned that if the disease is of the kidneys or from the Kidneys, Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure it.

HORRIBLY MANGLED.

Hamilton, Dec. 8.—After serving the Grand Trunk Railway for 49 years, moving about trains and engines all that time without ever receiving so much as a scratch, Richard Williamson, 486 North James street, a car cleaner, employed at the Stuart street station, was caught by a train last night about six o'clock, and instantly killed. His body was horribly mangled. A train pulled into the station, and when Williamson tried to cross the track behind it, the train backed up, knocked him down and dragged him under the wheels. He was 69 years of age, and leaves a widow, two sons and a daughter. Coroner Balfe will open an inquest this morning.

Rat Poison Left About.

London, Dec. 8.—Ina, the fifteen-months-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Shoebotham of London township, died from accidental poisoning Tuesday afternoon. It appears that some pieces of rat poison had been left in one of the rooms in the house, and a caller going out left the door of this room open. The child entered the room unnoticed, and ate the poison.

Two Children Badly Burned.

Rat Portage, Dec. 8.—The little son of Mrs. Martin Nelson, aged ten, and baby sister were badly burned yesterday afternoon during the absence of the mother. The boy endeavored to light the fire with coal oil. The flames spread and ignited the clothing of the baby. The boy's clothes also caught fire, but he rushed to the street with the girl and rolled her in a snow bank. The girl cannot live.

Nineteen Drowned.

Tripoli, Dec. 8.—A boat from the Turkish corvette Mansura, manned by forty seamen, has sunk in the roadstead. Nineteen of the crew were drowned.

Hazed By His Fellows.

Toronto, Dec. 8.—Hazed by his fellow students, W. B. Morgan, a senior class man at the Ontario Veterinary College, lies in a serious condition at his boarding-house at 250 Richmond street. Morgan was taken from the house on Monday morning, forced to mount a horse and was galloped along Richmond street, from Duncan to Bay, and down Bay to the Veterinary College, with the result that internal injuries were sustained. Dr. D. King Smith has been in attendance, and Morgan's condition is said to be very serious. Consternation exists among the students.

CONDITION OF THE FRANCHISE BY-LAW

Terms of the By-Law Which the Council Proposes to Pass Regulating the Companies Using the Streets.

No Poles to be placed Without the Express Consent of Council and no Shade Trees to be Cut or Trimmed Without Similar Consent.

By-law in General Asserts and Provides for Control of Streets by the Council.

At the Council meeting on Monday night, a bylaw, known as the franchise bylaw was introduced by Ald. Morrison, and at the request of Mr. Adam Hall it was not passed at that meeting, and will be held over until the companies which will be affected by its provisions have had an opportunity of looking it over. The Examiner is enabled to-day to publish the by-law in full, and the public will have an opportunity of learning the conditions which it proposes to impose on the companies asking the franchise of the streets. The bylaw is as follows:

The Corporation of the Town of Peterborough by the Council thereof enacts as follows:—

1. In this bylaw the word "Town" shall mean the Town of Peterborough—the word "Council" shall mean the Council of the said Town of Peterborough—the words "pole" or "poles" shall mean and include in addition to poles, wires, guy and stay wires and all other appliances used in the erection and maintenance of a pole line for stringing wires. The word "streets" shall mean and include streets, lanes, public squares, parks, bridges and other public places in the Town of Peterborough. The word "Engineer" shall mean the Corporation Engineer for the time being of the said Town.

2. No person or company shall erect or place any poles or string any wires or place any ducts, conduits or other appliances on, along, across, over or under any of the streets without the express consent and authority of the Council; and no person or company shall change the location, height or quality of any pole heretofore or hereafter erected or placed on the said streets without the express consent and authority of the Council, except in cases of emergency which may be dealt with by the Engineer who shall immediately report same to the Council.

3. Any person or company desiring to erect and place poles on any of the streets shall before doing so present a petition to the Council asking for liberty to erect and place such poles and shall present with the said petition a map or plan drawn to scale to the satisfaction of the Engineer showing the streets on which it is proposed to erect and place such poles and the proposed location on said streets of the same and also the location of any existing poles on the said streets, and such petition shall set out in detail the objects and purposes of the applicant and the necessity for the erection of such poles. Such petition and plans shall be filed with the Town Clerk, who if the same comply with this bylaw shall refer them to the Engineer to report and such petition shall not be acted upon until the Engineer's report is received.

4. The Council may grant such application in whole or in part with such alterations in the proposed location of such poles and upon such conditions as the Council may deem proper.

5. Any person or company erecting or placing poles on any of the streets shall place and locate the same in such manner as not to interfere with the existing poles, wires and other appliances then on the said streets, and so as to encroach as little as possible upon the business portions of George, Water, Hunter, Simcoe and Charlotte streets, and any person or company doing any such work shall as to the location, height and quality of such poles be under the control of the Engineer or such other person as may be designated by the Council and shall do all work to his satisfaction and subject to his approval and shall not unnecessarily encumber or obstruct the said streets, and after any work on the same is done shall at once restore the said streets to the same condition they were in before such work was commenced, and shall not cut, trim, injure or destroy any shade or ornamental trees without the express consent of the Council, nor shall any guy wires be fastened to any shade or ornamental tree. And where guy wires are used they shall be of galvanised iron wire, attached to the poles near the top and carried downward at a small angle from the poles and connected to an anchor rod of galvanised iron or other material approved of by the Council which anchor rod shall be connected by bolts to a metallic slug or to a wooden anchor, on the bottom of which shall be placed a metal plate at least one-eighth inch thick, twelve inches long and six inches wide, secured to the anchor rod by clamping between two nuts, or other equally good connection, such anchor to be buried at least three feet below the surface of the ground, and at a short distance from the foot of the pole. The connection between the guy wire and the anchor shall be so constructed as to secure perfect electrical connection between the pole and the anchor — where, however, the anchorage is towards the street, or for any other reason satisfactory to the Engineer, it is desirable to carry guy wires overhead, the guy wires shall be attached to the poles near the top, and taken in a direction as nearly horizontal as possible, to the top of a guy wire pole of sufficient height to avoid obstruction, which guy pole shall be anchored in the same manner as above set out, and constructed so as to obtain perfect electrical connection between the poles and the anchor, and in such case a strain insulator shall be inserted in the guy wires within a few feet of the top of the pole, between the pole and the guy pole.

6. Where poles have heretofore, or may hereafter be erected, or placed on any of the streets of the said town, the person or company, owning or controlling such poles shall, at the request of the council, or of some officer designated by the council, and at the expense of the person or company owning or controlling such poles, within fifteen days from receiving the said request, change the location of any such poles, provided that no pole shall be required to be that no pole shall be required to be moved between the first day of December in any year and the first day of April in any succeeding year, and any pole ceasing to be used by the person or company owning or controlling the same for the period of three months, shall, on the written request of the Engineer, be removed from the streets.

7. There shall be paid to the corporation of the said town by way of license fee or rental for each pole heretofore, or hereafter erected, and maintained on the said streets, unless otherwise specially provided by agreement, or when the right to the use of the streets free of charge has been conferred by Legislative authority, the sum of one dollar per pole per annum for each pole so erected, and maintained, and the same shall be payable so long as such poles remain on the said streets, whether used or not, and shall be payable to the Treasurer of the Corporation in equal quarterly payments on the last days of the months of March, June, September and December in each year, the first payment to be made on the last day of the quarter during which such poles are erected, provided, however, that so long as the pole rental payable by the Peterborough Light and Power Company remains at four hundred dollars per annum, the maximum rental to be paid by other companies or persons supplying electric light or power in the said town, shall not exceed the said sum of four hundred dollars.

8. If any person or company, now or hereafter having poles on the said streets, shall, unless authorized by resolution passed on the affirmative vote of two thirds of the members of the whole council, amalgamate or enter into a combination or pooling arrangement with any other person or company doing a business similar in whole or in part, shall sell or lease the said poles, or any of them, or the right to the use of the same, or any of them, to any person or company, or in the case of the breach by any person or company having poles on the said streets, of any of the terms or the conditions of this Bylaw, applicable to such person or company, to the use of the said streets shall ipso facto cease, and the said person or company shall within fifteen days after service of a demand for such removal, remove his or its poles from the said streets, and in case of refusal or neglect to so remove the same, the said poles may be removed by the officers of the said Corporation, and the cost of such removal may be recovered from the person or company so refusing or neglecting to remove the same, and no delay, dealing or acquiescence on the part of the Corporation shall be deemed or taken to prevent the said Corporation from enforcing the removal of such poles, nor to confer any right to the use of the said streets by any such person or company after the right to do so has expired under the terms of this By-Law or under any agreement or otherwise.

AUTHORITY SHALL CEASE.

9. The right or authority given to any person or company to erect or maintain poles, wires and other appliances on any of the said streets shall absolutely cease at the time specified in the By-Law or agreement giving such right, and at the expiration of such specified time the said person or company shall remove all poles from the streets of the said Town unless such time is extended by by-law of the said Corporation, and provided, further, that if no time for such removal is specified in any such By-Law or agreement, then the right or authority to maintain such poles shall absolutely cease at the expiration of twelve months from the service of a written notice on the person or company controlling the same, and such person or company shall before the expiration of such twelve months remove all such poles owned or controlled by him or it from the said streets, and in the event of the refusal or neglect, in either or any case of the said person or company whose right or authority to maintain such poles has so ceased, to remove such poles; the same may be removed by the officers of the Corporation, and the cost of such removal may be recovered from the person or company so refusing or neglecting to remove the same, and no delay, dealing or acquiescence on the part of the Corporation shall be deemed or taken to prevent the said Corporation from enforcing the removal of such poles nor confer any right to the use of the said streets by any person or company after the right to do so has expired under the terms of this By-Law, or under any agreement or otherwise.

USE OF CONDUITS.

10. If the said Corporation shall hereafter lay down ducts or conduits, or if ducts or conduits sufficient for the purpose should be laid down by any person or company authorized by the said Corporation in that behalf on any of the streets of the town on which the poles of any person or company authorized to erect and place the same are erected or placed, then if the same is required by the said Council, such poles shall within one year after such ducts or conduits are ready for use be removed from said streets on which the said ducts or conduits are laid, and the said wires shall be laid in such ducts or conduits and the expense of such removal shall be borne by the person or company then owning or controlling the said poles, and the charge for the use of such ducts, if not agreed on by the parties shall be settled by arbitration in the usual way.

EFFECTIVE INSULATION.

11. Any person or company authorized to erect and place poles on the said streets for the transmission of electric current or energy shall so effectually insulate and protect and keep and maintain insulated and protected, the wires and other ap-

NEARLY QUARTER OF A CENTURY.

Mr. Taylor Retires From Services of C. P. R.

Has Never Missed a Day's Work in 22 Years of Services—Will be Given Pension.

Mr. Wm. Taylor, almost universally known as "Daddy" Taylor, has retired from the service of the C.P.R. after completing nearly a quarter of a century's service in the employ of that company, and his retirement on a pension, which he will receive from that company, is the occasion for a brief reference to the man and his record, for he enjoys a record which perhaps no man in Peterborough enjoys, and which few, if any, of the employees of the company, which he has served so long and so faithfully, enjoy.

Mr. Taylor during the twenty-two years since he became connected with the C. P. R., has never missed a day through sickness or other cause, and although his work necessitates his travelling by train every day, he has the proud distinction of never having missed a single train, a record which few persons who have occasion to travel, can boast of.

Mr. Taylor entered the employ of the C.P.R. in 1882, at the time that the road from Ottawa to Toronto, was constructed. Mr. Taylor started to work on the railway shortly after his arrival in Peterborough, and during the interval between his arrival in town, and the time that he started to work as a "trailrender," he was employed in the Wm. Hamilton foundry.

At the time of Mr. Taylor's first connection with the C.P.R., he started in the work of construction, and later in the carpentering work, and after the road was in operation he was put in charge of the pump at Manvers, and since that time every day of the year he has made the trip to that village, and in the 20 years that he has had charge of the pumps no engine has had to go short of water from Manvers.

The company which first had charge of the road and operated it was known as the Ontario and Quebec division of the C.P.R., and was later made a part of the main system. The road from the first ran three passenger trains a day, but the freight traffic has very greatly increased, and there is as much freight handled in one day as there was in a month in the early days.

Mr. Taylor is 65 years of age and was born in Leicestershire, England, and before he came to Canada he lived in Wolverhampton. In addition to his work he pump master, Mr. Taylor has had the care of the gardens at the station, and the flowers and lawn have been the admiration of all who have had occasion to go to the C.P.R. station.

Mr. Taylor's successor will be Mr. Ed. Beamen, of Manvers, and yesterday Mr. Taylor went to Manvers for the last time in his capacity as pump master to instruct the new man in his duties.

The universal hope among Mr. Taylor's many friends is that he will be spared many years to enjoy his well earned repose.

OBITUARY.

Death of Robert George Walsh in Douro Last Night.

At his family residence in Douro last night Robert George Walsh died after a prolonged illness. He was 53 years of age and leaves a wife and family to mourn his demise. He was well known in this section of the country.

The funeral will take place at 1.30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon from late place of residence, Douro, and proceed to the Lakefield Cemetery.

The Meister Glee Singers.

The London, Ont., Free Press critic has the following to say of the delightful concert given by the Meister Singers in that city recently:—"The summit of achievement in quartette singing is attained by the Meister Glee Singers, of London, England. So altogether delightful a treat of the kind has never before been heard in London. To such a point has the ensemble work of this fine quartette attained that it is like a single instrument, an organ with the swell and flute stops out. The tone is the acme of sweetness, the vocalization perfect, the phrasing accurate and the expression at once sympathetic and adequate. One point worthy of special praise was the perfect balance at all times evident. One of the hits of a most enjoyable evening was the work of Mr. Eyland Henry, who as an entertainer ranks equal in every respect with the famous George Grossmith."

Opera House, Peterborough, Monday, December 12th. Plan now open at Ormond & Walsh's drug store. Tickets may be had from Walter Stocker or R. M. Glover at the Examiner office, and Ormond & Walsh's.

The cake your mother made can be made again if you get the ingredients at White & Gillespie's. Everything you need for the Christmas plum pudding in stock at the same modest prices as all the year round. We're under the Opera House, George street.

JUST WATCH ME!

Just watch me repeat the "chimney act" again down through Stratton's Bookshop.

Got them overstocked already—but I'm going to make room, see if I don't, because there's packfuls more of Holiday Gift Goods still to come.

Half of the present stock of $20,000 has got to hustle out jolly quick. Original prices don't cut any figure, but figuring on a good deep cut on every article you buy DOES.

I'll show you how to make a Happy Christmas when you come here. Bring the kids along. Get a move on, quick. Now you've time to inspect, time to choose, time to be waited on, and time to change your mind about the big and the little things for sock and stocking gifts.

MR. BENGOUGH ON SCOTT ACT.

Practical Working of the Law in Nova Scotia,

Says it Does not Prevent Drinking—Political Situation There—Mr. Feilding's Popularity.

Mr. J. W. Bengough arrived in town to-day to give his entertainment to-night, after completing a tour of the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Eastern Ontario. Mr. Bengough commenced his present tour on October 3rd, and it was his third tour of those provinces, the first being made in 1876, and the second about 14 years ago. Mr. Bengough gave the Examiner an interview in which he mentioned some of his observations of the trip. He said that one gratifying feature was the fact that in that section of the Dominion there is a spirit of Canadianism manifested. On the occasion of his first visit he noticed that the people felt that they were in a sense separated from the other parts of the Dominion, but to-day there is the same spirit of patriotic fervour in evidence there as there is in Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver.

That part of the country is prospering, the mines at Sydney, Spring Hill and other places contributing to that prosperity, and the population has increased, the towns being much larger than they were on the occasion of former visits.

The Dominion political campaign was on while Mr. Bengough was in Nova Scotia, and he said that it would be quite impossible to describe the jubilation of the Liberals on the night of Nov. 3rd when the extraordinary result of the elections was made known, a solid sweep of Nova Scotia for the Government. The result, he attributes to the popularity of Hon. Mr. Fielding, and the Conservatives as well as Liberals in that section are proud of him, and with good reason. The feeling there is that he will be the next Premier of Canada under the Liberal Government.

Mr. Bengough was asked as to the position of the people of Nova Scotia with reference to Mr. Blair, and he said that his resignation of the chairmanship of the Transportation Commission was a puzzle to the people there, and that he is recognized there as a politician who is, and has always been, of somewhat uncertain quality.

"As is well known," said Mr. Bengough, "Nova Scotia is under what is known as the Scott Act, and as a prohibitionist I regarded this with favour, as it meant, in the first instance, the abolition of the bar. To this extent, no doubt, it does good."

But Mr. Bengough stated that illicit drinking was done in all of the hotels, or nearly all, in the province, and the only advantage of the Scott Act, from the prohibitionist's stand point was the fact that it did away with the open treating. He thought he was safe in saying that good men in both political parties in the Scott Act provinces, regarded it as a failure. And in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island, there is still a lot of drinking carried on, although bars are not recognized as adjuncts to the house.

It is freely stated that in many instances the civic authorities wink at the illicit traffic, and impose periodical fines, which practically amount to a license fee.

In view of the fact that in the approaching Ontario campaign "Banish the Bars!" will be the issue, it is well to understand that in practical experience, the official "Banishment of the bars," does not stop the drink traffic. Ontario may vott for practical prohibition, but that does not mean that drinking will be prohibited The result really depends on the last analysis in public opinion, and Mr. Bengough's belief is that the real work of the temperance exponents should be in educating the children to a detestation of the drinking habit, in the hope that public sentiment will make a prohibitory law effective. Mr. Ross spoke the truth when he said that the Government moved as rapidly as the people wanted them to do, and is equally true that the officials of the Government will enforce the law in proportion to the force of public opinion behind these laws.

Mr. Bengough, after his lecture here will go to Toronto to engage in the political contest now approaching.

Magnificent Display

We have just opened up a most magnificent display of Waists in all the newest and latest styles.

These Waists are specially designed for Christmas and evening wear.

Their effects are exquisitely rich and effective.

Some of the prettiest designs are being shown with rich designs of fine Lace over Silk.

Beautiful designs arranged with artistic effect.

A few samples are being shown in our north window and we will be pleased to have everyone come upstairs to the Ready-to-wear Department where the full stock is on display.

You will not be asked to buy, come and see the latest and prettiest triumphs in artistic Waist manufacture.

Christmas is Coming

Have You Tried Your New Grocer?

If you haven't, try him for your Christmas Raisins Currants, Peel, Extracts, Syrups, Molasses, Spices, Figs, Walnuts, Almonds, etc.

If you like real Fresh Staple Groceries, such as Sugars, Teas, Flour, Butter, Lard, Breakfast Foods, and all that is necessary to make your Christmas baking a success, a trial order will please you.

Having bought out the business formerly carried on by Mr. A. T. Dorland, I have restocked the store with brand new goods for your household wants. I promise you that shopping will be a pleasure here, and that Cleanliness, Purity and Good Goods will be my aim.

Being out of the high-rent district, I can afford to sell below the general rate.

DIED.

KARR.—In Peterborough, on Thursday, December 8th, William Karr, aged 59 years.

The funeral will leave A. Consitt's undertaking rooms at 11 o'clock a.m. to-morrow, Friday, December 9th, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

LATE DR. PIGEON WAS WELL KNOWN

Funeral Will Take Place To-morrow Afternoon.

The funeral of the late Dr. Pigeon will take place from the family residence, 270 Charlotte street, to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock and proceed to St. John's Church, thence to the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral will be under the auspices of the Corinthian Lodge A. F. and A. M.

The late Henry Pigeon was born in Bristol, England. His first wife, who was an English lady, died twelve years ago, while on a trip home from Canada. His second wife was Miss Emma Clysdale, of Peterborough County, and who is still living. He came to Canada from England twenty-one years ago and practiced in Peterborough during that time. By his first wife he leaves three sons—Reginald, a physician in England; Hugh, a physician on one of the ocean liners; Stanley, who is in business in Boston. By his widow, he leaves a daughter, Allie, seven years old and a son, Arthur, aged nine months He was 48 years of age and was one of the oldest physicians in Peterborough.

The late Dr. Pigeon was a cousin of Dr. W. G. Grace, the famous cricketer. He was a member of the Anglican Church, of the Corinthian Lodge, A. F. and A. M. and was an officer in the Grand Lodge in England. For many years he was the physician for the Lansdowne Lodge Sons of England in town. When in England he was an army surgeon. The deceased had no relatives in this country, his only sister having died some years ago.

The sincere sympathy of the community is extended to the family in their terrible bereavement.

THE ONTARIO DIOCESE.

(Catholic Register.)

The news announced of the division of the extensive Diocese of Peterborough, and the appointment of Father D. J. Scollard as Bishop-elect of the western portion which is to form the new diocese, naturally follows upon the rapid settlement of that section of the province and the growth of the Catholic body therein. His Lordship, the Right Rev. R. A. O'Connor, has administered the affairs of the growing territory committed to his charge with wonderful capacity and solicitude for the spiritual concerns of his scattered flock, performing annual journeys to the most remote points by canoe or on foot, and exemplifying in these days of steam and electricity the heroic labours of the great missionary Bishop Macdonell. And it is not because he had grown weary of his task, but that population rather than distance demanded the change that another zealous soldier of the faith will in future share the burden of the episcopal office. The choice has fallen upon Father Scollard of North Bay and both priests and people may rejoice and feel grateful over the selection of a priest qualified both as an organizer and administrator and marked with the seal of devotion to the work of the Master. Some time will elapse before the consecration of the Bishop-elect. May his future be fruitful and blessed.

Indigestion and Headache.

Mr. Duncan McPherson, Contest, Alta., writes: "I was for many years troubled with indigestion and dyspepsia, and derived no relief from the many remedies that I used. A friend advised the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and after taking four boxes the result is that I am once more in the full enjoyment of the blessings of good health."
